Then the boys recaptured him, and had another photograph taken, which they marked "after voting." The first was marked "before voting." The second picture was subscribed as follows: "I feels mity bad and I dunno de cause ob it, seppen its case I woted again de Conwenshun. De saunt for me and told me if dere wuz a Conwenshun de' would take away my rights and I would not get to wote agin. Now de 'lection dun ober, and Mas Conwenshun dun 'lected, and I spec gwine to —. Mas Garret dun 'lected too, and dat's what's dun de matter wid me."

—A resident of Detroit, who had a thrifty cherry tree in his yard, borrowed a stone dog and placed the imposition at the foot of the tree to scare away any bad boy who might want a feast of cherries after dark. He was flattering himself that he had a dead sure thing on the boys, when, the other morning, he went out to find the legs and tail broken off the image, and the body sticking in the ground labelled:

"This 'ere dorg feels sick."

So did the citizen.

—"I've been through that wicket, Charley." "I don't think you have, sweetmeats." "Indeed, I have." "No, you haven't." "I did." You didn't;" and then a mallet sails over the fence, and a pullback twitches furiously over the green sward and disappears into the house, and everything is as quiet without as though peace were the sovereign power on earth.

—The St. Louis papers describe an extraordinary scene at a seance in that city where a materialized spirit successfully met the shot-gun test to which the mediums have so often been challenged to submit their apparitions. A gentleman of a sceptical turn of mind offered the medium $50 for the privilege of firing upon the spirit, and much to his surprise his challenge was accepted. The medium, W. C. Clark, stripped naked before the sceptic, Henry Timkins, and several reporters, and then dressed himself in clothes provided by Timkins. The cabinet, which had been put together expressly for the occasion, and was a simple shell of plain boards, was examined at the last moment before Clark's entrance. The medium took his seat on the floor with his back against the wall furthest from the materialization aperture, and Timkins proceeded to cord him down, which he did in a most secure manner. The door was then shut and the spectators awaited the appearance of the spirit. Soon the curtain moved aside and the manifestation appeared. It was a girl's face and the face of a pretty girl at that. The wide open eyes looked almost into the muzzle of the gun without any sign of flinching. All had a fair view of it, when the order to shoot came from the cabinet, and the trigger of the rifle was pulled. Not the least impression was produced in the mysterious face, which remained a few moments before the curtain slid across it. Then the door was opened and Clark was found just as Tomkins tied him. The reporters say that they don't see how there could have been any imposition about this. The rifle ball certainly went through the face, for it was found in a board on the wall behind the cabinet, through which it had passed in range with the aperture at which the face appeared.

—Yesterday afternoon a seedy looking man walked into a store on Main street and inquired if O. W. Baird, the Treasurer of Sedgwick Post, G. A. R., was in. Mr. Baird said that he was Quartermaster of the post.

"I understand," said the man confidentially, "that you grant aid to brother soldiers in necessity."

"Yes," returned Mr. Baird, "such is the practice."

"Well," continued the stranger," I belonged to the —— Massachusetts volunteers. I want to get married to-day, and I'd like to draw fifty cents from the charity fund to pay for the certificate."

Mr. Baird looked at the man in surprise. There was a pause, during which the stranger whistled softly.

"But," said the former, "if you are desti tute, as you say, isn't it a little reckless in you to marry?"

The man leaned over the counter and whispered. "I wouldn't do it," he said, "if the old folks wasn't kicking up such a row about it. Isn't there a fund to help old soldiers in distress?"

"There is such a fund, but it is to diminish their afflictions, not to increase them," returned Mr. Baird severely.

The stranger looked at him a long time in silence. Then he sighed quietly and went out. A few moments later he passed down the street with his bride upon his arm. Some patriot had smoothed the ragged path of a veteran.—Norwich Bulletin.

—"Mahlstick," in an entertaining letter from Boston to the Louisville Courier-Journal, under date of July 25th, says:

I have been to see a game of base ball. I have learned a good deal about the national game. It is played with colored stockings, principally, and an umpire. The best color for stockings is red—a discovery made by the Boston club. Red almost invariably wins. A great many different clubs have visited the city from time to time, but the stockings were not up to the standard. The game was between the St. Louis club and the Bostons. There were about 2,000 people present. Taking the reserved seats and all, the receipts must have been $1,000. This was fairly divided between the two clubs, the Bostons taking two-thirds. It is good to be a base-ball club and play on the home grounds. There are a good many people, however, who see the game and don't pay for admission—such as the people that sit on telegraph wires and look over the fence, and people who occupy houses adjoining the play-ground. There must have been $300 worth of disinterested public looking over the fences. They are worthy people, and applaud quite as heartily as those who pay for their privileges. They don't pay because it's immoral.

—Years ago, when we went to school in a little weather-beaten school house, what exciting contests there used to be over the teacher's favorite exercise of having the scholars estimate with the eye the size and weight of different objects in the room! He would hold up his cane, and have each one tell how long he thought it was, and it was a lucky child that could come within half a foot of the right length. He would take a boy's straw hat and ask how much the crown would hold. He would measure an urchin and then have the scholars try to reproduce the measure on the wall. He would mark off an inch or a foot or a yard in some conspicuous place, and then see how near anybody could come to chalking the same length upon the blackboard. And it was astonishing how wide astray one would go. The fact is, our eyes deceive us ridiculously even upon the commonest things. At first thought, which should you say was the taller, a three-year old child or a flour barrel? And could anything but actual measurement convince you that the same child is half as high as a six footer? There is an old saying that a child at two years old is half as tall as he ever will be; and after a few experiments in measuring one can easily believe it, but not before.

—He leaned back gracefully against the circle railings this morning, with his small dog between his feet. One foot was on a treacherous banana rind, and, as he picked up the other to admire a crack in his boot, he sat down on the dog. Then there was a yelp, with brimstone enough in the air for a match factory and bark for a whole tannery.

—The Eatonton, Ga., Messenger has a "pleasant incident" which it relates as follows:

Uncle Billy Dennis, of this county, is upward of eighty years old. A few weeks ago he visited his children in Hancock. While there he met an old gentleman with whom he had a regular cross-road combat just fifty years ago. The two exchanged salutations, talked awhile at random, meantime taking one or two "horns." Then the Hancock veteran proposed a wrestle. The banter was accepted, and Uncle Billy, who whipped at their last meeting, honorably celebrated this semi-centennial by walloping the Hanoockite flat upon the ground. Probably two other old gentlemen of like age, strength, and sprightliness, cannot be found in Georgia.

—A gentleman deposited a package in the safe of a Saratoga hotel and asked for a check for it. The clerk gave him a check which he himself invented and put in vogue at Saratoga fifteen years ago. Hastily writing the gentleman's name on a square of paper, the clerk as hastily tore it in two. He gave the gentleman one part and pinned the other part to the package. This was the check, and an unforgeable one it is. For observe: often as you may do this thing, to duplicate it is impossible. You might succeed, perhaps, though with extreme difficulty, in making an exact reproduction of your own writing; but to tear apart two pieces of paper in the same way so that a fragment of one will fit a fragment of another is something you can't do.

—On an Eastern railroad a groom insisted on holding the bride's hand in his big red paw. "Oh! no, don't!" she said, as she jerked her hand away. "Oh! luv, let me hold yer hand jest for ten minutes!" he pleaded. "Shoo! Don't you see they are looking at us?" she whispered. "They are, eh?" he replied looking up and down the car. "Wall, now, I'm going to put my right arm right around ye, and if any fellow in this car dares to spit crooked, I'll git up and mop the floor with him until I wear him up to his shoulder-blades!" His arm encircled her, and the other passengers looked as solemn as if they were on their way home from a funeral.

—A touching story is that of the little wild bird which flew into the great dining-hall of the Grand Union Hotel at Saratoga, and could neither find its own way out nor be lured to safety by the kindly endeavors of the servants, though the entrances and the lower part of the windows were nearly always open. The heavy upholstery of the upper half of the windows prevented its only chance of escape, so after fluttering bewildered among the forest of chandeliers for six days, guests all the time feasting at the tables below, it at length died of starvation and was picked up on the floor.

—Colonel Clisby, of the Macon Telegraph, condenses a long letter from Saratoga, as follows:

"No beauty—no belles—no eligible partners—no prizes in the matrimonial lottery—single ladies ancient—beaux with grizzled heads or wigs, or slightly bald. Shocking times—light purses—patched shoes—no style. Colored waiters 'never seed sich times'—quarters very scarce, and, as for fifty cents and dollars, never to be seen. Negroes all on the Ohio platform, and down on contraction. Hotel tables light on chickens and ice cream."

—An amusing story is told of Gov. Bagley of Michigan, who is a good Sabbatarian. He was lately in Detroit on Sunday, and, passing a billiard hall with some friends, heard the balls clicking as if it were a week-day. He politely inquired of the proprietor if he made a practice of keeping his hall open on Sunday, and was astonished when the man replied: "No, Governor, not as a general thing; but if you and your party would like to play a quiet game I guess I can fix it for you."

—The horrible effects of a storm up the Missouri River are depicted in graphic colors by an editor, who, among other pieces of descriptive writing, says: "The storm of last week would seem to be even more terrible at Sioux City than here. The tin roof of the Hubbard House was blown loose, the brewery was partially unroofed, while a schoolmaster, of whom no word of ill-repute had ever been said before, was hit in the hat by a brick, and knocked flatter than a clam's nose."

—A poet in Coffeyville, Kansas, has produced the following statistical verse: "Should millions into millions multiplied be, With ten million times the million more, 'Twould scarcely express a millionth of the Grasshoppers that pass our door."

—The Detroit Post is alarmed at the report that the Long Branch Sartoris baby has very little hair on its head. The Post says: "This is ominous. Bald-headed, and not a month old! Cæsar was bald-headed!"

Edmund Yates seems destined to keep ever green his perennial popularity as the writer par excellence of legitimate senatorial romances. Last Summer his "Dangerous Game" had the most successful run of any novel of that season, and now his latest work, "THE SILENT WITNESS," issued by William F. Gill & Co., Boston, has blossomed forth as the leading novel of the present season. The novel is exciting in incident, complex in plot, and strong in characterization. Some of the situations, notably that of the murder of young Walter Danby, are terribly impressive, while the character of Anne Studley, the heroine, is artistically portrayed. The story well sustains Mr. Yates' reputation.

The Portsmouth Cornet Band has been engaged to accompany Col. J. C. Butler's grand excursion to Wolfeborough and Centre Harbor next Wednesday.

The September number of Lippincott's is full of brilliant attractions. The opening, illustrated paper, "Mose Underwood" by A. J. Volck, will be found very interesting and amusing, both in its writing and in the cuts illustrating the same. "Glimpses of Polynesia" is quite an entertaining bit of description, with some handsome illustrations.

Yacht Resolute.

"Clew Garnet" writes: There is one thing certain, you cannot drive the Resolute in a light wind on the wind or before it; but she will never be driven home. She was built by David Carll of City Island.

Now that the America has beaten the Resolute, let us come down to facts and help Captain Dennis, mate Golding and the pilot. Whatever was said in our correspondence in relation to the "fifteen hours' cruise" was given with few mistakes. But we are sorry that in mentioning the names of the officers to have offended them when we stated the facts that they were "wondering alternately." On the contrary the pilot never left the deck from the time the Resolute left Newport and "all hands" doing their duty. So far as the rest of the correspondence was written it was perfectly correct, except when we left Newport from Brenton's Reef—we left Newport, but not from Brenton's Reef. How could we? This apology is due to the officers of the Resolute, and the "unfortunate" is to blame. We are ever ready to apologize when wrong. CLEW GARNET.

It Was a Bee.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Any one passing along Howard street just before noon, yesterday, would have seen him lying under one of the shade trees in his yard, a pillow under his head, his feet on a bench, and a magazine in his hands. He looked the picture of comfort and contentment, and the women who were going along with pull-back dresses of sighed and wished they were men.

The great City Hall bell struck the hour on noon. The deep-toned echoes floated out on the still summer air and touched a tender chord in the Howard street man's heart. The echoes sounded to him like funeral whispers—like the whispers of the night wind sighing through the grand old wilderness.

"Oh! solemn bell!" he said. "Oh! sad, solemn —!"

That was all all he said about the bell. A bumble bee settled down on him to look for sugar, and as he turned partly over he gave the bee a rub. It is a bad thing to rub any kind of a bee. He feels insulted and gets annoyed at things which a mud turtle or a dove would pass by without a thought. The echoes of the bell were just dying away when the Howard street man got up. He got up like a man in a hurry. He went away from there. He didn't meander—he went like a rocket. Something seemed to ail him. He made a line for the house, went up the steps at a bound, and, as his wife asked him the cause of his haste, he replied:

"Thunder—oop! hoop!"

"Is this house on fire?" she asked, as he tore around the parlor and upset things.

"House be—oop! Lordy!" he answered, as he made a circle of the room and dashed into the hall.

The dog rushed after him, the wife rushed after the dog, and the man bounded out of the house.

"Are you crazy, Robert?" shrieked the wife as she beheld him pounding his legs with his new silk hat.

Two or three boys ran in from the street, a strange dog came in and got up a fight, and all things conspired to make a lively time.

"He's got the colic!" yelled one of the boys.

"Or the tremers!" shouted another.

"See that hat!" called a third.

"Boys, go out of here!" whispered the panting man as he stopped using his hat. They went out, and as he limped into the house, his tearful wife asked:

"Now, then, will you tell me what has happened?"

"No, I won't!" he shouted, and he didn't. She fell into hysterics at the thought that he had used his brain too much, and had suddenly become crazed, and he went down to the drug store and applied arnica to the spot, and informed the clerk that eleven thousand of the largest kind of bumble bees settled right down on him in a body.

The Down-Hill Side.

On the down-hill side of life the constitution is beset with infirmities for which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best of all remedies. Invigoration is the most reliable means of resisting disease, and is particularly necessary at a period of life when the decay of the physical energies renders the system less able than formerly to resist its attacks. The cheering warmth which this prime tonic stimulant diffuses through the chilled veins, the unwonted steadiness which it gives to the tottering limbs of age, the prompt relief which it affords from those maladies which are most common in the decline of life, constitute it an inestimable blessing to the old and infirm. Among the testimonials to the excellence of this most salutary medicine of which its proprietors are constantly in the receipt, many are received from persons of advanced age, who speak with unmeasured praise of its qualities as an invigorant and preventive.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgement of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall occur, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person with whom he is sojourning is sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

The grasshopper arose at the dawn of spring
And put on his wings of flight;
While the beetle hug followed right soon in its wake,
And was eager to get the first bite.

And a flood spread over the land;
And the bob-tailed army worm tickled its nose

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM
AND TONIC PILLS,
For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Fistules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is on the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to all health, comfort, and even life itself is left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a cure in to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainte who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

FACTS PROVEN
BY THE
TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquilin and Barruel.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing.

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the flurry trying climate of New England;

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN,

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,
Picturesque Scenery an Pleasant Surroundings

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and delicate style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Putting Down the Window.

This is the season of the year, says the Danbury News, when a man may expect to be suddenly called at any moment in the night to get up and put down the windows. On the advent of a thunder shower it is rarely that a man wakes first. If he should he keeps quiet, so as not to disturb his wife, and avails himself of the first lull to go to sleep again. How differently a woman acts—Oh, so differently! Just as soon as she wakes up and hears that it is raining, she seems to lose all judgment at once. She plants both of her feet into her husband's back, at the same time catching him by the hair and shaking his head, and hysterically screams:—

"Get up! get up, quick. It's a pouring right down in torrents and all the windows are up!"

He cannot wake up under such circumstances with an immediately clear conception of the case; in fact, it frequently happens that he is way out on the floor before his eyes are fairly open, having but one idea really at work, and that as to what he is doing out of bed. The first thing to do is to strike a light, and while he is moving around for the matches, and swearing that some one has broken into the house and moved them from where he laid them on going to bed (which is always plausible enough,) she hurls after him the following tonics:

"Do hurry! Mercy, how that rain is coming right into those windows! We won't have a carpet left if you don't move faster. What on earth are you doing all this time? Can't find the matches? Mercy sake, you ain't going to stumble round here looking for matches, are you, when the water is drowning us out? Go without a light. What a man you are; I might have better got up in the first place. Well (despairingly) let things go to ruin if you are a mind to. I've said all I'm going to, an' I don't care if the whole house goes to smash. You always would have your own way, an' I s'pose you always will, and now you can do as you please; but don't you dare to open your mouth to me about it when the ruin's done. I've talked an' talked till I'm tired to death, and I shan't talk any more. We never could keep anything decent, and we never can; an' so that's the end of it. [A very brief pause.] John Henry, are you or are you not going to shut down those windows?"

Just then he finds the matches, and breaks the discourse by striking a light. He was bound to have that help before he moved out of the room. He has got the lamp lighted now. No sooner does its glare fill the room than he immediately blows it out again, for obvious reasons. He had forgotten the windows were open and the brevity of his night-shirt. It almost causes him to shiver when he thinks of his narrow escape.

He moved out into the other room with celerity now. He knows pretty well the direction to go, and when a flash of lightning comes it shows him on the verge of climbing over a stool or across the centre table. If there is a rocking chair in the house he will strike it. A rocking chair is much surer in its aim than a streak of lightning. It never misses, and it never hits a man but in one spot, and that is just at the base of his shin. We have fallen against more than eight hundred rockers of all patterns and prices, and always receive the first blow in the one place. We have been with dying people, and have heard them affirm in the solemn hush of that last hour, that a rocking chair always hits a man on the shin first.

And when a man gets up in the dead of night to shut down the windows, he never misses the rocking chair. It is the rear end of one of the rockers which catches him. It is a dreadful agony. But he rarely cries out. He knows his audience too well. A woman never falls over a rocking chair, and she will never understand why a man does. But she can tell whether he has by the way he puts down the windows when he finally reaches them. A rocking chair window (if we may be allowed the term) can be heard three times as far as any other.

A Massachusetts Tramp.

[Boston Bulletin.]

He was travel-stained and weary, and his eyes had a far-off wistful look, as though he knew that rest was not for him below, let his tired heart crave it never so much. And as he humbly asked the lady of the house for a morsel of food, his venerable appearance and evident want aroused all her womanly generosity, and she presently set the poor tramp down to the remains of the family dinner.

"Poor old man," she murmured sympathetically, as she saw him lean back in his chair, leaving his food untouched on his plate, "he is too weary to eat," and she asked him if he felt ill.

"Not exactly, mum," was the answer in an humble voice, "but mos' people cooks their roast beef till it's overdone, and overdone beef don't gen'ally agree with me."

"Y'havn't got any Wooster sauce, have ye?" continued the medicant; "I mos' gen'ally use it when beef ain't cooked to suit me."

Unfortunately, the house of McCormick was out of "Wooster sauce," but Mrs. McCormick brought the mustard and a plate of nice pickles, observing with the faintest trace of sarcasm in her tones that if she'd known that he was coming she'd have looked out for something better.

"Oh, I sin't very pertik'ler, mum," said the old man, as he helped himself to another spoonful of gravy and a cucumber pickle, "on'y I jes' happ'n'd to mention it, 'cos where there ain't no pie nor nothin' sweet fer desserts, overdone roast beef's more like to disagree with me." And the meekness in the vagrant's wrinkled face was touching in the extreme, as he looked humbly around the table, as though his former glance might have overlooked the luxuries of which he spoke.

But Mrs. McC. was rather too far gone with speechless indignation to frame a suitable answer, and so the weary old man, with a mournful sigh, went on eating, and developed a most singular and wonderful appetite, which was gradually appeased as the four-pound piece of beef was reduced to a mere shapeless fragment, and the last boiled potato had vanished from the dish.

"I hope you've made a dinner," ejaculated Mrs. McCormick, in a fine irony.

"Wall, yes'm; I've eat wuss wittals," said the old mendicant, with deep humility, as he pushed his chair back from the table and appeared to seek something on the floor.

"What is it you're a looking for?" demanded Mrs. McCormick, with a snap in her voice that reminded one of the slamming down of the lid of a chest.

"Nothin' mum—that is, nothing partickler; I didn't see no napkin an' thought I might a dropped it——"

But he never finished his speech, and five seconds later his white locks vanished through the doorway with amazing celerity, and an infuriated female with a mop followed so closely behind that he got fully a half mile from the house before pursuit ceased and he was able to light his cigar.

The Treasury Robbery Reviewed.

[Washington cor. N. Y. Graphic.]

WASHINGTON, August 11.—For the benefit of those who are not familiar with all the details of the discovery and prosecution of the offenders in the Treasury robbery I shall make an outline of the case to this date. The loss was incurred early in June and amounted to $47,000 and a little over. No trace was found that led to it until last week a despatch was sent by a Washington gambler to Detective Miller, of the Washington force, that "Pegleg" Brown, a harmless, one-legged attache of gambling houses, was at Saratoga spending $500 bill in Paris mutual pools at the horse races. This was looked upon by the gambler as both big and suspicious business in that line. After some parley Detective Miller went there and brought Mr. Brown back. He expressed his willingness to testify to everything concerning the matter known or suspected by him. The detectives found that Brown had got the money from Mr. William Ottman, a gymnast and "splendid fellow," not a gambler, but a proprietor of a restaurant. He is one of the champion four rowers in the boat club here, and his intimates are men who move in the best society of Washington, Georgetown, and Alexandria. The detectives found that Ottman was the leader in the whole affair, that he had inspired young Halleck, a clerk in the Treasury, to commit the robbery, and had swindled Halleck from the beginning to the end of it.

Halleck, the clerk, nearly killed General Spinner by his dishonesty. General Spinner took him up out of the respect he had for Halleck's father, who was a minister at Mohawk Village, and was burned to death in a railroad car, standing up transfixed in the fire, where human eye could plainly see but human aid could not reach. Although thirty-two years old, Halleck is attenuated, and weighs but 120 pounds. He has a very slight moustache, and has no warm features to his disposition. He is the worse scared boy in town now, and may by force of circumstances be at least induced to tell the truth. He has told a dozen deliberate and different high-strung stories in this matter, and they are palpably thin. He has, however, confessed to the detectives that he stole the money and gave it to Ottman; that he got only $620 of it, and that if Ottman had divided squarely, as he promised, the truth would never have come out. He says the last feather that broke the camel's back was the action of Ottman in taking the third man into the secret—Mr. "Pegleg Brown."

General Spinner tells me that he is convinced now of the guilt of Ottman in four cases of theft from his office. He says Seth Johnson, who stole $50,000, was an intimate friend of Ottman, and that he often went behind the bar, helped himself to the money-drawer, did not conceal the act from the bartender or any one else, and that he did not count the money as he put it in his pocket, and was never stopped even by Ottman when present. This has only been known to Spinner within a week. General Spinner says he believes that Ottman was the "Fagin" for the four, Johnson, Marden, Edwins, and Halleck; that he put them up to the thefts; and that, he says, is the reason they are seizing all of Ottman's property, for they hope to recover enough to reimburse the Government not only for the $47,000, but the $50,000 stolen by Johnson. He says he took Johnson, Edwins, and Marden aside frequently, and they answered always that they lost the money in speculations. But they never would specify a single item of speculation. He says he has now greater respect for the first three thieves than for Halleck, because Halleck acted the baby; that the statement of Halleck that he was goaded to desperation because he was not promoted according to his merits is false; that the last time he was promoted it was done by making his examination failure below the minimum of sixty appear to count sixty and two-tenths. General Spinner did that because he had still the old lingering sympathy for the boy's father, and he had been married and needed more salary than he was receiving.

The case as admitted stands about as follows:

Ottman appears to have instigated the robbery, taken the money and promised to divide. He paid Halleck $630, and promised to turn the restaurant over to him, but a few days ago moved the carpets and furniture out of the place, and then, before he was discovered, bought a restaurant in Brooklyn and made an assignment of his restaurant here to his bartender. Then he proposed to snap his fingers in Halleck's face, and overdid the thing. He deposited $18,600 of the $500 notes in an Alexandria bank, and the detectives have secured it. They also secured about $40,000 worth of other property and will get more, thus securing the Government in this and insuring more money for the payment of the money stolen by Johnson.

It appears that Halleck stole the money and gave it to Ottman. He is entitled to pity for being so weak-minded, and punishment for being so foolish as he has been all through the case. He should have ten years in the penitentiary for ungratefulness, six months for robbery, and twenty years for his idiocy.

"Pegleg" Brown is a type of the late-at-night, handsome, and well-dressed men you meet on Broadway. He is well known here as the gamblers' commission merchant, or "stool-pigeon." He will tell you the battle he lost his leg in, and how his wooden leg fits, and sometimes the gamblers give him money to treat strangers with. He is a "nice fellow" to meet at night, and many a country gentleman has borrowed money to pay his board bill after a ramble with "Pegleg" Brown. He was formerly a clerk in the War Department, but was not popular with his superiors because he proved, though a weak, a bad man. He has lost caste even with the gamblers "because he gave Billy Ottman away."

These three men are as well dressed as anybody, and Ottman was looked upon as above his business and too good for it. Halleck had admission to any society. Brown is well known and rather pitied than despised. He has little genuine politeness, but plenty of slang, and is a pleasant gambler's companion. This city is so small that you soon get to know everybody, and men over twenty-one years of age soon reach their level. None of these prisoners could get bail for $5,000 to-morrow, though Ottman was offered $40,000 when first arrested. They are all in jail. "Pegleg" Brown will probably be released as a witness to be used to convict the others. He will be severe on his accomplices and will show that he was sent to Saratoga to pass the $500 bills for a commission of 10 per cent. of their face.

Two Burglars Caught in a Cellar.

[N. Y. Sun, 14th.]

CHENANGO FORKS, Aug. 13.—John Pangborn, working for a farmer named Chapel, near this place, awoke about 12 o'clock on Wednesday night, and thought he heard the cat in the cellar among the milk pans. He jumped out of bed, lit his lantern, and without dressing himself hurried down to the cellar to drive the cat out. As he opened the door at the bottom of the steps, a strong draft of wind at once informed him that the outside cellar door was open. At the same time his light fell upon two strange men standing at the foot of the steps leading up to the outside door, where they had rolled about a dozen tubs of butter. They were in the act of carrying them up the stairs. Pangborn, without giving them a chance to recover from their astonishment at his appearance, ran his left arm through the carrying ring in the lantern, and seized both by the collar. As he did that he received a sharp blow in the face from one of the men, and they both grappled with him and threw him to the cellar floor. One of them exclaimed, as he showered blows quick and heavy on Pangborn, "Kill the d—n ——."

The lantern was put out in the struggle, and the burglar would soon have made the exclamation good but for a fortunate incident. As he fell, Pangborn threw his right arm out to break the force of his fall. His hand struck a piece of flagging stone which had become loose in the cellar. He seized this, and raising it as high as he could, brought it down with all his strength where he thought one of the burglars' heads ought to be. He had calculated well, and the sharp, heavy stone struck one of them on the head, and Pangborn says he could feel the skull sink beneath the blow. The stroke was not given a moment too soon, for the man had found Pangborn's throat with one of his hands, and was fast choking the breath out of him.

When the stone came down the burglar's clutch relaxed and he rolled over on the cellar bottom with a groan that Pangborn felt was his death groan. The remaining burglar evidently thought the same, for he began at once to make efforts to release himself from Pangborn, doubtless in momentary expectation of receiving a similar blow. The hired man, although shuddering at the thought of having killed a man, was determined to capture the remaining one. The stone he had used as a weapon was triangular, and was very heavy. Finding that the man he was still struggling with was gradually breaking his hold upon him, Pangborn raised the stone again, grasping it by the sharp end of the triangle. His hold, however, was not secure, and as he brought it down again it slipped from his hand and flew over against the cellar wall. The burglar seemed to understand the situation at once, and again commenced raining sledge-hammer blows on Pangborn. The latter, being a strong man, by a lucky move, caught the burglar about the body with both arms, and pinned his arms close to his side. Having him in this position the hired man began shouting for help.

In the subsequent struggle both men arose to their feet, and the burglar regained the use of his arms. For ten minutes they fought in hand-to-hand contest about the cellar in total darkness, dealing each other blows, one of which would have laid an ordinary man unconscious. Neither could gain the mastery, and the noise of the conflict, singularly enough, was not heard by the other inmates of the house.

To the astonishment of Pangborn, his contestant fell heavily to the ground under one of his blows. He did not stir, and the hired man, supposing he had knocked the burglar insensible, hurried up stairs to give the alarm. It was several minutes before he could arouse the family sufficiently to get them to understand the situation. They got up, however, and Farmer Chapel started with Pangborn, who was covered with blood from head to foot, the only garment he had on being torn into shreds, to the scene of the struggle. When they entered the cellar, Pangborn was dumbfounded to discover that both of the burglars were gone. There were the overturned milk-pans, and great disorder of everything in the cellar, to tell of the struggle. There was a great pool of clotted blood on the flagging where the wounded burglar had lain, and the three-cornered piece of stone, with blood and a bunch of hair on one corner, to tell of the perhaps deadly nature of the conflict; but the burglars were gone.

Search was made for some trace of their whereabouts, but beyond some drops of blood on the cellar steps nothing could be found leading to their hiding place. Next morning they were tracked into the heavy woods near the house, where trace of them was lost.

Pangborn insists that the burglar he struck with a stone was killed. He says the skull was mashed in, and that no man could receive such a blow as he gave that one and live. The stone was nearly ten pounds in weight. The theory of the escape is that the second burglar merely pretended to be knocked down when he fell, and shammed unconsciousness. When Pangborn left the cellar he took his dead companion on his shoulder, and before his flight was discovered was some distance away in the woods. Pangborn says that the second burglar was a powerful man, and the dead one slight, and that the former could easily have carried him away. If the one burglar was really killed or fatally wounded, as it seems reasonable to suppose he was, his companion has doubtless buried him in the woods, and is by this time out of danger of capture. The men were both strangers to Pangborn. A party is forming to scour the woods in search of the supposed dead body of the burglar.

The Newburyport Mines.

[Newburyport Herald.]

Our mining community are moved by a large sale of mineral property, which has been determined on and will probably be consummated this week. That will be followed by increased operations at that point; the introduction of at least ten thousand dollars' worth of new machinery, for which the plans of the buildings are being drawn; and the employment of a large number of hands. One of the most valuable mineral discoveries from the first has also been made within a few days, at another point, of which we may not speak at present. There has been an effort on the part of some speculators, who were desirous of availing themselves of property, to decry the value of our mineral wealth, but time, the great truth-teller, will confirm all we have stated and more, in relation to the silver mines. They were never more promising than today. The wealth is in the soil; the men are here; nothing is needed but more capital to develope their worth; but should that not come, the miners will work on and by slower degrees prove their knowledge of the business in which they are engaged. There are are no wild dreams now to excite the community; there are no baseless speculations; mining has settled down into a pursuit as quiet and steady as farming, and is almost the only thing that now promises to be remunerative in the year to come.

We have been happy to state, this week, the progress and promise of our silver mines. On all sides there is renewed confidence, greater energy, and more hope for future success. Mr. Butler, on the Poor Farm, has found splendid specimens, nearer to virgin silver than we have elsewhere seen. At the Bartlett mine, Sheep Island, they have reached a depth of thirty-five feet, and are sinking about five feet a week. The average product is from half a ton to a ton a day. At Kent's Island a great work is doing by Messrs Spofford, Williams and Lowrey. They have prospected all around the island, making as many as a dozen excavations, half of them from twenty to twenty-five feet deep, and one blasted through a solid ledge. They are satisfied with the prospect, have twenty-five men at work, and are just putting up some $5,000 worth of machinery. Their engine is already in place near the railroad track, the pump is at the depot, and their drills on the way. The Providence Company have rich finds on the Kent farm—and are working with heart. Mr. Patterson has purchased one undivided half of the Boynton mine and 500 feet of the Chipman lode; and the Boynton mine will soon be worked by the purchaser. This leaves Mr. Boynton 600 feet on the Chipman lode, while Chipman & Shaw have 500 feet beyond, on which they are sinking a shaft. The most perfect of all the mining operations, because the oldest and best supplied with capital, is at the Chipman works. The new shaft-house, 60 feet long by 30 wide, containing regular California appliances, has been fully completed. On the first floor is located the engine, boiler, friction gear, air compressor, Cornish force pump, and a small pump of Knowle's manufacture. This machinery runs very smoothly, and shows care in the selection of proper positions for its varied movements. In the opposite or farther end of the building is the wareroom, tool room, blacksmith shop, and the deck head of the shaft. The latter is timbered up in three sections, and is twelve feet long by four wide. One of these sections is devoted to the use of skips or cages which ply between the levels and the top of the shaft: one to buckets which work to and from the bottom of the mine, and the other is occupied by ladders, the spear of the Cornish pump, a four-inch discharge pipe, and the tubes which convey compressed air down the shaft to supply steam drills with power and the mine with ventilation. The underground work comprises three levels (one east, one west and one south,) besides the sinking of the central shaft. The work is continous day and night, and the organization of labor seems perfect. There are no halts or emergencies apparent at any time; every man has his allotted place and performs his duty with as much regularity as the machinery itself. Bright, glistening ore is constantly reaching the deck-head, where it is washed and assorted; the first class is put up in small bags weighing about 135 pounds each, and the balance reserved for future concentration. Almost daily teams may be seen passing down State street loaded with these bags on their way to the warehouse of Sumner, Swasey & Currier, from which place they are shipped to New York city by water. The manager of the mine reports a two-foot reef or pay-streak in one heading, a four-inch in another, and the bottom of the shaft carrying heavy sign as it goes down. In the rear of this building stands the frame of a new ore house 24 by 38 feet, which is rapidly approaching completion; it is to be divided into seven compartments for the assorting, classification and storage of ores. So far as can be discerned this mine is surely a success, and wears an aspect of permanency. Its management is the very essence of vigor, and the entire absence of pretence speaks a confidence on the part of the stockholders which should inspire others with equal courage. The mineral is proven to be here and what the district needs to-day is more just such work as that being performed by the Chipman Silver Mining Company.

Sea Serpents.

Speaking of these strange, and by some considered fabulous, creatures of the sea, the Hartford Times says the obstinate incredulity of the newspapers and the public in regard to the existence of creatures called sea-serpents, begins to weaken before the steadily accumulating proofs of the fact. During the last twenty years the testimony to this fact has come from a hundred disinterested witnesses who have had no possible motive to lie about it; sea captains, men of integrity, whose word on any other subject would be accepted without question. Their descriptions generally tally. There are proofs that in past times, and in various parts of the world, the appearance of the marine monster here spoken of has been about as frequent, and as well attested, too, as in the present day; but such things then rarely got into books or newspapers. One singularly favorite region which these creatures love to haunt seems to be that part of the Atlantic on the New England coast between Cape Ann and Cape Elizabeth. It was in that quarter, at a point close by the Isle of Shoals, that the first recorded appearance of one of these creatures occurred on our shores. That was more than fifty years ago; the men who saw it (two of the rude residents of the island) were out fishing in a small boat, when the monster lifted his frightful head and neck to a height of apparently a dozen feet, so close to the boat that the men could have struck him with an oar—but they were so paralyzed by fright as to be unable to lift a hand or move a muscle. Of late years more than twenty different appearances of these creatures have been noted between that point and Cape Elizabeth. Two years ago such a creature was reported as having been seen and attacked with missiles hurled by a crowd on a bridge, at some point in the bay or harbor of Portland. Sometimes they are seen in winter. During the present summer two or three accounts have been published of the appearance of so-called 'sea-serpents' off the coast of Maine.

—When a boy succeeds in convincing his mother that he was not swimming in the river—that his hair was made wet by perspiration while "helping Bill Timming to catch a chicken just now," you might just as well try to explain the Schleswig-Holstein question as to undertake to describe the awful expression of that boy's face when his mother subsequently discovers that he has on another boy's shirt.

—At the Boston Theatre, when Father Barband was offering old Fadet 1000 francs to send Fanchon away, and the old woman replied, "It is not enough," a young gentleman in the audience who has evidently played "Sancho Pedro," remarked sotto voce to a companion: "Pitch it yourself, then!"

Duncan & Sherman will pay forty cents on the dollar.

Jottings.

The excursion of the season will be that to Wolfeboro' and Lake Winnipesaukee tomorrow. Col. Butler has a few tickets remaining unsold.

An unoccupied house and barn, at Barnstead, belonging to George Chesley, of this city, was burned Friday night. Loss $800. George Chesley, Thos. Conners and Leslie Norman were arrested here on Sunday, charged with being concerned as incendiaries, and were taken to Pittsfield for examination. The first named was the owner of the burned building, which was unoccupied. He will prove an alibi, having returned home from Barnstead before the fire occurred. It is charged that he induced Conners and Norman to set fire to the house, wich seems improbable, as he has not borne a bad reputation heretofore. Messrs. Geo. E. Hodgdon, John H. George and A. R. Hatch are counsel for the defendants.

The Spiritual Scientist thinks the late Mrs. Conant, the Banner of Light medium, was not always controlled by the spirits purporting to speak through her organism, but that she was generally the unconscious instrument of shallow pretenders in the other world.

The Commissioners of Pharmacy held their joint meeting at the Hazeltine House, Manchester, on Thursday. The following officers were elected: President, Charles A. Tufts of Dover; Treasurer, Charles S. Eastman of Concord; Auditor, Elias S. Russell of Nashua; Secretary, George F. Underhill of Concord. Three meetings are to be holden within two months; the first at the Rockingham house, Portsmouth, on Thursday, August 26, at 12 o'clock, A. M.; the second at the Tremont house, Claremont, on Wednesday, September 22d, at 1 o'clock, P. M.; and the third at the Phenix hotel, Concord, on Wednesday, October 31st, at 1 o'clock, for admission of applicants.

Saturday night ten freight cars on the P. S. & P. road, loaded chiefly with lumber, were thrown from the track at South Berwick. Five of them were heaped upon each other in reckless confusion. The accident was caused by a heavy iron break beam falling upon the track.

The Aldermanic committee having charge of the matter of abating the South Mill Pond nuisance deem the most feasible plan to flood the pond and close the gates. This interruption of business, the owner of the mill privilege, Mr Barnard, claims would damage him to the extent of $600 in two months. A far more economical plan would be the purchase of the pond outright for $6000, the price asked. The privilege could then be sold annually at auction to the highest bidder for eight months of the year. The pond when closed would serve as a reservoir, and might serve to save that section of the city from destruction by fire.

Tug Clara Bateman went ashore on Badger's island, Monday forenoon, but was hauled off by ferry boat Emerald without damage.

Fishing schooner Harp, bound for the Shoals on Saturday night, drifted across the bow of schooner L. V. Rose. The Harp lost foremast, split foresail and stove bulwarks. The accident was caused by the L. V. Rose taking a broad shear with the tide, there being a strong ebb tide running.

Steamer Appledore is being repaired at the Kittery railway.

There is great complaint among the residents ot the West End of the sickening odor emitted from the North Mill Pond at low tide. Now that the City Fathers have under consideration the nuisance at the South Pond, it seems a favorable opportunity to extend their researches to the North Pond. The Eastern Railroad, of course would not sell their interest, but the corporation is liable for maintaining a nuisance, and should be proceeded against if the nuisance be not abated.

Chief Naval Constructor Isaiah Hanscom and family are in town.

Judge Page sent three tramps, Royal Welch, J. A. Mabel and George Dignon to the county house for ninety days on Monday. "Sock it to them," Judge.

Shaky times—among the pear trees.

The new military company will meet at the Common Council room this evening at eight o'clock for the election of officers.

News and Notes.

They do not say it with any particular satisfaction at present, but the democrats of Florida say that the assassination of State Senator Johnson gives the democracy two majority in the Senate. It was not what is called a political murder, but it was one of those strange dispositions of Providence favoring the democratic party by crimes committed.

Mr. Edward J. Stackpole, of Dover, cut off the end of his little finger, with his little hatchet.

The third annual meeting of the New England Temperance Reform Association will be held at the New Washingtonian Home, 41 Waltham street, Boston, tomorrow. Business meeting at one o'clock. Annual dinner at the chapel at three o'clock. Social temperance meeting after dinner and in the evening.

The fare from Nashville to Louisville has been reduced to fifty cents by the opposing lines.

A continued residence in Claremont and editorial experience there are wonderful adjuncts toward the development of a keen relish for blueberry pie and tinted lemonade.

Three hundred dollars, reward has been offered by the town of Milford, for the apprehension of the murderer of Wallingford.

The body of Miss Lottie Phillips, of Niagara Falls, who with Mr. Perkins of Leroy, N. Y., was drowned near the Cave of the Winds, was discovered in the whirlpool Sunday morning, having been in the water a week.

The Advent camp meeting at Wolfeboro, will continue through this week.

The parties alleged to have been poisoned at Sandwich are better, and will probably recover. York, who was suspected of administering the poison, has been arrested, and the feeling against him is said to be very intense. He protests his innocence.

The Down-Hill Side.

On the down-hill side of life the constitution is beset with infirmities for which Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is the best of all remedies. Invigoration is the most reliable means of resisting disease, and is particularly necessary at a period of life when the decay of the physical energies renders the system less able than formerly to resist its attacks. The cheering warmth which this prime tonic stimulant diffuses through the chilled veins, the unwonted steadiness which it gives to the tottering limbs of age, the prompt relief which it affords from those maladies which are most common in the decline of life, constitute it an inestimable blessing to the old and infirm. Among the testimonials to the excellence of this most salutary medicine of which its proprietors are constantly in the receipt, many are received from persons of advanced age, who speak with unmeasured praise of its qualities as an invigorant and preventive.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgment of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

— At the Louvre Hotel there is a Mr. Walker. Mr. Walker had a dog His dog has lost a running match. And this is how Mr. Walker has to pay his wager! He is, during one whole month, to run into the arms of the first man he meets at the corner of the Rue de Valois after nine o'clock, and to say : "My dear brother, at last we meet after twenty years." Then he is to apologize. Mr. Walker has thus embraced fourteen Frenchmen.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS,

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because these medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is on the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself : left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $3. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health.

MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Forneroy, Vanquillin and Barnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing.

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention it in Prophet's name in the locality. Costs NOTHING to try it. Particulars Free. P. O. VICKERY & CO., Augusta, Me.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the [lung-] trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 State St., Opposite Kilby St., Boston,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are hereby saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

Mr. Potts' Story.

Max Adeler has the following:

While I was over at Pencader, the other day, I called on the Potts'. Mr. Potts is liable to indulge in extravagance in his conversation, and, as Mrs. Potts is an extremely conscientious woman where matters of fact are concerned, she's obliged to keep her eye on him. Potts was telling me about an incident that occurred in the town, a few days before, and this is the way he related it.

Potts. "You see old Bradley over here is perfectly crazy on the subject of gases and the atmosphere, and such things—absolutely wild; and one day he was disputing with Green about how high up the air life could be sustained; and Bradley said an animal could live about forty million miles above the earth, if—"

Mrs. Potts. "Not forty million, my dear, only forty miles, he said."

P. "Forty, was it? Thank you. Well, sir, old Green, you know, said that was ridiculous; and he said he'd bet Bradley a couple of hundred thousand dollars that life couldn't be sustained half that way up, and so—"

Mrs. P. William, you are wrong; he only offered to bet fifty dollars."

P. Well, anyhow, Bradley took him up quicker'n a wink, and they agreed to send up a cat in a balloon to decide the bet. So what does Bradley do but buy a balloon about twice as big as our barn, and begin to—"

Mrs. P. "It was only about ten feet in diameter, Mr. Adeler; William forgets."

P. "Begin to inflate her. When she was filled, it took 80 men to hold her, and—"

Mrs. P. "Eighty men, Mr. Potts! Why you know Mr. Bradley held the balloon himself."

P. "He did, did he? O, very well, what's the odds! And when everything was ready they brought out Bradley's tom cat, and put it in the basket and tied it in so that it couldn't jump, you know. There were about 100,000 people looking on, and when they let go you never heard such a—"

Mrs. P. "There was not more than 200 people there. I counted them myself."

P. "O, don't bother me! I say you never heard such a yell as the balloon went scooting up into the sky, pretty near out of sight. Bradley said she went up about 1000 miles and—now don't interrupt me, Henrietta; I know what the man said—and that cat, mind you, a howling like a hundred fog horns, so you could a heard her from here to Peru. Well, sir, when she was up so's she looked as small as a pin-head, something or other burst. I dunno how it was, but pretty soon down came that balloon a flickering toward the earth at the rate of 50 miles a minute, and old—"

Mrs. P. "Mr. Potts, you know that the balloon came down as gently as—"

P. "O, do hush up! Women don't know anything about such things. And old Bradley, he had a kind of a registering thermometer fixed in the basket along with the cat. Some sort of a patent machine; cost thousands of dollars, and he was expecting to examine it: and Green had an idea he'd lift out a dead cat, and scoop in the stakes. When all of a sudden as she came pelting down a tornado struck her—now Henrietta, what in the thunder are you staring at me in that way for? It was a tornado—a regular cyclone—and it struck her and jammed her against the lightning rod on the Baptist church steeple, and there she stuck—stuck on the spire about 800 feet up in the air."

Mrs. P. "You may get just as mad as you please, but I am positively certain that steeple's not an inch over 95 feet."

P. "Henrietta, I wish to gracious you'd go up stairs and look after the children. Well, about half a minute after she struck, out stepped that tom cat onto the weathercock. It made Green sick. And just then the hurricane reached the weathercock and it began to revolve 600 or 700 times a minute, the cat howling until you couldn't hear yourself speak. (Now, Henrietta, you've had your put, you keep quiet.) That cat staid on the weathercock about two months—"

Mrs. P. "Mr. Potts, that's an awful story; it only happened last Tuesday."

P. (confidentially.) "Never mind her. And on Sunday the way that cat carried on and yowled, with its tail pointing due east, was so awful that they couldn't have church. And Sunday afternoon the preacher told Bradley if he didn't get that cat down he'd sue him for a million dollar's damages. So Bradley got a gun and shot at the cat fourteen hundred times. (Now you didn't count 'em, Henrietta and I did,) and he banged the top of the steeple all to splinters, and at last fetched down the cat shot to rags; and in her stomach he found his thermometer. She'd ate it on her way up, and it stood at eleven hundred degrees, so old—"

Mrs. P. "No thermometer ever stood at such a figure as that."

P. (indignantly.) "Oh, well, if you think you can tell the story better than I can, why don't you tell it? You're enough to worry the life out of a man."

Then Potts slammed the door and went out, and I left. I don't know whether Bradley got the stakes or not.

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 18, 1875.

A Scrap of Secret War History.

[Hartford Courant.]

A gentleman of this city, whose character to all who know him is a sufficient guaranty of his statement, gives to the Courant a scrap of secret history of the war, which shows how a scheme for securing the recognition of the Confederacy was providentially averted. In the autumn of 1861 the gentleman in question was called to Louisville, Ky., on business. On his arrival there he found the city in a state of feverish excitement, the Union and disunion parties being about equal in strength, and an outbreak at any moment would not have been surprising. He stopped at the Galt House, and he had just entered his name on the register, when a distinguished looking stranger entered the room, and was immediately surrounded by a number of gentlemen of the secesh persuasion, with whom he entered into an exciting conversation. On inquiry the stranger was found to be Mr. William Mure of Charlestown, S. C., British consul to that port. He was an ardent sympathizer with secession and expected soon to be appointed British minister to the Confederate government. He was fresh from the rebel capital with the latest news, which was eagerly absorbed by the listeners.

Later in the evening, as the Hartford gentleman was smoking his cigar in the office, Mr. Mure entered the room with a friend, and taking seats near him, the two commenced a conversation in a low tone, which, however, in their earnestness was soon so audible that the other occupant of the room could not help overhearing a large portion of it. From what he heard he gathered that Mr. Mure had been closeted with Jeff. Davis and his cabinet for several days, and as a result carried about his person papers which he believed would ensure the recognition of the Confederacy by the governments of Great Britan and France, together with bills of exchange representing a large amount of money for the purchase of arms and munitions of war. Mr. Mure further stated that he should leave Louisville on the following (Sunday) morning under an assumed name for Boston, by way of New York, and that he would take the Cunard steamer at Boston for England on the next Wednesday.

Our informant immediately decided that his business in Louisville might wait and that he would travel with Mr. Mure as far as Cincinnati, where he would take the train for Washington and lay the case before Mr. Seward. On Sunday morning he rose early, but found that Mr. Mure had started the night before. He immediately took the train and arrived at Cincinnati late at night, only to find that a bridge on the railroad to Washington had been carried away and travel would be interrupted for twenty-four hours. He went at once to the telegraph office and found it closed, it being nearly midnight. A policeman, however, came to his assistance and brought the operator from an apothecary shop near by. Informing the latter that he desired to send an important message to Mr. Seward, the operator replied that he possessed the government cipher, whereupon the following message, in substance, was sent:

To the Secretary of State, Washington, D.C.

Mr. William Mure, British consul at Charleston, S. C., left Louisville last night for Boston, by way of New York, bearing about his person papers from Jefferson Davis, which he says will ensure the recognition of the Southern Confederacy by the governments of England and France, together with other valuable documents. He sails from Boston on Wednesday.

The name signed was a fictitious one used for the occasion for private reasons, the gentleman recalling the fact that certain members of his family were on terms of intimate friendship with the Mure family, and not desiring to involve others than himself in the affair. Doubting whether Mr. Seward would notice the dispatch, the gentleman started for Boston by the way of the New York Central road, designing to have Mr. Mure arrested as he went on board the steamer, in case no previous effort to detain him were made. In passing through Syracuse on Tuesday he bought a morning paper, and on glancing through the telegraphic news he saw a dispatch from New York on Monday to this effect:

"Mr. Mure, British Consul at Charleston, was arrested at the Brevoort House this evening, and papers of great value were found concealed about his person. He was immediately taken to Fort Lafayette."

Satisfied at the result, the gentleman in question returned to his home. Some two months afterward he was in Washington, where he met Mr. Seward socially, and while in conversation with him inquired how Mr. Mure happened to be arrested. The Secretary at first seemed surprised at what perhaps appeared to be an impertinent question, but replied politely that the arrest was made on receipt of a telegram from Cincinnati, from a Mr. B. T. H——, that he had since endeavored to ascertain who Mr. H. was, but without success, and finally inquired, do you know? The gentleman replied that he was the individual, and then explained the circumstances as above recounted. Mr. Seward grasped him by the hand and thanked him most heartily. To the query whether the value of the papers had been exaggerated in the telegram, the Secretarr replied, "Not in the least, sir; not in the least."

Mr. Mure was kept in confinement for a year, and was then released at the request of the British government.

How They Live in Kentucky.

[Cincinnati Times.]

A few years ago a little crowd of students of Michigan University, at Ann Arbor, were gathered in a beer saloon, one evening, quaffing the amber fluid and chattering gaily. There was one young Kentuckian present, from Lexington. A student, for his benefit, and in a spirit of good natured raillery, asked if they knew what a Kentucky breakfast was, and explained that it was composed of a slice of bacon and a glass of whiskey. The Kentuckian joined in the laugh that followed at his expense, and ordered the drinks for the party. Then another remarked that he thought Kentucky women "just gorgeous," that they were as a general thing "loose," that he believed every Kentucky woman held her virtue very lightly. The last word had hardly left his lips when the muzzle of a Derringer was staring him in the face, and a voice husky with suppressed rage was saying: "Get down on your knees, you —— lying coward and ask my pardon, and Kentucky's pardon, and the pardon of my mother and sister, and of every woman in the State."

There was no mistaking the black muzzle of that cocked pistol or the ugly expression of the man who held it—it meant "business," and that man got down in the sawdust of the saloon floor and did as he was ordered. Then the Kentuckian paid the whole bill, and remarking, "If you ever speak to me or of me again, I'll blow the top of your head off," pocketed his Derringer and left. It was the spirit of "Old Kaintuck" to the back bone.

Yesterday we met the same young Kentuckian passing through the city on his way to Long Branch, handsome, easy, elegant, reckless, and as prone to "Bourbon straight" as ever. A good man for a friend—generous, faithful, devoted, and a bad man for an enemy—ugly, fierce, and uncompromising.

Of course we had the invitation of the young gentleman of the Blue Grass regions: "You must come to the Paris Fair, where you will see Kentucky in its glory, and then home with me to Lexington. I'll show you the most beautiful country, the handsomest women, and swiftest and most beautiful horses, and give you the best whiskey in the world." and we know he is able to, and would do every one of them.

Over a glass of Catawba wine, at which our Kentucky friend was a little disposed to turn up his "Bourbon" nose, we chatted of Kentucky affairs. We said: "You Kentucky people have a rather bad reputation for shooting, stabbing, and the like."

"I know it, and it is a great shame. We do not deserve it," he returned.

"You do not deserve it?"

"No; Kentucky is a comparatively quiet, law-abiding State."

"That last Cynthiana affair was not very 'quiet' and 'law-abiding.'"

"That was all right. Every person did his duty in that affair, as our law and custom is at present. Would you see a relative shot, and not kill the man that did it?"

"Oh, of course not; we would mildly but firmly cut his heart out with a bowie knife, or work up gradually toward his head with a reaping machine, or cut him wide open with a razor, or in some other way manifest our disapproval of his line of conduct."

"People talk about the shooting and cutting and reckless disposal of human life in Kentucky, but it is untrue and unjust. Lafayette and the four or five surrounding counties that make what is called the Blue Grass region, do not average more than six murders to the county a year. To be sure there were in Madison county last week five murders, but it was election week, and excusable."

"Oh, of course. Are any of these murderers ever punished?"

"Of course not. You can't touch a man for shooting or cutting in Kentucky. A form of trial may be gone through, but it always fizzles out and nothing comes of it. It is impossible to hang a man in Kentucky courts for murder. If you try him, ten chances to one the jury will be composed of men, every one of whom will have a Derringer in his hip pocket, or a knife, in his belt, and would use either as quick as he'd take a drink of whiskey."

"Do you like this state of affairs in your native State?"

"Well, no, I can't say I do. We seem to get along very nicely as it is, but I am not sure a vigilance committee, or two or three hangings, wouldn't do the State good. But in the courts, as they are at present, you cannot convict a man.

—A few days ago an insurance agent hired a boy to mind his office and run errands, and he had a long talk with the lad, telling him what he must do and what he must not do. The boy got along all right until yesterday when the agent entered the office and found him up to devilry.

"See here, my boy," said the agent, "didn't I tell you just what you'd have to do if you staid here?"

"You did," replied the boy; "you said I mustn't sing or whistle; that I mustn't have boys up here; that I was to come at eight and quit at five; that I was to keep up the fire, sweep out, run errands and be civil; that I was to be careful and lock the door, scrape my feet on the mat, keep my knife away from the furniture and not idle my time away. You told me all this, but you didn't say a blamed word about my not pouring ink on the cockroaches?"

—A girl-witness in a hard case was descanting on the meanness of one of the parties to the suit. "Why," said she, "When his wife died, he sent a man with $15 to get a coffin. He could not get a good one for $15, and he paid $18 for the coffin! And when he got back the widower was awful angry, because he paid the extra $3." And then this artless young lady remarked, "If it had been my father, he wouldn't mind paying $40 for a coffin for ma."

The democrats of North Carolina have for a year pass made desperate efforts to obtain control of the State, and through chicanery, and with the consent of weak and corrupt republicans, secured a majority of the General Assembly to unite in a call for a constitutional convention, having for its purpose a democratic revision of the constitution of 1868. The plan was to repeal certain clauses very favorable to the poor men, to take away the protection given to homesteads and small debtors, to establish a high poll tax and property qualification for voters, and even to give rich men an additional vote for every $500 worth of property on which taxes are paid, after the style of slave representation.

The prominence of the school question in the Ohio campaign has been somewhat lost sight of in the importance which has been given to financial issues. In Northern Ohio, where sound views of the currency question prevail, the only issue about which the people are really excited is that of preserving the school fund against sectarian encroachment. The solid Roman Catholic vote of Ohio is pledged to the democratic party in return for their influence in favor of admitting the parochial schools of the church to share in the school fund. A democratic triumph in Ohio would unquestionably result in putting an end to the unsectarian character of the public school system in that State. The Romish hierarchy extorted from the last democratic legislature the bill relieving the inmates of State prisons from all obligation to attend religious service. They are counting on getting from the next, if not a constitutional amendment for the "concurrent endowment" of sectarian schools, at least a concession in favor of giving schools controlled by priests their proportionate share of the ax raised for educational purposes.—New York Times.

The Petersham tragedy is almost without a parallel for brutality. It now appears that after removing the body of Towne from the barn cellar, where it was buried on the day of the murder, Frost hitched a pair of oxen to it and dragged it down a rough hill about 150 rods, and the course he took is marked with the hair and flesh of his victim found upon the rocks and bushes. Finding it impossible to dig a grave on account of the ledge which exists in that vicinity, he concealed it in the bushes. This occurred about the 22d of July, and in four days after he cut it in pieces and carried it up the hill to the cornfield, where it was found buried.

Some of the peculiarities of political campaigning in Wisconsin are illustrated in the following paragraph from the columns of the Menasha Press: From the Milwaukee News one would suppose that Mr. W. A. Nowell, a member of the Board of Public Works of that city, was a modern monster, with horns and claws, and with the kicking power of a dozen mules. He is portrayed in such characters as to make people believe that he diets on human beings and rinses them down with wagon-loads of turf and whole gravel-pits. For desert he'll eat up a printing office, and demolish the material substance of a row of brick buildings every times he breathes, according to the News. He's been known to sneeze out a row of curbstones around an entire block, while it's nothing uncommon for him to reach out over Lake Michigan and pick up a four-masted schooner to pick his teeth with. We know from Calkin's report that he's a terror, and we go in for having him lassoed, even if it has to be done with the "belt of the Universe," in the hands of "General Destruction." Chase him up until he surrenders or climbs to another sphere on a "moonbeam." He's got to be dispatched. Nowell, the idea of allowing a man of that cognomen to maintain a clench on terra firma. A Tramp's Ordeal.

[Ogdensburg Journal.]

A tramp who was attempting to steal a ride from this city to Rouse's Point on Friday night experienced a trip which was well calculated to make an impression on his memory that will not soon be eradicated. The splendid pair of tigers and zebra which formed a part of the Hippodrome Menagerie, which has spent most the summer here, were shipped that night for New York, by way of Rouse's Point. The tigers were removed from their cage, placed in temporary boxes and put into a box car. The door of the car was left partly left open, to allow a free circulation of air. The tramp in looking for a good place to stow himself away, came across this open car and crawled in. After the train started the tigers became uneasy from the rumbling of the cars, having remained in a quiet state here two months, and tried to get out of the boxes. The tigress succeeded and as she emerged from her coop the tramp shrunk back into a corner and remained the rest of the trip as rigid as a statue. The tigress, after making an examination of the car, in which she even lapped the face of the tramp, laid down at the open door with her paws hanging out the rest of the journey. In the morning when Herr Lingal came to look after his pets he discovered the tigress occupying the same position, and ordered her back into the box, and she obeyed. He then discovered the tramp, who still occupied his crouching position, with his clothes wet through with perspiration and speechless from his night ride with the tigers. It was a fortunate thing for him that it was the female that got out of the box; she is as kind and tractable as a kitten, while the male would have killed him before reaching the end of the journey.

School Accommodations.

There is a serious lack of school room in Districts One and Two, especially in the former, which contains a school (on the corner of High and School streets) of about one hundred scholars and yet with seating facilities for only fifty-six. Within the past year this room has been a just source of complaint from the teachers, until at last the Board of Mayor and Aldermen have taken the matter in hand and we are likely to have in that District a good eight-roomed school building that will reflect credit upon the city. Pending the perfecting of arrangements necessary to the consummation of this project, the State street Ward room is to be fitted up with desks, seats, blackboards and other school paraphernalia, as a temporary relief to the crowded room above mentioned.

The lower room of the Cabot street school, containing a primary grade of children, is likewise overburdened with pupils, the surplus for which there are no seats, amounting to upwards of a score, with as many more outside who are desirous of entering. It is proposed to place between sixty and seventy seats in the State street Ward room, which, it is expected, will so relieve the two over-crowded rooms alluded to, that there will be no cause for complaint for a year or two hence. A special committee, consisting of Mayor Goodrich with Aldermen Hatch and Hackett, have the matter of the new school building in hand, and will at once procure plans and estimates in reference to the same; giving however, their first attention toward the difficult task of selecting a good, roomy lot. We learn the Aldermanic Board are unanimously in favor of building a school-house, and although it will involve an expense of some $20,000, the city cannot well defer the matter any longer.

The rooms of the Haven school building at the South End are being whitewashed and otherwise improved, a new basement floor laid, and two storm porches erected at the east and west basement entrances, besides other necessary changes. The advantages of having all the several grades of schools under one roof are plainly seen in this building, and the proposed new school house will be erected with similar advantages in view.

Portsmouth is famed for her beautiful shade trees, her intellect and her wealth, but, strange to add, is far behind her sister cities in the matter of public school accommodations: a fact that should not longer be apparent, and we are pleased to report a successive step toward the removal of such a stigma. Manchester, Concord, Nashua, Exeter and other places have far superior school buildings to ours; the time having gone by with them when any old rookery will do for a school house.

Tramps.

The legislature has given us a stringent law for the punishment of tramps, a law that if strictly enforced cannot fail to rid the State of these pests at no distant day. But in order that this most desirable result may be attained, every citizen knowing of the presence of these wandering thieves should inform the police and make complaint. City Marshal Marden and his assistants are ready and anxious to bring them to justice, and Judge Page has shown his willingness to execute the law faithfully and to the letter by sending up the cases reported on Monday. Society must be protected, and mercy to worthless vagabonds means cruelty to individual members of society. Of late, tramps have shown themselves bolder and more ruffianly, and there is scarcely a family in this city whose members are not disturbed in mind daily by the fear of some dread visitation which will bring them injury. Tramping has become a system, and can only be broken up by harsh treatment. Let every man and woman who is accosted by a tramp asking shelter or food immediately make complaint, and the police and justice will do the rest. There is little danger of wronging any person in so doing, and it would be better a few should be unjustly suspected than that the many should continue their nefarious calling at the expense of the peace and protection of society. A few well dispensed shot or prompt information to the police will soon serve to induce the marauders to steer clear of Portsmouth.

Strawberry Bank and Mt. Sinai Encampments will assemble at Odd Fellows' Hall to-day at half past nine A. M., and march to the Eastern Depot at 11 to receive Portland Encampment of Portland, Me., and Quochecco and Prescott Encampments of Dover, and escort them about the city. At 1 P.M., a banquet will be served in Franklin Hall, after which the Encampment will be dismissed until 8 P. M. Supper at the same place at 5.30. In the evening a grand levee will be given at Franklin Hall, commencing at 9 o'clock. To-morrow morning, the Patriarchs will assemble at Odd Fellows' Hall at 9 A. M., and escort the Portland Encampment to the depot. The U. S. Naval Band has been engaged for the occasion. The Kearsarge House and Franklin Hall are handsomely decorated.

Jottings.

There are eight U. S. vessels now lying at the navy yard, viz.: the Lancaster, Sabine, Marion, Enterprise, Despatch, Speedwell, Kansas and Portfire. The Lancaster will remain at quarantine until Winter. The Kansas, just returned from a cruise, has been stripped and her stores, etc., landed. The Despatch is being calked, and the Marion and Enterprise are being fitted for sea.

Temperance meeting this evening at the Baptist vestry on State street at 7.45.

As the 7.05 A. M. train from Portsmouth, on the Eastern Railroad, Conductor Garland, was passing at express sped between Rowley and Ipswich at about twenty minutes past 8, Monday morning, an unknown man, apparently a tramp, was run over and instantly killed. The man was observed by the engineer walking on the track some distance ahead, and although warned by repeated whistles of his danger he continued on the track, and as the train neared him he threw himself down in front of the engine which, with the entire train passed over his body, cutting it up in a shocking manner. The train was stopped and the remains were gathered together, placed in a basket and conveyed to the Ipswich station, where they were left to await identification.

Col. Butler's excursion party to the Lake will leave the Eastern depot in a special train this morning at 7:45—if it does not rain. The returning train leaves Wolfeboro' at five o'clock.

Monday evening was the occasion of a pleasant surprise to Col. S. H. Dumas, proprietor of the Boar's Head Hotel, Hampton Beach. At 8 o'clock the guests of the house assembled in the parlor and presented Col. Dumas with a most elegant French mantel clock, costing about $200. The occasion was a most enjoyable one to all, and the present is only a well deserved compliment to a most popular host.

It has been decided to adjourn the Board of Trade meeting until next Wednesday evening on account of the I. O. O. F. festivities to-night.

The gate-keeper of the Portsmouth & Dover bridge thinks that the ladies who reported a narrow escape from driving overboard recently, were more frightened than there was occasion for. He states that the draw was swung open about ten feet that the wheels might be oiled, and that the gate was shut on the Newington side, but the further one was open. He thinks the ladies were so terrified that they thought both were open.

There will be a base ball match at Rye Beach this afternoon at three o'clock between the Granite State nine of this city and the Farragut House nine.

Among recent decisions of the Superior Court are the following: Hathaway vs. Noble and others—claim to set aside mortgage made by Noble to his sister, under which she has been in possession twenty-six years. Not allowed.—Raynes vs. Raynes—Rehearing ordered.—Hennessey, et als vs. Canon Walsh and Bishop Bacon—dismissed on the ground that it was a matter of ecclesiastical jurisdiction.—M. H. Wentworth vs. P. & D. R. R. Action of trespass, land being entered upon before damages had been assessed. Non-suited.

Considerable excitement exists in Chelsea caused by the death of a lovely little girl, Jennie Peck. Several physicians pronounced it a case of cholera, produced by the removal of an old vault. Several other persons were made sick, and a good deal of indignation exists because parties presume to remove vaults during the hot weather. The remains were brought to this city for interment.

About half-past three o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, the roof of Ward's distillery at Christian Shore was discovered on fire, but the heroic exertions of Charles Twombly and Thomas Ward, ably assisted by Henry Frizzell, proved too much for it, and it was extinguished after a hole had been burned through the roof.

Internal Use of Sea Water.

Those of our readers, says the Boston Journal of Chemistry, who used to visit the Appledore house at the Isles of Shoals in the days when the elder Laighton was the landlord, will doubtless remember how he was wont to dilate upon the virtues of sea water taken internally. If our genial host had lived till now he would rejoice to find confirmation of his views in an article by Dr. Lisle in a late number of the Bulletin Generel de Therapeutique. His experiments have led to the conclusion, that besides being a useful purgative, sea water acts as an alterative in such cases as are benefited by saline mineral waters like those of Nauheim Soden Homburg, etc. He finds that its continued use increases the appetite, facilitates digestion, quickens nutritive changes, and augments the proportion of red corpuscles in the blood.

Accordingly he recommends it: (1) during valesence from acute diseases: (2) in the apyretic forms of dyspepsia; (3) in neurosis associated with impoverishment of the blood; (4) in the scrofulous and tuberculous diathesis; (5) in diabetes. Sea water may be agreeably administered in bread, in the form of a syrup or in that of an elixir. Bread made with sea water can only be procured at the seaside; it is very palatable and contains nearly five grammes of the mineral constituents of the water in each pound. The syrup is prepared by mixing 250 grammes of sea water with a sufficiency of sugar and distilled water to make 500 grammes. Each tablespoonful, of the syrup contains about twenty-five centigrammes (3 3-4 grains) of the saline residue of sea water; from two to five tablespoonfuls may be taken daily. The formula for the elixir is: sea water 200 grammes; rum 200 grammes; sugar and distilled water up to 500 grammes. The dose at first is a tablespoonful three times a day.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgement of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is dangerously sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS,

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Mortal Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact, that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a specific to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

ZERO REFRIGERATOR

ZERO.

Why the Improved Zero Refrigerator has taken premiums over all others:

It requires less than one half the ice to run it. It dispenses with the nuisance of having a drip pan under it. It is a refrigerator and water cooler combined. It has the driest provision chamber. It is built in the best manner and style of design. It is the cheapest. In a word it is a perfect Meat, Fish, Fruit and Ice preserver. FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wollaston, Fourneroy, Vanquilin and Barruell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of this

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excretions, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the "Forever" in their testimonials of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England!

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN,

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Pat ents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with lights characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one of Jules Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Old Time Chronicles, No. 126.

BY UNCLE JOSEPH.

Who, among those now forty, fifty or more years old, does not remember Webster's spelling book? It was the first they read in at school. It was their only book used there for some years, till able to read prose, when the Testament was used. There were not many, if any books then adapted to the capacities of juvenile minds, nor calculated to interest them. All things considered, it is strange that much was learned. And many did not learn much.

In Webster's spelling book we learned to read the "A, B, C's," as then called. Beginning at A, we went down the column, repeating each letter after the teacher, till both landed at Z. After many days a few letters could be recollected, usually O first, then A and others. The process was a dark and irksome one. It seemed meaningless. But we were told that was what going to school was for. That is, to learn to read.

Next after this was the "A, B abs." This was reading words of two letters as ab, eb, ib, etc.

After this were words of three letters, then four and so on.

At length words of two syllables. We felt rising in knowledge then. At home we told that we read in "Baker." Webster's first word in columns of two syllables was baker. Then we read in "Crucifix." Then in "Ambiguity. Finally in prose, "No man may put off the law of God." The words were easy; but what the expression meant, we could not tell.

The spelling book had a few pictures, quite an affair then. There was one illustrating the fable of the old man stoning a boy in his apple tree, stealing apples; the woman going to market with a pail of milk on her head, giving loose reign to imagination as to what fine things she should buy;—the swallows offering to choose flies from a box crossing a river, and several others.

Webster's dear old spelling book! We remember it and we love it. Our knowledge began with it and has been going on ever since. It was a good book for the time, and some reading lessons were very instructive.

This was the first spelling book prepared in America. It was first published about the year 1783, and was very popular. Sometimes a million of copies were sold in a year. Down to 1847 about twenty-four millions of copies had been sold.

Noah Webster was born in 1758. He died in New Haven in 1843. His dictionaries are monuments of his untiring industry and laborious research.

An Irrepressible Pussy.

Max Adeler relates the following in the N. Y. Weekly: We have been trying to lose our cat. We were somewhat fond of her, but she had a way of producing kittens every few months in various portions of the house that was very disagreeable; and on the evenings when her maternal duties were not urgent she used to mount the back fence and spit, and howl with a screech like a fog-whistle. So she became a nuisance, and we determined to lose her. I had a grudge against my wife's aunt, and the first time she came to visit us I gave the cat to her, and she took it up to Philadelphia in a basket (about thirty miles.) There was only one cat when my aunt started, but when she got home there were six. The cat had kittened in the basket on the way up. I believe that cat would have had kittens on the top of the Baptist Church steeple, if she could have got there. We had peace around the house for a couple of nights; on the third night we were startled by a scream from the back yard like the yell of a Comanche Indian with delirium tremens. I looked out of the window and observed our cat engaged in an excited argument with another cat on the smoke house roof. She had come back. The next day I traded her off for a bunch of beets to a farmer from over the river in New Jersey, and he took her home. I knew then we had lost her finally, and as night after night went by without noise, we felt glad that she was lost for good. A few months afterward, as I was going up to bed, I saw a wet and draggled animal in the hall. Upon close examination I found that it was our cat. She had swam the river and come home; and had just had kittens on the front stairs. The farmer subsequently made me pay four prices for the beets. That night she resumed her vocalization on the back fence, and from the vigor she displayed I judge she was trying to converse with another cat on the other side of the river, two miles distant. The next day I tied a brick to her neck and chucked her into the stream. Two hours afterward she was in the yard again, damp, and with a cold in her lungs, but still inclined to be sociable with the other cats, and still able to work off a shriek that waked up all the babies in the neighborhood. As she didn't seem inclined to stay lost, I took her out next morning and hitched her with a rope behind the rear car of the express train, and in a few moments she was proceeding up the track with frightful velocity, clawing and spitting and hallooing, as she bowled along. That afternoon I drowned the kittens, and just as they breathed their last, the brakeman on the railroad called and said somebody had fastened my cat to his train, but he had rescued her and brought her back, for which service he wanted two dollars. She seemed to have an unconquerable indisposition to stay lost. She was not much out of repair. One of her legs was broken, but her voice was sound, and while communing with another cat that evening, she emitted one wild shriek, which brought Cooley over to my house with his gun to ascertain who it was that cried "Murder!"

A few days afterward she had kittens again on the parlor sofa; and that night I hitched her to a couple of sky-rockets I had bought and touched them off. She whizzed for a while around among the stars, and I thought I saw the corpse fall over toward Wilmington; but the next evening, while coming home from church, I saw some cats holding a synod in the front yard. One of them was our cat, singed, and a little discouraged, but still capable of drowning out all the other cats in a chorus. She still remained unlost.

The following morning I carried her out to Keyser's farm and ran her through the threshing machine, and she came out a mass of pulp and fur. Then we buried her. But I don't feel perfectly certain about her yet. I shouldn't be much surprised if she would come together again, resurrect and come home to have some more kittens and a few fresh yowls on the summit of that fence. If she does, I am going to move to Kansas.

A Modern Samson.

[New Brunswick Reporter.]

Thomas, or Tom Gardner, as he was familiarly called, was born on the river St. John, one mile above the mouth of the Mactaquack stream, in the year 1798. Viewed casually, Gardner gave no evidence of unusual power, but when stripped his muscular development was tremendous, and it is affirmed that instead of the ordinary ribs he possessed a solid bony wall on either side, and that there was no separation whatever. He stood five feet ten and a half inches, erect and full chested, and never exceeded 190 pounds in weight.

The late Charles Long informed us that at one time he saw Gardner lift from a towboat a puncheon of corn, containing at least twelve bushels, and, swinging around, deposit it on the sand. In so doing he tore the sole off his boot. On another occasion a number of men were trying to lift a stick of timber. In all the crowd only one man could raise it about two inches from the skids. Gardner told four men to sit upon it, and then lifted it so high that the men jumped off to save themselves from the fall. Mr. McKeen has frequently known him in lifting to break boom poles six inches thick. He has known him also with one hand to lift, by the rung of a chair, the chair itself and a man weighing nearly 200 weight. Once in attempting to lift a very heavy man he wrenched the rung entirely from the chair.

Gardner at one time was possessed of a balky horse with which he exercised great patience; but when patience ceased to be a virtue he would fell him to the ground with his clenched fist, striking him behind the ear. It is related of Gardner's sister that on one occasion a famous wrestler travelled all the way from Miramichi to Tom's home in order to "try a fall with him." Tom was absent, but the sister looking contemptuously upon the intruder, declared she could throw him herself, and, suiting the action to the word, in a fair trial threw him fairly three times in succession. The stranger's experience with the sister was sufficient; he never sought a future interview with the brother.

The greatest feat which Gardner was ever known to perform was on one of the wharves in St. John. Mr. McKean saw him lift and carry an anchor weighing 1,900 pounds, numbers of other witnesses standing by, some of whom are yet alive. Frequently he has seen him carrying a barrel of pork under each arm, and once he saw him shoulder a barrel of pork while standing in an ordinary brandy box. When about 40 years of age Gardner removed to the United States, and never returned to his native province.

It is commonly reported and believed that he met with a sad adventure on board a Mississippi steamer. A heavy bell was on board as portion of the freight, and the captain, a great, powerful fellow, was concerned as to how he should remove it from its place in order to make more room on deck. While captain and passengers were at dinner, Tom, in presence of the crew, to their utter amazement, lifted the bell and carried it to the opposite side of the boat. When the captain returned he asked how that had been accomplished, and when Gardner laughingly remarked that he carried it there, the former gave him the lie, and as one word brought on another, he presently struck Tom in the face. This was too much, and for the first time in his life the strong man gave blow for blow; but one buffet was sufficient. The captain never spoke again, killed dead on the instant. Tom made his escape, went West, and has never been heard of since.

—It is now conceded that the majority cast for McCreary for Governor of Kentucky will be at least 845,000.—People.

Our brother must be mistaken for the Courier-Journal says: "Voters went freely at fifty cents apiece or $5 a dozen," and nine thousand dozen is more than McCreary got.—Mirror.

—The clerks in the Recorder's office at San Francisco were thrown into a flutter by the appearance of a young law clerk staggering under a roll of manuscript representing the forty-six million mortgage on the Southern Pacific road. It is the "largest document ever recorded in San Francisco."

News and Notes.

A frightful accident occurred about 10 o'clock, Tuesday morning, on the St. Louis and St. Joseph branch of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railroad. As a train was passing over a dry branch six miles south of Gower Station, in Clinton county, the structure gave way, precipitating the mail and express car and two passenger cars down twenty feet. Feeling the trestle giving way, the engineer put on all the steam and succeeded in running his engine safely over, breaking loose from the train. There were fifty or sixty passengers on the train. Over forty were injured. Only one was killed.

Mrs. Andrew Johnson is slowly recovering from the shock occasioned by the sudden death of her husband.

The Chicago Journal, publishes special despatches from Michigan with the details of the recovery at Montague, in that State, Tuesday morning, of the remains of Newton S. Grimwood, the reporter of the Journal, who made the balloon ascension from Chicago with Donaldson, five weeks ago. He had on all his clothes except his boots and hat. Letters and notes of his trip prove beyond doubt that it is he. A bursted life-preserver was attached to the body. Nothing was seen of Donaldson's body or the balloon.

Our brethren of the Concord Patriot and the Exeter News Letter, who should mutually respect and esteem each other, are at logger-heads, one with the other.

Twelve thousand dollars in premiums are offered for horses, cattle and farm products at the New England Fair, commencing in Manchester, Sept. 7th. Two thousand dollars are offered for trotting horses owned in New England in six purses, as follows: $200 for four-year colts; $300 each for 3-minute, 2.50 and 2.40 classes; $400 for 2.35 class; and $500 in the 2.29 class. The entries close August 31st. Numerous entries of stock are already received. One man in Northern New Hampshire has entered 12 horses and 36 head of cattle; another, 30 horses. The dog show premises to be a prominent feature of the fair, and a large number of entries are already received. The Manchester Art Association will make an extensive exhibition. The managers of the fair are erecting an additional exhibition hall, 60 by 100 feet.

President Morreno of Ecuador has been assassinated.

Mr. Wm. D. White, the proprietor of a store in Derry, carried home a large sum of money amounting to some three or four hundred dollars, most of which belonged to the clerks and had been intrusted to him for safe keeping. He placed it between the beds on which he slept, but was aroused in the night by feeling them move and saw the form of a man slowly withdrawing toward another room. He sprang upon him, throwing him to the floor, and wrested the pocket-book from his grasp. The intruder managed to get away and fled, closely pursued by Mr. White, to some woods not far distant, where he escaped.—Manchester Union.

Hon. Joel Parker, formerly Chief Justice of New Hampshire, died in Cambridge on the 17th, of cholera morbus, in the 80th year of his age.

The wife of Capt. Phil Bessenger, accompanied by her three children—two girls and a boy—aged respectively 9, 6 and 3 years, left her home, walked up the towpath of the Union canal, and when near Gring's Mill, three miles north of Reading, Pa., deliberately walked into the canal and drowned herself and three children. Their bodies were recovered.

The York county republicans have nominated for Senators Messrs Ivory Lord of Saco, Usher B. Thompson of Newfield, and Uranus O. Brackett of Berwick.

A case has been on trial in the Supreme Court at Augusta, of the most revolting character. Ruth A. Currier, of Hallowell, brought a suit against her husband, alleging adultery, and the husband brought a counter suit against her, alleging the same crime. Both charges were fully substantiated at the trial, but as under the laws where both parties in a divorce suit are proved guilty of adultery, no divorce can be granted, the husband withdrew his charge, and she amended hers by charging cruelty, so the divorce was granted.

An unknown person fired a pistol at a young man named Frank Wright, while he was walking on the highway in Swanzey. The ball passed through his hat, just grazing the scalp, but doing him no injury. His assailant was near the fence by the roadside, and was seen to level his pistol a second time, but young Wright ran at the top of his speed. No clue to the would-be assassin has been discovered.

Prof. King, the intrepid aeronaut who succeeded the departed Donaldson as the balloonist of Barnum's Hippodrome, made an ascension alone in the Cloud Nymph, at Burlington, Ia., and had quite an exciting time up in the clouds. Taking a northeast direction he crossed the Mississippi river and soon an ugly looking storm-cloud lay directly before him, the low ragged edges of which betokened wind as well as rain. Soon he heard the rumbling of thunder and in a few minutes more he was immersed in the cloud, when suddenly there came an electric discharge in his immediate vicinity; at the same moment the balloon seemed to have been seized by some extraordinary force, and hurled through the intervening space in the direction of the flash. The gas in the balloon expanded with such force as to drive it down through the open neck in a solid stream, and for a moment the Professor was fearful of being suffocated. Following quickly came another discharge in another direction, and the balloon was again seized and thrown with fearful velocity in that direction, and this was repeated over and over again, the lightning blazing around the aeronaut. Once or twice when the balloon gave such terrific lunges the Professor thought it had been struck with the fluid, for it did not seem possible to escape it. The balloon had been pitched and tossed about in this manner for about half an hour without even reaching the top of the cloud, when all at once a torrent of rain began to fall from above and the weight of the water made the balloon descend. In a few moments the balloon was dashing through the tops of trees, tearing off limbs and crashing along at a fearful rate, but by dint of spryness the Professor alighted on terra firma before being badly hurt.

'Tis the Manchester Union that talks thus sensibly: "Our platform in regard to the public schools is this: The State shall provide the means to supply every child with a good English education. Extras to be paid for by those who order them."

There was no wind during the race of the yachts of the New York Yacht Club for the cups presented by Vice-Commodore Garner, and, owing to the calm, it ended in nothing more than a drift. The Rambler and Restless were the winners in the first and second class schooners, and the Vision and Genia in the first and second class sloops.

An alligator, weighing 100 pounds, and having teeth an inch long, was caught at Hannibal, Mo. He fought desperately for his freedom.

At the session of the Superior Court at Concord, last week, an important decision affecting the public and national banks was rendered. In the case of the First National bank of Peterborough vs. the town of Peterborough, a petition for the abatement of taxes, on the ground that the bank's surplus had been wrongfully taxed, the court refused holding that the surplus of naational bank is the bank taxable in the town whereis located. The effect of this decision is to add a large amount to the taxable property of the State. The surplus of the national banks of the State is upwards of half a million of dollars.

A mishap to Edwin Booth at his summer residence near Cos Cob, Conn., created much excitement in New York, where the report got abroad that his injuries were likely to prove fatal. The Concord and Portsmouth Railroad now has between twelve and fifteen thousand cords of wood at Raymond.

-- When Mrs. B. went home from shopping yesterday she entered upon a scene of thrilling horror being enacted in the back yard.

In the centre of the yard a dry goods box was in flames and the baby was lying in front of it squalling lustily from heat and fright. Down behind the current bushes were two of the neighborhood boys, skulking around with painted faces, chicken feathers in their hair, and bows in their hands, while her hopeful son had on his father's moccasin slippers, his cap turned wrong side out upon his head, and an old army gun in his hand. He was creeping along with evident murderous intent toward the roosters behind the bushes.

"What on earth is the matter?" cried the alarmed lady.

"Sh!-sh!" said her hopeful; "don't you see them Inguns has burned down Hawkins's cabin and nearly killed his baby, burned up the family, and I'm the Lean Wolf going to bring down vengince on the sculps of the varmints!"

But in about fifteen seconds after he went down to the wood-pile, wishing he was the fat woman in the museum or the big medicine man of the Pawnees. He had been reading an Indian tale in a New York paper, you see.—Atlanta Constitution.

—A reverend gentleman at Old Orchard, Maine, paused the other day in his religous exercises to rebuke certain reporters, who withdrew early in order to make the mails, instead of waiting to take the whole of his sermon. It was an unfortunate mistake. His hearers up to that time had inferred that he was preaching to convert sinners, and not for the pleasure of seeing himself reported in print.

—Another one of those wonderful old ladies has turned up this time in Lambertville, N. J. She is 97 years old, can see to thread the finest needle, never having used spectacles in her life. —A recent event at Gilmore's concert garden, once the Hippodrome, was a race once around between Messrs. Mr. Patrick Gilmore came home first, but eventually lost the stakes through the shrewdness of his competitor, who chose the jewsharp as his instrument, while the exhausted Mr. Patrick tried vainly to blow an air from "La Somnambula" on Levy's cornet.

—Dyspepsia can be uniformly cured and always avoided by the following rules:

Eat thrice a day.

Not an atom between meals.

Nothing after a noon-day dinner, but some cold bread and butter and one cup of hot drink.

Spend at least half an hour at each meal.

Cut up all food into pea-sized pieces.

Never eat so much as to cause the slightest uncomfortable sensation afterwards.

Never work or study hard within half an hour of eating.—Dr. W. W. Hall.

Local Matters.

Church and State.

The decision of the Superior Court in the Catholic church matter does not seem to allay the intense feeling of the parties contesting. The ownership of the property is vested in the Bishop, and those who contributed from their hard-earned savings to its erection have no redress in case they disagree with the views of the Bishop. So bitter is the feeling that those engaged as counsel in the case are blamed for the result, and threats of future revenge are made. There is a strong feeling in favor of a new society, which if formed may be presided over by Father Canevan, who has always been highly esteemed since his first residence in this community, by the people under his charge. It is reported that our Irish fellow citizens, who are very near if not quite a majority of the democratic voters in this city, will insist at the coming election on controlling to a greater extent than has heretofore been allowed the nominations in the democratic party, and the church squabbles are likely to breed a discontent which will show itself at the caucus and the polls.

I. O. O. F.

The visiting Encampments from Dover and Portland numbered but 110, double that number being expected. The procession of five Encampments made a fine appearance on the march, with the best of music furnished by the Portland, Dover Cornet and Naval Bands. The march was concluded and the banquet at Franklin Hall, also, before the rain came on. Mr. James E. Dennett of the Kearsarge House was caterer for as well satisfied a company as ever sat down to a tempting repast. A levee at Franklin Hall closed the festivities of the day. The visiting Encampments will return home by to-day's trains.

Jottings.

On account of the rain, the base ball match between the Farragut House nine and the Granite State club of this city was postponed until next Friday at three o'clock at the Plains.

Quite an exciting and well-contested double-scull dory race took place off Rye Beach, Tuesday afternoon. The course was one mile, to a stake-boat placed in a southerly direction from the Farragut House, and return. The prize was an elegant silver goblet offered for the occasion by E. C. Riddle, Esq., of Boston. The following crews entered for the race: Farragut House, S. G. Peabody and John H. Robinson: Sea View House, Thatcher Goddard and Joseph H. Wales; Little Boar's Head, Messrs. Bell and Otis; Dalton's House, Stevenson Brothers. The boats made a good start, but quickly the Sea View crew drew ahead and maintained their lead to the finish, crossing the line in 14 minutes and 45 seconds amid great excitement. The Farragut crew came in second in 15 minutes 30 seconds: Little Boar's Head third and Dalton's fourth. After the race the prize was presented to the winning crew by the Hon. Francis Thompson of Charlestown, Mass. The crew voted the prize to the popular landlord of the Sea View, George G. Lougee, Esq. In the evening the presentation speech was made amid great enthusiasm by Prof. Moses A. Brown of Tuft's College, Mr. Lougee responding in a few well chosen remarks.

The old building on Atkinson street occupied as a first-class tavern in "days of Auld Lang Syne," and where Lafayette rested his weary head over night, and whose walls resounded with the merry voice of the wife of a former Governor of New Hampshire, is now decorated with a sign, denoting that ale, wines, etc., are sold there, while other portions are used as a tenement house.

The Concord Patriot's Pittsfield correspondent writes as follows in regard to the Barnstead fire: "George Chesley owned the reversionary interest in the farm on which the burnt buildings set and an aunt had a life interest in the same. He had lately tried to buy her interest, but she would not sell, wanting the house as a home. On Friday afternoon a couple of persons, one of them a negro the other a white man, were seen in the vicinity of the premises. These same persons were run into on the night of the fire about three miles from the same. They were driving very rapidly from the direction of the fire, and were met by a team going to it. The fire was just then breaking out. A wheel and axle of the carriage was broken, and they left it. They said they could not wait until next morning and got an old wagon and went on. The next day they were followed by George W. Emerson, Deputy Sheriff. The carriage that was broken was found to be Chesley's and the borrowed one was in his stable." The writer is evidently mistaken in more points than one. Chesley does not own a carriage, was not in Barnstead on the night of the fire, and there is no direct testimony that he was implicated in the act of incendiarism.

Steamer Apple dore has resumed her trips.

A large crowd went to the Lake in charge of Col. Butler on Wednesday, accompanied by the Portsmouth Cornet Band.

The Portsmouth Artillery Company organized on Tuesday evening, the 17th, by choosing Hon. Frank Jones Captain, Major Daniel J. Vaughan 1st Lieutenant, Col William H. Sise 2d. Lieutenant, David Urch Orderly Sergeant, and Hon. Thomas E. O. Marvin Clerk and Treasurer.

The camp meeting at Epping commences next Friday and continues one week.

There is a finely executed portrait of little Philip DeNormandie, at Foster's bookstore, painted by Miss Mary E. B. Miller, and a handsome painting of White island light, by Miss Sarah Foster.

Temperance meeting this evening at the Chapel of the North Church on Middle street, at 7:45.

His name is Philo, and Dwight Hanscom owns him. Dwight left him a minute in Jacob Haddock's orchard, and the chaise-top scraped against the tree limbs, shaking showers of rain-drops down on Philo's head. He didn't like it and started. The chaise-top tore partly off and Philo was frightened and bolted over a four-foot fence. The chaise crushed it down and Philo ran down Islington street, banged against the hosiery building at the Creek, turned out of the way to avoid a baker's cart, broke off a wooden post at Alton's store and proceeded on down town even to the water's edge, foot of Daniel street. There he made a short turn, hung up the upper portion of the chaise on a shed, cleared himself and went on at a rattling pace to Water street, where he was stopped. The chaise is now a gig—but Mr. Hanscom doesn't care so much considering that the horse injured nobody—not even himself. But the vehicle needs a whiffletree and a new top.

There are 1300 visitors at Rye.

The Boston Traveller says: A New Hampshire editor went from Portsmouth to Newmarket Junction, on Saturday, intending to proceed to Exeter. Getting on a train just as it started, he discovered that his wife had been left on the platform. The editor pulled the bell-rope and stopped the train to enable her to ride; but when the conductor asked him where he was going, he said it was none of that official's business. When it came time to collect the fares, however, he found that he was proceeding toward Portland, an opposite direction from that in which he intended to go, and was left oft at South Berwick Junction. Hereafter, he means to answer civil questions civilly, cosidering this experience altogether too costly to be repeated.

Dear Chronicle: I observe letters are written from all points of the coast and lumped into watering place gossip. Watery gossip would be a better name for it, as it is of the thinnest texture, leading one to suppose the mind of woman was incapable of soaring above the tip of her hat.

But a visit to Straw's Point Monday night disabused me of any such false impression. I discovered that ladies and gentlemen spend their time at that delightful retreat in more ennobling pursuits; in intimate companionship with the orators, authors and poets, and then giving the result of their study to their less studious friends. On Monday evening, a hundred invited guests assembled at the spacious mansion of Gov. Straw, and there enjoyed the most refined and elegant entertainment, it is possible to offer. A young and talented lady opened the entertainment by a humorous recitation which kept the audience in a high state of amusement. Then followed tableaux from Dickens. Then speeches from prize speakers of Dartmouth. A poem of Mrs. Browning was given with exquisite taste and feeling. The grand finale was the play of —76 written by Mrs. Curtis. Every actor was a star, and some parts were enacted with striking power and led us to think the Petite Theatre of the ill-fated Marie Antoinette could never have afforded greater pleasure to an audience than did the accomplished company at Straw's Point.

Missouri Bandits.

The St. Louis Globe-Democrat has a special from Benton, Franklin county, Ill., which says that for some time past a body of men disguised in Ku-Klux style have been travelling over the county whipping peaceable citizens and compelling them to perform acts they dictated. Up to this time in both Williamson and Franklin counties the citizens have calmly submitted to these outrages, but I. B. Maddox, one of the County Commissioners, received information that some of the marauders would visit his house and whip him for not obeying the orders they had given him. Maddox informed the Sheriff, J. T. Mason, who summoned twenty men, who secreted themselves at Maddox's house, well armed. About 2 o'clock at night the Ku Klux, fourteen in number, made their appearance on horseback, disguised in white robes, high white hats, masked and armed with shot guns and pistols. The Sheriff stepped out when they came to the house and ordered them to surrender. The leader of the band drew his pistol and fired at the Sheriff, missing him. The Sheriff and posse then ordered them to halt, when the band fired and wheeling their horses attempted to escape. The posse fired upon them and mortally wounded one man and injured others, but they all succeeded in getting away except the man who was fatally hurt. The names of the others were revealed by the wounded man, who was captured, and the Sheriff and a posse are after them today. Great excitement prevails, and the citizens are determined to rid the country of these midnight marauders. Active measures are being taken to bring the outlaws to justice. The desperadoes are said to be some 400 strong. Gov. Beveridge has sent 100 stand of arms, and a military company is being formed, and bloody results may be expected.

— A new prophet has arisen in Europe. He is a photographer. By means of his camera he made visible an attack of small-pox twenty-four hours before it came out. Although no one could as yet observe anything on the skin of the patient, the negative plate showed stains on the face, which perfectly resembled the variolous exanthem, and twenty-four hours later the eruption became clearly evident.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgement of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

—Some scamp has been representing himself in Texas as the son of Postmaster General Jewell. This, too, in the face of the fact that Mrs. Jewell never had a son. The Texans lavished their best hospitality upon him until they discovered the imposture, and then they quietly hung him on a limb to dry.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS,

For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

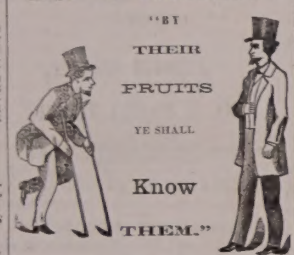
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fornerov, Vanquilin and Barrnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, them there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing.

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P.: "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts can bear witness of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a manuscript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

RESTING.

Written on the demise of Mrs. C.

Within yon sacred bower of evergreens
Where bright flowers bloom to cheer the pensive eye.
While musing o'er the silent forms below—
Where birdlings warble sympathetic lays
With grieved ones wandering there—
Down in that bower
The wife, the mother, friend and Christian sleeps.

"Pain's furnace heat" full long had seared her brow,
And thrilled her frame with keenly stinging smark,—
Yet, 'mid the elemental heat she smiled—
Patient, and firm as Zion's holy hill—
Whisp'ring "O, Holy Father I hold still."

A blighting share of ill from youthful hour,
Had fallen on her with a tearful power;
But never did her hopeful spirit fear—
In darkest hour she saw some rays of cheer.

Her well stored mind could look with steady eye
Upon the icy king as he came nigh;
No fretful sentence, though her restless form
Was wreck'd and bruised in Time's hard pelting storm.

Free as a bird
That plumes its way toward a genial clime,
Her longing spirit rose in eager flight
On clouds of hope, escorted by a band
Seraphic from the "better land."

A light celestial pierced her inner life—
Whose spark immortal caught the ray divine—
Quaffed the effulgence glorious, and rose up
Victorious over pain; soaring away,
To sing triumphant anthems in the skies.

Such was her faith, her patience, love and hope,
No moral cowardice within her breast
E'er found a shelter.
Deep within her tropic heart
Humanity held evening vespers sweet—
For she was tender to all b eathing life;
Aye, to the very blossoms and the vines
That grace the garden walk, was her soul true.

Dear to the household was her cheering voice
Disease and failed to load her soul with gloom.—
Only those nearest to her loving breast,
Now feel the solitude of their unrest.

Nature's great volume free, sublime,
Reveal'd for e'er, its glories to her sight;
From its wide perfumed pages through all time
Sought she to cull bright jewels day and night.

Books, too, were rubies to her youthful eyes,
With them she held communion to the end;
From life's bright morn she loved their leaves wise,
Which buoyed her spirit to the shadow's end.

Music sweet could raise
Her thoughts to heav'n—from it she borrowed life,
And to it gave her young and vivid thoughts.
Ask'd oft to hear it, e'en amid the pain
That circumscribed her spirit's temple.
And when her heart-throes hinted life was o'er,
And whispered softly of the "better shore;"
So cool her words, it is a marvel still;
Calm, smiling, bowing to her Father's will.

* * * * *

O, whilst the play of health expands the breast,
Remember all must bow to Heaven's behest;
Live true to God, to Time, to self, to man,
In this our little, lengthened, doubtful span;
That in the last, lone, dark and testing hour,
Death shall be 'reft of half his tyrant power;
And victory claim the fluttering soul
On its upward flight to the heavenly goal.

THE TWO WAITINGS.

I.

Dear hearts, you were waiting a year ago
For the glory to be revealed;
You were wondering deeply with bated breath
What treasure the day concealed.

Oh, would it be this, or would it be that?
Would it be boy or girl?
Would it look like father or mother most?
And what should you do for joy?

And then one day when the time was full,
And the spring was coming fast,
The trembling veil of the body was rent.
And you saw your baby at last.

Was it or not what you had dreamed?
It was, and yet it was not;
And oh, it was better a thousand times
Than ever you wished or thought.

II.

And now, dear hearts, you are waiting again,
While the spring is coming fast;
For the baby that was a future dream,
Is now a dream of the past.

A dream of sunshine and all that's sweet;
Of all that is pure and bright;
Of eyes that were blue as the sky by day,
And as soft as the stars by night.

You are waiting again for the fullness of time,
And the glory to be revealed:
You are wondering deeply with aching hearts
What treasure is now concealed.

Oh, will she be this, or will she be that?
And what will there be in her face
That will tell you sure that she is your own,
When you meet in the heavenly place?

As it was before it will be again,
Fashion your dream as you will;
When the veil is rent, and the glory is seen,
It will more than you hope fulfill.

MAID AND MONGOLIAN.

A maid heard, "Mongolians are meek,"
So she sailed off to China to seek
And find whether she Couldn't marry a he
Tea-rooster, or mandarin meek.

She found a gay heathen—Fing Wi,
A chap who stood seven feet high.
Says she, "Gracious! what fun!
Oh! you son of a son
Of a gun, come and marry sweet I."

Something must have bothered the sight
Of one eye, as he whispered, "All right,
Muchee high old gallee!
Oh! Hunkee Doree!
Me no workee! you washee! all right!"

Then soft to herself, said she, "Nay, Civilization has traveled this way."
So, taking her hat,
She got up and sat,
And is still going East, I dare say.

Daily Chronicle.

FRIDAY, AUGUST 20, 1875.

News and Notes.

George Webster of Contocookville, who has been suffering from a hopeless disease of the right thighbone and knee for the past two years, has had the limb removed.

A Spanish vessel shipping material of war at Barcelona suddenly exploded and sunk. Fifty persons were killed.

Seth Austin, of Franklin, was struck by the up express train over the Northern Railroad one mile above the Franklin station, and literally torn to pieces, being instantly killed. He was about 55 years of age.

Jacob A. Merriam, of Lowell, Mass., who was burned by the explosion of a kerosene lamp, is dead.

Clarence A. Gutterson, of Milford, has lost a valuable horse from brain fever.

John Evans, steward of schooner Harbeson Heckman, which arrived at Philadelphia from Port Moados, in the Island of Cuba, was arrested for attempting, while on the coast of Cuba, to poison the schooner's crew, by pouring croton oil among the provisions. The poison was detected in time to prevent a catastrophe.

Fourteen car loads of excursionists, from towns along the line of the Great Falls and Conway Railroad, went through the White Mountain Notch, and as no notice of their visit had been given to the hotels they could get no accommodations, the houses finding it difficult to accommodate regular boarders. Nearly all who had contemplated a three days' visit were obliged to return home at night.

Hon. D. M. Key has been appointed to fill the vacancy in the United States Senate caused by the death of Andrew Johnson. He is a man of 45, of decided talent—diffident, retiring and very popular in his own section, but is not generally known throughout the State.

The grand jury for Penobscot county, reported one hundred and twenty-six indictments, one hundred and four of which were for selling liquor in violation of the Maine law. This is by far the largest number of indictments ever reported, and includes parties in nearly every town in the county.

The magistrate at Sandwich has ordered Veranus York, the woman poisoner, to jail, to await the action of the Grand Jury next October at Ossipee. The evidence is said to be very conclusive against the accused.

Arrangements are made for the disinterment of Grimwood's body and forwarding it to Chicago. The notes and papers will also be sent for publication. The towns along the eastern shore of the lake are sending out parties to search for Donaldson's body, which is expected to drift ashore near where Grimwood's body was found.

Little additional is given concerning the finding of the body of Mr. Grimwood, the companion of Mr. Donaldson. On the body were discovered a watch, notes, papers, letters, and an india-rubber life preserver with a hole in it two inches long; also a certificate of membership in the Chicago Public Library. The notes were rather vague. At the time of writing it was stated that the balloon was in the middle of Lake Michigan, and the possibility of a fall was mentioned, but not as a probability. The body was found by a mail carrier. It was badly decomposed, the hair and a portion of the face being gone. It was buried in a cemetery near the place where it was discovered.

Ipswich sends fifteen bushels of blueberries to market daily.

Emerson A. Dunham, employed by Arthur Dinsmore & Co., at their steam-mill at Massabesic, was badly injured by the bursting of a grindstone which he was driving at a high rate of speed. It was a foot in diameter, and the fragments hit him in the forehead between the eyes, breaking his nose and otherwise injuring him. He will recover.

Never before at this season of the year has Boston had so large a supply of fairly good peaches, and that too at very reasonable prices. On the 18th, the first of the fast peach trains arrived direct from New York, bringing fruit which thirty hours before was in the Delaware orchards. There were eighteen cars on this train. A car is supposed to contain on an average 350 crates of 28 quarts each, making 6300 crates or 176,400 quarts. The fruit sold at prices ranging from 25 to 75 cents per basket of 18 quarts, and from 50 cents to $1.50 per crate of 28 quarts. The peaches were mostly Troths and Yorks, very few early Crawfords. The freight was $250 per car, or a little over 60 cents per crate. In addition to this cargo there arrived in this city yesterday morning, per the Boston and Albany road, seven car loads of peaches from New York and five car loads by other roads Peaches on the street yesterday retailed about five cents a dozen.

There is much excitement to-day in Washington and Jefferson counties, Ga., on account of the reported attempt by negroes at insurrection. Eighty arrests were made, and the white military companies in those counties were ordered by the Governor to report to the Sheriff. The prisoners were all lodged in jail without resistance. The alleged plot is a contemplated massacre of the whites, on the 20th instant. It is now thought that there will be no further trouble.

A young child of Henry G. Eaton, in Amherst, who it was thought was suffering from a broken rib, had removed from between the ribs a needle of good size, which the child had probably swallowed weeks ago. The doctor was obliged to cut in some distance to reach the needle, during which time the mother held the little one with remarkable nerve.

Horace Dodd, of Dodd's Newspaper Advertising Agency, has just issued a neat and conveniently arranged printers' text book, which, for beauty of finish in press work, binding, &c., has not yet been excelled. It will be eagerly scanned by job printers as well as newspaper publishers. We recommend it to the fraternity generally.

The Concord Monitor reports the failure of Simon G. Gove & Co., tanners, at North Weare. Their liabilities amount to some $50,000, and their assets are not much above $15,000. Of their indebtedness $15,000 are due Boston parties, $15,000 are in notes held by the Amoskeag Bank, Manchester, and the rest is owed to parties in Weare.

Kearsarge Mountain.

[Wm. C. Gage's "Switzerland of America."]

Among the mountain peaks of New Hampshire which have become celebrated for their natural scenery, few, outside of the White Mountain region, can compare with the majestic Kearsarge, whose name has become a household word in connection with the gallantry of its namesake, whose exploits in our navy, under command of the brave Commodore Winslow, have passed into the annals of history, surrounded with a halo of glory.

The mountain is situated in the county of Merrimack, in the towns of Warner and Wilmot, and the summit is about three thousand feet above sea-level. The sides of the mountain are clothed with forests to the base of the cone, above which the vegetation grows more and more scanty, the stunted evergreens finally giving way to the bare rock, which is of a mica slate formation, and gives evidences of former volcanic action. Three elevations on its summit enclose a depression which is pronounced by geologists an extinct crater.

The only approach to the summit has until recently been from the northern or Wilmot side, involving a long and tedious ascent on foot after leaving the carriage road. Any better route than this had been deemed impracticable, and in accordance with that supposed fact a good hotel was erected on the northern side of the mountain, and named the Winslow House, in honor of the noble commander of the vessel which sunk the rebel Alabama.

Some of the citizens of Warner, however, deemed the mountain accessible from the southern slope, and accordingly projected a carriage road, which should enable all who desired, to view the prospect from its summit. The prime mover in this scheme was Col. N. G. Ordway, for many years the popular Sergeant-at-Arms of the House of Representatives at Washington, whose residence is in Warner. Backed by his energetic public spirit, and sustained by his liberality and that of other citizens of the town, and engineered by H. H. Harriman, Esq., who surveyed and laid out the route, the Warner and Kearsarge Mountain Road is now an established fact, and a highly successful one at that. Mr. John Dowlin, also of Warner, had charge of the construction of the road, and by means of his untiring personal efforts it was opened to the public, with appropriate festivities and a procession along its length, July 4, 1874. It then lacked considerable of completion, but since that time has been extended to within eighty rods of the summit.

Leaving Warner village, the route follows the public highway for about five miles in a northerly direction. The road is through a fine farming country, with magnificent scenery on every hand. To the south and west, the Mink Hills and Sunapee Mountains present their wooded slopes to view, while the snug farm houses, nestling on the hillsides, charm the eye, and give diversity to the scenery. Two miles from the village we pass the humble cottage where Ex-Gov. Straw was born; a man of whom Warner may well feel proud.

Five miles from the village the road turns sharply to the right, and we soon enter upon the Mountain Road proper, which extends for about three miles through pasture and woodland, and along a hight of land which has been christened "Mission Ridge," from its resemblance to Joe Hooker's battle field of that name. The ride along this ridge is charming. Gradually rising, the scenery presented to the view is grand and imposing, especially to the south and west. The mountain scenery of southern New Hampshire and Massachusetts is visible, interspersed with numerous lakes and ponds, and adorned with flourishing farms and verdant forests.

The present terminus of the carriage road is only eighty rods from the summit, and the ascent from here by footpath is easily made. The completion of the road to the very summit, however, is regarded as entirely feasible, and will no doubt soon be accomplished.

The View from the Summit is second only to those to be had from the White Mountain summits, and indeed, many who have enjoyed them all, pronounce in favor of Kearsarge. While the difference in altitude makes a corresponding difference in the extent of the view, the location of the latter in the midst of a cultivated and thickly-settled portion of the State, gives greater variety of scenery, combining beauty with grandeur and sublimity.

To the northward the view embraces Moose Mountain in Hanover, Mount Cardigan and Moosilauk, Ragged Mountains, and several lesser peaks, while toward the northeast the White and Franconia ranges are plainly visible, and with a good glass the Mt. Washington House may be seen. Mt. Kiarsarge or Pequaket, at North Conway, with Chocorua, Whiteface and Red Hill in the same general direction, are also visible, with Lake Winnipesaukee a little to the right.

Sweeping round to the southward the eye falls on the Uncamoonucs, Joe English, the Crotched Mountains, Crany Hill, several ponds and lakes, and a little west of south, the towering peak of the Grand Monadnock. In a clear day Mts. Tom and Holyoke and Mount Wachusett may also be seen.

The western horizon is bounded by the Green Mountain range in Vermont, with the Minks, the Sunapees, Camel's Hump, Lovewell's Mountain and Ascutney in the foreground. Sunapee Lake, eight hundred and twenty feet above the sea, glistens like a crystal gem, while in every direction, lakes, ponds and streams of water enliven the scene.

Towns and villages almost innumerable can be seen on every hand, both far and near. It is said that over one hundred may be counted, visible to the unaided eye.

It will thus be seen that a view from the summit of Kearsarge would amply compensate a fatiguing effort to obtain it; and when it is considered that it is to be enjoyed with no more effort than a carriage ride of eight miles with a short walk at the end, the attractiveness of Kearsarge Mountain as a summer resort must be a great inducement to summer tourists to pay it a visit.

By an act of the last Congress, an appropriation was made for the establishment of a station on this mountain for the U. S. Signal Service, to be occupied throughout the year, and connected by telegraph with the world below. This was effected by the influence of Hon. A. F. Pike and Col. Ordway, and the pledge of the latter's co-operation in the construction of the necessary buildings. We understand the work is to be entered upon at once.

To accommodate the public, who must sooner or later appreciate the pleasure of a visit to this mountain summit, the Road Company have opened the Warner and Kearsarge Mountain Hotel. At Warner village, under the superintendence of Mr. Fred. Smith, formerly connected with the Continental Hotel, Philadelphia, with the intention of keeping it in first-class style for summer boarders and transient custom. To effect this the hotel buildings formerly known as the Warner Hotel have been enlarged and improved, greatly adding to their capacity and improving their appearance. The improvements the present season have been very extensive, and are to be continued as the demands of the public shall warrant, and the traveling public may rest assured that nothing will be left undone to render the house everything that the most fastidious could desire.

An excellent livery stable will be kept in connection, and teams will be supplied for the trip to the mountain, or for the many pleasant drives around the village, and to adjacent places. Seven miles distant is the flourishing village of Contoocook, and Bradford is the same distance in the opposite direction. Bradford Pond, a beautiful sheet of water, abounding in fish, and having a lovely beach with a beautiful grove adjacent, and dotted with several islands, may be reached by a pleasant drive, and fishing, boating and bathing may be enjoyed ad libitum.

A drive of seven miles in another direction brings us to Henniker, another enterprising village. Taken altogether, the village of Warner offers many attractive inducements as a summer resort, and the public are beginning to understand and appreciate the fact.

The town is situated on the Concord and Claremont Railroad, and is in communication with both of those places by two daily trains each way.

Passengers can also reach Kearsarge by the northern side, by taking the trains of the Northern Railroad for the station called Potter Place, and thence by stage to the Winslow House, from which point the ascent may be made. The hotel is well kept, and is a popular summer resort, well worthy of the increasing patronage it receives. It will be under the charge of Alvin Peavy, Esq., the coming season.

An hour's ride from Warner, on the railroad, brings us to Sunapee Lake. This body of water is near the summit of Sunapee Mountain, eight hundred and twenty feet above the level of the sea. It is nearly ten miles in length, and varies in width from half a mile to a mile and a half, and the water is very pure and transparent. The outlet of the Lake is Sugar River, which flows into the Connecticut. A slight amount of digging at the eastern extremity of the Lake would so change its course as to turn its waters into the Merrimack.

The completion of the railroad "over the summit" to Claremont has openec to the public this vicinity as a summer resort, and a good hotel was opened for their accommodation, securing a large patronage. An unfortunate conflagration, just as the house was put in order for this season'k business, has leveled it to the ground, and what will be done for the public accommodation this season we are unable to state.

Was it the Shovel?

[Covington News.]

Yesterday afternoon a reporter of the News was attracted to a group of whites and blacks who were concentrated around an aged colored man. Around his head he wore a red bandana handkerchief, which served the purpose of a bandage. Drops of blood were plentifully sprinkled over his clothing, and he was explaining how they came to be there. "D'ye see," said he, "me an' Geoge Turnah wah workin' down on de coal flats ob Singleton and Montgomery b'low heah. We wah shobelling coal, and Geoge got hold ob my shobel. Says I, 'Geoge, I want dat shobel.' Says he, 'Whistle for it.' Says I, 'I'll whistle yo' eye fo' it.' An' just as soon, folks, as I said dat dar, I didn't no nuffin'. When I comed to, de shobel wah dar, but Geoge Turnah, he had absconded, leabin' me lookin' like a doctor shop. I couldn't swah fo' God dat Geoge Turnah hit me, but I kin take my oaf de shobel did, an' it appeahs to me Geoge ought to know somethin' 'bout it."

—Some time ago Governor Tilden had a stye on his eye, and a surgeon was called, who lanced it. But in doing so he severed the elevator muscle, since which time the Governor has had no control over his optic, and it strolls about in the socket whichever way to it seemeth best, and now Eli Perkins sees in this deformity clear evidences of paralysis.

—With the usual ingenuity of his kind a Middletown, N. Y. compositor has made calculations showing that the work of the type-setter is by no means as easy as some people imagine. He has figured it out that in the course of a year's type-setting the average compositor will put up more than seven million separate pieces, which, with the distribution of the same, requires more than fifteen million motions of the hand.

—A member of the committee having in charge the up-river excursion the other day, gave the following explicit instructions, in writing, to one of the ticket-sellers: "Sell to no d—d fools." His stock of tickets remains on hand, and will be turned over at the proper time.

—A boy in St. Louis was recently presented with a jack-knife, with which, boy like, he cut and marked everything that came in his way, from the dining-room table to the cat's tail. A few days after he had become the happy possessor of the knife, his father was startled by seeing two men bring home the young hopeful in a very dilapidated condition. His face seemed to be cut and bruised, and covered with blood. The father, of course, was very much alarmed, and inquired of the boy who hit him. "Nothing didn't hit me, sir," the boy answered, between his sobs; "it was only a mule kicked me in the eye." "A mule kicked you in the eye, eh?" repeated the father. "Haven't I told you a thousand times or more that mules and gunpowder were not fit things for boys to fool with? What were you doing to the mule?" "I wasn't foolin' with 'em at all," said the boy; "I was only trying to cut my name on his back."

Jottings.

A petition is in circulation to widen Hunking street.

The oldest inhabitant don't remember such a run of dog-day weather as that which we are enjoying the present season. Perhaps not; but they gave us just about such a roast last summer.

Another Sunday camp meeting train is to run from this city to Seabrook Aug. 22, leaving Portsmouth at 9:20 A. M., and returning at 5 P. M. Fare 60 cents, for the round trip.

The Portland Encampment of Odd Fellows visited the Navy Yard on Thursday morning and returned home on the 10:32 train.

The Congregational Church at Kittery Point will have a grand praise meeting next Sabbath evening. Dr. E. B. Goodall is to conduct the meeting.

The daughters of Rev. J. K. Aldrich of Rye are to give an entertainment at the Kittery Point Congregational church on the evening of the 24th inst., for the benefit of the church. Will consist of select reading, and vocal and instrumental music.

The decorations in front of the Kearsarge House and Franklin Hall on the occasion of the recent visit of the Odd Fellows to this city were furnished by Mr. Thomas S. Gay, 72 Market street, who has on hand at all times a supply of bunting which he will furnish at the shortest possible notice.

At a town meeting in Chatham, Mass., thanks were voted to Mrs. Heman Eldredge of Chatham, Mr. Marcellus Eldredge and Mr. Heman F. Eldredge of Portsmouth for the gift of a hearse of a most beautiful design and finish, which was presented as a token of regard for their native place.

The examination of the three young men, George Chesley, Thomas Conners and Leslie Norman resulted in holding the former, Chesley, in the sum of $3000, and the two latter $2000 each. Messrs. Andrew Sherburne and George E. Hodgdon became responsible for Chesley, but the others have not yet obtained bail. The trial will take place at the September term of the Circuit Court at Laconia.

Tramps.

Foster's Democrat, says: Somehow almost every city and town seems to be pestered terribly with these itinerating fellows called tramps. But somehow again, Dover seems to get on without much trouble. Once in a while a hard looking vagabond turns in here and gets lodging under ground at the City Hall, but we never knew of the same fellow who wanted to try it the second time. It is a hard kind of a spot where they are put up, and it seems that they go for better fare in other places. A tramp or anybody else must be a hard specimen if he would take the chances of a lodging in that place. But hard as it is, it is an improvement upon the elegant mansion on Silver street. Now between these two abodes constructed and maintained for the wicked, we are on the whole very well protected. These perambulating nuisances are disposed to no very serious mischief in this neighborhood, because they appear to have a mortal dread of the superb apartments provided for their accommodation. So it will be seen that our old jail, with its dense population of vermin, and our police lock-up, with its dark and cheerless cages, are, after all, doing a really great and good work for this immediate community. Here is actually a very stubborn piece of logic in defence of the claims of these two retreats to perpetual existence. Were it not for the terrifying influences which they exert, we should, like Portsmouth and other neighboring cities and towns, be overrun with ruthless vagrants, carrying dismay all round amongst the innocent people. Probably this fact furnishes the true reason why the County wont build a new jail. It is conclusive, and we really can find no answer to it.

Line Upon Line.

[Nashua Telegraph.]

The Colebrook Sentinel, evidently misled by the People and other anxious organs that are laboring to divert attention from the Weston usurpation, holds the Republican members of the House responsible for the defeat of Mr. Bingham's bill to punish bribery and corruption at elections. There are two facts, which we have given before, but evidently must be repeated, line upon line, that show the relative position of the two parties on the question better than anything else can show it. Those facts are—

First—The same bill was before the legislature last year. After passing the House, it was amended in the Senate, just as it was amended in the House this year, on the report of Senator Sanborn, (Democratic President of the Senate this year,) by striking out Sections 2, 3, 4 and 5. (See Journal of the Senate, page 125.) After the passing of the act by the Senate, Senator Chandler (Dem.) moved to reconsider and the motion prevailed, 8 to 4, the Republicans voting in the negative. (See Senate Journal, p. 145) The House refused to concur in the Senate amendments, and the Senate voted to insist on them. (Senate Journal, p. 155) A committee of conference was appointed, consisting of Senators Sanborn and Chandler on the part of the Senate and Messrs. Bingham and Sinclair on the part of the House. They failed to agree, and the bill consequently failed to become a law. Thus, with a Democratic majority in both branches, and a conference committee wholly Democratic, the responsibility for the failure of this bill rests upon the Democratic party and nowhere else.

Second. The bill reappeared this year containing the obnoxious and unconstutional features which the democratic Senate eliminated from the bill last year. The House struck out the sections which Mr. Sanborn and his democratic colleagues struck out last year, and which they would have struck out again this year. With this only possible change of passing the bill, the republicans voted for its passage, on motion of Mr. Johnson of New Ipswich, 172 to 101. A two-thirds vote being necessary to the passage of the bill, it failed, the democratic leaders, with the most pliant of their followers, voting in the negative. Thus twice has the democratic party refused to put itself on record in favor of a measure offered by itself for the protection of the ballot box; and yet its organs have the consummate audacity to attempt to shoulder the responsibility for its failure upon the republicans. Nothing better, however, can be expected of papers that have proved their utter partisan subserviency by sustaining the Weston usurpation and the stealing of a Senate.

The Murderer Pemberton Attempts Suicide.

Geo. W. Pemberton, who is confined in the Suffolk county jail, awaiting execution for the murder of Mrs. Margaret A. Bingham, made a desperate attempt at suicide on Wednesday night, and although not successful, he now lies in a critical condition. He retired to bed early Wednesday night, as was noticed by the officer on duty, and apparently slept well. At an early hour Thursday morning, when the officers went to his cell, as is customary every morning, they found a large amount of blood upon the floor of the cell, and Pemberton's clothing was stained with blood. Sheriff Clark was immediately notified, and hastening to Pemberton's room found that the latter had made a very desperate effort to take his life, and had inflicted four wounds, one upon the left side of his neck, one in his right arm, one upon his breast, and a very serious wound in his groin. A messenger was dispatched for a surgeon, who, upon examination of Pemberton's wounds found that the only dangerous one was that in the groin, the other three being flesh cuts, none of which will prove fatal. Pemberton was then placed in the hospital, and is very weak from the loss of blood.

It has been anticipated for some time that he might attempt to cheat the gallows, as he is a man of strong will and has often said that he never would be hung. Recently he has been very much depressed, and a close watch has been kept on him, and he has not been allowed anything with which it was supposed he could kill himself. The weapon used to commit the deed was the handle of a table spoon, which he had sharpened upon the end by rubbing it on the brick flooring of his cell.

As to the chances of his living there is still some doubt, as the wound in the groin is a deep and serious one. If inflammation should set in, as is feared by the doctor, there would be no hope of his surviving, but otherwise his prospect of getting well is good.

At one time Pemberton probably entertained hopes of making his escape, as some time since there was found in his possession a skeleton key which was supposed to have been furnished by his son when on a visit to his father.

Roger Williams' Fate.

It seems that in searching for the remains of one of the fathers of religious liberty in America, says Mr. Rodney Welch in the Teachers' Monthly, almost nothing was found. The pick and spade removed the hard earth till a dark line was reached having the shape of a coffin. Below there were a few locks of silvery hair and some teeth, the things Byron tells us that decay soonest in life and remains longest after death. The dead form had disappeared and a living form had taken its place. The body of the old hero had become, not food for worms, but sustenance for an apple tree. A root had forced its way through the hard earth till it reached the coffin, whose lid it lifted, and whose contents it devoured. It had stretched itself over the skeleton and thrown out divisions over the extremities. These in turn had divided and showed the form and position of the fingers. A living form showed where a decaying one had rested. An apple tree had eaten up a man. From the food it had devoured it had produced blossoms the children of the grave digger had plucked, and fruit that he himself had eaten.

—An inhabitant of Montreuil, in France, named Deverdon, lately invented a parachute. Mounted on this machine, he felt confident, as did all his friends, that a man might drop with safety from the moon itself. Anxious, above all things, that no jealous rival should steal his discovery, M. Deverdon resolved to make his first trial of it by night-time. Accordingly, he climbed the roof of his house, posting three friends in the street below. It was clear, but very windy. The friends saw him on the roof, watched him complete his preparations, and heard him call out, "Ready!" At that moment came a blast sharper than before. The trees bowed and creaked, the witnesses all clung closely to their head-gear. Something dark was beheld for a second flying overhead; the wind passed and the house-roof was vacant. From this instant M. Deverdon has been no more seen of men. His parachute is supposed to have been successful. Not only did it guarantee him against falling, but it even lifted him in the air. At present they are dragging all the pools around Montreuil.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgement of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our work to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.
Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM

AND TONIC PILLS,

For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Scales, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

ZERO REFRIGERATOR

ZERO.

Why the improved Zero Refrigerator has taken precedence over all others:

It requires less than one half the ice to run it. It dispenses with the nuisance of having a drip pan under it. It is a refrigerator and water cooler combined. It has the dryest provision chamber. It is built in the best manner and style of design. It is the cheapest to buy and it is a perfect Meat, Fish, Fruit and Ice preserver. FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquelin and Barruell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain space of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which shower scarcely a trace of these belonging to the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?"—We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England,

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered it and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN,

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,

Picturesque Scenery and

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $30, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond can celled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

OHIO POLITICS.

When Noah and his ark were young;
When Samson the ass' jawbone swung;
When Solomon sang his sweetest lays
About the "old and better days,"
Bill Allen blew his fog-horn loud,
Unto an old-time Bour bon crowd!

In 1849,
Columbus crossed the ocean's blue.
He found the Aztec in his place—
He found the copper-colored race—
He found a land to white men new—
But here he found—Bill Allen, too!

When William Penn, with honest zeal,
Came here with Indian tribes to deal;
To buy what lands they chose to sell;
To treat them right and serve them well;
Old Billy raised his voice quite high,
And said it was—"A Federal lie!"

When Jefferson, and his compeers,
(Sages, soldiers, patriots, seers,)
Did up the Declaration draw,
Old William was the first who saw,
That, by another morning's dawn,
"Our liberties will all be gone!"

When Washington's Farewell Address
On patriot hearts made its impress,
Old Billy raised his voice once more,
And thus to all did loudly roar:
"Unto our party let us stick—
Down with this Abolition trick!"

And then, for many weary years,
Through wars, and strifes, and bloody tears,
Old Billy cursed the "Rads," and "Whigs,"
And all those new-born party sprigs,
But, by the sovereign people's will,
Packed up his "speeches" for "Fruit Hill!"

When Bill made more noise than Noyes,
Among the "Dimmycratic" boys,
His sun "rose up," but now its rays
Are darkened by ascending Hayes:—
Prophetic.
But "Roaring Bill!" will still live on,
And run for office when we're gone.

Among the apt wit and sarcasm of the Irish people is the saying that to fall from a building or other height is not hurtful, but it is only from getting hit by any destruction. Synonymous with this in morals according to the taste of lawless people in mercantile circles that conflagrations on land and wrecks on the ocean are a good method of effecting "a sale" through realizations on insurance policies. If all the people who thus use their tongues could be gagged, handcuffed and marched in procession—there would be a considerable outside show of very honorable company.

But dwelling upon and magnifying our own or other people's thoughtlessness and folly is good only to a certain extent. For what, among other thing do the inexpressible glories and beauty of New Hampshire scenery exist—for what its prolific soil—its gushing fountains? Is it not that we may be furnished with pleasant objects of contemplation when we turn away with disgust and loathing from the rum, tobacco and money-getting filth of humanity.

One item of particular interest is noticeable in a trip through the interior: flourishing fields of corn, garden patches of beans, tomatoes,—which are not sup-plants, but original stalks of first planting that to all appearance and in the common opinion were totally destroyed by the late heavy frost of last Spring—one man showed me beans which on the outside of the original he planted anew—the result is an excellent double crop.

The Lost Aeronauts.

In Grimwood's note-book was found the following. Evidently the introduction to his account of the ascension was broken off at the moment the two occupants of the balloon were overtaken by the calamity which precipitated them into the lake. The account is headed "Up in a Balloon," and continues:

"From the earliest dawn of childhood I have always had a presentiment that at some time, sooner or later, I was destined to rise. There are some people who make sport of presentiments, but, after all, presentiments are a handy thing to have around. Where would I be to-day if I had not had a presentiment? I have risen, as it were, to a point of order. Like a great many politicians I arose by means of gas. I regret the fact that there are only two of us, Professor Donaldson and myself, as I would like to belong to the upper ten. Professor Donaldson seems to be a very pleasant gentleman, although a philosopher and an aeronaut. Although it is scarcely an hour since I struggled into eminence, the restraint of my position is beginning to be irksome to me and wear upon my spirits. I cannot help reflecting that if we fall we fall like Lucifer out of the heavens, and that upon our arrival upon earth, or rather upon water—as we are now over the middle of Lake Michigan—we would be literally dead."

On Sunday night the steamer John Sherman, which runs on Lake Michigan between Muskegon, Mich., and Sheboygan, Wis., saw six miles from the Michigan shore the body of man with a life-preserver on floating in the lake. The Sherman being in a hurry to make connections with the cars, proceeded on her voyage without stopping. Reporting the discovery on landing, the tug Margaret proceeded to the point indicated on Sunday morning, but could not discover the body, which it is now certainly believed must have been that of Donaldson, the aeronaut. From the direction of the wind since there is hope yet of the body being driven up on the shore and recovered.

News and Notes.

The sanitary condition of Henry T. Helmbold promises to become as interesting to Philadelphians as the whereabouts of Charley Ross. On Tuesday the Philadelphia newspapers declared that Helmbold was in an insane asylum. On Wednesday the Press said that Helmbold visited its office on Tuesday, "looking as bright as when extensively engaged in business a few years ago." A despatch from Long Branch announces his arrival there the next afternoon. He expects to spend a few weeks at the seaside previous to resuming business.

Ex-Gov. John B. Weller, of Louisiana, died at New Orleans, recently, of smallpox, aged 70 years.

The Cincinnati Commercial congratulates itself as follows on the promised appearance of Henry Clay Dean in Ohio: "He is a man who says what he means, and he means the repudiation of the National debt. He does not take the trouble to preach up inflation as an intermediary process. He goes for repudiation first, last, and all the time. He is comparatively an honest man. When he talks we shall get at the true inwardness of the Ohio democracy."

Later advices give the North Carolina Constitutional Convention to the republicans, who have 61 members, the death of ex-Gov. William A. Graham reducing the number of democrats to 58, with one county yet to be heard from. This virtually decides that there will be no Convention, as it has all along been a part of the republican programme to adjourn the Convention as soon as it met, provided they gained control."

A young man in Indiana was excused from serving on a jury in a case because he had been married but two days.

William J. Cummings, was drowned, on the 19th, at Bristol Falls. He left Plymouth, in a small row-boat, in company with Frank P. Russell. As they were running the rapids near Bristol Village, the skiff capsized, and Russell being a good swimmer managed to save himself.

Dover has in undisputed possession a real, live, hale and hearty centenarian. Capt. Thomas Card, residing at the Point, was 100 years old Aug. 17.

The vote in Kentucky last year was as follows: republican, 53,000; democratic 114,348; democratic majority, 60,844. This year the democratic majority is 36,139, republican gain: twenty-four thousand, seven hundred and five.

A horse died in Nashua with the cerebro spinal meningitis.

Hon. Warren Lovell died in Laconia, recently, at the age of almost 73 years. Judge Lovell was born in Rockingham, Vt. He read law at Bellows Falls in that State, and began practice at Meredith Village in 1825, where he remained till 1843, when he came to Laconia. He was several times Representative from Meredith, two years Senator from that district, was Solicitor and also Judge of Probate for Strafford county, holding the latter office at the time Belknap county was set off from Strafford. He was then appointed Judge of Probate for Belknap county, and held the position till seventy years of age, when he was disqualified by the Constitution from holding it. He was Judge of Probate in the two counties over 33 years, and was President of the Belknap County Bank during its whole existence. It is understood that he accumulated a handsome estate.

Mr. Carruth, the Vineland (N. J.) editor who was shot by Landis, has returned to his home. His eyesight is still impaired by the bullet in his brain. He believes the ball is lodged just behind his right eye, and is seriously thinking of having the eye partly removed and the ball extracted, after which the eye can be replaced.

The republican majority on the popular vote in North Carolina is 18,000. Last year the democratic majority was 14,000. republican gain—thirty-two thousand.

R. J. Fifield, a farmer living in New Hampton, reports that three tramps made an attack on his house, but he having no arms, did not wish to have an encounter with them, so taking his family he made a retreat with them through a back door to a near neighbor's house. Leaving them, he and a friend, with guns, went back, and going into the house asked the tramps what was wanted, when they threw a volley of stones and departed. On examining the house it was found that during his absence they had entered, took what food they wanted, his wallet,—but it was empty—and some little change belonging to the children. It was evident that plunder was their object.

An old gentleman named Rankin, who is in quite feeble health, and living at North Sanbornton, left his home to pick berries, and not returning a vigorous search was instigated. Next day the missing man was found. He was benumbed and weakened, and it is thought doubtful if he recovers.

Arrests of alleged negro insurrectionists in Johnson, Washington and Jefferson counties, Ga., continue. Thirteen armed negroes came into Wrightsville and surrendered themselves. In Burke county a collision between the whites and blacks seems hourly imminent; both races are under arms and the negroes are reported massed a few miles from Waynesboro. White scouts were fired on by the negroes next morning. A number of volunteers left for Waynesboro, and it is feared a fight will soon take place. About 100 arrests have thus far been made in the different counties. About fifty more negroes have been arrested. Confessions implicating those arrested have been made. The people are confident of their ability to suppress any attempted insurrection. The ringleaders will be arrested. The excitement is subsiding. All the trouble was caused by a few worthless, turbulent and designing negroes, who live upon the credulity of the colored people.

Adna Perkins, of Lyme, met with a sad accident while mowing with a machine. He attempted to kick the grass from the cutter to prevent clogging, when his foot by some means got into the cutter, which cut his heel cord entirely off.

On Saturday morning, a deaf and dumb man named Hawlin, living in Dover, in entering the engine room of a shoe factory, stumbled, and in his endeavors to save himself he thrust one of his hand through a glass panel in the entrance door, cutting his fingers so bad that one of them had to be amputated, and also cutting his wrist nearly half off.

Jno. Steweat, thirteen years old, was drowned while bathing in the Merrimac river at Manchester, Friday. His body was recovered.

The withdrawal of Mr. Whitney, independent candidate for Congress in Oregon, was an unusual instance of magnanimity. The vote last year was divided as follows: democrats 9542, republicans 9320, independents 6350: and the democrats elected their nominee by a bare plurality. This year Mr. Whitney accepted the independent nomination with the understanding that the republican convention should ratify the choice, but this was not done, the republicans selecting Henry Warner as their candidate. Mr. Whitney has accordingly withdrawn, and the result will be to save the State for the republicans.

The Lynchburg Virginian (dem.) is of the opinion that, in consequence of the financial issue, the Republicans are certain to sweep the North and again leave the South in a pitiful minority.

During a heavy shower at Manchester, 20th, the water in immense quantities flowed into the boiler houses of the Amoskeag Manufacturing Company, put out the fires under the boilers and created steam which badly scalded Langdon Whitten, fireman, Chas. Gardner, F. Cameron and Peter Fleming about the face and arms. They had taken shelter in the building from rain. Medical aid was summoned.

It has rained in Washington. D. C., for thirty-nine consecutive days.

— Plunging into the rolling sea, and saving from a watery tomb some fair maid, with great black eyes and dimpled chin, thrills a young man with untold delight, but when the old gentleman slaps him forcibly on the shoulder and says: "There's nothing mean about me, young man, come in and take a drink," it is enough to make one rave with joy. There is no place like Rockaway beach for generosity and gratitude.

— A family in Clinton, Cal., believed that some of their enemies in the neighborhood turned themselves into cats and annoyed them. Acting upon this theory one of the sons shot at a cat, and, missing it, tried to kill a suspected neighbor. He and the rest of the family were arrested, and in court they swore with apparent sincerity to their hallucination. They will probably be sent to an insane asylum.

— The death is published of Mr. Edward Adams, of Stratford-upon-Avon, an amiable gentleman, well known to Shakspeare an pilgrims, to whom he was always kind and communicative. Mr. Adams was an antiquarian, and well acquainted with the associations of Shakspeare's birth-place. He died July 15, aged sixty-three.

— A certain hysterical woman is intensely hated by hotel-keepers, liverymen and others at Newport. She is wealthy, and her request that the commanders of vessels should not fire salutes there has been complied with. Consequently the harbor is no longer a rendezvous for yachtsmen.

How Jones Got Barreled Up.

Just before noon, yesterday, says the Detroit Free Press, Mr. Jones sat down on an empty barrel standing in front of a liquor store on Michigan avenue, and remarked that it was cheaper to lose two dollars' worth of time waiting for the car than to foot it nine blocks. Mr. Jones is long and lean, and doesn't weigh over 160 pounds. The barrel ought to have held up two just like him, but as he wriggled around to secure an easy position, the head fell in; Mr. Jones fell in after the head. It wasn't the best he could do, but no time was given him to plan and ponder. The first thing he knew after the crash was finding his feet and ankles over one side and his shoulders and head wedged against the opposite. His head was bent forward until his neck was nearly broken; his legs seemed to have been driven up, and he was right where the boys wanted him. He yelled out in smothered tones, and an aged lady who keeps an intelligence office near the scene of the accident, looked down from her window, and called out:

"Bub, we don't want any such fooling around here!"

"Bub be blowed — lemme out — help! help!" hoarsely replied Mr. Jones.

"Oh! young man, you are on your way to the gallows!" said the aged lady, and she drew back from the window and sighed.

Few people walk the streets at noon, and Mr. Jones yelled out many times before the grocer came out. He saw the feet sticking up, and he gave them a rap with a potato-masher and exclaimed:

"You boys deserve killing!"

"I'm a dying in here—help me out!" roared Jones.

"I'll die you, you old vagrant!" replied the grocer, seeing that the feet belonged to a man, and he gave the barrel a kick.

Four or five boys came around the corner, and when they discovered what was up one of them recognized Mr. Jones' voice. Looking into the barrel he asked:

"Is that you, Mr. Jones?

"Yes—yes!" gasped Jones.

"Are you doing well down there, Mr. Jones?"

"Oh! Heavens—lemme up!" cried the prisoner.

"Aren't you easy in your mind, Mr. Jones?" inquired another boy.

"I tell you I am dying!" shouted Jones as he tried to struggle around.

"I believe you are a liar," replied the grocer, as he gave the barrel a shake.

When he was convinced that the man in the barrel was not a vagrant or a beggar, he set about helping him out. He tried to lift him up, but Jones yelled for mercy, and the boys put in their talk and decided that the barrel should be tipped over. This was done, and while the grocer went after the hatchet to knock the hoops off, the boys rolled Mr. Jones up and down the walk "to cool him off."

"Do you feel better now, Mr. Jones?" inquired one.

"Have you any cramps in the stomach, Mr. Jones?" asked a second.

"Do you really and truly want to get out of that palace car, Mr. Jones?" asked a third.

And Jones howled and took on and tried to kick, and as the boys rolled him along he was heard making a solemn vow that he would kill every boy in Detroit if he ever got out of the barrel. The grocer finally came with his hatchet, and as he knocked at the hoops he said it was a pity to go and destroy a nice barrel like that in order to save one human life.

The staves finally fell in and fell out and Jones gave a yell and scrambled up.

"Ah! he's a man to play circus tricks!" exclaimed one of the boys.

"You bet he's the boss performer?" yelled another.

Mr. Jones clawed around and tried to get them, and as he limped away the aged lady in the intelligence office looked out of the window, and said:

"If that man doesn't go around robbing clothes lines, then I'm no judge of human nature!"

His Response.

He was a rough, farmer-like looking man, with a scar on his face and a limp in walk. He sat on a barrel on the levee, and was reading an old newspaper. In the paper was an article from the Vicksburg Herald entitled "How He Felt," and this article the rough, farmer-like looking man had been reading. He studied it very intently, and when he had finished threw down the paper, slapped his thigh and remarked vigorously:

"Them's my sentiments! That feller that said this American Union's jest the biggest thing a-goin', and that North and South shud jine in an' forgit old scores, and run this round world to suit themselves wuz sound! He wuz sound, and he might bev said more. He might have remarked that if it wos'nt for the blasted carpet-baggers that went down there after plunder, an' the old, never-say-die fire-eaters who give the carpet-baggers a shadder of an excuse for their doin's, an' the politicians an' one-sided newspapers North and South exageratin' things, we'd all bin good friends long afore this! That's what's the matter!"

Then the rough-looking old fellow limped about for a moment or two, getting more and more excited, finally breaking out again:

"He might bev said said that the way to be good friends again wuz jest to be nat'ral. It wuz too much fixin' an' fussin' and talkin' about bein' friends that made us waste years like a pack o' darned fools! He an' I cud hev talked the thing over an' had it all straight in half an hour; we'd jest fit our battles over agin an' each of us would hev admitted tother's pluck, cos each on us had a taste o' tother's style in the war, an' then we'd shook han's an' been all hunky! But, no! The blasted politicians wouldn't let us do it, an' the newspapers they took sides an' lied agin each other, an' one side said there wasn't any Ku-Klux, an' tother said there wasn't any thievin' carpet-baggers, an' both lied about the other, an' so they fou't the thing over agin without any object but to make bad feelin's, drat 'em! An' all the while Johnny an' I wanted to be good friends agin!"

Then the farmer-like man stopped for breath, but only for a moment.

"I fit with Sherman, an' I fit on principle! I marched to the sea with old Pap Tecumseh, an' I wuz in airnest. But when the war was ended I hung up the old gun, an' I don't want ter take it down again until I stan' shoulder ter shoulder with the butternuts, makin' it hot for any furrin power that doesn't think the old stars an, strips is purty! I know what a butternut is, an' he's jest sich another feller as I am, an' together we are a full team with a yaller dog under the wagon! Oh; we couldn't jest prance up to Mexico or Canada, or any other place! Oh; no!"

Then the old fellow picked up his paper again and stuck it in his pocket, chuckling as he walked off:

"I'd like ter meet that Vicksburg feller an' grip him onst by the fist. He's a hoss, and he's got the idea! He's a Johnny ter help a feller keep down the darned trouble-making politicians! We've got the upper hand of 'em now, blast 'em! Bunker Hill helped, an' some good, square talk helped, an' the Centennial show'll finish the thing! An' then, p'r'aps Johnny an' me wont jest make Rome howl? Oh, no!"

— In a newspaper office in Australia there was at one time a tablet informing visitors that the editor could only be spoken to during business hours by purchasing tickets of admission at the door. The price was ten shillings for half an hour's talk.

Jottings.

The Eastern Railroad managers are to run a daily train to Alton Bay Camp meeting that will enable passengers leaving this city at 7:15 A. M., to arrive at Alton Bay at the early hour of 9:30 A. M., giving them an opportunity of spending nearly seven hours on the camp ground and returning at 4:30 from Alton Bay, arriving here at 6:45.

The Granite State base ball nine were greatly disappointed on Friday at the failure of the Farragut nine to put in an appearance at the Plains. It rained at Rye Beach, but only sprinkled in Portsmouth, after the hour set for the game.

All over the world Lea & Perrins' Worcestershire Sauce is appreciated for its excellent tonic, appetizing and flavoring qualities. Great popularity has induced numerous counterfeits which the proprietors prosecute with vigor. The genuine is distinguished by noting label and bottle, which bear the trade mark of Lea & Perrins' Worcestershire Sauce.

Mackerel fishing is a principal sport at the Shoals. The Laighton Brothers daily send out schooner loads of guests, who enjoy the fun amazingly. The boats return with good fares, and the crew and passengers with smiling countenances.

S-cents.

We see it stated, there is a great scarcity of cents throughout the country, the demand being much greater than the supply. O! ye penniless! come to Portsmouth at once;—here you will find cents in abundance, free and without price. The air is full of them. Open your window and—although you may not see it—a scent drops in immediately;—

Through the key hole of your door,
Through the crevice in the floor,
They come "creeping, creeping everywhere."

Talk about your beautiful snow! what is that compared with beautiful scents!

POND LILY.

— The San Francisco Chronicle tells a story about a couple of plucky youngsters in California that is worthy of being bound up in yellow covers. The children of Dr. Baker—Claude, aged twelve years, and Jenny, aged six or seven—having obtained the permission of their parents to go out deer hunting, started out early in the morning, taking a dog with them. The mother thought no more of them until evening. Then she became alarmed, and some ten or twelve miners started out in search of the children. Soon the mother became frantic. She heard an occasional gun fired off and knew that it was the men in pursuit of the lost children. She could not remain in the house another moment, and so started after the crowd. From the time she joined her husband and the other men she led the crowd until, about 3 o'clock in the morning, they heard a dog bark, and in another moment were with the children, who were instantly awakened by the noise. Then it was, "Howd'e do, mamma?" and "Howd'e do, papa?" and "Aint this a splendid tree to keep house under?" "We had to fight for it, though," said Claude. "See here—we had to kill the first settler," and sure enough there lay a California lion, one of the largest size, with a ball through his brain. Claude had shot him after dark. Jenny said the animal was crouched down like a cat, and not further away than across the room when they shot him. He sprang right into the air and tumbled at their very feet. Before starting from the house one of the men had put some biscuits in his pockets, thinking the children would be hungry, and these he offered them. "No, thank you," said Jenny, "we had quails for supper." They had taken matches, and Claude had shot the quails; those they had roasted on a stick, and of course they were not hungry.

— A Dubuque medical student has come to grief by reason of his remarkable technical knowledge. The young woman to whom he was attached one morning received the following note: "Dear Angeline; I am sorry to inform you that in consequence of a circumscribed subcutaneous inflammation, characterized by a pointed pustular tumor suppurating in the center of a curunculus, I am unable to enjoy the pleasure of your company to the Hippodrome. Ever, dearest, thine, Augustus." She read it; she rushed to his home in agony of apprehension, and found that he had only one of those things of which Job had so many. When she returned home her sensible mother told her that she had better drop that erudite young man; if married he would, doubtless, beggar his family by buying Latin dictionaries and such. The maternal advice was followed: and now A suffers from something wore than a curunculus.—Tribune.

— A lady residing in Lansingburgh hailed a passing car, with her little son, the other morning, to see him safely on the horse car for a trip to Troy. He stepped on board and scrambled for the front of the car. As he was going his mother said: "Why, aren't you going to kiss your mother before you go?" The little fellow was so delighted at the prospect of a ride and in such a hurry, that he hastily rejoined, looking back excitedly: "Mr. Conductor, won't you kiss mother for me?" And of course the passengers couldn't keep from smiling.

— A very tall and shabby-looking man, a fellow that reminded you of a vagrant letter from a font of forty-line paragon extra condensed, stepped to one of our bars, last week, and after having a glass of liquor into his long throat, blandly asked the bartender if he could change a $20 bill. The gentleman informed him that he could. "Well," said the tall one, with a sigh of satisfaction, "I'll go out and see if I can find one," and he plunged out into the cold world on his mission.—Louisville Commercial.

— "Let us lay our bones together," said a young lady sweetly to her companion at a picnic; and she held up a drumstick in a dainty way. But he said: "No, let us rather be one flesh." Then she put her doubled fist on the end of his nose and won the first blood.

— The fiddler of a minstrel company ran away the other day in debt to the manager, at which the manager facetiously declared that he had engaged the fellow for a fiddler, but he had taken the part of a base violinist.

—A resident of Pittsfield, Mass., publishes his belief that there are separate heavens for men and women. His argument is that in life all the trouble arises from a mingling of the sexes.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgement of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

RATTAN WARE
MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEM & PAGE'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier of the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied cy him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or caused into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM

AND TONIC PILLS,

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is on the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself; it left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health.

MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainte who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

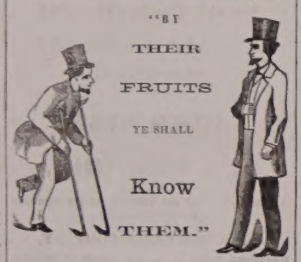
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in, the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wollaston, Fourcroy, Vauquilin and Barruel.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing.

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the urine excreted, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof and medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is stated as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts lonely, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $2,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 20 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe, you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

Just So.

It is humiliating to see a man in Mr. Beecher's position lending himself for hire to the proprietor of a hotel for the purpose of drawing trade. Mr. Beecher can take a company of satellites to a hotel, and receive board for weeks for his presence, sermons, Scripture readings, and prayers. This is revolting to a common sense of decency, and if Mr. Beecher can see in it nothing low, mercenary, and unworthy his profession, the more's the pity. Those who in the olden time bought and sold sacrificial offerings were first-class merchants in comparison to one who will board around on prayers and prating.—Boston News.

Very true; but Mr. Beecher must do something to keep his spirits up; and he is not earning any money now except his salary from Plymouth Church; and the raising of that $80,000 bonus is not the light work the voting of it was. It pays the landlord of the Twin Mountain House to keep him in his best style, and to furnish him four-in-hands when he wishes to take a drive after the morning prayers. He keeps the house full with brethren and curiosity hunters, and its a big advertisement for it. Thousands come to hear him preach on Sunday, and the landlord must pick up many a pretty penny among the multitudes. Of course, a man of good taste would not wish to be the phenomenon of the Twin Mountain Honse; but Mr. Beecher parted company with good taste, long ago. His present forte is cheek.—Sun.

The Toothache.

[Cincinnati Gazette.]

A gentleman says, after suffering excruciating pain from toothache, and having tried in vain to obtain relief, Betty told me a gentleman had been waiting some time in the parlor, who said he would not detain me one minute. He came—a friend I had not seen for years. He sympathized with me, while I briefly told how sadly I was afflicted.

"My dear friend," exclaimed he, "I can cure you in ten minutes."

"How? how?" inquired I; "do it in pity."

"Instantly," said he. "Betty, have you any alum?"

"Yes."

"Bring it, and some common salt."

They were produced; my friend pulverized them, mixed in equal quantities; then wet a small piece of cotton, causing the mixed powders to adhere, and placed it in my hollow tooth.

"There," said he, "if that does not cure you I will forfeit my head. You may tell this in Gath, and publish it in Askelon; the remedy is infallible."!

It was so. I experienced a sensation of coldness on applying it, which gradually subsided, and with it the torment of the toothache.

— You can tell a Southern girl at once. She is rounder than her Northern sisters, indeed she is never thin or lank; she walks with a languid step, and all her movements are slow and indolent; she is never alert. She has fine soft eyes with a serene expression, very different from the quick keen eyes of the North; she has not the beautiful red and white complexion of New York and New England; rather is she sallow, with a few rose tints; you might call her cream color. She never looks anxious, no matter what happens; she does not think she can help matters by her advice or interference, but sits back calmly and leaves everything to "brother" or "pa," pronouncing the latter word in a way I defy a Northern girl to imitate. The word might be used as a shibboleth; it is not exactly "pay," but half way between that and the sound of "a" in "cat." Our Southern girl dresses picturesquely rather than trimly, and has brighter colors and more floating ends and curls about her than a Northern belle allows. She has pretty, plump hands, but she is not particular about the gloves that cover them—I mean particular compared with Fifth avenue rules. In short she is a more voluminous sort of a girl in every way, and cares less about the "fashion." She has one decided advantage over the Northern girls, however, and that is her voice; it is sweeter and lower, a little trainante, perhaps, but essentially gentle and womanly.—Cleveland Herald.

— Speaking of Mr. Shearman's speech in London in which he said it "was the common practice in the United States for gentlemen and clergymen to kiss the wives of their intimate friends," the Christian Intelligencer discourses after this fashion: "We can assure Mr. Shearman that outside of Plymouth Church, and perhaps of his own domestic circle, the wives of American gentlemen do not permit their most intimate male friends, who are not near relatives—not even when they are clergymen—to kiss them; and, moreover, if such as he or Mr. Beecher should attempt it outside of their special clientelage, they would speedily be made intimate friends with serviceable horsewhips by indignant husbands, laid on so heartily that they would not soon be in a condition to repeat the insulting familiarity."

—Jacob Putnam, Esq., of Wilton, has a field of corn covering about twelve acres, some of the stalks being ten feet in height and each having ten ears on them. It is estimated that the whole yield will be 1200 bushels of ears and an immense amount of fodder.

The Fatal Balloon Voyage.

Further particulars of the finding of the body of Grimwood, reporter, Donaldson's sole companion in the balloon which sailed away from Chicago into a tempest over Lake Michigan, five weeks ago, are received in the Chicago papers. The body, as has been stated in our despatches, was discovered by Mr. Beckwith, who carries the mail between the towns, of Stony Creek and Montague, Mich., on the shore of the lake. The circumstance is thus described in the Chicago Tribune: Mr. Beckwith, during his trip along the lake shore, noticed a peculiar smell, and was attracted by it to look along the beach in search of a cause. He relates that when he came up to the body it was lying on the beach, partly covered by sand. Decomposition had set in, and Mr. Beckwith describes the scenes as horrible to the senses. Never having seen Grimwood, he was at first at a loss to know who the dead man might be; but conquering his repugnance he approached the body and examined it. There was fastened around the waist a life-preserver, but it had been broken and was of no sustaining power. In the pockets were found a diary, having a few entries of dates, memoranda, of engagements, money transactions, addresses, and some brief catch-words, probably to be understood only by the maker. There was in the book a card numbered 29,623, and having the following words printed and written below:

N. S. GRIMWOOD,
325 Van Buren street,

is entitled to draw books from the Chicago Public Library. This card must be presented whonever a book is taken, returned or renewed.

There was other printing on the card having reference to the rules of the library. In the same pocket was also a letter addressed to "Newton S. Grimwood, Joliet Sun," and signed by a man named Sullivan, as "City Editor, Journal." In another pocket were found several sheets of paper without lines, and on some of them were notes and expressions having evident reference to the writer's journey in the balloon, and giving some impressions of his at different times. There was a watch in the vest pocket. The body had on a full suit of clothes, excepting boots and hat, and the preparations made by tightly buttoning the coat and putting on the life-preserver seemed to indicate that the young man had prepared to swim, and might have succeeded in sustaining himself above the surface for some time had the life-preserver been of any use.

A special despatch to the Chicago Inter-Ocean contains the following facts and inferences:

Judging from the appearance of the body, no bones were broken, although portions of the flesh were worn off the face and the bones of the feet and hands were bare. It was fearfully swollen, and the skin was broken in several places, and the intestines were protruding. A more horrible sight could not be imagined. There was nothing to indicate as to how death was met, whether the balloon was struck by lightning or collapsed in mid-air, and the body fell to the surface, bursting the life-preserver; or whether the balloon struck the water and was rent in tatters, leaving the men to battle with the waves, only at last to be drowned: or whether, as has been suggested, Grimwood and Donaldson drew lots to see who would jump from the basket, and the choice fell to the latter. But in that case what became of Donaldson and the balloon? The opinion prevails among those who saw the body that the aeronants found that the balloon could not remain in the air, and they saw that they must strike the water, and prepared for the worst by putting on their life-preservers; that the basket struck the surface and filled, and being virtually at anchor, the balloon was torn to shreds by the gale which was blowing and the men who were left afloat in a heavy sea in which no man could live for any great length of time, even though he had a life-preserver on. But these are only speculations; a more careful investigation, and the possible discovery of the balloon, may finally disclose just how the disaster occurred.

News and Notes.

John H. Goodale has been elected Superintendant of Schools for Nashua.

There is an unusual amount of sickness in Lebanon.

Mr. Bidwell, one of the candidates for Governor in California, owns a ranche at Chicago, where he resides, which is 22,000 acres in extent, and comprises immense wheat fields, orchards and vineyards.

Luther Fitts' barn, in Chester, was struck by lightning, and destroyed with twenty tons of hay and a yoke of oxen. Loss, $1200; insurance $500.

The Boston Transcript says that General Grant was wholly astonished and three-quarters annoyed by the public demonstration at Burnside's clam-bake.

Boyle and Fowler, the locomotive stealers of Sing Sing, who were arrested at St. Louis have confessed that they had committed four burglaries in St. Louis, and that on the night they were arrested they were to have robbed the Fourth National Bank of St. Louis. A diagram of the bank was found in their effects, also keys to the rear door. In the vault that night there were $30,000, and they say they could have entered it in two hours, when they would have started for South America. Diagrams of other banks in St. Louis and of two prominent banks in Chicago were found on them.

A well known married man named John L. Kates was before a magistrate at Philadelphia, Tuesday, charged with having committed a fiendish assault on a young lady named Pemberton. Recently she attended a picnic, and when she returned he knocked her down, beat her in a brutal, cruel manner, and then tore all her clothes from her body, and, after pouring burning fluid over her, set her on fire and endeavored to burn her alive. Had it not been for the interference of some people in the house his design would have been consummated. On the previous Friday he whipped her in a brutal manner, at the same time swearing he would disfigure her so that she would not be able or fit to go out. Kates is held in $2,200 to appear at court.

The trial of Major, the alleged poisoner before the Circuit Court at Nashua in September, will last about a week.

The special excise constable of Biddeford has been convicted of keeping a saloon wherein unlicensed liquor was sold.

While a lady was bathing in the surf at Atlantic City she was dashed on the beach with such violence that her arm was broken.

The Weekly News is a new paper issued and edited by Mr. Wm. M. Kendall, Jr., at Lebanon, and we could not wish it anything but success on account of its neatness and general makeup. It is strong in the local department and promises well.

The Toledo Blade publishes the following article, based on private information regarded by that paper as entirely trustworthy: "There is a rumor afloat to the effect that the condition of the Governor's health is such that his withdrawal from the gubernatorial contest is quite probable. His personal friends desire him to withdraw for the protection of his health and the prolongation of his life, while his political friends regard his defeat for Governor as certain, which result would be disastrous to his Presidential prospects. By his withdrawal from the gubernatorial contest, and the placing of some other man at the head of the ticket, defeat in October would enable the friends of Allen to go before the National Convention with the plea that he is the only democrat who can carry Ohio. Thurman and his friends bitterly oppose Allen's withdrawal under any circumstances, as they expect to make capital in the National Convention by the defeat of Allen and his unlimited inflation scheme. These rumors are now afloat among certain inner circles of the democratic party, and should a change be made in the head of the democratic ticket, it may be looked for soon."

The following is an entirely new feature for an agricultural society, but the idea should be encouraged and we trust that the towns which are embraced will each strive hard to secure the very liberal prizes offered: Among the premiums offered for the Oak Park Fair, is a novel one by Prof. James D. Vose of Francestown, and D. H. Goodell of Antrim: a premium for the best ungraded school of not less than fifteen pupils, next winter, the award to be upon the management, conduct and appearance of the schools, aside from mere scholarship. Each town superintendent is to report the best school in his town to the judge appointed by the Association, who will visit the schools and make the award about Jan. 1st, 1876. The towns embraced are Antrim, Bennington, Dublin, Francestown, Greenfield, Hancock, Lyndeboro', Peterboro, Temple, or so many as respond through their superintendents. The first premium, offered by Prof. Vose, is a set of Chambers' Encyclopedia, 10 volumes, costing $40; the second premium, by Mr. Goodell, is Lippincott's Biographical Dictionary, 2 volumes, costing $15.

Senator Wadleigh, coroner of the inquest upon the body of Sheriff Wallingford of Milford, is of the opinion that Wallingford was shot by some pretended friend who stood directly in front of him when he fired, and that he quite likely used Wallingford's revolver.

Mr. Samuel Langley, of New Durham, is a school law unto himself, as thirteen of the fourteen children that attend the district school are his, and he is keeping four others in reserve.

One of the most courteous and plucky conductors in this region is Mr. Williams of the Maine Central. Saturday noon about a dozen fellows belonging in Lewiston, who have been at work on the coast, came up on the Knox & Lincoln train. At Bath they obtained liquor, and at Brunswick filled up with beer which fairly crazed them. The party took possession of the smoking car on Mr. Williams' train, and were making a great disturbance, when he endeavored to quiet them. This proceeding they objected to and finally one stepped up and told Mr. W. that he was the best man and that he would make as much noise as he chose. Williams collared the fellow, and had him out of the car before he had time for another treat. Meantime the road men had entered the car and pressed the other men forward. They shied from the front prevented by baggage—Master Whitney standing on the platform and passed them to the affectionate arms of Williams who stood at the car steps. As they passed down one after another, Mr. W. took a secure grip on either side of the collar, and did not let them touch ground till they lay on their backs in the middle of the main track. This sobered most of them, and he finally consented that all but the two ringleaders should go on the train; and he never had more quiet passengers. The others got sober enough to come up in the even ing.—Lewiston Journal, 16th.

A Graveyard Monopoly.

[Manchester Mirror.]

For several years, Patrick Devine, a worthy Catholic Irishman of this city, has been appointed one of the city sextons, and has had a monopoly of the undertaker's business at the Catholic Cemetery. A few days since a Mr. McMahan, who judged that there was business enough in the city to support two Irish undertakers, came here and opened a well-stocked undertaker's shop on Manchester street. He also brought a new hearse, and was fully prepared to do any business in his line. He came well recommended as a business man and a Catholic, and soon after his arrival waited upon one of the priests to present his credentials.

At this interview he was informed in effect that the Catholic burying business of the city was farmed out to Mr. Devine, and that he must not attempt to divide it. Still McMahan persisted in opening his shop and trying to gain a share of the business.

One day this week the wife of Michael Daley, a Catholic Irishman, died, and her husband bought a casket of McMahan and engaged him to furnish a hearse and carriages. He then went to the priest to have him perform the funeral rites, but was informed that the priest would hold no service over remains which were not to be buried by Devine, and further that no lot in the cemetery would be sold to a man who patronized an outsider. A friend of Daley's, however, offered to let him bury his wife in his lot, and he concluded to do so. But here he was met with another difficulty, in that Devine was the only man who had access to the cemetery. This was overcome by calling upon him as city undertaker to dig the grave, and this he agreed to do.

Yesterday afternoon the procession, under the charge of McMahan, carried the remains to the cemetery. It had rained like a flood all day, and when the friends of the deceased arrived with her body at the lot, it was found that the hole which had been dug had been left open and was half full of water, and that no person was present to take care of it; so that the friends were obliged to first bail out the water, and then, after lowering the coffin, to fill up the grave.

Beecher-Tilton Gossip.

[N. Y. Cor. Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.]

The time will come when the Beecher and Tilton trouble will be viewed from a subsequent standpoint, just as we now view the feud between Burr and Hamilton. The latter was no suddden affair. It was the growth of years, and yet might have passed off harmless had not unfavorable events precipitated the fatal result. One vote more would have made Burr president. That vote would have saved Hamilton's life. Burr was a bankrupt, he was disappointed, he was soured, and of course was revengeful. Hamilton was influential, popular, and progressive, and the contrast was enough to excite wrath. This is an explanation of the duel. Precisely thus stands the Tilton and Beecher feud. If Tilton had been retained on the Independent this action would not have been brought. It was occasioned by the contrast between the blasted home and the ruined prospects of the one and the brilliant position of the other—the dog Tilton and the Apollo Beecher. Under such circumstances men become devils.

Mr. Beecher has not only had bad advisers but his own folly is the worst foe. When the jury failed to agree, his friends determined to view the result as an acquittal. Every attempt was made by the Beecher press to give an eclat to what was considered a grand final. The injudicious preacher followed this example by announcing from the sacred desk "that he had gone through the Red Sea, while his enemies were stuck in the mud." This was very foolish, and the effect is to keep Tilton nursing his wrath. He is now determined to encore the performance and put Beecher through the Red Sea the second time. A still worse move on the part of the Beecher clique is the attempt to shove the cost on Plymouth church. It at once shows weakness of the defense. The whole thing seems to move in an artificial way. At first it was published that the lawyers in the fullness of their chivalry were to work without pay. Next it was announced that Claflin and a few rich friends were to assume the debt. Then comes the startling news of a vote at a packed meeting to throw the burden on the congregation. Such a thing was never heard of before, but the Beecher press is ready to thunder applause and again congratulations are handed round. The Tiltonians see through this ridiculous game. They now perceive the weakness of their enemy, and are more bent than ever on his destruction.

The condition of the campaign is this: Beecher claims to be acquitted, while Tilton's movements show that the law suit was but a part of the attack. He has gained a strong point in the destruction of the Beecher literature. There was a time when Beecher's name would sell any book that bore it. Now, however, his works are a drug. The worthy house of John B. Ford & Co. has been ruined by the scandal. What little capital they had is locked up in the "Life of Christ," which is dead. The damage thus sustained is a heavy one, but in war this is what is intended. The next point of damage is the Christian Union. This is not owned by Ford & Co., but they are its publishers and interested in its success. Beecher is a heavy stockholder and hence it is an object to strike him in this important point. The effect of this attack is found in the fact that Beecher has been compelled to abandon lecturing during the coming winter in order to apply himself to the paper. He must do all in his power to redeem its fallen fortunes. By the last of December its subscriptions will expire, and the attraction must be increased so that it will retain its hold. Beecher will have his hands full to attend to editorial work. My desire is that the paper succeed. It is an excellent sheet, and I urge on its managers the greatest possible effort to keep it afloat, for Tilton is bound to make them feel his wrath.

The next point of attack is Plymouth church. By accepting the liability to pay the $100,000 this institution takes the place of its pastor. To pay this sum the pew rents must be raised. Just at the time when the subscriptions to the Christian Union need renewal, the pews of Plymouth church will be also in the market. Mr. Beecher must keep up the brilliant and humorous style of his discourses in order to help the doubling of the rents. The church must prepare to bid up with a devotion approaching martyrdom. During all this time of commotions the Tiltonians are quiet. They have asked no one to pay their bills. They see that their warfare is succeding in a quiet and palpable manner and they intend to continue it. They enjoy the Red Sea as much as Beecher. They have cut him off from the lecture field, destroyed his books, driven his paper to the wall and placed his congregation under a burden which may lead to an internal quarrel. Such is the condition at present. The revival of the scandal is to be daily regretted. All decent people will be distressed, and many of Beecher's opponents will be led to sympathize with him. This, however, does not influence the Tiltonians. They are at war and intend to do all the damage possible without regard to public morals. This is a dreadful condition of things, but it is idle to deny its truth.

— "Eva, did you hear that lady's name that's come to see mamma?"

"Yes, Mrs. Abel."

"I wonder if she's the mother of those two boys mamma told us of. And one of them was naughty, you know, and killed his brother."

"What nonsense, Eva! Why, that happened ever so long ago! If she's anybody, she must be their grandmother."—Punch.

—A hunter named Brughman, living near Melrose, Minn., was taken ill, probably a month since, while in a lonely shanty, into which he had locked himself at night with his two dogs. Whether he died first or the animals, maddened by hunger, killed him, cannot be determined, but when his body was found last week but little more than the skeleton remained.

— Devoted Lover—Sir, I love your daughter; all that is necessary to complete our happiness is your blessing. Stern Parent—No, sir! my daughter has got to marry a wealthy man. Devoted Lover—I am one of the gaugers indicted by the Grand Jury ——. Stern Parent—Take her—bless you my children.

— A young man of Willmington, N. C., having a short leave of absence from his employer, remained away so long at a fashionable summer resort that the employer telegraphed for him to return, or he would lose his place. "Don't want the place; have a $200,000 girl in love with me," was the answer. But he came back in a week and took a place at $30 a month. He says that you can't sometimes most always hardly ever tell about these girls unless you bet—and then you're sure to lose.

—There is a false idea that the German language is not so graceful as the French, Italian or English, and that a German lady is never so winsome as the natives of other lands. How very false it is you soon feel as you see the intelligent females of the great German cities. A cultivated woman is the same in all civilizations, and now that the Paris fashion is the law of the gentler sex, from Russia to Mexico, from Australia to Amsterdam, in London and in Leipsic, in Berlin and in Boston, it is amusing to notice how little mere language changes the fair daughters of Eve. Their grace is the same in all climates, and I have met a German woman who at first looked so much like an American that, until she spoke, I should have sworn I had seen her in Philadelphia. France may be weaker than Germany on the field of battle, but Paris is the tailor, the hair-dresser, the customer of the world of both sexes. Worth, the man-milliner of the French capital, has a larger following than Moltke of Berlin, McMahon of Paris, the Duke of Cambridge in England, or Sherman in America. They only command male armies, but Worth fixes the fashions of the women of the civilized world, and Jew and Gentile bow alike before its magic sway. The cosmopolitan genius whose changing modes are seen in all grades of society can well treat the men with contempt as long as he supplies the wardrobes of the women—they pay and obey.—Col. Forney.

— They tell a story in France latterly about the young deputy who being drawn into a duel and called upon to fight with the pistol, was extremely nervous, and repeatedly said to his second: "My adversary will hit me, I know he will. I feel it in my bones." "Nonsense said the second. "Your adversary never hit anything in his life. He couldn't hit the side of a house, nor a flock of gravestones." The duel came off, and the young deputy was hit and pretty badly wounded in the shoulder. While he was down on the grass, with the doctor binding up the wounds, he said to the second pettishly, "Animal! I told you he would hit me! "Oh well!" said the second coolly, "that was because you stirred!" And the young deputy had to be contented with that as an explanation.

Assistant Paymaster George A. Deering is ordered to the Alarm at Newport, R. I.

Chief Engineer E. J. Whittaker is waiting orders, having been detached from U. S. S. Kearsarge.

About 300 passengers from Dover and this city, went to the camp meeting at Seabrook on Sunday by the Eastern railroad.

The Nursery for September has an excellent table of contents, just such an one as children delight in. Mr. Shorey keeps the Nursery up to the mark, and it is as popular as ever with the little ones.

Those who contemplate attending the Alton Bay camp meeting this week will do well to read the advertisement of the Eastern railroad in relation to camp meeting train.

The republicans of Eliot at their recent caucus made choice of William B. Hill, Thomas F. Staples, Augustus P. Shapleigh, Granville A. Remick and Samuel A. Remick as town committee for the ensuing year.

Hiram Gove was brought before Judge Page, Saturday, charged with committing an aggravated assault on Walter Akerman. He was held in the sum of $500 for appearance at the Circuit Court.

Communication with the White Mountains from this city is now complete by rail without change of cars. The managers of the Eastern railroad, with their usual enterprise and disposition to accommodate the wants of the public, have made haste to connect with the main line from North Conway, and now one can go to the White Mountains from Portsmouth or Boston via the E. R. R. and return the same day. Read the advertisement in another column in regard to time-table, &c.

A lady of this city on going into a room where her pet canary had been left alone, the cage being placed in an open window, found the cage bottom up on the floor, the bird having escape. He was not to be seen, and the manner of his escape was a mystery, as the cage door was fastened. The next hour was spent in vain regrets and occasional glances at the trees. An hour passed and she concluded to "dust" the room, and great was her surprise to see Johnny Canary perched on a clump of evergreens in the corner of the room farthest from the window, having steadfastly refused to leave that comfortable nook and fly out of the open window.

Governor Cheney is happiest when doing a kindness for some one else. The Manchester Mirror says he recently met a horse and top-buggy with two ladies, at Rye Beach. They had just stopped and got out, and seemed to be in trouble about the carriage. Governor Cheney alighted and found that the bolt had been lost out that held up the off shaft. He went back on the road on which they came till he found the bolt, took the string out of his shoe and wound it around in the threads for a nut, took off the check rein and made a hitch with that from the cross-bar to the axletree, making it more secure than ever, and sent them on their way rejoicing.

A Church Going People.

A correspondent of the Hartford Churchman tells a story, which he vouches as a veritable incident in the life of the late Rev. Dr. Charles Burroughs. The good doctor, then rector of St. John's Church in this city, was spending a vacation at the Isles of Shoals, which were then much more populous than now, in his rambles there came upon an old church. He made inquiries, and found that it had long been wholly unused, and that the people, for the most part, had not for an equal time, heard the sound of Divine worship. His soul was stirred for them, "as sheep having no shepherd." He called together some of the principal islanders and secured both their permission to hold Divine services there on Sundays and their promise to attend. He then caused the dusty and somewhat dilapidated place to be cleaned and slightly repaired, the broken panes to be reset, etc., at his own expense. Then, though he sorely needed entire rest, he undertook and held Divine services there for a succession of Sundays, and visited the people from house to house during the week, to do them good. The congregations were considerable, and always listened respectfully. At last the vacation was over. In his last discourse he bade them good bye, and gave to them his best counsel for the future. The Sunday passed away, and on the morrow he had just pushed off in the sailboat which was to convey him back to Portsmouth and his parish, when a man came puffing and hallooing over the hill. The doctor thought some new act of duty or mercy was required of him, and ordering the boat to return, at once disembarked and went to meet the messenger. He made known his errand. He brought the bill for the use of the church by the doctor for five Sundays. The people had held a meeting on Sunday and fixed a reasonable price. The doctor paid it and returned home.

—The Toronto Leader replies to an article in the Port Hope Guide under the heading: "A Snarl from a Country Puppy." The Guide retorts in one entitled: "A Squirt from a City Toad."

—Three months ago the Montana papers would have stated that a horse-dealer had been invited to a hemp-necktie sociable; now they say that the citizens have put a pull-back cravat on him.

—Danbury has the champion patient boy. He comes from a chronically borrowing family. The other day he went to a neighbor's for a cup of sour milk. "I haven't got anything but sweet milk," said the woman pettishly, "I'll wait till it sours," said the obliging youth, sinking into a chair.

Startling Depreciation in Value.

[Vicksburg Herald.]

A very intelligent old darkey was met by an ante-bellum friend the other day for the first time since the war, and the old man's delight in seeing one of Massa's tickler friends in old times was unbounded. After a hearty hand-shaking and a protracted laugh peculiar to the Southern darkey, the gentleman asked:

"Well, Uncle Joe, how are you getting along in the world?"

"Sorter slow, Marse ——. Been had rheumatiz right smart lately, and things aint gone 'zactly right no how," replied the darkey.

"A great many changes have taken place since I last saw you, Uncle Joe. Death has taken your old master away, the family are scattered about the four quarters of the globe, the farm is divided up, and strangers occupy the old house. It makes one feel right sad, Uncle Joe, to think of the changes that have been wrought by old Father Time."

"Yaas," replied Uncle Joe. "You 'member when I was a slave I worked hard at odd times, and made money 'nuff to buy myself. I paid old massa $1,000 for my freedom."

"Yes," said Mr. ——, "I remember it."

"Wish I had dat money now," mused the old darkey.

"Well, yes," replied Mr. ——; "it would be quite a fortune for yu."

"Lots o' fortune, sar," said the old man mournfully; "and every time I think about it I kinder rue de bargain. Nigger was wuff a thousand dollars then, but now he ain't wuff a cuss. Mighty changes in dis world, massa."

Forty Years Lost, But Found.

[Lebanon Free Press.]

Three weeks ago we published the following:

Samuel Lyon, of Newburg, N. Y., writes to the P. M., to see if he knows anything of the family of Edward Low, who lived here 25 years ago, at "West Village." He has important information to communicate.

There are two daughters of Edward Low living in town: Mrs. Cyrus Buck and Mrs. Morey. The former immediately wrote to Newburg. The result was that on Wednesday last Almadorus Low, a brother, who has been absent and unheard from for forty years, made his appearance. It appears that he learned the trade of a blacksmith of Stephen Kendrick, but went away when 19 years old. He followed the sea in various capacities; made several whaling voyages, and twice circumnavigated the globe. Had many narrow escapes, and once was shipwrecked on the island of Pernambuco, losing the whole cargo. Finally, tired of the sea, he settled at Newburg, N. Y., and there has for some years followed the trade of his youth. He says he wrote two or three times, but heard nothing, and supposing his friends all dead or removed from here gave it up. Finally he determined on one more effort resulting as above. He finds very little here to remind him of the Lebanon of 40 years ago. His age is now 59. He has a family, consisting of a wife and one child.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

THE COLOSSAL BRONZE STATUE OF VICTORY which stands in the Park, at Lowell, before the tomb of the first soldiers that fell in the Revolution, is a lasting and beautiful tribute of art. It is one of the first objects sought by strangers visiting our sister city, which indeed many visit purposely to see this elegant object of high art. It was obtained from the King of Bavaria by Dr. J. C. Ayer, to whom his majesty was especially gracious in acknowledgement of what his remedies are reputed to have done for the suffering sick. It was donated by the Doctor to the City of Lowell as a permanent and speaking emblem of the victories both of Science and Arms.—Hagerstown (Md.) Press.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than ten three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding section, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within such time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier—the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

— A farmer's wife in a Yorkshire town was assaulted by her husband in a field lately, where there was a cow that the woman had greatly petted. On seeing the man beating his wife, tearing her clothes and otherwise maltreating her, the cow came charging up the field and attacked the man with such ferocity that he was glad to retreat. The cow then took up a defensive position by the woman's side and stood perfectly still while the latter struggled to her feet and supported itself by leaning against its flank, until she had sufficiently recovered to take refuge from her husband in flight.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Scales, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a remedy to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum, and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGIS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

Utility, Durability and Brilliancy.

The following advantages are claimed for the

"BRILLIANT"
PANTOSCOPIC
SPECTACLES and EYE-GLASSES.

FIRST. That, from the peculiar construction of the Glasses and Frame, they assist and preserve the sight, rendering frequent changes unnecessary.

SECOND. That they confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision, with an amount of Ease and Comfort not hitherto enjoyed by spectacle-wearers.

THIRD. That the material from which the Lenses are ground is manufactured especially for optical purposes, and is Pure, Hard and Brilliant, and not liable to become scratched.

☞ The "BRILLIANTS" are unrivalled for strengthening and preserving the Eyesight, and for their lasting qualities. Every pair is stamped F. L. B., and can be procured only from Resident Agents.

☞ A full assortment of sizes, set in GOLD, STEEL, RUBBER and SHELL, of the FINEST QUALITY, and warranted not to break from any imperfection in the manufacture, can always be obtained of

ZERO REFRIGERATOR

ZERO.

Why the Improved Zero Refrigerator has taken premiums over all others:

It requires but a pan one half the ice to run it. It dispenses with the nuisance of having a drip pan under it. It is a refrigerator and water cooler combined. It has the dryest provision chamber. It is built in the best manner and style of design. It is the cheapest to buy and it is a perfect Meat, Fish, Fruit and Ice preserver. FACTS PROVEN
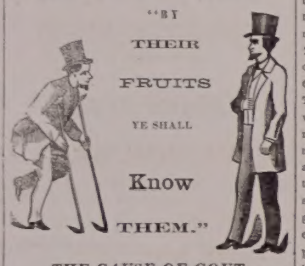
BY THE
TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Forneroy, Vanquillin and Barrnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative; he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

Pulmocine Cordial

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN,

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,

Picturesque Scenery and

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and romantic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

His New Watch.

It was a very good horse, but a better horse for a dead pull than for speed. The buggy was old-fashioned, with a crevasse in the dashboard and a spoke missing from one hind wheel. As the auctioneer raised his hammer, and told the crowd that he had known that horse all his days, and had made the circuit of the world in that buggy, the owner of the outfit leaned against the vehicle and wondered how any one could tell such a lie, and still preserve such a placid expression of countenance.

He was a young man. He had seen harvest apples and watermelons come and go about twenty-four times. His whiskers were soft and fuzzy and orange-colored, his pantaloons were thrust into his boots, and it was as plain as a white dog at midnight that he had come in from the agricultural country to sell the rig and fatten his wallet. He verified the statements of the auctioneer that the horse was sound, kind, gentle, docile, amiable, and that the buggy would continue to roll on until time should get tired of trying to reduce it to a state of general uselessness.

"Forty—five—fifty—five—sixty—seventy—five, going—last call—quick—can't dwell—g-o-n-e!" cried the auctioneer.

"Gosh to snakes!" exclaimed the guileless young man, as he settled up, pocketed the remainder, and left the corner.

He felt good. None of us feel good when our pockets are empty. I said to myself that he would buy hair-oil, a cocoanut, a bottle of perfumery, a jack-knife, a dollar chromo, a two-dollar diamond, a pair of pantaloons, with a stripe down the leg; but I was deceived. I thought I could read him as a bootblack spells out the big words on a Fourth of July poster, but he couldn't be read. He made a bee-line for a jeweler's.

The guileless young man has never owned a watch in his life, but he entered the store like a man who had pulled a watch from his pocket a million times per day for fifty years. He went right by the case containing the sleeve-buttons, on past the case of silverware, right up to the case where a hundred watches rested in velvet cases, or on velvet-lined trays. The jeweler handed out key-winders, stem-winders, stop-watches thin and gaunt, but ticking regularly and merrily. The young man soliloquized. He said to himself:

"I dunno. I dunno. It's durned purty, but it's a whole hoss and buggy!

The jeweler flattered him a little and urged him some more, and offered him a written guarantee that the watch was all right; and the young man soliloquized an other soliloquy. He said:

"Think of me walking up to Susan with this 'ere watch kicking minutes into hours! And won't the other fellows skulk around the cider-mill when this ticker shies up to their old bull's-eyes and varnished cases! There's a hoss-barn full of style and dignity right here; but then it makes me sigh to think of putting a horse and buggy into my vest-pocket!"

He laid the watch down, picked it up, laid it down again, and started for the door. Halting midway, he said to himself:

"I'll have it—by golly, I'll have that ticker, if the old man never looks me in the face again?"

He handed over the money, the jeweler gave him a cord for nothing, and he hurried out of the store, as if fearful that he might change his mind. Going around by the Post-Office, a bootblack asked him if he would have a shine. There was his opportunity. He pulled out the watch with a majesty air, sprung open the case, and loftily replied:

"I haven't time."

"Say you!" cried the boy, "but that's a nice ticker!"

"See there! see there!" whispered the young man with orange-colored whiskers; "when me and the old hoss and buggy was rolling along here nobody said nothing. Now they just come for me in crowds."

As he walked up the street to a point from whence he could view the City Hall clock his heart gave a jump. He trembled as he pulled out his watch to compare time, but after a glance his face cleared, he slapped his leg, and the boys heard him saying:

"She's right to a tick, and I feel zif I could holler like a drover."

He wanted to go home, and yet he had planned to remain all night. He was undecided when a small girl with a wart on her nose, bareheaded and barefooted, approached and asked him the time of day.

"Certainly, certainly," he replied, as he pulled out his watch. "It is just exactly ten minutes and a second and a half to 12 o'clock."

She passed on, and he kicked one foot out behind, poked himself in the ribs, and whispered:

"See there! This watch just brings folks around me like calves around a salt barrel!"

He decided to remain. He went to a hotel, and as he informed the clerk that he wanted dinner, he pulled out the watch and compared time. He went to the wash-room and pulled out the watch to see how long it would take him to comb his hair. As he sat down in the office it seemed to him all at once as if the time-piece had stopped. He pulled it out, held it to his ear, and a smile traveled clear around to his back collar button as he heard it ticking away.

"Oh, yes, this 'ere watch stops, it does!" he whispered; "it hain't worth an old white horse and a quill-wheel buggy, it haint!"

He looked at the watch as he sat at the table; he compared time after dinner; he pulled it out as he rode on the street car. When night came, the young man from School District No. 4 had a gigantic contempt for all men who don't wear watches. When he went to his room he made up his mind to sit up all night and "watch" for thieves. Some one had trailed him to the hotel, without doubt, and would murder him to get that time-piece. Then he got sleepy, and hid the watch between the beds. After five minutes he put it under the pillow. Then he got up and hid it under the bed. He felt easy for ten minutes, and then hid it in one of his boots, and hid the boot under the bed.

Dreams came to that young man as he finally slept. The old white horse came and stood over him with tears in his eyes, and then turned around and swallowed the watch. Thieves broke in and stole it. His sister's red-headed baby bit it square in two It took legs and ran away from him. At midnight he awoke, saw the moon was up, and as he got into his clothes he said to himself:

"It's only eight miles home, good going, and dum me 'fi don't walk right in on the hull fam'ly 'for daylight!"

We all differ, you know, in our make up, but then that was his first watch, and who culd blame him?

News and Notes.

Samuel Drake and Samuel Jennes have sold the privilege of mining mica, in their pasture in the town of Alexandria, for five years, to some parties for $1000.

The death of Rear Admiral Collins promotes Commodore Stephen D. Trenchard to the grade of rear admiral, but does not affect any officers below the grade of commodore. The law allows twenty-five officers of that grade, and the act of the last session of Congress reinstating Commodore J. C. Beaumont made an excess of one on the list.

A tramp and his wife were walking on the Boston and Albany track, between Natick and Framingham, Saturday afternoon, when the New York express, going east, frightened the woman, who stepped in front of a train from Boston and was instantly killed.

Norfolk, Va., has escaped the yellow fever this year, but the boat racing fever has reached there. On the 17th a ten mile race was rowed in an hour and thirty-six minutes, and twenty-seven seconds by the "Little Fraud," owned and sailed by Capt. E. M. Stoddard, and a considerable amount of money changed hands. It is not all kinds of races that are won with "little fraud."

J. Marcus Howarth, aged 34 years and unmarried, son of Dr. James Howarth, of Lawrence, Mass., was run over by a freight train between Andover and Ballardvale on Saturday and instantly killed.

Judge Settle, a prominent North Carolina republican, says it has been definitely ascertained that of 120 members-elect to the Constitutional Convention, fifty-nine are democratic, fifty-eight republican and three independent. Of the latter two it is thought will act with the democrats and one with the republicans, thus giving the democrats a majority.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln is reported recovered, and is now with her sister.

The sensation at Watch Hill this season is a remarkable lady swimmer, Miss Maria R. Audubon, grand-daughter of the great naturalist, who was taught to swim by her father almost before she could walk, and now ventures out to sea far beyond the most adventurous man in the place.

Seventy-six counties of Iowa show an increased population of 81,700 since the last census.

The careful Ohio correspondent of the New York Times, reviewing the campaign in that State, says that on a full vote he anticipates a sweeping majority for Hayes, and the prospects of getting out such a vote are excellent. The idea that any considerable section of the republican party in Ohio is tainted with the inflation heresy is pronounced absurd.

The yellow fever has disappeared from Key West.

What it Cost a Chicago Lady to Faint.

[Montreal Cor. of the Commercial Advertiser.]

"Oh, captain, captain, for heaven's sake put me on shore!" This was the exclamation of a Chicago lady of twenty-five years, who came down the Lachine Rapids this morning. She went up with us on the train from Montreal at seven o'clock and came down on the little steamer Aurora, which shoots the Lachine Rapids every morning, bringing her passengers to Montreal in season for breakfast. There is not the least possible danger. The little Aurora has been down those same rapids every summer morning for the last six years without accident, but there are always those who are alarmed at the peculiar motion of the boat and at the sight of the big waves that dash on her prow, and the ugly rocks that beset her pathway. There are always some women on board who see horrible death staring them in the face all the way from the wharf at Lachine, until the boat passes under the Victoria bridge at Montreal. The excitement this morning was begun by a Chicago lady. It was "so beautiful" she said, as the boat started on the first gentle decline. But she changed her tune as she approached the great white-caps. "Edward," she said to her husband, "I am not going through that place. I want you to ask the captain to put me on shore." "Nonsense, Kate, there is no danger. Keep quiet; I'll take good care of you."

"You take go care of me! What could you do if the boat struck one of those bowlders? I tell you, Edward, I will not go down there, and that's the end of it. Once more, I tell you, ask the captain to put me on shore."

"Kate, I am ashamed of you. I shall not ask the captain to do any such thing."

Poor Kate began to look serious. Meanwhile the steamer came nearer and nearer to the ugly rocks. Suddenly she started with a rush to the captain whom she saw standing at his post by the wheel-house. "For Heaven's sake, captain, put me on shore." It was a frantic shout, and as it came to the ears of the passengers it alarmed them. They began to look serious, too, and with one accord rushed to hear the answer of the captain. Poor man, it was a trying situation for him. He saw the poor woman's condition, and that her anxiety was shared by many of her sister passengers. He could only say, "It is impossible, madame." "Impossible," shrieked Kate, impossible. Oh, my God. I—feel—faint. Save me, Edward, I fall." The word was no sooner out of her mouth than the act followed. She keeled over in the prettiest little faint I ever saw. But she was unfortunate in the selection of the place where she fainted. Had she fainted in the stern, her husband would have been several dollars in pocket. For there chanced to be a tub of fresh raspberries just by the wheel-house—a tub with a wide mouth—in fact a washtub. What possessed Kate to faint into this tub of raspberries is more than I know. But one thing is certain, she will never wear that gray silk dress again. Of course Edward was right on hand, and so was I, and so were a dozen others. We snatched Kate from out the raspberries in a twinkling, and by dint of smelling bottles, buckets of water, continuous rubbing and a flood of endearing epithets, managed to restore her to consciousness just as the boat touched the Montreal wharf. Edward paid for the raspberries at ten cents a quart, $5 10; the dress was a new one, and cost just an even $100; a pair of striped Balbriggan hose, very pretty, by the way, were $1 50; a lace handkerchief, with an embroidered Cupid in one corner, was valued at $6; sundry other things, such as 1 pair five-button kid gloves, light brown chignon, 1 very long bustle, etc., counted up $20 more. All these things were ruined completely, so that the exact cost of Kate's $132 10. What a joy is there in a fainting wife? How many men there are who are spoiling just for the reason that they have no little fainting wife to care for? But what were the other passengers doing meanwhile? Of course half a dozen fainted in sympathy with Kate. What would the world be without woman's sympathy? One woman dropped her infant as she collapsed and when she came to demand it of the bystanders, none of them had noticed it. "Give me back my little Euphremia," shouted the despairing mother. Search was at once instituted, and at length rewarded. A gentleman saw a pile of rags underneath one of the settees, and as a last hope pulled it out. It was Euphremia, and such a jolly baby you never saw. It was about dead with laughter. Not a tear did it shed for the ugly bump over its left eye, so amused was it at the sight upon the deck.

Parson Brownlow on Andrew Johnson.

[Knoxville (Tenn.) Chronicle.]

In one respect, at least, ex-President Johnson was a model statesman. He was honest. Whatever men have said of him politically, no responsible man ever called his unflinching integrity in question. He was in public life almost half a century, yet no man can say that he ever betrayed the confidence of his friends by taking that which did not belong to him. His character in this respect was so well understood that he was scarcely, if ever approached, by a dishonest lobbyist with a corrupt proposition. This is one of the principal reasons why he was always so strong with the masses. His personal integrity always gave his political policy special weight, and thousands relied upon him without giving questions much investigation, knowing his personal incorruptibility. He was very scrupulous in refusing to give any sort of aid to enterprises which he could not conscientiously approve. Just after his election to the United States Senate, in January, he gave an illustration of this. A prominent politician from Pennsylvania, representing a company interested in the Alta Vela Isles, wanted him to send a war vessel to the above-mentioned islands just before the great impeachment trial commenced. He attempted to make use of what he considered Mr. Johnson's embarrassment at the time in accomplishing his object. But the President spurned him, and gave him to understand that his official sanction for measures in which private parties were interested was not to be procured in that way. He always had a policy of his own, taking decided grounds on all public questions, and was never swerved from his purposes deliberately formed by the desire for personal gain. By exercising frugality he saved sufficient from his earnings through a long public life to place him above want, but was not wealthy. What he had was justly his own, and he came by every dollar of it honestly.

This trait in his character is worthy of emulation by all public men. His boundless success is evidence that the American people appreciate honesty in their rulers, and that when they find such they will reward them with their confidence and support.

—People who have been bolstered up all their lives are seldom good for anything in a crisis. When misfortune comes they look around for somebody to cling to or lean upon. If the prop is not there, down they go. Once down they are as helpless as a capsized turtle, and they cannot find their feet again without assistance. Such persons no more resemble men who have fought their way to position, making difficulties their stepping-stones and deriving determination from their defeat, than vines resemble oaks, or spluttering rush-lights the stars of heaven. Efforts persisted into achievements, train a man to self-reliance; and when he has proved to the world that he can trust himself, the world will trust him. One of the best lessons a father can give his son is this: Work; strengthen your moral and mental faculties as you would strengthen your muscles by vigorous exercise. Learn to conquer circumstances; you are then independent of fortune. The men of athletic minds, who left their mark on the years in which they lived, were all trained in a rough school. They did not mount to their high position by the leap of leverage; they leaped the chasm, grappled with the opposing rocks, avoided avalanches, and when the goal was reached, felt that, but for the toil that had strengthened them as they strove, it could never have been obtained.

—A well-informed correspondent of the Hartford Times relates interesting and suggestive incidents in the history of the negro Rivers, who is named as being the head and front of thethreatened insurrection in Georgia and South Carolina. Before the war he was a slave owned Mr. H. M. Stuart, of Branford, S. C. He was Mr. Stuart's coachman, and was said to be the finest looking negro at the South. In 1862 Gen. Saxton sent him North in charge of a clergyman, who exhibited him in public meetings as a fair specimen of the plantation negroes. After getting all the money they could they returned to the South. Rivers purchased a lot of the abandoned property of the Government and went in as a planter. Not succeeding in this he went into one of the colored regiments. After the war he turned up in one of the country parishes, where he was elected to the Assembly. He became one of the ring of scalawags and carpet-baggers consisting of General Scott, of Ohio, Whittemore, of Massachusetts, Dennis, of Connecticut, Moses, Small, De Large, Bowen, Whippler, and others of that sort. The militia was organized, and from a subordinate official position Rivers has risen to the rank of Major-General. He is a man of unbounded ambition and much influence, and it is thought that it will be found that this spirit of insurrection pervades other States. The idea among the negroes that the land is theirs, and that their fathers earned it by their labor, has been preached to them for years, until they have become imbued with that feeling to such an extent that a war of races would not be the most surprising occurrence of the day.

—"Jane has got a very nicely-turned ankle, hain't she?" said John to his wife the other day. And then John noticed a strange, unearthly gleam in the eye of his spouse, which made him feel very uncomfortable—he knew not why. But the next day the place which Jane had filled in the domestic economy of the household was occupied by a middle-aged woman with ankles like those of a Mullingar heifer.—Milwaukee News.

—There were some trifling inaccuracies in that little story about General Cass having once been President of the United States over Sunday, the chief of which are that Mr. Filmore was in Washington at the time of General Taylor's death, and that General Cass never was President of the Senate, so that he wasn't the man who would have been President pro tem if Filmore hadn't been on hand.

—Talk about adding insult to injury! Wait till you have been treated as that baldheaded man from Fort Wayne was, out in Missouri. First they took away his watch and all his money, and then, to come a joke on the night train, they rubbed his head with phosphorus and tied him down on the track with a label attached to his coat, "Latest danger signal—patent applied for."

—A New London man has a fine dog which he is educating by throwing sticks into the water, and making the dog bring them out. The other day the dog mistook the buoy of a lobster pot for the missile, and as no persuasion could induce him to let go of it, a boat was put out for him, and rescued him just as he was sinking exhausted.

—The Vicksburg Herald says, "The young man who raises a bale of cotton is doing more for Mississippi than the thousand men who whittle pine sticks and wonder when money will be easier."

—"We thrive by thrift," wrote Eli Perkins and congratulated himself on an apt alliteration. But the intelligent compositor knew exactly what Eli meant when he set it up, "We thrive by theft."

—Minnesota now claims to be almost entirely free from grasshoppers.

—The Louisiana census makes the population of New Orleans 205,000.

The Satchel Series is the name given by W. F. Gill & Co. to a series of publications in portable, convenient and cheap form, elegantly printed and handsomely illustrated for the benefit of the numerous social birds of passage that in the summer season create a great demand for works of this sort. It is devoted to the brightest and best miscellany, including fiction, poetry, humor, travel, essays, etc., and having been once enjoyed will thereafter seem an indispensable. The contents of the first volume are by Miss M. E. Braddon, Wilkie Collins, Owen Meredith, M. Quad and others.

The body of Charles H. Ross, who was knocked overboard in the Narrows by the boom of a sail-boat, on the 12th, was found on shore near Boiling Rock, Eliot, on Sunday morning. No inquest was deemed necessary.

We are informed that the new law requiring town pauper settlements to be gained since 1860, will relieve Portsmouth from the suport of all except two of the thirty or more paupers at the city farm. What, then, will be the need of maintaining that expensive establishment?

The Appledore House is still crowded with guests. On Sunday the table girls presented the head waiter, Mr. James Hamilton, with a fine gold watch, chain and charm. Miss Kelly was chosen to make the presentation speech, and did so in a most commendable manner. Mr. Hamilton's response was felicitous and to the point.

A Protest.

I was sorry to see in the CHRONICLE, a few days since, a recommendation or approval of a proposal to spend some $20,000 on a new school-house in this city. Are not our school-houses now as good as the average residences of the tax-payers and scholars? Is our population and especially the number of children increasing so fast that we need so much more school-room? Is the present income of our citizens generally such as to encourage a great outlay at this time? And is an increase of the city debt advisable or advantageous?

TAX PAYER.

Our Schools.

Editor Chronicle; And so Portsmouth is to have an addition made to her school accommodations,—a big new school house, built of brick and fitted with all the modern appliances to the better induce young ideas to shoot correctly and rapidly. Notwithstanding taxes are $2.06 on the $100, I am heartily glad of it, and so should be the heaviest tax payers in our community. I cannot doubt they are. Surely our five thousand-dollar-tax man, Mr. Jones, has evinced his ready sympathy in his gifts to the High School, and his attempt to found a public library. Portsmouth in its well cared for streets, its almost perfect sidewalks, its many charming residences, and thousands of beautiful shade trees, to say nothing of its suburban surroundings, and multitudes of drives and walks, is surpassed by no city of its size in New England. The moral and intellectual atmosphere also of Portsmouth is refined, its people as a rule cultivated, its merchants and master mechanics successful, and its banks overflowing with money. Indeed Portsmouth so far from being a "decaying city by the sea" is in the hay-day of its rejuvenated prosperity, and is rich in nature, in art and cultivation and material wealth. We throw back this fling about stagnation and decay with scorn. The old city is full of life and activity, and earnestness. Old indeed! What are two hundred and fifty years in the life of a municipality? In only one thing are we laggards, and that alas is what we can least afford to be in—the care and fostering of our public schools. Strange that this should be so. Strange that with our larger population and our greater wealth, Dover, our sister city, should be so far ahead of us; and yet it is so. And Nashua. Ah! I hardly speak of Nashua. Her people have fairly distanced us in this race. Why! Her second in rank building for school purposes if placed here in our midst would make some of us insufferably proud. Her High and Grammar school building, beautiful for situation, in the midst of newly planted shade trees and green fields, has cost upwards of $90,000; and yet Nashua has no more wealth than we here, and is not larger in point of population. Alas for our own fair city. Her children have languished these ten years and more for a school building that need not cost one-third as much, and for a school system that shall be economical only where economy is best served, and comprehensive not to the demands of a part, but to the wants of all. I have said Portsmouth stands to-day rich in intelligence, cultivation and refinement. True, surely. The words have no flattery in them. They are but her right, not only for the present but for her past. But this order of things, well for the individual, and our boast, reflects no credit upon us as a corporation in the eyes of those who know Portsmouth as she is. Her private schools, and the parents of children or individuals deserve all the praise. Take away all that private enterprise has done for education here within the last twenty years and Portsmouth would stand out alone, conspicuous for her ignorance and intolerance. I do not wish to say one word reflecting upon or injurious to the interests of the many private schools of Portsmouth. I do not think a wise economy in managing our school system in the past would have made them necessary (Dover has none at all) though it may be, as it is contended, that our order of population, non-manufacturing and tending to exclusiveness, has naturally called them into being; but I cannot think that city or town wise, or prudent or economical, even as regards the meaner consideration of money, which fails to make ample provision for the poorest children in our midst to acquire that degree of education so essential to make them useful and durable members of a community. Better far even to make those advantages so conspicuous, so all comprehensive even at the expense of a liberal outlay, that rich and poor alike shall eagerly seek them. It is no more true that commerce, industry, legislation, and administration would go back toward barbarism, if the care of the young were neglected for a single generation, than that in nothing can the true position and standing of a community be so accurately judged as in noting the regard paid to well understood principles governing public education. Thinking this subject will be benefitted, as was the question of slavery years ago, by "agitation, agitation, agitation," I beg permission to continue it in future numbers of your paper.

A. P. S.

Resolutions

Passed at a Citizens, Meeting in Chatham, Mass., on the occasion of the presentation of a Hearse to the Town, Aug. 4, 1875.

Whereas, The Town of Chatham having been the recipient of a Hearse of most beautiful design and finish, from the widow and children of the late Capt. Heman Eldridge as a gift in token of regard for their native place, therefore

Resolved, That the hearty thanks of this meeting be given to the donors for this rich and appropriate gift, with the desire also that it may prove as a memorial of friendship between them and the town never to be broken.

Resolved, That in the peculiar nature of this gift, reminding us so forcibly of the common destiny of all, the poor and the rich have an equal interest, and that it therefore demands the gratitude of every man, woman and child in the town.

Resolved, That as residents of the Town of Chatham we cherish with delight the fact proved by the abundant and tangible evidence before us that her sons, called away by business, still remember and care for the place of their birth.

Resolved, That we will endeavor to keep in grateful remembrance the donors, and that as the emblem of their regard passes before us bearing our friends to their burial, trust that the bond uniting us may be strengthened until one after another we shall all be gathered to the fathers in that world where these sad preparations for the tomb will not be needed.

Resolved, That we tender to Mrs. Eldridge and family our warmest sympathy in the death of a near and beloved relative, a prominent citizen who was the first to be conveyed to his last resting place in this Hearse.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to Mrs. Heman Eldridge of Chatham, Mr. Marcellus Eldridge and Mr. Heman F. Eldridge of Portsmouth and that they be printed in the Portsmouth papers, in the Boston Journal and in the papers of Barnstable County, and that they be entered upon the records of the Town of Chatham.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to see is afflicted with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or so any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substance.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are affected by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a sequel to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, the Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great nervous debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGIS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

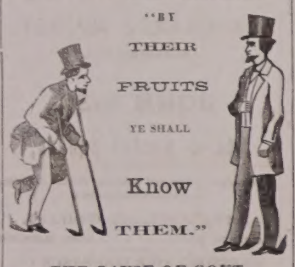
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquilin and Bayrell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain layse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various gouty, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with words of heartfelt praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

Relieve Your Lungs.

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.

EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.

JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $2,500, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

A Determined Woman.

[Paris Letter.]

In connection with the matter of feminine vanity comes a curious bit of gossip concerning a young matron who has journeyed all over Europe with "Milwaukee, Wisconsin, U. S. A.," painted on her trunks. This young matron would have been a beautiful woman had she a sea shell's tint upon her face. Unfortunately she had lived long enough in a billious Western State to become possessed of the lemon-peel complexion that is gained by an intimate acquaintance with chills and fever, and from the caressing touch of prairie winds and sunshine. She had been in Europe long enough to have regained perfect health, but she found that even after the cause was removed the effect of a billious habit—a saffron skin—remained. She consulted physician after physician in vain. They all gave her the same advice—to eat sparingly, to bathe freely, and to avoid cosmetics. This was exactly what she had done for years, having abandoned the use of powder—as she tells herself—ever since the day on which her eldest daughter, aged 10, came majestically gliding down the broad aisle of the church during the first prayer, with her young face so bedaubed and besmeared with her mother's lily-white that she looked as ii made up for a stage ghost. She had lived lightly, bathed freely, and eschewed cosmetics, and still, though a blonde with golden hair and blue eyes, was as sallow as a consumptive gypsy. She felt inclined to offer a large reward to any chemist who would discover the secret of turning golden flesh into snow, and her husband openly declared that, "to ease Kitty's mind," he would pay $5000 for any "moth and freckle lotion" that would truly perform the wonders of metamorphosis that so many pretended to do. All at once it began to be noticed in the hotel that little Mrs. C. was not very often to be found in her room, or indeed elsewhere about the hotel. Her cafe au lait was taken to her every morning, but after that she was never seen by servant or friend until late in the evening. She did not remain in her room, for after her absedce began to be whispered about as a mystery, the serdants were questioned as to her whereabouts, and could tell nothing save that she left every morning plainly dressed, and returned at evening apparently very much fatigued. Curiosity so tormented certain female inmates of the hotel as to little Mrs. C's proceedings that they arose one morning at an unconscionable early hour for them and watched on the stairs for her solitary departure. They retailed their gossip in several room later—that she went out in a plain alpaca dress and water-proof, and, although dressed with such mysterious plainness, was evidently very much "gotten up" as to complexion, for she looked almost as fair as an English woman. Every Sabbath, however, Mrs. C. remained away from her mysterious business, whatever it might be, and came regularly to the table d'hote with her brother, while Mr. C. had gone on a hurried business trip to Wisconsin. Then all the ladies of the establishment began to whisper darkly of an intrigue, of a handsome lover, and of stolen blissful meetings in the secret places of the city, for it was evident that in her husband's absence, Mrs. C. was behaving shamefully, and had even gone to the extent of having her face enameled after Mme. Rachel's costly method.

But one day, long to be remembered in the annals of that hotel in the Rue de Castiglione, after the ladies had stopped to varied voices to discover the mystery of Mrs. C's life—hod even followed her into the street, and after seeing her drive rapidly away in a voiture, had followed her in another till somehow they would lose sight of her carriage in the crowd—the mystery all came out, and Mrs. C's secret was buzzed about from mouth to mouth. And it was a secret!—enough to convince one that a woman is the greatest of mysteries herself, a riddle even to those who know her best. It is more than a month ago that Mme. S., a florid and portly English matron who is as nuce alarmed at her elephantine proportions as was ever Lord Ryron at the grin of a pound of adipose, went ont to take a Turkish bath, having been recommended to do so as a remedy against excessive corpulence. She returned to the hotel and her gossips, pale with excitemrnt and stuttering with a desire to tell her story faster tnan her tongue could move. "I went into the room," she gasped, "and called for my attendant. She came dressed in a red flannel blouse, in Turkish trousers, with bare feet and arms. She was as white as white as milk everywhere, on bosom, neck, arms, feet, face. She was as lovely a picture, with her shining golden hair and large blue eyes. She was prettier than a picture, for she—she—she—was Mrs. C!' This was the whole matter in nut shell.' Mrs. C. had observed while taking her Turkish bath, tha her attendants had the whitest skins imaginable. Questioning them, she learned that it was a result of their life of serving in a hot damp atmosphere. Instantly her resolution was taken, and taking advantage of her husband's absence, she became an attendant in the Turkish bath establishment in an endeavor, to rid heeself of her yellow roses. All those friends who met Mrs. C. when she returns to America next year, with a face as fair as a child's need not tell her that they have earned from me the way in which she gained it.

The Lost Aeronauts.

[Chic. Eve. Jour.]

There seems to be but one reasonable and sensible theory in regard to the fate of the aeronauts. They met the gale of that lamentable Thursday night, while nearly on the Michigan shore, and were driven back and soon dashed upon the water, covered and recovered with the mountain waves, until they were compelled to relinquish their holds and trust to their life-preservers.

The gale reached Chicago shortly after midnight, and it struck the balloonists about an hour previous, as Mr. Grimwood's watch stopped at exactly 11:20 o'clock. The plunge into the water must have been made at this fatal moment, a fact which the little watch, by its mute pointing, continually confirms.

The preparations of Mr. Grimwood to breast the waves seem to have been complete. He buttoned his coat tightly across his form, he pulled off his boots, he threw away his hat, he inflated and donned his life-preserver, all ready for the time—the awful moment which too surely came.

He was a fine swimmer, but what arm could fight the fury of that terrible night? How the tough material of this rubber life-preserver came to be torn is a mystery, and it is quite probable that he was drowned with it on intact, but after his body rose to the surface it floated against some obstructive snag, abounding on the coast, the preserver being caught was torn by the strength of the waves.

The statement has been made public that the body and face of Mr. Grimwood are in an uncommonly offensive state and badly broken. This is not the strict truth, for, while the remains are naturally far advanced toward decomposition, the skin, as far as can be observed with the clothes on, is not broken, nor the form greatly increased in size by its remaining in the water. The plain pine case containing the remains was handled with care from Stony Creek to Bristol, the use of disinfectants quite dispersing any offensive odor.

The winds which have so generally prevailed from the southwest on the lake during the past three weeks, and especially last week, have without doubt been the cause of the landing of the body of Mr. Grimwood at the point it did. Old lake captains say that the currents in that direction have latterly been remarkably strong, and they have no doubt that, while the body may have been wrecked in mid-lake, the shore upon which it has been drifted has been determined within ten days by these winds and currents.

Although the region were the body landed is what might be called a wild and almost isolated district, still the people were all posted on the ascent and loss of Professor Donaldson and Mr. Grimwood, the great excitement thoughout the country caused thereby, and the rewards offered for information leading to the knowledge of the aeronauts' fate, or the recovery of their bodies. Indeed, this latter thing—the question of reward—upon the announcement that Mr. Beckwith had found one of the bodies, led that usually dull district into a perfect whirlpool of excitement, some wanting to buy his chances off, while others, who were evidently not posted, slyly hinted to him that if they were in his place it would take a good many thousand dollars to buy them out.

The Journal man being furnished with a good set of excellent photographs of the two lost men and the balloon ascension by the artist, Mr. Gentile, in departing for Michigan, it was not long before the people of Stony Creek region, learning of it on his appearing in their midst, crowded around in great curiosity to see how the bold adventurer looked. They all seemed struck with the fine and stylish appearance of Professor Donaldson, but not more so than with the youthful and earnest face of Mr. Grimwood. The pictures were in such demand that the pair was left with the good people.

Unmistakable fragments of the balloon have been found on the beach about eight miles above the place where the drowned body came to land. These consist of sandbags and a piece of the yellow cloth of which the balloon was constructed. A resident, Mr. J. H. Sammons, found these relics on the beach. Believing that there may be more of the balloon buried in the sand, he has been engaged to assist Mr. A. C. Ellithrope, a Chicago gentleman, in making further investigations to-day.

Professor Donaldson, where is he? Grimwood's body was nearly buried in the sand of the beach. May not the Professor's be quite so, at some wild, unfrequented spot upon that Eastern shore?

A Tramp Killed by a Woman.

Mrs. Morgan Calvert, a young widow, who lives with her brother two miles from Milansport, Pa., was left alone in her isolated house for several days last week. On Thursday afternoon a rough fellow called at the house, and, after asking Mrs. Calvert many questions, begged for a supper and a night's lodging. He was refused. Thereupon he went away, muttering to himself. A little later Mrs. Calvert was obliged to go out, and on her return she saw a man crouching behind the door between the sitting-room and her bedroom. He did not seem to see her, and she saw him only through a narrow crack. There were firearms in the house, and Mrs. Calvert knew how to use them. Without an outcry, she went up stairs and got a revolver, and hiding it under her apron, started boldly for the room in which the tramp was lurking. As Mrs. Calvert approached the door, the man threw it open suddenly, jumped out, and struck her in the face. Recovering quickly from the blow, she drew her pistol, upon seeing which the tramp turned to flee. She fired once and wounded him, and then started to pursue him. As he disappeared around the house she fired again, at which he turned about and cried, "Don't shoot again, woman. I am a dead man, now." As he spoke he staggered against a fence, and then fell. He begged for aid, and Mrs. Calvert arranged him in a comfortable position, after which she started for a physician. As she approached the house, the tramp who had first called upon her rushed out and escaped; and under the great excitement she fell fainting near the roadside. Two hours later she was discovered by friends, who listened to her story and went to find the man whom she had wounded. He was lying dead.

A Touching Scene.

The Newtown, Maryland, Gazette says:

The steamer Tangier last Saturday landed at our wharf a negro woman, who had been sold "way down South" some twenty years ago. She belonged to the Rush estate, and her father and mother, whose heads are silvered with the frosts of many winters, have remained on the farm ever since. During the war they lost all traces of their daughter and gave her up for lost. In the past few years, however, communication was restored between parents and child, and it has been the one grand hope of their declining years to once more see their daughter. Recently they received a letter from New Orleans, saying that she would soon start for this place.

For the past few weeks every boat day the old couple could be seen in town peering with eager eyes at the faces of the passengers as the boats would reach the wharf. A shade of silent disappointment, and anon a tear, could be seen upon their wrinkled faces when they found she was not aboard. As the boat neared the wharf a buxom, comely mulatto waved a handkerchief at the old couple. Pen cannot describe the joy of the party when the woman finally found herself in the arms of her parents. The old lady executed a half shout, half fandango, skip around, and the old man stood on his head, and the "hour of jubilee" was on that wharf for many minutes. It was one of the most touching incidents we ever witnessed.

An Inflated Cocktail.

The following instructive parable appears in the New York World, and is dated at Chicago, where Mr. Kelley, of Pennsylvania, has been keeping the interviewer at bay as well as he could. The correspondent writes:

Mr. Kelley, whom Mr. Morton does not scruple to call "a gushing, sloppy tourist," is out here endeavoring to bring the people of the Northwest to a realizing sense of the necessity for an issue of more currency. Rather an amusing and interesting occurrence has transpired during his visit, which has not yet found its way into any of the local prints, but that the World may deem worthy of publication. On the morning after his great inflation speech, Mr. Kelley felt athirst and walking down into the bar of the Tremont House, bade the attendant barkeeper mix him a whiskey cocktail. While the barkeeper was compounding the liquor, syrup, bitters, ice and water in due proportion, he remarked: "You're Senator Kelley, aint you?" "I am, but don't be afraid, young man," affably replied the great statesman. "I thought you was," said the artist in liquors: "I heard you make a bully speech last night up to McCormack's Hall. Was that all true you told us about them bonds, and more greenbacks, and that other shenanigan, eh?" "True?" said the apostle of inflation; "of course it was true. I am a man of principle, young man; a man of strict principle." "Keerect," replied the barkeeper, as he poured the completed cocktail in an amber arch into the glass and filled a tumbler of water.

Mr. Kelley tasted the beverage. "See here, Johnny," he said, "that cocktail doesn't rise and take me by the throat so much as it should; I want it to be all to me that the name implies. Just make it stronger and give it to me in a bigger glass, will you?"

The barkeeper promptly transferred the contents into a water-tumbler and added about twice their quantity of water.

Mr. Kelley observed somewhat testily: "Hello! hello! What are you doing, eh?" I wanted a bigger drink; more of a cocktail, you know."

The barkeeper smiled apologetically, and begging Mr. Kelley's pardon, emptied the diluted cocktail into a weiss-bier glass, which he brimmed with water. There was an ocean of fluid faintly tinged with a pinkish amber, on the surface of which floated a shred of lemon-peel. The bar-keeper pushed the glass over to his customer, and affably resting both hands on the counter, asked him how that suited him.

Mr. Kelley first rubbed his eyes and then pinched to be sure that he was himself and awake; then lowered his spectacles and inspected the barkeeper narrowly. "Young man;" he said at last, in his most solemn tones, "do you call that a cocktail?"

"Do I call that a cocktail?" he replied, pityingly; "what'n blazes do you call it? That's the best cocktail the world ever saw. There's whiskey in it, there's gum in it, there's Angostora bitters in it, there's lemon-peel in it, there's water in it, there's ice in it, and don't they make a cocktail? Besides, it's called a cocktail, just the same as a dollar is called a dollar, and don't that make it a cocktail? You can do anything with that cocktail that you could do with any other cocktail; you can drink it; and you can pay for it; don't that make it as good as an other cocktail? What do you take me for? Haven't I read your speeches?"

"But," gasped Mr. Kelley, growing very red in the face, "there's too much water in it."

"Too much water!" rejoined the barkeeper. "Why, you must have so much water in a cocktail anyhow, mustn't you? You get your whiskey like what you financial sharps call a reserve, and then you issue your cock-tail on that basis. You have an elastic cocktail—a cocktail that adapts itself to the wants of the customer. If he wants a strong drink he don't want much water; if he wants a strong drink I'll inflate his cocktail till its volume equals his necessities. I tell you I've studied up this here financial problem."

"But but," stammered Mr. Kelley, "there isn't a drop more whiskey all the while, and every drop of water you add weakens and spoils it."

"That can't be," rejoined the barkeeper. "It's just like finance. Whiskey's wealth and cocktail currency. If you can expand your currency without any increase of your wealth, and do no harm, why can't you inflate this cocktail up to a hogshead full, and let all them bummers out in the street have a good square nip?"

"You don't understand," replied Mr. Kelly "It's different in financial matters. There, there is the relief afforded by my 3.65 interconvert—."

"I know it. I know it," briskly answered the barkeeper; "I tell you, Mr. Kelley, your head's level. Now, here is my interconvertible cocktail." Thus saying, he poured half of the contents of the weiss-beer glass into another weiss-glass; then continued: "Now this tumbler is the bonds, and this tumbler is the greenbacks. When you want a long drink pour into this tumbler as much out of the other one as you want; if you want a short drink you pour some out of this tumbler into the other one. It's a big thing." Mr. Kelley was in despair. The barkeeper continued:

"You see I want to return to a whiskey basis, but I wish to do so without injury to the business interests of the country. Now, if you will wait till the water evaporates and leaves the whiskey—"

Here Mr. Kelley smote the counter with his cane. "Look here," he shouted, "in spite of your expanding the volume of that drink, and humbugging me with your idiotic interconvertible cocktails, and talking about returning to a whiskey basis without deranging my interests, don't you see, you howling ass, that that's the same weak, thin, diluted, mawkish, tasteless, abominable slush all the time. I want an immedia.e return to whiskey resumption and no steps backward."

"Keerect, Judge," replied the barkeeper, as he threw the inflated cocktail into the sink, "we'll repudiate this, as they always do." And he mixed another cocktail on a whiskey basis. "But," he said, "s'pose you hadn't had another 15 cents, or that all the whiskey in the house had been in that cocktail, where'd you have been, eh?"

Mr. Kelley smiled, and invited the barkeeper to join him the latter complied and took a little gin, syrup and bitters. Mr. Kelley drank off his cocktail, paid for the drinks, and taking a clove was about to depart, when an after-thought seemed to occur to him. He turned back and said:

"See here, Johnny; you're a smart young fellow, and I've enjoyed your conversation very much. But, then, you see the—ah! the financial problem is a thing that people can't exactly understand in all its ramifications without a special education, a training, you know. Of course, it affects all people, but all people can't understand it; it isn't to their interest that they should. If everybody knew all about it there'd be no Kelleys and Logans and Inter-Oceans and Enquirers. It's like cocktails, you know. Every man drinks them, but every man can't mix them. If they could there'd be no bar-keepers. Understand? And, Johnny, perhaps you'd better not say anything about this little conversation of ours to anybody. You see, perhaps, it would hurt the business of the house, and the proprietors don't like to have politics discussed. Good-bye."

"So-long," remarked the bar-keeper, and as the Judge's form vanished up the stairway, he closed one eye respectfully, and took three jig-steps with an expression of the deepest reverence.

A Highly Applauded Address.

[Louisville Courier-Journal.]

This morning, immediately after divine service in the prayer-room, the venerable Chancellor arose, with the avowed intention of reproving the students for throwing waste water upon the floor after drinking. He painted in glowing colors the evils accruing to the public in general from a waste of property, and to the State in particular from moistening the planks in the floor of the university buildings.

"Property," he said—for we quote his exact words—"represents money, and money represents sweat." Whereupon some little applause ensued.

Dr. T.—I see nothing to laugh at in that—nothing at all ludicrous in the remark. (Faint applause.)

Dr. T.—No one but a fool would applaud at that. (Increased applause and laughter.)

Dr. T.—And none but a fool would laugh at that. (Further applause.)

Dr. T.—And none but fools would continue to applaud. (Applause grows louder.)

Dr T.—(In an excited manner)—I am sorry to see that there are so many fools present. (Continued applause.) And it is a noticeable fact that all fools sit upon the back benches (continuous increased applause), which proves that they are also cowards as well as fools, for they slink away from the front, out of the sight of the master's eye. (Vociferous applause.)

Dr. T.— (Very much agitated)—I want it understood that these remarks are personal; if I knew the parties concerned I would call their names. I hope each man will consider my remarks applicable to himself, and (shaking his fist vehemently) that I am personally responsible for them.

—The White Sulphur Springs Hotel, Va., will be pulled down next year. It cost $1,000,000, and has paid no dividends.

The Contest over the Currency.

[The Nation.]

The currency question is again coming up, and is again assuming a threatening aspect and exerting a depressing influence on the business of the country, mainly because the party in power for the last fifteen years has either avoided dealing with it at all, or has only dealt with it in a half-hearted and insincere way. It is dealing with it now in a half hearted and insincere way. The bill of January, 1875, was avowedly not a final settlement, but a compromise intended to put off final settlement to a more convenient season. We drew attention at the time to the way in which Senator Sherman fenced with the questions put him by Mr. Schurz as to the real meaning of the act. Our correspondent draws attention to the way in which he is explaining it away in Ohio. From the account he gives of it there, people are led to believe that it is a mere form, and will have no effect whatever, or, in other words, that the present state of things is neither dangerous nor undesirable. And Senator Morton's speech shows clearly that the republican chiefs do not wish to "go before the people" on the currency question, and have nothing very positive to say about it. What they prefer to speak about and legislate about is the "outrage" question. They have ten words to offer about apocryphal murders at the South for one about financial reform. * *

The Presidential campaign will inevitably be conducted largely on the financial issue; whether it result in the triumph of the policy of inflation or of the policy of evasion, the effect on business will be equally disastrous. The country has gone as far as it can on the republican plan of dodging and postponing. We have very distinctly reached a crisis at which we must select one or two plain courses. A decision in favor of resumption, without falsehood or reservation, would launch the country on another magnificent run of prosperity; a decision in favor of inflation, or of inflation that will be the same as contraction, or contraction that will be the same thing as inflation, will certainly bring about one of the most tremendous financial catastrophes ever witnessed, for no commercial State of the magnitude and importance of the American Union has ever either gone into bankruptcy or attempted wholesale issues of irredeemable paper in time of profound peace. The seizure of the Government by inflationists would in fact mean, and be taken to mean, that for the first time since the fall of the Roman Empire the affairs of a vast, highly-organized society had passed into the hands of its most ignorant and unscrupulous class; and an occurrence of this sort in our day would give a shock to civilization itself.

Familiarity of the Sexes.

[Harper's Magazine.]

Recent events have called public attention to the intimate relation of morals and manners. It may be said that there is no greater peril to morality than much that is called merely free and easy manners. Young men, and even young women, permit themselves a freedom and license of manner which, having all the aspect of impropriety, may very readily acquire substance. Edward addresses Emily with a loud and jesting intimacy of tone and conduct, which might be expected in the sailor saloons of Water street or Wapping, but which is repulsive and odious in the drawing-room or among refined and gentle persons. Edward and Emily would be amazed to be told that they have not the manners of a gentleman or of a lady, and have the air of the demi monde. They think that they are especially comme il faut, and above all others they know what is the rule of high society. But they are merely vulgar. Coarseness cannot be gilded into refinement. The young woman who habitually calls her young friends of the other sex by their Christian names and who suffers any thing that can be called familiarity, although it fall short of actual indecorum, should reflect carefully, "Sir," said a lady to a policeman who took her elbow to pass her over the street; "if I wish you to touch me I will ask you." No woman of a high sense of personal dignity wishes any man to lay his hand upon her thoughtlessly or unnecessarily. Nor will such a woman permit any kind of rudeness in the tone or manner of men.

—We had the curiosity, when in Norway, to see for ourselves what the chickens would do at night in those long days of almost perpetual sun. So, on the road from Stockholm into Norway, we took pains to inform ourselves in these interesting matters. We found that, wholly disregarding the sun, the hens all went to roost in Norway, just about seven o'clock P. M., all through June, though the sun was four or five hours high, and the world was "as light as a cork." They returned to the active duties of life before three the next morning.—Correspondence Hartford Post.

—A Presbyterian minister, while marrying a couple of his rustic parishioners, felt exceedingly disconcerted on his asking the bridegroom if he were willing to take the woman for his wedded wife, by his scratching his head and saying, "Ay, I'm wullin', but I'd rather have her sister."

Editor Chronicle; I notice in your columns an advertisement of through trains to the White Mountains by the Eastern Railroad. This announcement is gratifying, not only to the traveling public, but especially to those whose business or circumstances will allow them only a brief respite during the summer, and who want to make the most of the day or two afforded them.

There are few places on this continent so full of novelty and grandeur and varied scenery as the White Mountains and their immediate vicinity; so that if any one has a little time and two or three dollars to spare, he cannot get a better recompense for them than by taking the earliest train to North Conway by the Eastern railroad, and from thence by the Portland & Ogdensburgh road to Fabyan's so-called (which is at the foot of the White Mountains) from which he can return the same day if he so desires, or what is better can remain over night and spend the second day in sight-seeing among those grand old mountains, returning after forty-eight hours' absence, having enough jotted down on memory's page to last him for years after.

But we commenced this communication to ask through you, the managers of the Eastern railroad to try an excursion train from this city to Fabyan's, making tickets good, for—say three days—so as to give those who might wish an opportunity to stop over night, and yet allow those who desired to return the same day to do so. It is the opinion of the writer that an excursion of this kind would meet with popular favor if given some time in September, when dog-days are over, and everything is lovely. * * * *

News and Notes.

About a mile below Lancaster, John McGoldrick was shot in the arm Monday morning by some one on a passing freight train on the Boston, Concord and Montreal Railroad.

A white mocking-bird has been caught and caged at Charleston, S. C.

In a recent letter to the Omaha Herald Gen. Victor Tifquain praised the efforts of Gen. James S. Brisbin of the United States army in behalf of Nebraska, and proposed that he be rewarded by election to a seat in the United States Senate. Gen. Brisbin replies that he has no ambition for political office, and is well satisfied with his commission in the army. But even if he were a private citizen, the Senatorial elections in Nebraska are too disgraceful for him to permit his name to be connected with them.

One of the objects of Senator Morton's eastern trip is to place his youngest son in a school in New Hampshire.

Specimens of the new postal cards have been received by the Third Assistant Postmaster-General and present a very neat appearance. The face of the card has no lines, as had the old ones, as it was found the impression on the face caused a projection on the back which caused a pen to stick or catch in writing upon it. The new cards will be issued as soon as the second form of plates reaches the manufacturer.

The Georgia negro scare is over.

Hon. D. M. Key, of Chattanooga, Tenn., who has just been appointed by Gov. Porter United States Senator, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of ex-President Johnson, is at present Chancellor of the Third Chancery Division of Tennessee. He is a native of Tennessee, and was a democrat before the rebellion, and was a candidate on the Breckinridge ticket in 1860 for Elector in the Third Congressional District. At the opening of the war he embarked his fortunes with the South and served in the Confederate army as Lieutenant-Colonel of the Forty-third Tennessee Infantry, and was captured at the fall of Vicksburg. At the close of the war he returned to his home at Chattanooga, and was one of the first of the Southern public men to accept heartily and in good faith the legitimate results of the war. While he has always acted with his party, he has been distinguished for the liberality of his opinions, and has always been popular among all classes of people, and particularly among the Northern people who have settled in that section of the South. He ran for Congress in 1872, but was defeated. He is between 51 and 52 years of age, in the prime of life, and though little known out of his own State, will make a National reputation as a man of ability, whose character for integrity is unimpeachable and whose liberality will command the respect of his political opponents. The legislature that will elect the successor of Mr. Johnson does not meet until January, 1877, and Senator Key's term will consequently be a long one.

Jefferson Davis has received invitations from Des Moines, Iowa, Charleston, Ill., and other points West, to deliver the annual addresses at the meetings of the several agricultural societies.

George Brown, a New Hampshire horse thief, was captured in Paxton, Mass., on Sunday by Deputy Sheriff Hersey, of Spencer. Brown stole a valuable team in Windham, a week ago, and was traced with his booty to Oakdale, where he left the team and began tramping about on foot, the horse having been nearly driven to death. He was pursued through the towns of Spencer, Rutland, Oakham and Paxton, until Sunday, when he was captured. During the twenty-four hours' chase both pursuers and pursued were on foot, the route being taken through fields and woods.

The State ticket of the citizens' party of Maryland will be announced, it is said, in a few days. In case, as is expected, the republicans refrain from making nominations, the canvass will be interesting.

During the past year James Wylie, the champion draught player of the world, has won 7,944 games, lost 32 and drawn 494.

Last week a negro base ball club at Decatur, Ill., defeated the white club so terribly that the proud Caucasians, declaring civilization to be a failure, disbanded. And now thousands of base ball afflicted towns are sending Macedonian cries to the Uniques of Decatur to come over and eliminate their clubs.

James H. Noe, 275 Greenwich street, New York, while inspecting his store discovered a burglar whom he tried to arrest, but who knocked him down with an iron bar and then bound and robbed him of his watch and money. When Noe returned to consciousness the burglar asked for the safe keys. Noe informed him that they were not in his possession, when the burglar struck him a second time, fracturing the base of his skull. The burglar then obtained a pail of water, placed it beside Mr. Noe, washed his hands and left, threatening to return and finish the job if any outcry was made before he had time to make his escape. Finally Mr. Noe attracted attention by his cries and obtained assistance. He was taken to the hospital, and will probably die.

A Verdict in Accordance with Proofs.

The verdict of the public in favor of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters differs from some that might be mentioned, in being in strict accordance with the proofs repeatedly adduced in support of the claims of America's most popular remedy. It may well be doubted if there was ever a medicine in substantiation of whose merits such a mass of unsolicited testimony has accumulated. An examination of this testimony establishes a fact of the last importance to the sick and debilitated, as well as those who are exposed to unfavorable influences of climate—namely, that the Bitters are an unequalled tonic, an active and thorough specific for every disorder of the digestive, biliary and excretory organs, a reliable means of regulating the discharge of the most important functions of the body, and a supreme protective against intermittent and remittent fevers, and all other diseases to which malaria gives birth.

RATTAN WARE
MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-houses, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

Daily Chronicle.

—This good little boy was sitting on the front steps whittling up his sister's embroidery-frames and muttering to himself: "This ain't no good world to live in unless a feller is his father's and mother's only orphan boy. What makes me get so mad is to have my sister go and take all my peaches to give to that big loafer of a sweetheart of hers that comes 'round here seven nights in a week to git a square meal and make out as if he wanted to talk politics with the old man. I wish they'd marry and go to Texas, I do!" And then he threw the remnants of the frames into the street and seemed lighter-hearted.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself it left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a sure cure to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

Utility, Durability and Brilliancy.

The following advantages are claimed for the

"BRILLIANT"

PANTOSCOPIC

SPECTACLES and EYE-GLASSES.

FIRST. That, from the peculiar construction of the Glasses and Frame, they assist and preserve the sight, rendering frequent changes unnecessary.

SECOND. That they confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision, with an amount of Ease and Comfort not hitherto enjoyed by spectacle-wearers.

THIRD. That the material from which the Lenses are ground is manufactured especially for optical purposes, and is Pure, Hard and Brilliant, and not liable to become scratched.

☞ The "BRILLIANTS" are unrivalled for strengthening a weak and disordered Eyesight, and for their lasting qualities. Every pair is stamped F. L. B., and can be procured only from Resident Agents.

☞ A full assortment of sizes, set in GOLD, STEEL, RUBBER and SHELL, of the FINEST QUALITY, and warranted not to break from any imperfection in the manufacture, can always be obtained of

ZERO REFRIGERATOR

ZERO.

Why the Improved Zero Refrigerator has taken premium over all others:

It requires less than one half the ice to run it. It dispenses with the nuisance of having a drip pan under it. It is a refrigerator and water cooler combined. It has the largest provision chamber. It is built in the best manner and style of design. It is the cheapest to buy, and it is a perfect Meat, Fish, Fruit and Ice preserver. FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquilin and Barruel.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that public should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various urates, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produces it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN,

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from any signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completions of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a manuscript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

The New Potato Disease in England.

The Agricultural Gazette says: "We visited the Chiswick garden again a few days ago, and certain peculiarities in connection with the disease were pointed out to us by Mr. Barron and his foreman, Mr. Patterson, which it may be well to state here. In the first place, Mr. Barron and others have noticed the malady since the cultivation of the Early Rose Potato became general in this country, though, of course, it has not been so prevalent as it is this season. In the second place it is confined to American varieties raised from English saved seed, not a trace of it being found among the plants raised from American seed imported since last Autumn. The only variety grown from English-saved seed that has not yet been affected is Alpha, and that which appears to suffer most is Snowflake, the Early Rose coming next, and then the American Pale Rose, the Late Rose not having suffered so much. Vermont Beauty, a great favorite at the trials last year, is, at the present time, in a sad plight. All the affected plants are looking much better since the late rains set in, and new roots are being thrown out above the affected part of the stems, which, to use a homely phrase, is, in all cases, found 'between 'wind and water.' The strangest, and, to us, the most serious peculiarity of this new disease is that it prevails most in a dry season, unlike the common 'potato rot,' which is most prevalent in wet seasons."

—A New York correspondent of the Boston Herald says: "The great engineer of the age, as his followers and heelers delight to call George B. McClellan, has proven to be as great a dolt and as inefficient in his projected plans for new docks for this city as he unfortunately was when in command of our armies. He was some years ago, by a partizan dock commission, placed at the head of the engineering departments of the docks for this metropolis, with a great flourish of trumpets and some ten thousand dollars per year as salary. His plans were like some of his former military plans,—all plans and no practicality,—and the result has been the expenditure of over five millions of dollars for work which even our New York stone contractors would be glad to do for a million and make a small fortune at that. I have often watched the movements of the workmen on this stupendous engineering work during the last five years, and they didn't work fast enough to keep the flies off their noses. At the rate they built the stone abutments of piers so far, the 'wonderful plan' of George B. McClellan would be accomplished in about a thousand years at an expense of as many million dollars. There are stone masons and wharf builders now loafing around Boston and New England who would build a stone wall around this city in less time than these fancy "engineers' can erect a hundred foot pier."

—All the paper for the money issued by the United States Government is manufactured on a sixty-two-inch Fourdrinier machine, at the Glen Mills, near West Chester, Pa. Short pieces of red silk are mixed with the pulp in the engine, and the finished stuff is conducted to the wire without passing through any screens, which might retain the silk threads. By an arrangement above the wire cloth, a shower of short pieces of fine blue silk thread is dropped in streaks upon the paper while it is being formed. The upper side, on which the blue silk is dropped, is the one used for the face of the notes, and, from the manner in which the threads are applied, must show them more distinctly than the reverse side, although they are embedded deeply enough to remain fixed. The mill is guarded night and day, by officials, to prevent the abstraction of any paper.—Paper Trade Journal.

—The editor of the Elmira Gazette says: "We always did like a girl with a blue veil, and we rejoice to see that this becoming article of female gearing is coming into style again. They are twisted into the most bewitching shapes, and so tantalizingly tied around and about as to make the wearers more winsome than ever. If there is any thing nicer than a pretty girl in a blue veil, we never found it out."

—The papers are discussing the question: "Can Grant's grandson become President?" Well, he can't next year, though he might be Consul to Bremen.—La Crosse Sun.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 26, 1875.

News and Notes.

A political scheme that might work well for the Vice President would be his nomination for Governor of Massachusetts, and his consequent election over Gaston. The country might see some indications of Henry's peculiar, pure patriotism in his resignation of the high office he now holds. His election to the Governorship under such circumstances would give him a powerful prestige and an impetus toward the Presidential nomination that he otherwise cannot arrive at. But then Henry shows an increase of namby-pambyism as he grows older, that would make him as puttyish in the hands of the designing political potter as were his distinguished early associates, the placid Greeley and the unctuous Chase, who so ignobly flatted out in their quest for the empty bauble which politicians, thinking themselves statesmen, so earnestly pursue.

The stomach of Mrs. Mehitable Magoon of Raymond, who it was suspected came to her death by poisoning, has been analyzed and found to contain a quantity of strychnine sufficient to produce her death. Magoon and a female accomplice were arrested.

The Manchester Union wants Jefferson Davis invited to address the farmers at the State Fair, which might be a good advertisement but would prove an unwise movement. Davis is neither repentant nor honorable. He represents above all his fellows a bitterness of spirit and a resentment that only the grave can eradicate. He never had the respect of the New Hampshire yeomanry and deserves nothing beyond their contempt. Rather let Alex. H. Stephens of Georgia, Senator Key of Tennessee, or some man of that stamp, be invited. They are men whose appearance would be far more welcome—men who were honorable as foes and have no sympathy with the element that finally plunged the South into rebellion and misery. But Jefferson Davis—bah! A scare-crow would be as acceptable.

Littleton merchants excursioned to Portland and purchased $18,000 worth of goods —and the Advertiser thinks they are nice boys with discreet girls.

When Massachusetts republicanism was very strong, it resolutely discarded Dr. Geo. B. Loring. The shuttlecock game for a gubernatorial nomination seemed played for the purpose of excluding him. He was still the same faithful republican and high-toned gentleman, instinctively. There came a change and a democrat sits in the gubernatorial chair. Frightened, the party leaders now look over the field and find that of the men who can lead them to a certain victory, two are pre-eminent, and of those two the most available is George B. Loring.

The Concord Monitor speaks wisely in intimating that the U. S. Senatorial contest for Hon. Aaron H. Cragin's seat, next year, is not to divide republicans. Aspirants for the position are considerately in the background, and such men as Messrs. Cragin, Stearns, Stevens, Chandler, Pike, Rollins, Ordway, Marston and Briggs, all true as steel, see that any endeavor to interfere in the choice of representatives would be fatal to all. Never since the war ended has the republican party been more united, leaders and followers being anxious for an old-time rally against the usurpers who stole the Senate last June. This is the one idea permeating the masses—to regain control of the State; and he who throws into the canvass any disturbing element will be regarded as more of a mischief maker than a patriot. There is a feeling instilled by the Weston outrage into every fibre of republican hearts, that is strong and deep, and will be felt as never before when the settling day comes. The one thing for republicans to do is not to labor to elect Gen. Stevens, Mr. Rollins, Mr. Pike, Mr. Cragin or Gen. Marston to the U. S. Senate, but to prevent the possibility of the election of Harry Bingham, John G. Sinclair or some other deep-dyed copperhead to such an honorable position. And that way lies victory.

The Patriot does not think that Henry Ward Beecher or Jefferson Davis should put in an appearance at the State Fair—people should not flatter their vanity. And the Patriot is right.

Mrs. Mary E. Rankin, colored, died recently in Brooklyn. She was 116 years of age; probably the oldest woman in America, if not in the world. She enjoyed good health, was naturally cheerful and industrious, was an early riser and hard worker. She survived her husband thirty years.

A despatch from San Antonio gives the following extract from a letter just received by Gen. Ord, from President Del Norte on the Rio Grande: Four Indians came on foot to the Merritio ranche, twenty-four miles from here, and captured the place. They captured two men, two women, two children and 1000 head of sheep. In their retreat the Indians killed one of the men, and a few hours later one of the women, and when they found they were pursued they killed the other man. The woman they got off with was about to become a mother. She was the wife of the last man killed. The dead bodies were found on the trail. The Indians escaped.

Colonel Harry Rockfellar, who lost an arm at the first Bull Run, while in the ranks of the Seventy-first New York Regiment, and was captured and confined in Libby prison, eight months, died recently at his home, in Orange Mountain, N. J.

The story that Gov. Allen was about to withdraw is pronounced absurd by the Ohio papers without distinction of party. The Cincinnati Commercial says: "The notion of withdrawing the Governor from this fight, in order to save him for the Presidential race, is idiotic. This is the Presidential race, and no one knows the fact any more thoroughly than the man who was the boy Bill Allen a long time ago. We suspect, too, that Bill Allen knows the hypocrisy of the democrats who are about him, and who would prefer Thurman, Pendleton or Hendricks for the next democratic candidate for the Presidency; and we suspect that he comprehends that, in case of winning this race, he will have the advantage of them. The Thurmanites, Pendletonians and Hendricksians, who are swearing that the old Governor is still in all the grandeur of strength, are preparing a master for themselves, but will be saved from the logical consequences of their sins against light and knowledge by the defeat of their party—an incident that will dispose of Allen and Cary for this world, and do other things to numerous to mention." The Gazette says: "It makes little difference to republicans what Allen does. The tide of battle has unmistakably turned against him. If he does not withdraw he will be defeated. That will wind him up as a White House candidate. If he does withdraw, it is a confession of weakness that will be used to cut his throat in the National convention. In either event Allen's jig is up. He has played out. But Allen's friends will take their revenge on Thurman and Pendleton. They will not permit either of these gentlemen to win what was denied to old Barren Ideality. The game of throat-cutting has fairly commenced."

A bottle was found washed ashore at Port Hope Mich., Tuesday, containing the following; "Over Lake Michigan at 9 P. M., of the evening of starting, about 30 miles from Chicago, about 3000 feet high. A gale is coming from the northeast. The balloon is getting out of order; gas is escaping fast; can't remain up much longer; will surely land in the lake; fearful storm.

The writing is well preserved.

The vote on the convention clearly establishes, in the opinion of Judge Settle, that North Carolina will be certain to vote for the republican candidate for President in the Electoral College in 1876.

Commodore Goodenough, commanding the British squadron in Australia, died on the 20th inst. He was wounded by poisoned arrows in an attack on his flag-ship by natives of Carlisle Bay. The Commodore and party, on the 12th inst., landed to open intercourse with the natives of Santa Cruz Island, who attacked the Sand Fly in the same place last year. After remaining about an hour ashore and making apparently satisfactory progress in the object of their mission, they were preparing to return to the ship. Suddenly the natives, who were only a few yards off, shot at Commodore Goodenough, and a poisoned arrow penetrated his left side. The boat then put off under a flight of arrows. Seven men on board were wounded, including Lieut. Harker. Two of the wounded have since died from the effects of poison. The others are improving. As soon as the boat returned the Pearl shelled and burned the native village, and then returned to Nelson's bay.

John D. Powell, superintendent of the Manchester Mills, died Aug. 23, in Manchester, at the age of 35, of consumption. He was a native of Middlebury, Vt.

The Illinois Ku-Klux are fleeing for their lives, and the reign of terror in the Southern part of the State is over.

A house, barn, shed and part of the contents, owned by Thomas Bean, at Manchester, were burned by tramps, Aug. 24. Loss $2000; insurance $1000.

Ex-City Marshal Wm. H. Fitz, of Newburyport, is dead.

The American war steamers Congress and Hartford have arrived at Tripoli, and a number oftheir officers who landed were hooted at by a rabble. Satisfaction was given for the insults to the officers who landed, but not for the previous insult to the American Consul.

The New York Bulletin reports a gradual improvement in the autumn trade there, and the outlook is favorable to a more spirited general trade during the incoming month.

Havana advices state that under the emancipation law of July, 1870, thirty-two thousand, eight hundred and thirteen persons have been born free, and thirteen thousand, seven hundred and forty slaves have acquired their freedom by passing their sixtieth year. Three hundred and one slaves were declared free for services to the Spanish flag, and three thousand, one hundred and ninety-two captured Africans were liberated. It is estimated that since 1868 over seventy thousand slaves have become free in Cuba.

Riot at a Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Philip Bissinger and her three children, who were drowned at Reading, Penn., took place on the 20th. The procession comprised over thirty carriages and not less than one thousand persons on foot. For an hour before the time appointed for the funeral the house was surrounded by an excited crowd, and a detachment of police had to guard the premises. Bissinger keeps a saloon in this place, and his family consisted of himself, his wife, and three small children. His mother also made her home with his family. Of late there has been much unhappiness, caused, the neighbors say, by the treatment of Mrs. Bissinger by her husband and his mother. The report commonly accepted is that Bissinger had bestowed his affections upon an unmarried woman from Philadelphia, whom he frequently had at his house. On Monday the husband and wife quarrelled on this account, and he ordered her out of his sight. He told her he would give her $2,000 to go away and return no more—she to take the two girls and he to keep the boy, and threatened to kill her if she returned. This prospect of separation from one of her children, added to her previous unhappiness, preyed upon her mind, and she was very much depressed.

On Tuesday she took her three children, and entering a street car, rode out of the city for a distance of about two and a half miles to a point on the bank of the canal. She had a basket with her, and this she filled with stones, her children assisting her. Then she bound the basket securely to her waist, and taking a child under each arm, and holding the third to her breast, she jumped into the canal. The cries of the children attracted the attention of a man who could not swim, and before he could get help all were drowned. The bodies were recovered and taken to the house of the husband. He received the news of the tragedy, it is said, while in the company of the woman who had caused the unhappiness.

So great was the indignation among the people at large that a detachment of police was kept guarding the house of Bissinger until after the funeral. It is said that in the crowd at the funeral not less than fifty men, and even some women, were arrested with pistols for the avowed purpose of shooting Bissinger. He was guarded by the police all the way to the grave and back, and, as a further protection, the coffin containing the little boy's body was placed in the carriage with him. When the bodies had been lowered into the graves part of the crowd hooted at Bissinger, and a number of women tried to get at him. One shot was fired at him without effect. He was then instantly hustled into his carriage and driven off. Another shot was fired at him while passing the gate, and is supposed to have struck him, as he was carried from the carriage into the house. Great indignation still exists in the city, and Lynch law is freely talked of.

—A menagerie recently visited Kansas City, and a young lady from across the Jersey took her suitor and an opera-glass. The young lady says she thought the performance real romantic until she stopped to see the elephant. She wore one of those pockets behind, in which, besides her handkerchief, she had deposited an apple, a handful of peanuts, quarter of a pound of gum-drops, a little bottle of ammonia, and some other trifles. She and her swain, after admiring the complexion of the huge beast, turned their backs upon him to watch the monkeys and the live kangaroo, and gazed into each other's eyes; to do this the better, they leaned back against the rope which inclosed the stately monarch, who saw the apple protruding from the pocket of the unconscious fair one. He hesitated a moment and was lost to all sense of honor or self respect, for with shuffling movement he emulated the example of our common mother, plucked and ate the fruit, returned to the pocket and scooped out the gum drops and peanuts, with a sly wink at his nephew, who was looking on with anxiety at the proceeding. But in the last mouthful, the majestic beast took in the ammonia bottle by mistake, the cork came out, and about an ounce of hartshorn ran down the throat of the greedy beast. This beverage is said to have a reviving and stimulating influence, and in this case it proved its power, for a more revived elephant was never seen on earth. With a wild yell he grabbed the protuberance behind the lady, which had been the cause of his disaster. She was "pulled back" some before, but as the exasperated trunk yanked at the bustle and accessories, all former attempts at that style of wearing gear seemed pale and sickly; everything was "pulled back" until the young woman looked like the statue of Niobe in blue calico. The young man, with great presence of mind, shouted "shoo," and the gentlemanly clerk of the elephant, with a long prod, persuaded the beast to let up. But the fun was over for the day; cake had no charms, and soda no balm for these two souls, who walked home "with but a single thought" about wild animals.

One Box Dr. Quain's Condition Pills "Nearly Cured Where All Else Failed."

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.
T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.
Yours, very truly,
J. D. WHITAKER.

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.
MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complaint many years; one half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Compaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years: three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.
REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Compaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 50 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life.
S. S. RING.
Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.
T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinine," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague.
Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.
MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.
Yours, with respect,
JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.
THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.
Yours truly,
ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.
THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.
Nov. 3, 1874.
L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.
Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail.
MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.
MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible.
MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.
N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four packages.
ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be new in that section.
MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Biliousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them.
A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.
JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.
MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others.
WILLIAM H. FELLOWS.

Harbor Improvements.

The Board of Trade committee recommended at the meeting on Wednesday evening, Aug. 25th, that harbor improvements are very necessary, as follows: At Noble's island ledge, between the island and Concord Railroad wharf; at Badger's island ledge; Buoy and ledge off beacon—the ledge to be removed; Buoy at Pull-and-be D——d point; Breakwater at first Newcastle bridge; Bass Rock in the Narrows to be removed; Buoys in the upper and lower harbor to be replaced by can buoys; Half-way Rock at the Shoals to be removed; and new light-house at White island to be built—the present one being too low and very much out of repair. Hon. Thos. B. Laighton used to assert that the island was gradually sinking. Mr. Israel P. Miller, the keeper of the light, states that in a heavy storm the house and foundation shakes as if the water struck underneath and lifted them. Since the Oceanic Hotel on Star island has been built, vessels from the Eastward cannot sight White island light. All the improvements suggestedare greatly needed.

Jottings.

U. S. S. Tallapoosa, from Boston, with naval supplies, arrived at the Navy Yard on Wednesday afternoon.

Honors crowd thickly on Capt. William Robinson of the steamer Major. And now the guests of the Oceanic have presented him with a Smith and Wesson pistol, nickel-plated and pearl-handled—a little beauty. Long may he have occasion—never to use it.

Commander Bradford has been ordered to hold himself in readiness for the command of the Marion.

Captain Webb has succeeded in swimming across the British Channel from Dover to Calais in 21 hours, 40 minutes.

Had His Salary Raised.

[St. Louis Republican.]

The most ridiculously mistaken man in the world is the one who asserts that, even in these degenerate days the press isn't a great moral agent. An evidence of the noble work the press is doing was afforded one day last week in a wholesale house on Main street. Among the employes of the house mentioned is a young man who is interested in Sunday-schools, who never bets upon a base-ball match unless possessed of reliable information of what the two captains have decided the result of the game shall be, who attends to his business closely and cautiously, and who reads the papers thoroughly. Especially attentive has this young man been in noting every step of a recent great trial from the time a possibility of the case was first hinted at in the newspapers to the date when it concluded with the bestowal of a hundred-thousand-dollar salary; he hasn't missed an incident. We'll call the young man Johnson. The other day he was summoned to the private room of the head of the firm and thus addressed:

"Mr. Johnson; we have been considering the work you have done and the manner in which you have accomplished it for the past year, and we have come to the conclusion to raise your salary. Henceforth you will draw from the bookeeper $100 instead of $80 a month."

The young man received the announcement at first with a flush of pleasure, and then the look on his face changed all at once to one of terror and protest as he broke out excitedly:

"I don't deserve it, Mr. ——, indeed I don't! I've never done anything of the kind! I'll admit, sir, that I went with the Widow Jones to a Sunday-school picnic, and I have invited her out to take ice-cream once or twice; but that is all, so help me God! I try to be a Christian man, sir, in a humble way, and do my duty. I've been in temptation, but I've never yielded as you think I have, and I assure you the reflection is undeserved! I'll swear to it upon a Bible, if necessary! It's a shame, sir!"

Of course in the face of an honest protest, the head of the firm could not insist, and the matter was not forced. Johnson still gets his $80 per month.

Mrs. Tilton's Girlhood.

[Troy Press, August 20.]

We have here in Troy a man of some importance. It is the ancient George Albert, the hermit music-teacher. Albert came to this country from Bohemia, twenty-five years ago. He went to Brooklyn, where he took board at 51 Sands street, kept by Mrs. Morse. Mrs. Morse (Mrs. Tilton's mother) told Albert that she was a widow, that her husband, who had been a jeweler in New York, died in debt, and that she had to support herself by keeping boarders. Albert says she kept a very genteel boarding house. Lizzie Richards was then between fourteen and fifteen years old. Mrs. Morse, learning that Albert was a music-teacher, obtained a piano and engaged him to teach Lizzie music. The professor found Lizzie to be a very industrious scholar, and at the end of six months she was as proficient as many are after a tuition of two years. Otherwise Mrs. Tilton was not a bright girl. Mr. Albert looked upon her as rather simple and childlike. In his own language, she was "as soft as a leetle kitten." She had mild, expressionless black eyes, and was slim and pale. She did not go to school, but did work around the house for her mother. She had many female friends, but seemed too timid to have beaus, and when he heard that she had married Tilton he was surprised. He knew Tilton slightly, and had heard Beecher preach. The Professor was astonished at Elizabeth's marriage with Tilton, because of her very quiet and retired disposition and of her devoutness to the Methodist faith. She was a member of that church, and during the Professor's stay in the Morse mansion he never knew Lizzie to stay away from church but once, and that was on account of a storm. Then she asked him to go for her and get the text. Professor Albert remembers the first time that Mrs. Tilton played a tune through without stopping. It was the Schoubruner waltz, by Lanner. This was always her favorite tune, and she tried hard to learn it. The Professor did not like to express his opinion of Mrs. Morse. It is sufficient that he thinks her to be worse than Tilton, Beecher and Lizzie all put together. Lizzie's mildness so contrasted with her mother's stormy disposition that one would not suppose she belonged to the same family. When the Professor heard of the scandal he was not surprised. Lizzie was just the confiding, devoted sort of girl that such a man as Beecher would ensnare. Lizzie could be made to believe almost anything advanced by a person in whom she had confidence. She would not argue right or wrong, but would swallow everything that was told her. As a girl, the Professor never knew Mrs. Tilton's veracity to be questioned. She never told an untruth to his knowledge. But in the scandal case she had to lie to save her friends, and he believed she would do that at any time.

PULMOCINE.

A Hint to the Lean.

The cause of leanness, when there is no positive disease which produces it, is an imperfect assimilation of the food. The weight of the body undoubtedly bears a marked relation to, and increases proportionately to its height, when it is properly nourished with flesh-making blood. Hence, when we see a tall person with "slab" sides and hollow cheeks, we have a right to infer that his blood is thin and watery and his constitution delicate. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is peculiarly serviceable to thin, delicate people, since it strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, and is consequently a powerful auxiliary in the blood manufacturing processes, which in a state of health ought to be, and are thoroughly performed. An increase of muscle, as well as fat, is a result of using this sovereign anti-dyspeptic, appetizing and generally corrective cordial.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz, a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten day- from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Sores, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Rubers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a test to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years, but without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the noblest new and re-constructive excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

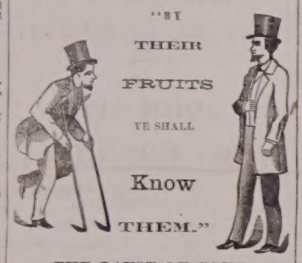
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquilin and Barruel.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before use by the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the combined, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thele of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxurying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cursed himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,

Picturesque Scenery and

Pleasant Surroundings

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

THE WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL,

WARNER, (MERRIMACK CO.) N. H.,

Was opened for the reception of guests, July 20th, 1875.

CARRIAGES will be in readiness to run daily from the hotel over the new carriage-road to the top of Kearsarge Mountain, affording the finest views in New England.

Business men in Boston and vicinity can spend the Sabbath with their families in Warner, and still be in the city during business hours each day. Board from $1.50 to $2.50 per day.

EXCURSION TICKETS for round trip from Boston to summit of Kearsarge Mountain and return, good for three days' trip, including railroad fare, hotel bills, and carriage to the Mountain, will be furnished on application, by mail or the proprietor, for the small sum of $15 each person, and parties of ten or more, $12.50 each.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 78 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from any signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,32 ,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

"FANCHON" AT HOME.

[Olive Logan in the Graphic.]

It has been said that every life would be a poem if rightly interpreted by an appreciative pen; but I sometimes doubt it. The stream of existence in many a case flows so sluggishly that sailing thereon is dull pleasure and the record of the cruise must be drier reading than the reports of some speeches in the house at Washington.

But the story of a young girl's life from poverty and obscurity to wealth and fame; the steps by which she climbed the ladder, at whose top lay fortune and renown; the means employed by her to carve her name upon the scroll of contemporaneous notabilities—this is a tale always full of interest, and one which bears a valuable lesson to the young of hard work, earnest endeavor, and fixity of purpose. Such would be the story of Maggie Mitchell's life, and some day, perhaps, I will tell it; but to-day my purpose is to give your readers a glimpse of Maggie's home.

As you drive along this coast, you will find that a frequently mentioned name among the extensive property-holders here is that of Maggie Michell, whose fame as Fanchon the Cricket is not confined to the United States alone, but has reached Europe. George Sand herself is not unaware that a winsome girl has danced a dance for something more tangible than shadows in her prose poem of "La Petite Fadette," and the great author feels that it is unjust in the American public to judge and condemn her because of the peculiar moral tone of some of her novels, when night after night for fifteen years the pure and refining influence of her "Fanchon" has been exerted over thousands and thousands of people, young and old, in this moral land, through the medium of Maggie Mitchell's acting.

Maggie Mitchell owns real estate in many parts of the United States, but her home is at Long Branch. Here she spends the summer, and here she dispenses a lavish and graceful hospitality to friends of her choice. Shy and pranksome as Fanchon herself, Maggie is the reverse of "sociable" in the sense of promiscuous visiting and returning of formal calls, or even the entertaining of formal callers. She is remorselessly "not at home" to people who come to gape at her, and being utterly without vanity, is apt to consider any prolonged staring at her in public places as born of rudeness and not admiration. The cottage in which she now dwells at Long Branch is the one in which Edwin Booth was married; and the large parlor in which this ceremony took place is the only one in the house that "looks natural" to the tragedian, so he says, for many and various have been the changes and improvements which Maggie has put upon the dwelling, and indeed upon the entire estate.

The visitor to the Cricket's home is instantly struck with the profusion of the valuable and beautiful art-objects of Japanese manufacture which adorn the rooms.

"I like these beautiful Japanese carvings in ivory so much," said Maggie to me as we stood in her parlor the other day. She picked up as she spoke an elaborately sculptured needle-case out of a lady's work-table of odd shape—all lacquer and ivory, and with a queer, pendant silk bag hanging out of its lower drawer—a receptacle, of course, for needle-work.

"But of all the Japanese articles you possess, Maggie," said I, "commend me to these superb vases, as tall as a man."

"Aren't they fine? See how beautifully polished the black of the background is, the sea air blows its breath on it down here and dulls it, but that rubs off"—and she touched the polished surface with her handkerchief—"and look at these curious Japanese parading around; aren't they pompous and funny?

"There is a great revival, or rather awakening of enthusiasm, concerning Japanese art at this moment in London," said Inseparable. "Many connoisseurs claim that, so far from being inferior to European art, the Japanese is greatly superior to our recognized standards, and that there is something to be admired even in their perspectives."

Maggie burst into her little rippling laugh.

"Well, I can't say I think much of their perspectives," said she.

I was struck by a magnificent picture of the elder Booth, which stood on a mantelpiece.

"I was a very young child when I last saw Booth," I said, "but that engraving recalls him as vividly to my mind as if I had seen him yesterday."

"That is not an engraving," said Maggie: "it is a pen-and-ink sketch taken from life. It was done by an old English actor named Wilson who is now in Cincinnati."

This picture is as curious in the art sense as it is excellent as a portrait. It looks like an engraving of an ancient mask and is a marvel of patient work. Maggie's art treasures are numerous. Her most precious possession in the book line is a Shakespeare—Boydell's edition of the year 1793—one huge volume, which, she got at a bargain, paying two hundred and fifty dollars for it. Only three copies of this original edition are believed to be in existence. It contains one hundred large plates, and would be an invaluable aid in indicating costume to a manager about to get up a Shakespearean play.

Maggie seems not to care much for dress or jewels, though I well remember myself that the first time a set of diamonds was presented to her in a city where her pretty ways were much admired she "choked all up with delight," as the children say, and never thought to ejaculate so much as "Thank you," but went deliberately to her room and sat up all night long staring at them. Wasn't that Fanchon? But her whole childhood was the Cricket. When Maggie was very small she took a great abhorrence to an ill-tempered negress who made it a habit to scold the children as she passed along the street. Braver than her companions, Maggie one day determined on revenge, and when the obnoxious colored woman next appeared she ran out of the house and indulged in a disrepectful breakdown in front of her. Then she flew up a side street and rushing home secured a saucepan from her mother's kitchen. She scampered after the black woman as fast as her little legs would allow, and was informed that her tormentor was now in the colored meeting-house. With a hop, skip, and jump she gained the open window of that building and there her horrified sister found her—her feet with stringless shoes hanging outside of the window, her head inside, while her arms were engaged in tambouring the saucepan, to the great discomfiture of the obnoxious negress and the astonishment of the congregation.

All this ran through my head as I fingered a handsome locket on Maggie's neck—a medallion bearing her monogram set in diamonds.

A striking picture of an English village, with its crowded mass of picturesque houses, its ivy-hung church, its antique bridge, and its crumbling castle, hung against the southward wall of the drawing-room in which Edwin Booth was married.

"That is a picture of Knaresboro', in Yorkshire, England, my mother's old home; and that other"—Maggie pointed to a companion picture which hung on the opposite wall—"is Knaresboro' Castle, where my mother played when she was a girl. have been there. This is the house my mother lived in—that window was hers."

"You were born in this country, weren't you, Maggie!"

"Oh, yes; I was born in New York. My mother was Scotch—so is my father."

We found Maggie's father sitting at a window, from which a lovely landscape was visible. Mr. Mitchell is a fine-looking gentleman with silvery hair, and a delicious Scotch accent, and his conversation is entertainingly bookish.

"I am just reading Draper's 'Conflict Between Religion and Science,' and I like it extremely," said Mr. Mitchell. "I have nothing to do but read and walk."

This remark disclosed that Mr. Michell was one of those walkers we read about—one of those stout-limbed Scots who consume space by Nature's own locomotive in a way to make the puny understandings of ordinary people tremble at the prospect of a contest with him.

I have known Maggie Mitchell many years, and rejoice in her success as a sister woman. Her artistic triumphs did not seek her out; she sought for them and won them bravely. Fanchon she created. The medium through which she became acquainted with the part was a heavy translation of the German play. She had not read "La Petite Fadette," George Sand's novel. The Shadow Dance—about whose fairy grace so great a poet as Ralph Waldo Emerson has written beautiful verses, not to mention a host of smaller rhymsters—was an afterthought of her own, and so were many other beautiful and pathetic touches which heighten the charm of delightful dramatic picture. Since 1862 Maggie has been playing "The Cricket," and its hold on the public has not waned even now. Other performances of Maggie's are variously admired. The most prominent of these are "Jane Eyre" and the "Pearl of Savoy," a dramatic version of "Linda di Chamounix;" but "The Cricket" chirps forever.

Maggie is married and to her first beau—the sweetheart who lost his heart to her sweetly many years ago. The third engagement Maggie ever played in her life was at Cleveland, and on the first night of her engagement there came to the theatre the young man whose destiny was to win her for his wife and brighten her household with lovely children. Mr. Paddock is a young man still, and fortunately for Maggie he possesses qualities which permit her to devote herself constantly to her art, in whose pursuit she is still as enthusiastic as she was at the outset of her career.

Although Maggie Mitchell is turned thirty, in disposition and appearance she is—and perhaps always will be a child of twelve. Her long, graceful waist, her flowing, golden hair, her Cinderella feet are the adjuncts which help to make "the ugly Fanchon," as she calls herself in the play, more bewitching than if her face were beautiful as Psyche's.

News and Notes.

Dr. Mary Walker is at Salt Lake. Let all the earth rejoice.

Queen Victoria has insisted on the dismissal of Col. Baker from the army for insulting a lady. The loss of his commission and other incidental losses from his trial and conviction amount to £16,000. And his reputation is forever tarnished.

Lingard has been sued for divorce by an English woman, but says Alice Dunning is his only and original wife.

A poor fellow named Venet has been admitted to the hospital in Paris, having swallowed a pair of spectacles. It appears that he partook one day rather freely of a dish of mushrooms, and having reason to suspect after eating them that they were poisonous, he attempted to bring on a fit of vomiting. Not succeeding in his first effort, he renewed the attempt by thrusting his spectacles down his throat. A gasp—a gulp—and down went the spectacles, and there they remain at the present. As the frames are of silver, no danger of poison is apprehended, but the poor fellow "specs" he's going to die, nevertheless.

Several months ago the wife of David S. Magoon, of Raymond, was reported to have died suddenly during the afternoon, much to the surprise of those who knew her and her neighbors. According to report no physicians was called to attend her, and the funeral services were conducted in a quiet way. Several persons were not exactly satisfied that Mrs. Magoon came to her death from disease, and learned the particulars from Mr. Magoon and one or two who saw her. Mrs. Magoon had not been well on the day before her death, and she took something from a bottle provided by her husband. As soon as she stopped drinking Magoon took the bottle and threw the remainder of its contents out of the window. In a few moments she was seized with severe pains and vomiting, and in a few hours passed away. These things strengthened the suspicions of the suspicious, and everything was gathered of importance. About this time a woman by the name of Gardner began to make statements about the death of Mrs. Magoon, and, on being questioned, she said that Magoon had said that he had something in the house that would put his wife out of the way. On the strength of these statements, and the many other points of bad character and suspicion found in Magoon, the most prominent of which was the strong suspicion and proof that he had fired his own buildings a few months after the death of his wife to secure the insurance, the authorities ordered the stomach of the dead woman examined, and the result was the discovery of strychnine therein. In consequence of this both Magoon and the woman Gardner have been arrested, the suspicion being that the latter is an accomplice, and that as soon as Mrs. Magoon was got out of the way she was to take her place in the home of Magoon.

Yarmouth, Mass., has an original character, modest and unassuming, in the person of Rev. Azariah Eldridge, who has been nominated as an independent candidate for Congress. Aza, in a speech of acceptance, casually remarked that 'twas true he had studied and taught the science of political economy, lived under a monarchy and a republic, and yet was a Cape Codder. The world evidently has need of him. Such talents should not be under a bushel hidden. But we fear some rascally politician who has attained to higher renown and has neither taught nor studied political economy will distance Rev. 'Riah in the race.

Dr. Hamilton of New York insists that crime is a disease—but every disease should have a remedy. He heard burglars in his yard, one night recently. Raising a window silently he saw three men, one in the act of entering another window. Taking aim at one of the two remaining outside, he fired. "That's your game, is it?" cried the object of his aim, and the Doctor found a pistol bullet traveling athwart his forehead. Then the burglars ran, the one inside the house clambered out and followed, and Dr. Hamilton emptied four more chambers of his revolver with considerable effect, for there was blood on the fences and ground when daylight came, but the wounded man or men had been taken away by their comrades. Dr. Hamilton's remedy for crime is a good one—powder and shot.

A barn and shed in the east part of Hudson, owned jointly by Lucius Robinson and Alfred Cotton, were destroyed by an incendiary fire, with four cows, a large quantity of hay and grain and some farming tools, Aug. 22d. The loss is about $1000, partly covered by insurance. This is the third incendiary fire in the neighborhood within a few weeks.

The trial of Major, the Wilton wife poisoner, will begin at Nashua, Sept. 13th.

The Third Regiment reunion at Boar's Head on next Tuesday promises to be an interesting event.

A French lad named Joseph Jooboy, while at work in a mill at Dover, had his clothing accidentally caught by a slowly revolving shaft and he was carried round it several times, tearing his clothing entirely from him and bruising his body considerably.

Joseph Jefferson reappears at the Princess' Theatre, London, next November, in the character of Rip Van Winkle.

During the performance of Barnum's Hippodrome at Moline, Ill., one man fell while riding, and was crushed so that he died within a few hours. Another performer was on the same day so severely injured that it is thought he cannot survive.

An extraordinary and most malicious story has found its way into the Pembroke (Ont.) News. That paper states that the editor of that sheet and some friends were out fishing on the Montreal River, when they found in the woods, sheltered in a ruined hut, a maimed, starving, and dying man, who proved to be Donaldson. He stated that when the storm burst upon them he saw at once that his only hope of saving himself would be in getting rid of Grimwood, and that he accordingly threw him over into the lake. The balloon then rose into a serener current, and Donaldson was carried over into the Canadian woods. He stated that he was lying insensible at the bottom of the car when the balloon descended, and that in crashing through the trees he was thrown out, and an arm and a leg fractured. He had subsisted on such roots and berries as he could manage to collect; but his injured limbs had gangrened, and as soon as he had told his story he sank into insensibility and died. The wild improbability of this story is only equalled by its cruel aspersions on a brave man, who has now no chance of vindicating himself from so foul a charge.

Hayes, the republican candidate for Governor of Ohio, has been left the sum of $750,000 by an uncle. He can afford to be defeated now.

The republicans of Portland opened the campaign on the evening of Aug. 26, with a monster meeting in the city hall. Senator Morton of Indiana made a powerful speech adapted to an intellectual and cultivated audience. Gen. Selden Connor and Gen. Stewart L. Woodford spoke briefly. The latter arraigned the democratic party for a steady policy since 1864 calculated to beat down the national credit; and called their conduct in adopting a rag money platform in Ohio to witness the truth of his assertions.

Joseph Loeder has been admitted to bail in the sum of $2500.

Notices of a trial have been filed with the clerk of the city court in Brooklyn in the suits of Theodore Tilton vs. Beecher, Thos. Kinsella, and the Brooklyn Eagle.

Theodore Tilton takes the lecture filled in Binghamton, N. Y., Sept. 22d.

Hon. William H. Groesbeck, one of the most distinguished democrats in Ohio, refuses to take the stump in that State. He will not stultify himself by supporting the ticket.

The Courier-Journal reports McCreary's majority for Governor of Kentucky as 36,196; that of Leslie in 1871 was 37,153.

The negro scare in Georgia appears to have been gotten up for political effect. So far no conclusive proof of an intention to massacre has been found, and in all probability no such thing ever existed.—New York Herald.

John Hill of Suncook, while at work on the Webster mill in that place, had one of his thumbs jammed off.

Natt and W. F. Head, of Suncook, have sold 3,000,000 brick for the Massachusetts State Prison at Concord, Mass. Fully 14,000,000 brick will be required to complete the structure.

There is at present in the sub-treasury at Boston, awaiting resumption, 120 tons of silver coin, representing $10,000,000.

The democrats, who complain because Morton is to speak in Maine, also complain because Jefferson Davis is not to speak in Illinois.—Boston Traveler.

M. Catacazy, formerly Russian minister at Washington, is charged with having brought about Russia's refusal to take part in our Centennial.

Lieut. B. Jackman and Enoch Pillsbury, of Webster, both soldiers of the war of 1812, celebrated their 86th birthday together, on Saturday, Aug. 14th.

The Amoskeag Co., in Manchester, had some 4000 names on its pay-roll, last month, requiring nearly $127,000 to pay them off.

One Box Dr. Quain's Condition Pills "Nearly Cured Where All Else Failed."

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.
T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.
Yuurs, very truly,
J. D. WHITAKER.

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.
MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complaint many years; one half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years; three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.
REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Complaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 50 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life.
Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874. S. S. RING.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.
T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinines," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague.
Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H, Jan. 5, 1875.
MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.
Yours, with respect,
JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.
THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.
Yours truly,
ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.
THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.
Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.
Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail.
MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.
MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and safe family medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible.
MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.
MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.
N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I have both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages.
ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be ness in that section.
MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Billiousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them.
A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 15, 1875.
THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.
JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.
MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others.
WILLIAM H. BELLOWS.

Local Matters.

Alton Bay Camp Meeting

Is an institution. It was started about twelve years ago by a little band of believers in the literal coming of Christ. These Second Adventists, selecting one of the most beautiful spots in the country,—and we might almost say the world,—pitched a few cloth awnings for shelter, and worshipped God according to the dictates of their consciences for a week or so, then quietly folding their tents repaired to their respective homes. This annual week of prayer and exhortation was invariably productive of an ingathering of new converts, and the quickening and enlivening influences of the intensely fervent meetings also had the effect to arouse the dormant element of the church and give it an impetus that lasted until the next annual gathering. Quite contented would these devout worshippers have been could they have remained thus secluded,—quite satisfied to have been sneered at and laughed to scorn by the world, if they could only be let alone. Thoroughly devoted to their faith, they cared not a farthing for derision, but consistently and patiently followed the teachings of their Scriptures while the world called them fanatics and said just such cruel things to them as the Jews did to their Master when they told him if He was the Christ let him save himself and come down from the cross. So totally regardless were they of popular praise that they would have been more than willing to have had the Alton Bay camp meeting free from the incursions of the curious and the pleasure-seeking. But unfortunately for the consummation of such a hope they selected the wrong locality. Alton Bay, as we have hinted, is one of the loveliest as well as one of the healthiest localities in the world. It cannot be otherwise. Situated on the banks of the far-famed Lake Winnipesaukee, with towering hills and mountains surrounding it, which have for their products great stalwart oaks and towering pines; with thousand of springs and rivulets of the purest and coldest water gushing forth from rock and crag, added to an atmosphere that is as invigorating as air made redolent by the fragrance of such surroundings must needs be, and we have some of the secrets of the attractiveness of this place. We say, some of the secrets; because there are many untold. Any lover of Nature could fairly lose himself for weeks together in exploring forest and plain, hills, ravines, cascades, and scenery such as New Hampshire alone can furnish.

The solemn quietude mingled with the romance and grandeur of the spot, without doubt, was the cause of its selection by the Adventists for the purpose above alluded to. But the world's people found out its charms and heralded them far and wide until the result is such that it has become as famous as the Adirondacks and is destined to a much greater notoriety. Three hundred and fifty wooden tenements have been built, some of which are as neatly and as tastily constructed as any one could desire, while all are comfortable and sufficiently convenient to suit the wants of the occupants. Great improvements are being made by the Boston and Maine railroad corporation (who own the land) in laying out and grading up the avenues within the grounds as well as the roads leading to them. From seventy-five to one hundred dollars will build a comfortable house on the camp ground where one can go with his family and spend a month or so pleasantly and cosily. Unless perchance, he is fond of fashion and its society; if so, he will be terribly lonesome there (save during the week of camp-meeting) and write it down as a stupid place. But for a healthful vacation free from restraint, give us Alton Bay camp ground.

It is during the last three days of camp meeting that gives to this place its notoriety and its crowds of strangers. Between thirty and forty-thousand people, young and old, grave and gay throng the grounds when the meeting is at its height, many of whom wander aimlessly about, apparently not knowing why they came. It is easily explained, however. There is a pleasing, country simplicity in the management of everything pertaining to the meetings that constitutes a part of the attraction. Then the food is cooked only as the good old fashioned back-woods people know how to do it. In addition to this there is a genuine hospitality pervading the whole arrangement, so that the most captious fault-finder must be drawn in and melted down with the whole if he ventures inside the circle of tents. Speaking of the food reminds us of the old saying that the chief end of man is his stomach and he caters best who caters to its wants. This maxim seems to have been well understood by the managers of these gatherings, and they provide the best of country food in abundance at very cheap rates. No extortion of any kind is allowed in or about the grounds. And this leads us to add one more reason of the great attraction to that locality, and that is the simple rules by which the association manage the crowds in attendance and the thoroughness with which these regulations are enforced.

The brethren who are selected as policemen are not only amply able physically to enforce the laws of the meeting, but they do it with the same unction and earnestness with which they pray for souls. So that no evil-disposed person cares to repeat an infraction of the rules, simply because he finds that they back up just what they announce. These rules are printed and conspicuously posted about the camp that the passer-by may know of their existence, and taking due notice thereof govern himself accordingly. No liquor of any kind is allowed in or about the grounds. Not even smoking is tolerated, and we saw no evidence of the use of tobacco by any one during our brief stay. It is to this simple fact (the absence of these two poisons) that so much success is attained in the preservation of order among the thousands of visitors to Alton Bay Camp Meeting.

In regard to the feeding of the throngs of people who pour in there on certain days, we have only time to allude to one or two items that will give the reader an idea of the magnitude of the task. Eight bushels of beans is a common allotment for one baking. Now to aid us in understanding what this means let us remember that there are thirty-two quarts in a bushel and that consequently the eight bushels would be equal to two hundred and fifty-six quarts. Now it is known that a quart of beans with a brown or white loaf is sufficient for a family of eight, which would accordingly give us from the above bean batch food enough for the feeding of a multitude of upwards of two thousand persons. And this is only one item. Three thousand pies are frequently prepared for one day. In order to form a faint conception of such a quantity of edibles, let us remark that these pies if placed in plates one upon the top of the other, would make a pile two hundred and fifty feet in height, thirty feet higher than Bunker Hill monument, or a third higher than the vane on the steeple of the North Church in this city. Tea, coffee milk, sugar, flour, meats, etc. etc., in the same proportion, of course. The requirement of so large an amount of food necessitates shrewd and careful management, in order that the Association not only may make a dollar but that it may not be made bankrupt at the close of the meeting. When good luck attends them, the managers make the boarding tent pay well. But it sometimes happens that orders are sent in for a large stock of groceries and provisions, and bad weather supervenes, and it is left on their hands; which is unpleasant and decidedly unprofitable. Two thousand dollars have been taken at a single dinner season in one day, which is no small business for somebody. Not many of our mammoth hotels can come up to this.

After a good dinner, one feels like going and sitting down for an hour or so in the pleasant grove (where there are seats for six thousand people) and listening to the services, be he saint or sinner. The singing there is beautiful—like all camp meeting singing, and worth going solely to hear. The preaching is also beautiful—to those who enjoy it; but one tribute must be paid to it, it is strikingly honest and earnest. "Preaching," as one minister sobbingly remarked, "as a dying man to dying men." The pathos and ingenuous fervor that pervades each service, form a sort of atmosphere of seriousness and solemnity that causes the most flippant unbeliever to stand in awe before this body of devout worshippers, and pay, at least, the tribute of silence to their adorations. No pride of dress or speech; no affectation of any kind; each acting his honest self, and exhorting or praying from the heart's depths; these are some of the peculiar characteristics of this people, and they must be seen to be fully understood.

In the course of time, however, we fear that wealth and fashion will gradually creep into this sequestered and romantic spot, and quietly and smilingly dispossess its present occupants, or absorb them into themselves. Our prediction is founded upon the rapidly growing popularity of the Alton Bay locality, and as no two dissimilar elements of religious belief can exist together, the one or the other must go down. We have no particular interest in the success of the Adventists, but we are constrained to admire their honest and homely manners. It is a pleasant relief to get out of the sickening air of mawkish sentimentality and strike hands with a people who are contented to act themselves. ***

Jottings.

One of a party of young rowdies who serenaded a newly married couple at the West-end two nights recently, with horns and hootings, was struck on the face by a piece of crockery thrown from a window. Served him right. A little powder and salt would have been better, though.

Willis E. Nowell is to give one of his attractive concerts at the Hampton Town Hall this evening, assisted by Miss Julia A. Wells, the fine contralto of the Arlington street church, Boston, Mr. N. O. Whitcomb, a tenor of the Boston Apollo club, and Geo. M. Nowell, the juvenile pianist. Julius Eichberg says: "The Brothers Nowell are among the most promising young artists of this country. There is no doubt that they will find, wherever they go, an admiring and sympathetic audience. They have been, and are now a credit to their school, the Boston Conservatory of Music." Arrangements have been made for their friends in this city who wish to attend the concert, to return on the Pullman train, making a very pleasant trip and evening's entertainment.

Mrs. George Vandenhoff gives a reading at the Oceanic this evening.

William Huling, mate of the steamer Appledore, caught his legs in the hawser while that vessel was making her landing at the Shoals recently, and was badly injured, but fortunately no limbs were broken. The guests of the Appledore, who have received many kindnesses at his hands, made him a present in the way of greenbacks, a handsome sum, on Thursday.

The check-lists and warrants for the city election will be posted to-day.

The Kearsarge Fife and Drum Band escorted the State militia, Capt. Haddock, in their drill, Thursday evening. The Kearsarges, under the lead of Mr. Abram Kay who has recently returned from England with new instruments, play superbly, their music being soul-stirring and attracting general attention.

Col. J. C. Butler has arranged for another excursion to the Appledore House, Isles of Shoals, to take place on Thursday of next week.

A new 500 pound composition copper church bell, from the foundry of W. B. Locke & Co., has arrived at Newcastle to replace one of steel which is not satisfactory, bearing the insoription "Presented to the Christian Church at Newcastle, N. H., by Charles Roberts of Boston, Mass." The donors are Denio F. Roberts and his wife, a Newcastle lady.

The Dover Enquirer thinks Portsmouth is a hard field for Messrs. Hurd and Loyne to cultivate. Perhaps so—but we have heard people say that the liquors are purer here than at Dover and do not frighten any one into pledge signing.

Mr. Amos Pearson has struck a vein of iron pyrites and lead in which there is considerable silver, in his yard on Broad and Spring streets. The vein is only four inches in width but widens as it deepens. A. P. has come to the conclusion that the place whose streets are paved with gold is situated down stairs rather than in the etherial regions, and that Sir James Squarefoot has a good assortment of yellow metal.

Among the arrivals at the Appledore on Thursday were Gen. Chamberlain in his yacht "Lotus;" Gen. Mitchell and family, Hotel Brunswick, N. Y; G. B. Stetson and family, Bridgewater Iron Works; Wm. H. Huse, of the Newburyport Herald and family; and Judge C. L. Woodbury.

A Hint to the Lean.

The cause of leanness, when there is no positive disease which produces it, is an imperfect assimilation of the food. The weight of the body undoubtedly bears a marked relation to, and increases proportionately to its height, when it is properly nourished with flesh-making blood. Hence, when we see a tall person with "slab" sides and hollow cheeks, we have a right to infer that his blood is thin and watery and his constitution delicate. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is peculiarly serviceable to thin, delicate people, since it strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, and is consequently a powerful auxiliary in the blood manufacturing processes, which in a state of health ought to be, and are thoroughly performed. An increase of muscle, as well as fat, is a result of using this sovereign antidyspeptic, appetizing and generally corrective cordial.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is or is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding section, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied cy him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive substances.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, loss, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because these medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated for who. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more severe and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, timid as to what extent they are affected by this insidious enemy to their health, comfort, and even life itself. If left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will convince it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health.

MRS. HARRIET STURGIS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

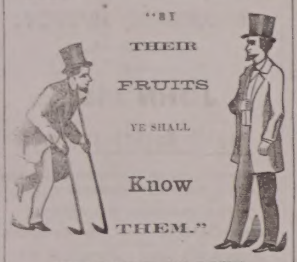
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

"BY THEIR FRUITS YE SHALL Know THEM."



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fornerey, Vauquilin and Barrnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that quick cure should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing.

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various urines, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Carrative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lungs trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a seed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Ice Cream Freezer

makes cream SMOOTH, LIGHT and ALL ALIKE from the top to the bottom of the can. The tub being closed at the end, and perfectly air tight, prevents the waste of ice by the action of the atmosphere, and secures a uniformity and intensity of cold within the freezer unequalled by any other machine. ☞ The saving of Ice alone will pay the whole cost of a Freezer in a single season. The Tub NEVER needs refilling with ice during freezing, even with the largest sizes.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten day from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6 No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $80, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

A BATTLE WITH MUTINEERS.

[New York Times, Aug. 23.]

The Schooner Jefferson Borden, Capt. William Patterson, arrived at quarantine yesterday noon, and was boarded by Deputy Marshals Crowley and Harris, who found on board five witnesses to the mutiny, Capt. and Mrs. Patterson; the steward, Henry Aken; Jacob Limber; and Henry Malihende. They are to appear in Boston, where the three mutineers, Miller, Smith and Clew, are to be tried.

The Jefferson Borden left New Orleans for London on March 23, laden with oil cake, and, shortly after starting, the Captain was obliged to put Miller in irons for insubordination. Miller afterward apologized, and was set at liberty. On the night of April 20, however, he, with Smith and Clew, mutinied, murdered the first and second mates—Corydon E. and Charles Patterson—and attempted to decoy the Captain from his cabin for the purpose of killing him and obtaining possession of the ship. In this, however, they were unsuccessful, the Captain—being warned by his wife, who had an intuitive fear of trouble—refusing to leave the cabin, and he and the steward fought the three sailors for thirty-six hours, finally compelling them to surrender, putting them in irons, and completing the trip short-handed.

Mrs. Patterson, who is a lady of refined appearance and manners, and of evident culture, related her experience with suppressed emotion. She said she had been married nine years, and during five years of the time had been on board ship with her husband, who is part owner of his vessel. The first intimation she had of anything unusual was when Miller called to the Captain to come forward, as a man was hurt, and he thought his leg was broken. The call awakened both the lady and the Captain. He sprang to the room door, thinking to go immediately to the assistance of his man, but before he got outside, Miller appeared in the outer cabin.

This aroused Mrs. Patterson's suspicions, and she said, "Don't go, Will." He stopped, and thought at once that the officer on deck would naturally bring such a message, and called, "Mr. Patterson." Corydon E. Patterson, the first mate, was his brother, and Charles Patterson, the second mate, was his cousin. Receiving no answer, and finding that neither one was in the cabin, he refused to go out, but sent the steward to learn if a man was hurt, and where the mates were. The steward came back with a report that he could not find the mates, nor see that any one was hurt. This put the Captain on the defensive, and he remained in his cabin till morning. He then tried to talk with the men, and found they would not speak to him. They told the steward that they had the mates in the forecastle, and that they were all right. Then began the skirmishing, which ended on the second day in the capitulation of the mutineers. Mrs. Patterson said she felt no fear of the men herself. She did not imagine they had killed the mates, but thought that if she should plead with them they would give up the "poor boys." She went as far forward on the deck as the Captain would allow her to go, and begged of them to release the mates. The men would not answer her, but again told the steward that the mates were all right.

The steward, Aken, said that Smith was at the wheel during the second mate's watch, which began at 10 o'clock. At about 11 he obtained permission to go forward, and sent Limber to the wheel, saying that the second mate wanted him there. This left the mutineers, Smith, (whose real name is understood to be Ephraim Clark, of Boston), an American; Clew, an Englishman, and Miller, a Russian Finn, all forward, and the officers all aft. Limber does not appear to have been concerned in the plot, and he says he was not spoken to by them on the subject. He was aft with the four officers, and the boy, Henry Malihende, was asleep in the forecastle.

The second mate being on duty had to be dispatched first. Smith cut the jib sheet and called out that it had parted. Charles Patterson, the second mate, came forward and went on the boom with Smith to make the sheet fast. When this was done Smith struck him on the head with the capstain bar, knocking him overboard. Smith then called up the first mate, who came on deck and asked what was wanted. Miller and Clew had come from the forecastle, and Miller struck the officer on the head with an iron block strap. He fell moaning, and the three threw him overboard. Miller then tried to lure the Captain from the cabin, but failed, as has been told. The steward says he was roused by the talk, and was told by Mrs. Patterson that the mates could not be found, and she thought Miller must have been making more trouble. He went forward, close to the three men who stood on the deck on the starboard side. He asked for the man who had broken his leg, and Miller and Smith told him he was on the forward part of the boat. Then he asked for the mates, and the men made no reply, but asked him why he did not help the poor man who was hurt. Aken, said, "Oh, no, you can't fool me," and went back. Then all was quiet until daybreak, the Captain barricading the cabin doors, thinking that the men might make a rush and try to overpower him. A double-barreled gun that he had in his cabin was brought out and cleaned and loaded with grapeshot, and his revolver was loaded. When day broke the Captain took the gun and the steward and went forward to the galley, where he also had a revolver. The men were watching and a few words were interchanged, they saying that the mates were all right, and asking him to come further forward.

He refused and getting his revolver walked aft again, firing the pistol once to see if it was all right, but not aiming it at any one. He then approached the men, who had prepared themselves with stones and bits of iron as missiles. They would stand behind the corner of the forecastle, to screen themselves, and the Captain and steward would fire with their revolvers whenever they could see one of the mutineers. This was kept up at intervals all day without any result, excepting a few wounds. Smith was shot in the hand. Clew then took Smith's place as watchman and received a wound in the biceps muscle from the steward's revolver. The shot-gun was discarded after a single trial, the Captain preferring to rely on his revolver. The Captain at one time shot Smith through the wrist, at which Miller rushed forward and threw a piece of iron broken from a stove, which cut the Captain's face. During the day the Captain's party had bread and a little salt beef, to eat, and there was luckily a little water aft. The mutineers had access to plenty of water, but had only scraps of food. The galley was too exposed a place for either either party to attempt to cook anything. The boy, Henry, during the day came aft to the Captain through the hold. He said that he had been wakened in the night by Miller, who gagged him with a woolen comforter and took him into the hold, when, with Smith's assistance, he had tied him to two stanchions. From this confinement he had freed himself after a time, and had hidden in the cargo. Miller had come down twice to look for him, bringing a lamp the second time, but the boy had hidden himself well, and had at length wormed his way through to the stern. During the day the Captain, with the help of the steward, and Limber (whom he did not trust with a weapon), and the boy, did all the work absolutely necessary, such as pumping and clewing down the topsails.

On the second night active hostilities were suspended, each party watching the other closely. On the following morning the insurgents were not be be seen. Tired of fighting against such odds, they remained in the forecastle, a room about eight feet square. The others, acting under the Captain's orders, went forward and closed the forecastle door and made it fast, the men inside offering no resistance and keeping quiet. Then a thorough but fruitless search was made for the mates, and the Captain, still unable to believe that they had been killed, was forced to think that they were in the forecastle with the mutineers. The forecastle window on the starboard side had been nailed up on account of the sea. The steward tore off some of the boards and looked in to see if he could see any one. He saw Miller looking out and fired at him, but was ordered by the Captain not to fire again, as he might hit the mates. He then commanded the sailors to surrender and set the mates free, but no answer was received. Then the expedient was tried of pouring boiling water into the forecastle, but it was unavailing, as it was too dark to see where to throw it, and the men inside were able to avoid it easily. The Captain bored holes with an auger through the thin boards in different places, but not until 11 o'clock were those able to get a view clear enough to enable them to know who to shoot at. Then they got a sight at Miller and shot him five times. Then Clew was shot through the lower ribs and the party surrendered. The Captain made Miller and Smith put their hands out and he put on the irons, and Clew was chained in his bunk. Then they confessed to having murdered the mates. They said they had to make their way to land and scuttle the schooner and desert her.

The Jefferson Borden kept on her way, speaking a Norwegian vessel and getting a seaman from her, and arriving at London on the sixty-first day out from New Orleans. The mutineers were kept in irons and obliged to help at the pumps, but although their wounds were numerous, they were not dangerous and all were surrendered to the proper authorities in England, and afterward extradited on demand of the United States authorities.

News and Notes.

Now York is troubled with simultaneous Hamlets, Irish and American.

The Tallahassee Sentinel says: Republican government has placed Florida on the high road to prosperity. The State is rapidly filling up with first-class settlers; the light of free schools shines in every corner of the State; the laws of the State are wise and conservative, and are faithfully executed; the counties, as a general thing, are well organized, and prosperous; lands have greatly appreciated in value; a wise system of free labor has given a wonderful impetus to the agricultural interest; and, above all, the State, which was received in a bankrupt condition, without money and without credit, has been so honestly and judiciously managed that, notwithstanding the enormously-increased expense of providing for the new order of things, the financial condition of the State is fully assured. The strictest honesty in the management of the finances, and a careful attention to all the details of public expenditures has brought this about, and if the republican party continues in power a cash basis will soon be reached, if, indeed, it is not reached during the next year.

Capt. Samuel P. Cook, of Tiverton, Mass., an old fisherman, estimates that one thousand tons of tautog perished last winter, between Gay Head and Block Island, and ascribes the present scarcity of this fish to the intense cold at that time.

The attempt, in Chicago, to assassinate Mr. J. E. Miller, who was engaged in collecting evidence to be used in the prosecution of the whiskey cases, shows how desperate the whiskey ring is and how dangerous are the members of it. Miller was formerly a gauger in the Chicago district. Some time ago he was dismissed for some fault, which is said by one account to have been only a neglect of some technicality not implying dishonesty on his part, by another a slight remissness in duty. At any rate, he was dismissed, but not disgraced. Soon after he laid before the officials engaged in tracing out the whiskey frauds a mass of evidence, said to involve many people of wealth and social standing in Chicago. It was so important and so convincing that he was given regular employment in obtaining further information, which his extensive knowledge of the distillers and their methods of procedure enabled him to do. For some time he has known that he was constantly watched and followed. Friday night, as he was walking in a retired part of the city, a shot was fired at him by some person whom he saw only indistinctly. Fortunately, the bullet passed through his arm instead of striking a vital part, and he is not dangerously wounded.

Portland is excited over the announcement that several important books belonging to the County Treasurer, who had his office robbed of $10,000 so mysteriously last winter, are missing and the Treasury refused to account for them. Doubts are now expressed as to whether his office was robbed at all. The Commissioners have a suit pending against the bondsmen of Mr. Pennell for the recovery of the money.

Give the Gottsbergers a gold watch, a diamond pin and a silver punch bowl. They live in New York. A couple of thieves entered their residence at two o'clock in the morning, turned on the gas in the hall and parlors, and ransacked the house. They entered Gottsberger's room and took therefrom coats and pantaloons. Then they opened the locked door of Gottsberger's sons with a jimmy. The young men sprang from bed and one of the thieves rushed out. The other rushed into the parlor and was cornered. He threatened to shoot them, dashed by and endeavored to escape out of the window. By this time the senior Gottsberger had appeared on the scene. He seized the burglar by a wrist and one of his sons took hold of a leg. The elder son seized an Indian club and dropped it gently on the burglar's back hair thrice. Then he dropped into the yard, a fall of ten feet, and the police picked him up insensible. His comrade came back to see how things were progressing and was caught peeping through the key-hole of the front door. Bully for Gottsberger's.

The Bank of California has suspended and cannot resume.

A dispatch to the Boston Globe from Jamaica, L. I., says that on the evening of Aug. 25th, Constable Abraham Harner went to Newton to make an arrest. He drove back alone over the old Myrtle avenue road, when suddenly a highwayman darted from a piece of woods and grabbed Harner's horse by the head. The horse shied and drove the wagon into a ditch. As soon as Harner regained his feet he fired at the robber, who dropped instantly and died in a few minutes. Harner waited a little while and kept ready for another attack, as he heard signals pass between men concealed among the trees, who must have been confederates of the dead highwayman. After a little while, he re-entered the wagon and drove to Jamaica. He soon returned with coroners and others, but the body had been removed. No clue has been found to the others or to the whereabouts of the corpse, which is supposed to have been buried by the confederates.

A sail-boat, in which were two men, was capsized in Newport harbor, Thursday. One man was saved by the famous Ida Lewis, who put out from the Lime Rock Lighthouse, and the other was saved by two Boston man, who put out from the shore.

Geo. Welsh, five years old, was crushed on Thursday under a dray at Providence.

His Honor, the serpent of the sea, has been more closely interviewed than ever of late by the crew of schooner Emily Holden, Capt. York, who arrived at Portland, Aug. 26th, and reported that on the Sunday previous, when ten miles South-south-west of Matinicus, they saw what was thought to be a sword-fish, 500 yards off. A neck projected above the water, long like an eel's and blunted like a whale's. For ten feet the neck was as large and round as a barrel, and there the fin began. The schooner was steered for the monster in a three-knot breeze and struck him just abaft the fin. He dived with the quickness of a flash, and whisking his tail slapped the schooner's stern with a force that made the vessel shiver and set the crockery in the pantry quivering. Nothing was seen of him afterward. An exchange says that "some fishermen by the name of Williams were out fishing just off Wells beach, and suddenly looking, they saw, right beside their boat, a huge sea animal, with head and back above water, with no fins, but with head like a shark. They declare it to be the veritable sea serpent. The serpent grasped their cable rope and began dragging their boat through the water at a tremendous speed, and they had to cut the rope to save themselves. The first indication of the presence of the 'sarpint' was a loud noise like 'hssh,' which attracted their attention."

J. H. Noe, assaulted in his store in New York, is dead. So far the assassin has not been identified.

Mr. Youens, an aeronaut, had a narrow escape at Dorcaster, England, Aug. 12. He ascended just before a terrific storm broke over the district, and was carried into the storm cloud. He could not rise above it, and, just as he opened the valve to descend, the balloon was struck by the lightning, a rent 13 feet from the bottom being made. Youens fell from a considerable height into Sprotborough Park, and lay insensible for nearly an hour. He is injured, but not seriously.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS.

NEW TESTIMONIALS.

— FOR —

Weak Lungs, Constipation, Lameness, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Poor Blood and Kidney Troubles.

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.

T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, very truly,
J. D. WHITAKER.

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complaint many years; one-half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Compaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years: three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.

REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Compaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 50 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life. S. S. RING.

Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinines," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague. Yours, most respectfully,

MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.

Yours, with respect,
JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.

Yours truly,
ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.

Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail. MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.

MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible. MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.

N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages. ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be new in that section. MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Billiousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them. A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.

JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended. I have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others. WILLIAM H. FELLOWS.

☞ DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are sold by the Agent of the American Medicine Co. A package will be forwarded upon receipt of fifty cents, by THOMAS W. LANE, Agent, Manchester, N. H.

Fire.

The barn and smoke-house of Sullivan & Dixon on Hancock street were burned on Friday evening about eight o'clock. The horses were saved, but the other contents were destroyed. Loss $1200; insured. The residence of Mr. William A. Vaughan near by was injured to the extent of several hundred dollars, the roof catching fire from the heat of the burning barn.

Jottings.

The Eastern Railroad will run an Excursion train to Alton Bay Camp Meeting next Sunday, at the low fare of one dollar for the round trip. The route is by the way of Wolfeboro and down over the Lake.

G. H. Thompson of York has been appointed foreman of laborers at the Navy Yard, vice Thomas F. Staples of Eliot.

William S. McKittrick, steward of the Appledore House, was presented with a valuable gold watch and chain by the guests of the house, on Thursday evening, Judge Arthur McArthur making the presentation speech, to which the recipient feelingly responded. Remarks were made by Charles Levi Woodbury and others.

There will be an important meeting of the Board of Trade next Wednesday evening at eight o'clock, at the Common Council room.

Among the guests at the Appledore are Justices Ladd and Smith of the Superior Court, and Justices Foster and Stanley of the Circuit Court. The wives of Justices Foster, Smith and Stanley accompany their husbands to tantalize Justice Ladd with his state of oneness.

The grammar and primary schools of this city will resume "business" on Monday, Sept. 6. The high school will not commence until Thursday, Sept. 9th.

The Aldermanic Board voted at their Thursday evening meeting to adopt the act passed by the legislature in relation to repairs of sidewalks, as a city ordinance; also to re-district the road surveyors' districts and double the present number to help satisfy the hungry office seekers.

There are more calls for rooms at the Wentworth now than in June, and the house is overflowing with guests.

The Jolly Gamboliers of this city have just returned from a short camp at the Sands. On Wednesday last a reception was given, at which a large number of their fair friends were present. Vocal music was furnished by the club, and also by an eminent French Gambolier. The club spared no pains to give all stray sand-birds and tramps a warm reception.

William F. DeHaas, the well known artist, is at the Wentworth engaged in sketching some of the exquisite views from that point. They will be placed en exhibition in the Brooklyn, N. Y., Art Gallery.

The Transcript says: At Rye Beach, recently, the bathers were treated to a novel sight. Three gentlemen well known in society, who were among the lookers on at the usual bathing hour, when the beach is alive with people, concluded to try the temperature in their usual daily garb, and deliberately walked in the water arm in arm, one smoking, one carrying a cane, and the third an umbrella, which he raised after they walked through the breakers into the water up to their necks. Their nonchalance was quite remarkable. It was whispered that they left their watches and greenbacks at home. The bystanders looked on with some anxiety, but enjoyed the practical joke which the gentlemen were playing on themselves.

Lieutenant David Whipple, United States marine corps, has been detached from the marine barracks at this naval station and ordered to the receiving ship Sabine, relieving Lieutenant Israel H. Washburne, who is to be ordered upon recruiting service.

Fence ornaments are all very well, if they are of the right sort; but when they take the shape of persistent idlers who regularly sit upon the cemetery fence on Sundays, and occupy their time in staring at passers-by, they become nothing more nor less than a nuisance, and should be abated.

Callender's Famous Georgia Minstrels are to appear at the Temple on next Thursday evening. During their four weeks' performance in Boston last Spring the rush to see them was unparalleled, over 40,000, people attending their concerts. The Advertiser speaking of them says this troupe is the best that ever performed in Boston.

—There were four of us,—Jim, Nate, Charley, and self. It was a beautiful autumnal day, and the last of the week, the boys' holiday. We had been to the "Grotto." Every boy in those days who lived hereabouts knew where and what the Grotto was. It was a favorite spot for the boys and girls. Many is the picnic we have had there. We were returning homewards. Passing by the orchard of Old King Cole, as we used to call him, our eyes were regaled with the sight of sound, luscious-looking fruit. A consultation was held, and it was agreed that one of us should shin up the tree while the others remained underneath, standing guard, to give the alarm in case we were discovered. It was my luck to make the ascension, and so, having implicit confidence in my associates, I went up. The fruit hung high. I had dropped some of the fruit into the caps of my companions below, and had picked one or two more beauties, calling for some one to hold a cap, when, to my surprise and consternation, I could see no one under the tree. Judge of my feelings when, looking toward the house, I saw King Cole and his dog making for me. My companions had fled without giving the alarm. I didn't care much for Cole, but the dog was my aversion. He was not an amiable dog at all. I always gave him a wide berth. He was of the bull species, of a brindle color, and had one of the ugliest-looking muzzles that I ever saw. The under jaw projected beyond the upper, displaying his teeth in a manner not calculated to invite close inspection. There was no time for consideration, so I dropped from the tree and ran for dear life.

Noticing my companions running at full speed to the further corner of the orchard next the road, I followed them, but I soon became aware of the near proximity of my canine pursuer, and was about to surrender, when an idea came into my head which was worthy of an older head than mine. I had kept several dogs and knew a good deal of their nature. A dog will chase a person who is running from him, when he will stop to consider the situation when confronted; so in this case, I squatted down and clapped my hands, crying "s-s-s-tib-boy" (if that's the way it is spelled) and the dog kept straight on with a yell for those who were running, while I took the shortest way to the road. It was in vain that old Cole shouted to the dog to come back for me, and shaking his fist, calling me by name, he threatened vengeance upon me if he ever caught me. (He never did.) The other boys cleared the wall just in time, and the last I saw of the dog he was standing on his hind legs with his fore legs on the wall, yelling and howling for his prey, but like a knowing dog he kept within the enclosure of his master.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $10, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.

Per order.

A Hint to the Lean.

The cause of leanness, when there is no positive disease which produces it, is an imperfect assimilation of the food. The weight of the body undoubtedly bears a marked relation to, and increases proportionately to its height, when it is properly nourished with flesh-making blood. Hence, when we see a tall person with "slab" sides and hollow cheeks, we have a right to infer that his blood is thin and watery and his constitution delicate. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is peculiarly serviceable to thin, delicate people, since it strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, and is consequently a powerful auxiliary in the blood manufacturing processes, which in a state of health ought to be, and are thoroughly performed. An increase of muscle, as well as fat, is a result of using this sovereign antidyspeptic, appetizing and generally corrective cordial.

TO THE SHOALS!

THE BEST TIME OF THE SEASON

THE LADIES interested in the Public Library have completed their arrangements for the trip to Appledore, which will take place on TUESDAY, AUGUST 31st.

The steamer will leave her moorings at the North End, at 11 o'clock.

The fare for the round trip has been placed at the extremely low price of 75 Cents.

Tickets can be purchased at Morse & Ilsley's, H. M. Clark's and Leonard Akerman & Son's.

A DANCE complimentary to the members of the party will be given in the evening to which all are invited. The return trip will be made at about 9:30. If stormy, the excursion will come off on the first fair day thereafter.

A fine opportunity is here offered for a cheap and profitable trip to these "beautiful isles of the sea."

Get your tickets early, as they are necessarily limited. aug28

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over-indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

*Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, to a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

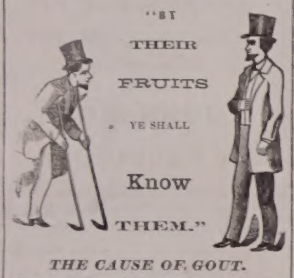
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Pearson and Vauquilin and Barruell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, tartars of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the lung-trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or docks, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days of the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No render of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any seller of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal, forcibly enter such building, vessel, or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or cause to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substance.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are hereby saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,32 ,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

PULMOCINE.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the humid trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

—USE

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Revolutionary Documents of New Hampshire.

[Cor. Exeter News-Letter.]

It may not be generally borne in mind that under a joint resolution of the two Houses of the New Hampshire Legislature, passed in 1866, the Governor was authorized to appoint some suitable person to collect, arrange and transcribe, and superintend the publication of such portions of the early State and Provincial records, and other State papers of New Hampshire, as the Governor might deem proper; and that under his authority, Rev. Dr. Nathaniel Bouton of Concord was employed, and has been occupied for several years, in carrying out the objects intended by the Legislature.

The eighth volume of these records and papers, published last year and just distributed, embraces the period from 1775 to 1783, and includes documents as nearly of universal interest to all the people of our State as any ancient records can be. This is made particularly so by the fact that the volume contains the New Hampshire Declaration of Independence—the "Association Test," as it was called, and sets forth the names and residences of nearly all the male inhabitants of the Colony, and their relations to the "Test," and having subscribed to it, or refused to subscribe. The whole number who signed was 8199, and who refused 773. Most of the native born of New Hampshire now on the stage have some knowledge by tradition, at least, of the position of their ancestry, 100 years ago, on the great question of the approaching war, and the dissolution of ties with England. This volume furnishes record evidence of the position of every man, with few exceptions, however humble. Each city and town in the State has a copy of this volume, as well as of those which have preceded it, and the information it contains may well become interesting topics of conversation around numerous firesides.

It will be of interest to note, in respect to the "Association Test," that on the 14th of March, 1776, the Continental Congress at Philadelphia "recommended to the colonies," immediately to cause all persons to be disarmed, "who are notoriously disaffected to the cause of America, or who had not associated and refuse to associate to defend the United Colonies by arms against the British fleets and armies." On the 12th of April following, the Committee of Safety of New Hampshire, Meschech Weare, chairman, took action upon the foregoing and sent requests to the selectmen of each town and plantation in the Colony, requesting them to submit to every male inhabitant the following declaration for subscription thereto or rejection, and to report thereon to the Committee of Safety. Observe that the declaration below goes further than the action suggested by the Continental Congress, and those sent out nearly four months prior to the Declaration of Independence, on the 4th of July following included all the essentials of that great instrument, and committed the subscribers to it, in case of failure, to the penalties of treason. It becomes us to be proud of an ancestry, who so overwhelmingly pledged their lives to the then doubtful fortunes of their country, and it becomes us, too, to make a point in the claim, that they did not follow, but that they led in the hazards and devotion of declared Independence.

"WE THE SUBSCRIBERS DO HEREBY SOLEMNLY ENGAGE AND PROMISE THAT WE WILL, TO THE UTMOST OF OUR POWER, AT THE RISQUE OF OUR LIVES AND FORTUNES, WITH ARMS, OPPOSE THE HOSTILE PROCEEDINGS OF THE BRITISH FLEETS AND ARMIES AGAINST THE UNITED COLONIES OF AMERICA."

It is interesting to observe what an identity there is between the names reported in the old towns in the Colony, and especially of the towns in Rockingham county, with the names of the present inhabitants. In some cases one can hardly believe, in looking over the old lists, that he is not reading a modern check-list. Unfortunately the list of signers in Exeter, is not reported. A few names only are given, and Dr. Bouton is not sure they are names of Exeter residents.

The selectmen of Hampton who were William Lane, Joseph Dow, Josiah Dearborn, Jonathan Garland and Cotton Ward, returned 174 as having signed, and 2 only as having refused. Only ten names of these 176 persons fail now to be found in that old town.

The selectmen of North Hampton were Abraham Drake, David Marston and Christopher Smith, who report 116 names, and all signers of the Test, identical to a great extent in christian and surnames with the present inhabitants.

Stratham had for selectmen, Simon Wiggin, Daniel Clark, Jonathan Wiggin, Moses Clark, Nicholas Rollins, and Jonathan Robinson, who reported 131 as having signed the Test, and 49 who refused to sign. This was a poor show for Stratham, but fortunately the documents prove that some people who refused, were not deficient in patriotism. In one case a man who had himself become a soldier refused to sign. The Yankees, then as now, had a great deal of individuality, and sometimes declined to do a good thing, if not approached in a proper manner.

The selectmen of Kingston were Eben Eastman, Richard Hubbard and Simmons Seccomb, who report 150 signers and 14 who refused. They say of James Caruth:

A Scotchman, declines obliging himself to take up arms against his native country, but declares he will never take up arms against America, and is willing to bear his proportion of the public taxes with his townsmen." Against the name of Moses Welch, they make this entry: "Refuses to take up arms and pleads conscience for an excuse." After the names of twelve others who refused, the selectmen remark as follows: "These persons appear to be fearful that the signing of this Declaration would in some measure be an infringement on their just rights and liberties, but they appear to be friendly to their country and several of them have ventured their lives in the American cause, and the last three named persons are now in the Army."

The selectmen of Kensington were Nathaniel Gove, Josiah Batchelder and Isaac Fellows. They reported 110 names signed, and add, "those under written, are those who refused to sign the Declaration given forth by the Congress or Committee of Safety. Then follow 15 names in two columns: "So far is quakers as these two Collums; and what is to come your Honors may call what you please," Then follow five other names.

Portsmouth reported 509 signers, 15 notoriously disloyal, and 31 who refused to sign. The selectmen were Joseph Simes, Geo. Gaines and William Langdon. The returns to the Committee of Safety made out by some towns indicate good education, and others do not. Portsmouth affords an example of the former class, and Rye of the latter. The selectmen of Rye were Joseph Jenness, Nathaniel Rand and Richard Brown, who made return in the following words. "According to the above. presepe, we the Selectmen of Rye, has appllied to the inhabitants of said town and sinied the above presep in full." They return 123 names of signers with none refusing, thus making amends for bad spelling.

All the old towns of the county present lists of names equally suggestive with the above of the present generation. To read over the list one can realize a family connection with those who hazarded everything for their country, and who lost almost everything for their country; that they saved for their descendants, by establishing and maintaining at the expense of a lifetime of hardship, the best government of ancient or modern times. They "fired the guns heard round the world," and now the dynasties of the world are strong or weak, according as they conform to or ignore the principles our fathers maintained, that "governments are instituted among men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed;" and are made by the people for the people.

News and Notes.

Ralston, president of the bank of California, committed suicide after the failure. He went into a sea-bathing establishment, stripped off his clothes, plunged in and took a dose of poison. His body was soon after discovered floating on the water, and he was alive when found, but died soon after. The Bank of California had been carrying Ophir, Savage, Caledonia and Virginia Consolidated stocks in a desperate battle with the Bank of Nevada. It had some $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 deposits.

A man dressed in woman's clothes and closely veiled attacked a man named George Roberts, on the road between Rochester and East Rochester, knocking him down and kicking him several times, but not attempting to rob him. It is thought that the person who made the assault lives in Rochester.

A misplaced switch caused David Woodman, baggage master and switchman at the Boston & Maine depot in Biddeford, to lose his position. The noon passenger train of nine heavily laden prssenger cars from Boston came around the curve and rushing into the depot on Thursday of last week. It was discovered by men on the train, but too late to stop the train, that the switch was misplaced! Fortunately the switch had a patent cast iron guide to meet cases of misplaced and by which when going at a low speed a train may be thrown upon the right track. On this occasion the long train was safely thrown to the main track. A gentleman near remarked that the fireman was "pale as a ghost" when the train came to a halt. This is the second time a train has passed over a misplaced switch in this city. It is said that in this particular instance Mr. Woodman did not turn the swicth but that it was done by a brakeman on a freight train that had backed in there a short time before the down train arrived.—Bid. Journal.

Carefully compiled estimates go to show that if the full republican vote can be brought out in the Ohio election, the State will go for Hayes by at least thirty thousand majority. Under high pressure they can swell it to forty-five thousand.

The republican party, whenever it puts a platform before the people, is universally found to be in favor of an honest treatment of the public creditor, and a return to specie payments. That is the only test by which it is to be judged, and it is a sufficient one. An entire party is not to be condemned for the crazy opinions of Mr. Kelley and Gen. Butler. The republican party will go into the next Presidential election on the broad basis of honesty and specie payments, and we believe that it will win.—New York Times.

Moody and Sankey are warmly welcomed in Chicago. It is the city above all others that needs the elevating influence of their presence. Fifty lager beer saloons to every chapel and skimmed milk for breakfast coffee.—Washington Republican.

The Keely motor idea is still pushed forward, notwithstanding that many entertain the idea that the silence of those interested in the invention must be construed as an evidence of a failure to accomplish what was claimed by the invention. Mr. Keely and his lawyers are very reticent on the subject, and refuse to converse on the topic lest the curiosity of the public be again aroused. It has been learned, however, that a stationary engine will be completed within three or four weeks, when a private exhibition will be given to members of the press at Mr. Keely's residence. The machine, it is reported, is now under perfect control; that while an immense power can be generated in an instant, yet such improvements have been made as to allow the engineer to so manipulate it as to reduce the pressure from fifteen thousand pounds to the square inch down to zero. An engine for railroad purposes is also being made. The gauge to be used on the apparatus has been completed, and will be on exhibition on Chestnut street in a few days. It registers as high as fifty-four thousand pounds' pressure. It is stated on the same authority that the control of the patent will not be vested in a stock company.—Philadelphia Times.

H. W. Beecher was at the Crawford House, a few days since, driving up from the Twin Mountain with a four horse team. When he started back the reins got tangled and the leaders acted a little badly. All at once Stevenson, who had never had an introduction to the Brooklyn pastor, stuck his head out of the window and shouted, "Let out your leaders you —— fool." Suffice it to say the leaders were let out.

"Prof." Bristol, the balloonist of Cole's circus, came near being a second Donaldson at Bellows Falls, Vt. He had gone up about a thousand feet, when he struck a current of cold air running parallel with the Connecticut river. Immediately the balloon began to fall with great rapidity, the crowd meanwhile looking on and expecting to see him dashed into the Connecticut at a point where he would go over the falls; but, as he neared the stream, the balloon tacked a little, and, when within twelve feet of the water, the Professor gave a leap up the stream far enough to save himself, and in another second the balloon was dashed over the precipice and almost completely wrecked. The professor succeeded in swimming ashore, but in his leap he wrenched one of his ankles, from which he suffered considerable pain.

The Canadian steamer Manitoba collided with the propeller Comet above White Fish Point, Lake Superior. The latter sunk almost immediately. Ten lives were lost.

A new political party has been organized in Boston. Its place of birth was room No. 12, Parker House. Colonel Russell H. Conwell appears to be the "author and finisher" of the foundling. He wrapped it up neatly in a letter and placed it on the doorstep of Hon. Nathaniel P. Banks, who inspected the infant with considerable care, and said, in a letter, it deserved to be well "brought up," but finally sent it to the traditional political orphan asylum, with a view doubtless, in the event of a favorable growth and development, of ultimate adoption.—Inter-Ocean.

Each of the daughters is a graduate from Meriden,—Miss Ellen of the State Normal School—where they took the first rank as scholars. These young ladies are highly esteemed at home. Mrs. Goodwin, the mother, was the daughter of the late Kendall O. Peabody, and a graduate at New Hampton. Mr. Goodwin graduated at Bowdoin, where he ranked among the first of his class in scholarship, and is today regarded by those who know him as one of the best writers and best informed men in our State. He has neglected no advantage for the education of his daughters. —Patriot.

A Philadelphia special says that at a secret meeting of the executive committee of the National League, ex-Gov. Where is the schoolmaster? That's a question we asked ourselves, while impatiently waiting upward of an hour at an up country railroad station for a tardy train. "Refreshments, in the Gents' room! Why upon earth did the ignoramus who printed that placard want to put that comma in for us to stumble over and fret about? It added greatly to the annoyance of having to wait, if that fact is any comfort to the perpetrator. But as though this was not enough our eyes met the following, "Hot tea. and coffee. in the Gent's room." Without stopping to inquire whether they afforded a room for every gentleman, or whether this room was for one particular gent, (as we presume it must have been or they would not have given the possessive singular by placing the apostrophe between the t and s) we must express our utter disgust at those horrible periods. We could have attended the funeral of the man who dropped those confounded quadruple stops, with the greatest delight. Luckily he did not make his appearance while we were pacing up and down that lonely platform; luckily for us—we mean. * * *

It don't seem to be just the thing to be kept waiting for a train at a country station for an hour or two while you are compelled to read a placard posted conspicuously "Loafers are not wanted here!"

The venerable William Allen, now awaiting his defeat in Ohio, makes the classical mind revert to the old fable of echo. Mr. Allen, if report says truly, has a voice of uncommon power, so that it has even been suggested that in the coast service he might be used with effect in the place of one of Professor Tyndall's "sirens," which are worked by steam and can be heard for miles above the roar of wind and waves and through the densest fogs. But the story of Echo is that when she was a maiden she asked Apollo to let her live forever. The god complied, and the result was that, having forgotten to ask for eternal youth, she dwindled away till only her voice was left. Probably Mr. Allen made the same request in the same historical epoch, and has been more successful in keeping his body together, though age does begin to tell on him slightly at last, but not on that beautiful voice.—Graphic.

Second Ditto (after pause)—"Whose father?"

First Ditto—"Why, Jim Bates'."

Second Ditto (after pause)—Jim Bates who?"

First Ditto—"Why, Jim Bates' father!"

Second Ditto (after pause) — "Jim Bates' father! Well, what does he say?"

First Ditto—"Says he'll give 'im the sack!"

Second Ditto (after pause)—"Give 'im the what?"

First Ditto—"Give 'im the sack."

Second Ditto (after pause)—"Give who the sack."

First Ditto—"Why Jim Bates!"

Second Ditto (after long pause)—"Ah! 'eard that the day before yesterday!"—Punch.

Jottings.

The large and valuable collection of autograph letters and documents in the possession of Samuel Dodge, Esq., of this city, has recently received several rare additions, viz.: a remarkably well preserved order to the French army, on parchment, signed by Louis XVI, and his private Secretary, St. Germanis; a plea by Christopher Popl (Baron Lobcovitz), who was Austria's greatest statesman, accompanied by the Government seal and a fine portrait, the document dated 1598. Another rare specimen is a letter written by Victor, Duke of Belluna, who was Napoleon's marshal, written, as the letter shows, at the dictation of the great General; a five-page letter of General Leslie Coombs, dated at Lexington; and autographs of Queen Victoria, Patrick Henry, John Wentworth, who was the last Provincial Governor of New Hampshire, Jennie Lind, Charles Turner, aid to Washington, John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home," Edgar A. Poe, Guiot, and many others, all late additions.

The life sustaining properties of Marvin's Cod Liver Oil were fully demonstrated by Captain Webb in his recent exploit of swimming across the English channel.

Lemuel McIntire, a son of A. J. McIntire, employed at the navy yard by Woodruff & Beach, contractors for the machinery of steamer Enterprise, was badly injured on Saturday while standing between two circular boilers, which rolled toward each other on account of the removal of the blocks which had kept them in place, catching him by the shoulders and pressing them together. His collar bone was broken and he received internal injuries.

Master Lyman G. Spalding of this city has just returned home, having been detached from the Asiatic Station on the 28th of June last, and been placed on sick leave.

An old fisherman in Gloucester attributes the short catch of mackerel to the prevalence of calm weather. A storm, he says, would stir up the water and cause the mackerel now feeding on bottom among the rocks to school again and change their feeding ground.

Of course you are going to the Shoals tomorrow.

An insane woman jumped from an attic window, at the Brentwood County house a few days ago, and broke both legs.

Mr. Butler requests us to announce that in consequence of the number of passengers living in adjoining towns, and the absence of the moonlight on Thursday evening, the excursion steamer will leave the Shoals at 7:30 P. M., instead of 9, as previously advertised.

The High School will commence on Thursday, Sept. 2, instead of Sept. 9, as erroneously announced in Friday's issue.

Col. Joseph Cushing, of Dover, one of the proprietors of Howes' and Cushing's circus, arrived here Saturday evening from New York with three young cubs. While taking the box containing the diminutive lions from the hack, he, in some manner, made a mis-step and broke his leg. Dr. Whittier set the bone, and Mr. R. H. Beacham sent the Colonel and his pets home in a hack.

The excursion train to Alton Bay over the Eastern Railroad, Sunday, started from this city with about 540 passengers, which were augmented to 1,200 when the train reached Wolfeboro. Station Agent Samuel Barrett is arranging for an excursion to the Fabyan House about the 10th of September, tickets good for three days at $3 or less for the round trip. The regular fare is about $4.80 each way.

The Raymond Murder.

It is new to have the crime of murder charged upon one of our citizens. In the history of the past, but four have been confined in the State Prison, so far as is recollected. Three of them were for theft, one for an assault on a female. David L. Magoon is now charged with causing the death of his wife by poison. She died nearly a year ago, very suddenly. After some months, some had suspicions that her husband gave her poison in a harmless medicine. But the matter dropped until a short time since, when it was revived again, much through his alleged improper connections with a married woman in the neighborhood. The proper measures were taken, the remains of his wife were disinterred, and the stomach was sent to Boston, where on examination, poison was found. Mr. Magoon and the woman in question are now in Portsmouth jail.

Mr. Magoon has had some faults, but the better part of the community hope the charge will not prove true. If it shall appear that he is innocent, it will be a great relief to his relatives and friends. H. N.

Hedding Camp Meeting.

On visiting the place of the Camp Meeting in Epping, it is noticed that the number of tents and cottages is increased. It now seems quite a village in the grove. The number in attendance was perhaps greater this year than ever before.

On Sabbath, Aug. 22d, Rev. Mr. Fowler, the evangelist, preached on the subject, "The Elements of Prevailing Prayer." In the afternoon Dr. Chapman of New York; subject, "The Necessity of Faith." Wednesday, 25th, the sermon was by Rev. Mr. Durell of Bristol, on "The Final Destruction of the World and the Judgment that will Follow." In the afternoon, Rev. Mr. Knowles of Malden, Mass., preached. He took the account of the Saviour at twelve years of age in the temple, hearing the doctors and asking them questions, as the foundation of his discourse. We thought the treatment of it valuable, but the sermon was more moderate than those given by him at two previous camp meetings.

Thursday, 26th, was the last day, and the attendance was very large. In the forenoon, Rev. Mr. Hamilton of Boston preached. The text was the request of Naaman to dip in the waters of his own country instead of Jordan, to be cured of his leprosy. Doubt and infidelity were discussed with fairness, energy and force. In the afternoon, the sermon was by Rev. Mr. Pitblado of Manchester. Subject, "God's Love to the World." Good talents were manifest in the speaker. He was earnest with sensation. There was much response, and in one or two instances clapping of hands. He did not confine himself to his subject, and gave many anecdotes and incidents for illustration. The special criticism we heard was on impropriety of exciting laughter in the congregation by some forcible hits an inconsistencies. If this is sometimes allowable it should not be much. H. N.

DIED.

THE BEST TIME OF THE SEASON

THE LADIES interested in the Public Library have completed their arrangements for the trip to Appledore, which will take place on TUESDAY, AUGUST 31st.

The steamer will leave her moorings at the North End, at 11 o'clock.

The fare for the round trip has been placed at the extremely low price of 75 Cents.

Tickets can be purchased at Morse & Ilsley's, H. M. Clark's and Leonard Akerman & Son's.

A DANCE complimentary to the members of the party will be given in the evening, to which all are invited. The return trip will be made at about 9:30. If stormy, the excursion will come off on the first fair day thereafter.

A fine opportunity is here offered for a cheap and profitable trip to these "beautiful isles of the sea." Get your tickets early, as they are necessarily limited. aug28

A Hint to the Lean.

The cause of leanness, when there is no positive disease which produces it, is an imperfect assimilation of the food. The weight of the body undoubtedly bears a marked relation to, and increases proportionately to its height, when it is properly nourished with flesh-making blood. Hence, when we see a tall person with "slab" sides and hollow cheeks, we have a right to infer that his blood is thin and watery and his constitution delicate. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is peculiarly serviceable to thin, delicate people, since it strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, and is consequently a powerful auxiliary in the blood manufacturing processes, which in a state of health ought to be, and are thoroughly performed. An increase of muscle, as well as fat, is a result of using this sovereign antidyspeptic, appetizing and generally corrective cordial.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school, or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $10, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.

DR. QUAIN'S
CONDITION PILLS.
NEW TESTIMONIALS.
— FOR —
Weak Lungs, Constipation, Lameness, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Poor Blood and Kidney Troubles.

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.

T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, very truly,
J. D. WHITAKER.

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complant many years; one-half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Compaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years: three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.

REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Compaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 59 years old; have been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life. S. S. RING.

Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinine," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from low standing Fever and Ague.

Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package--- Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and the legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.

Yours, with respect,
JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many Kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.

Yours truly,
ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS,

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.

Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail.

MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.

MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills in the Boston Herald, and sent for a box, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible. MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.

N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, a friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages. ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than many years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be seen in that section. MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Billiousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, also not troubled with dizziness unless I take cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them. A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney complaint, nervousness, blood, and weak nerves, and they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.

JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all you recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others. WILLIAM H. FELLOWS.

RATTAN WARE
MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Don't fail to call up, and see what few people in the United States have seen; viz. a collection of this ware. OVER FREEMAN'S OYSTER HOUSE, on Congress street, up one flight.

—She found him in a Seventh street restaurant, idling his time away. She didn't say "Father, dear father, come home with me now," but she clenched her fist, and shaking it lively remarked, "You'd better git down to the ranch, old seedling, before the clock strikes again, or mother'll mash your head in with a crowbar," and he wandered out like one in a dream.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Scales, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every other kind, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most fearful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to all health, comfort, and even life itself; left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FULTONVILLE, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, the Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

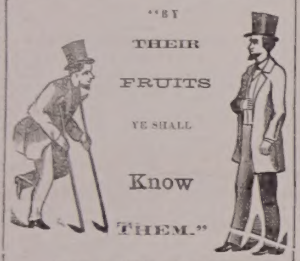
FACTS PROVEN
BY THE
TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration; if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquillin and Barrnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that pains should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, with certain proportions of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which shows scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the now renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in chronic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. It is happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,
FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,
Picturesque Scenery and,
Pleasant Surroundings

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

Was opened for the reception of guests, July 20th, 1875.

CARRIAGES will be in readiness to run daily from the hotel over the new carriage-road to the top of Kearsarge Mountain, affording the finest views in New England.

Business men in Boston and vicinity can spend the Sabbath with their families in Warner, and still be in the city during business hours each day. Board from $1.50 to $2.50 per day.

EXCURSION TICKETS for round trip from Boston to summit of Kearsarge Mountain and return, good for three days' trip, including railroad fare, hotel bills, and carriage to the Mountain, will be furnished on application, by mail or the proprietor, for the small sum of $15 each person, and parties of ten or more, $12.50 each.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten day from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and if such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forthwith enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON. Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is Surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,52[illegible],000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

PULMOCINE.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the hurrying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,
Croup,
Diphtheria,
Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

MOSES AND THE WORM.

HERDER.

Holy Moses, man of God, came to his tent one day,
And called his wife, Safurga, and his children from their play:
"O sweetest orphaned children! O dearest widowed wife!
We meet, dear ones, no more on earth, for this day ends my life;
Jehovah sent his angel down and told me to prepare"—
Then swooned Safurga on the ground; the children, in despair,
Said, weeping, "Who will care for us, when you, dear father, go?"
And Moses wept and sobbed aloud to see his children's woe.
But then Jehovah spake from heaven: "And dost thou fear to die?
And dost thou love this world so well that thus I hear thee cry?"
And Moses said, "I fear not death; I leave this world with joy:
Yet cannot but compassionate this orphan girl and boy."
"In whom, then, did thy mother trust, when, in thy basket-boat,
An infant, on the Nile's broad stream all helpless thou didst float?
In whom didst thou thyself confide, when by the raging sea
The host of Pharoah came in sight?" Then Moses said, "In Thee!
In Thee, O Lord, I now confide as I confided then."
And God replied, "Go to the shore! Lift up thy staff again,"
Then Moses lifted up his rod. The sea rolled wide away.
And in the midst almighty rock, black and uncovered lay,
"Smite thou the rock!" said God again. The rock was rent apart,
And then appeared a little worm, close nestled in its heart.
The worm cried, "Praise to God on high, who hears his creatures moan, Nor did forget the little worm concealed within the stone."
"Well remember," said the Lord, "the worm beneath the sea, Shall I forget thy children, who love and honor me?"

[From "Exotics: Attempts to domesticate them," by Rev. James Freeman Clarke.]

Andrew Johnson's Successor.

[Cor. Cincinnati Commercial.]

Up to 1850 he never ran for an office, claiming that lawyer politicians were poor sticks, that a man should be one or the other, and not try to be both. In 1861 he joined the Southern army as lieutenant-colonel. Whether he was a secessionist or not in the early days of the trouble I do not know, but doubt it, as the great body of the people of Tennessee were opposed to secession, and were fairly dragged into it by the action of the governor and the legislature, in conjunction with the fire-eaters in the south. But he cast his lot with his State when Tennessee seceded, and served through the war until the bloody chapter had a bloody end. The close of the war found him in the pine woods of North Carolina, with no money but confederate, and very little of that, and without knowledge whether he was to be hung or could practice law. He describes his depression during those days as extreme. He could form no idea as to the future. He was separated from his family. He did not know that he could ever return to East Tennessee. As to practising law, there was no law to practice. Everything was in confusion. The policy of the government was not defined. The late southern soldiers had no status; the officers did not know but what they were to be tried for treason and lauded on the other shore in light marching order. Such was the gloom and uncertainty surrounding them that many an ex-confederate has told me that, were it not for his family, he fairly envied those who reposed in the everlasting sleep. Andrew Johnson was then president, and his historic utterances about making treason odious and hanging traitors were not reassuring to Col. Key. He had known Mr. Johnson in happier days, when they both pulled in the same party harness in East Tennessee. He had always supported him—that is, until the war cast them apart as wide as the poles. Up to that event they had been fast friends. Thinking the matter over in the North Carolina woods, where he found himself when the wreck of the confederacy went to pieces, he resolved to write to his friend of other days a letter, and ask if he was to be hung, and, if so, at what time, and if the ceremony was to take place in North Carolina. He depicted his miserable situation truthfully, keeping nothing back, and asking for advice and information. The President received the latter. We may suppose that his heart was touched for his friend of other days and that the bitterness engendered by the war was even then beginning rapidly to disappear. I sometimes think that letters like this, from his old friends stranded in the south, had much to do with his sudden change of policy toward that section in 1865. In his letter to the President Col. Key did not ask for a pardon. He merely inquired for advice and information. By return military mail there came a free pardon for D. M. Key, from Andrew Johnson, President of the United States. Col. Key says he was never before so glad to get anything. It was unexpected, and all the more welcome for that. He now felt that he belonged to his family, to whom he is very devoted, and that he could go to work and make them a living without government hindrance. That was then the height of his ambition. He fully accepted the situation, and the line of his argument from that day to this can be embodied in a few words, namely: "We staked all and lost all; the controversy has been settled by the highest tribunal known to man; there is but one government and one flag, and that is our government and our flag." * * * Although Key is a democrat, and ran as such for Chancellor in 1870, and for Congress in 1872, very many of the Northern republicans in Chattanooga supported him, to the profound astonishment of the native republicans, who could not understand how they could leave their party merely to vote for one whom they considered the best man on the ticket.

Daily Chronicle.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 31, 1875.

News and Notes.

The four-masted propeller Persian was burned off Long Point, Lake Michigan, on Thursday night. About 9.30 o'clock, when about seven miles east of Long Point, the first engineer discovered a fire in the coal bunker and promptly gave the alarm to stop his engine and open the safety valve. The flames made such rapid progress that the wood work around the engine almost instantly ignited. Capt. Flint ordered the boats manned, but before one of them could be launched they were hopelessly burned. Attention was then directed to the hatches and all were thrown overboard, and officers and crew placed themselves on them, each hatch being capable of sustaining two persons. The lake was very smooth or all must have perished. After floating about two hours the schooner Montana hove to and picked up the entire party. The Persian's cargo consisted of 55,500 bushels of corn and 17,500 bushels of wheat. The grain was insured, but the hull, which is undoubtedly a total loss, was uninsured.

Robert Dale Owen's physician anticipates his recovery at an early day.

The failure of the Bank of California is total. It will never attempt to resume business. With liabilities of more than $14,000,000, the highest estimates of the assets is $8,000,000, but it is doubtful if $6,000,000 are realized. The directors have been deceived by false statements regarding the bank's resources. The bank will pay 80 per cent. to depositors.

It is reported that George Chesley, charged with complicity in burning a house at Pittsfield, has left, his bail of $3000 not being held on account of a legal flaw.

Between eleven and twelve hundred thousand dollars in gold have been transferred to California by the Government in support of National banks, but not more than one and one half millions all told will be sent there.

Since the Vendome Column in Paris has been restored, it is as popular as ever as a place for suicides to throw themselves from.

It seems to be the general opinion now that the death of President Ralston, of the Bank of California, was accidental and not voluntary.

That Reward.

We copy the following from the Jacksonville Press:

"In addition to the reward of one thousand dollars, offered by Nassau county for the arrest of the murderer of Dr. Johnson, the Executive has thought it necessary to offer a similar amount for the same purpose. "Nil de mortuis, nisi bonum," is an ancient adage, and a very correct one, generally speaking. Admitting this, we do not care to parade the dead man's faults, numerous as they were, but would simply ask what virtues he had to warrant so high a price being placed upon his value to the community? Now, we warrant that if a respectable democrat had met the same fate, that his untimely end would have attracted very little notice, either from the radical County Commissioners of Nassau, or the honorable Marcellus. If a reward were offered at all it would be so small as scarcely to induce a constable to arrest the criminal. We think the State authorities offered $5,000 for the apprehension of the person or persons who shot down Purman some years ago, and a large amount for the parties who attempted to kidnap a well known railroad developer. The true tax payers of Florida would consider these men well sold at the same number of cents instead of dollars."

We mark the pith of the above in italics. It needs no comment, and is no doubt the honest sentiment of the writer, who rates the assassination of republicans at ten cents. Good for a Bourbon democrat; an honest conviction, honestly expressed.—Pensacola Express.

Pennies in the South.

The Atlanta (Georgia) Herald has started an evening edition at three cents per copy, and thus describes some of the experiences sustained: "It was stated in the prospectus of this paper that change in coppers would be given to all purchasers as far as the specie resources of the city would admit. After a careful search of the town, we were unable to find over four dollars' worth of pennies in Atlanta. There is a volume of homily in this statement, and the consequences that it carries. It is our opinion that a people that recognizes no piece of money less than the nickel can never know what true thriftiness and economy mean. For years we have been enjoining the people to the use of pennies and the various fractions of the nickel. We have now determined to purchase and bring here a large number of pennies with which all the Herald newsboys will be supplied, and with which they will make change when a nickel is offered them for the evening paper. In this way we expect to gradually work the humble but useful cent into general circulation, and feel assured that it will be found, when they have become a usual machine of purchase, that three-fourth of the articles for which we now pay a nickel can be bought for a fractional part thereof."

—It has been found that in nearly every civilized country the tree that bears the most fruit for market is the axle-tree.—N. O. Bulletin.

An Unusual Course of True Love.

The Troy Press tells at much length the romantic story of a wealthy young Irishman, who, forty-eight years ago arrived at Schenectady. Two years previously he had won at home the heart of a fair daughter of Ireland, but cruel fate had separated them. The couple had arranged to get married secretly and start for America. The day upon which the ship was to sail, upon which John had taken out passage for both, the father left for Glasgow, taking his daughter with him. John was too wise to submit to the loss of the passage money of both; he came to this country, himself, alone. A correspondence was kept up between the separated lovers, with frequent interruptions by the father, for about five years, when it ceased entirely. Four years later John was astonished one day to see the brother of his former love step into his place of business in Schenectady; and what surprised him more was, the brother informed him that he had brought Nora with him, at her own request, expecting that he would now marry her. Unhappy John had married another a few months before. He must need, however, go down to the canal boat, for there were no railroads in those days, to see her. The brother was on his way to Michigan to commence farming there. It is unnecessary to describe the meeting. Suffice it to say that Nora could not be comforted for a long time after the news was broken to her that John had espoused another; and John wept too. It was arranged, however, that Nora should go on to Michigan with her brother; and nothing of course would restrain John from going some distance with them. But as ill-luck would have it in the excitement of the moment, he forgot to inform his wife of this determination, nor did he make up his mind either, before starting, as to how far he would go. The news, however, was soon carried to John's wife that her young husband was "off" on the Rochester boat with a young lady, and that they were seen weeping on each other's necks. Her mind was soon made up. She set out in pursuit on the next boat, and succeeded in capturing her husband at Rochester, and brought him back in triumph to Schenectady. In the course of years John became a widower, and Nora, having married a farmer in Michigan, was left a widow with two children and a large farm well stocked. Her whereabouts and circumstances were discovered by John about a year ago, and a correspondence was opened in terms much the same as they had employed fifty years before. All was arranged by letter. John gaved up his business in Schenectady and started for Michigan three weeks ago, as frisky as a young man of thirty, to marry his old love and live with her the rest of his days. He found the woman, sure enough, who had written to him, and she the person that he had written to. But oh! what a change had forty years made on both. John began to suspect that she was not the Nora that he used to love. Nora began to surmise that he was not the John that she had once set her affections upon. Their suspicions soon grew into beliefs, and in two days they agreed to separate. John came straight back to Schenectady.

The Noble Red Man.

The tireless joker of the Detroit Press makes the following police report:

"Got an Injun for you !" whispered Bijah as the next prisoner came out.

He was a deck hand on a propeller. Some one had injured his eye, his proud spirit was down to zero, and his outfit would have sold for twenty-five cents at a second-hand clothing store. Still he was an Indian and as good looking an Indian as can be found on the plains.

"Is your name Oskemos?" asked the court.

"No, sir—named Sam," was the reply.

"Where is your lodge?"

"Down here ten rods."

"Where is the squaw?"

"Him run away two years ago."

"Where is your tribe?"

"Eh!"

"Where, sir, are the dignified, stoical and gallant red men of the forest who used to camp on the very spot where this stationary house now stands?"

"Him in Toledo, I guess," reponded the hopeless Sam.

"Child of the forest—native of the prairies, I sorry feel for you." said the court, as he leaned back and shucked a peanut. "No lodge—no tribe—no chief—no war horse—no scalps. Where you played when a child you will now find oyster cans and old boots. White men are raising cabbages and such base truck on the hills where you used to hunt the wild roebuck. Where you once halted to listen to the whispers of the brooklet, you now hear the sound of a woolen under-shirt up and down a washboard. I don't want to strike an Injun after he is down. Go away, restless, broken spirit—get out of doors and try and be a better red man."

"Heap glad—old man heap good feller?" whispered the delighted Sam as he bent his head and shot under the rope.

—People blunder into some of our most wonderful discoveries. There's that surgeon in New York who recently cut the elevator muscle of Mr. Tilden's eye by mistake, and immediately stumbled into the mystery of perpetual motion. The possible President is now a perpetual winkee, but a perpetual winkee has no more right to be an actual President than a blind man has to be pilot on the St. Lawrence River.—Washington Repub.

—Business is lively in the lower animal kingdom. Last week a robin defeated a cat in single combat in Troy and a San Francis co hen drowned a rat in a water butt. Yet the democrats will have it that times are dull.—Washington Republican.

—Another wet spell coming. Shearman comes home in September. — Post.

The Sunday Excursion.

The cheap rates offered by the Eastern Railroad for an excursion to Alton Bay Camp Meeting on Sunday were taken advantage of by more than 1700 people, as many more being left behind for want of accommodations along the route. A train of thirteen cars, drawn by one engine, left this city at 7:30 A. M., ten of the cars being filled. At Kittery the three empty cars were quickly filled and another engine put on. At Elliot, one of the engines broke down, delaying the train an hour. Arriving at Wolfeboro' Junction the train was divided into two, the first engine going ahead with eleven cars. When half way between South Berwick and Great Falls, the train came to a stand, the engine and half the train having gone over a grade, and the engine being unable to pull the other half of the train up. The engine could neither back nor go ahead, and there the sweltering sitters and standers stayed an hour waiting for the other train to come up and push them over the hill. Of course they would not get out, lest they lose their seats and other advantageous positions. And so they sat and perspired, and thought sacred thoughts, and sniffed a little day-of-judgment atmosphere, and felt pious, and fain would express their perfect satisfaction that others were not as they were—and would not be if they could. Then came along train Number Two, and pushed them over the difficult grade with a snort and a puff, and good souls used the occasion as an illustration of the ways of worldly life, filled to the brim with alternate disappointment and elation of spirit, until--Death, in the shape of a relief engine, comes to the rescue and pushes them over the last hump of life's fears and hopes, and leaves them on a level plain of happiness, returning down grade to the assistance of other struggling mortals desiring to use the level track ahead just as soon as their fellows get bravely over it.

At Great Falls, the two engines joined forces, the trains were once more combined in one, and eight more cars filled with heated humanity were attached. Rochester had several hundred to add as a re-inforcement and the train went to Wolfeboro' Junction with twenty-one cars. There it divided and found another engine, which tackled the biggest part of the train with engine Number Two, while engine Number One rattled along with nine cars to Wolfeboro', where it arrived at 11:30. The passengers filled the little steamer James Bell, which immediately put off with 500 souls on board for Alton Bay, leaving the other 1200 on the big train to remain in Wolfeboro' when they should arrive, or—swim to Alton Bay. The Bell crept along slowly and after a voyage of nearly three hours arrived at 2:15 P. M. at Alton Bay. The crowd was so dense on the wharf that the passengers found it difficult to land, and those who did were glad to make the return trip a half hour afterward. They reached Wolfeboro' in season to leave for Portsmouth at five o'clock, arriving here at ten. A half mile from Wolfeboro' the engine got out of breath again, and there was a grand charge on a neighboring apple orchard, which when taken was so well shaken that every pocket inflated and every pull-back was thrown into hysterical expansion in vain endeavor to husband one more. There were eleven cars on this train and three on a second, and at Wolfeboro' Junction there was another delay to allow the head engine to recover its wind. At Conway Junction, the trains united under the lead of both engines and went flying all abroad for the Piscataqua. An exciting episode of the steamboat trip was a race she had with a row-boat from Wolfeboro' to Alton Bay, the man in the row-boat winning easily.

The excursionists who stayed in Wolfeboro' had decidedly the best of it, with two hotels to furnish dinner and plenty of mountain and lake scenery. When the first train for home started, it was announced that the James Bell could take 100 of the excursionists to Alton Bay, where 200 more had been left, and that those who could not or would not avail themselves of this privilege, would have a certain percentage of the money paid for the round trip refunded. Arrangements had been made for only 600, and lo! three times that number were there—and several towns to hear from! The Bell left for Alton Bay with the rear guard of the excursion army at 7:30 and reached Wolfeboro' at nine, starting for home soon after. The chaps who wore tiles were glad to get into the cars where they could sit or stand erect. The train trundled along, and at about one o'clock Monday morning reached Portsmouth without accident. And what we want to know; what the railroad authorities would like to obtain information regarding; what the captain of the J. Bell would wish answered without malice aforethought; what the world and the visitors outside—the Shoals included—are with beating pulse and tumultuous breasts waiting with fever of impatience and longing expectancy to hear answered honestly and truly, with no prevarication or evasion, mental or otherwise, whatever,—is: Did or did not each one of these excursionists on that zephyriess Sabbath, in the light of the day, the waning twilight and the star-lit night, obtain his or her one hundred cents' worth of excursion? We want to know, because we were not there! A Sunday excursionist declares that "it was the boss camp-meeting I ever went to; was gone fouteen hours—and thirteen hours and a half on the road!"

Republican Clam Bake.

That republican clam bake at Old Orchard next Thursday promises to be a large affair. Chandler's band, the Saco band and the Gray band are to furnish music. A large pavilion 80 by 200 feet, is to be pitched in the Staples field opposite the Boston & Maine depot. The forenoon will be given to preparing the "bake," which will be no small affair. It will include two hundred bushels of clams, one thousand lobsters, six hundred dozen green corn, three hundred dozen eggs, etc. All refreshments are free, and will be served from 12 till 1 o'clock.

From 11-2 till 5 o'clock there is to be speaking from Senator Morton of Indiana, Hon. E. Rockwood Hoar, Gen. John L. Swift and Fred. Douglass. Among others expected to be present are Secretary Bristow, Postmaster General Croswell of Maryland, Hon. James G. Blaine, Hon. Eugene Hale, Hon. William P. Frye, and Gen. S. L. Woodford of New York.

Jottings.

It may be well to call to mind the upbraidings of the democratic press when the republicans were in power in this city, for the reason that the chief engineer of the fire department was employed at the navy yard. The ferry steamer Emerald was always placed at his disposal when an alarm was given, enabling him to reach the scene of the conflagration speedily. At the Manning street fire, last week, the chief engineer, one of the assistants, the secretary who acts as signal officer, and an engineer of one of the steamers, did not make an appearance, as they were camping out at Gerrish's island. But we hear no howls from their democratic allies because of their absence, and no republican will complain as long as they leave competent men in charge of the department.

And now Congressman Frank Jones has been to the Twin Mountain House and heard Beecher preach. Keep good company, Frank. You are going to Congress, you know!

The excursion to the Shoals to-day, by the ladies interested in the Public Library, should be well patronized, as the object is a worthy one, and the fare (seventy-five cents for the round trip) is cheap enough to enable every one to avail themselves of it.

No reunion of the Third Regiment at Hampton Beach to-day.

The guests of the Appledore presented Capt. Albert Rand with a fine marine glass, and a roll of greenbacks, Saturday night, the case being inscribed: "Presented to Capt. Albert Rand of Steamer Appledore by the guests of the Appledore House." Capt. Rand is one of the most modest of men as well as efficient of officers, and responded happily to the presentation speech of George B. Stetson of New York.

Police Justice, Monday: Jeff Buchanan, and John S. Wendell, assaults on John S. Hunt and Phil. H. Kirby, fined $26.90 each. Wendell appealed. Saturday, Richard M. Johnson of Rye paid in to the city treasury $30.16 for assault on A. P. Philbrick and for throwing stones.

The Artillery company will meet for drill in the hall over Franklin Hall this evening.

Mr. John S. Sides was thrown from a team near the depot, Monday afternoon, and a bad gash was cut in his cheek, requiring stitching. About the same time a nice new coach belonging to Mr. William H. Dennett was considerably damaged at the steamer wharf, the horses being frightened by the Steamer Major's whistle.

—There was a place apart in heaven for good wives who could judge a wicked thing as harshly when a man did it as when a woman did it. But it has never been occupied, I believe.—Chee Foo Tsin.

—The London Lancet says that no person should sit for more than half an hour. S'posin' a fellow is sitting on the sofa with his girl, is he going to be particular to a minute?

TO THE SHOALS!

THE BEST TIME OF THE SEASON

THE LADIES interested in the Public Library have completed their arrangements for the trip to Appledore, which will take place on TUESDAY, AUGUST 31st.

The steamer will leave her moorings at the North End, at 11 o'clock.

The fare for the round trip has been placed at the extremely low price of 75 Cents.

Tickets can be purchased at Morse & Ilsley's, H. M. Clark's and Leonard Akerman & Son's.

A DANCE complimentary to the members of the party will be given in the evening, to which all are invited. The return trip will be made at about 9.30. If stormy, the excursion will come off on the first fair day thereafter.

A fine opportunity is here offered for a cheap and profitable trip to these "beautiful isles of the sea."

Get your tickets early, as they are necessarily limited. aug28

PULMOCINE.

A Hint to the Lean.

The cause of leanness, when there is no positive disease which produces it, is an imperfect assimilation of the food. The weight of the body undoubtedly bears a marked relation to, and increases proportionately to its height, when it is properly nourished with flesh-making blood. Hence, when we see a tall person with "slab" sides and hollow cheeks, we have a right to infer that his blood is thin and watery and his constitution delicate. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is peculiarly serviceable to thin, delicate people, since it strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, and is consequently a powerful auxiliary in the blood manufacturing processes, which in a state of health ought to be, and are thoroughly performed. An increase of muscle, as well as fat, is a result of using this sovereign anti-dyspeptic, appetizing and generally corrective cordial.

Pyle's Dietetic Saleratus.—Universally acknowledged the best in use. Each pound bears the name of JAMES PYLE. None genuine without. tjc76

NOTICE.

The subscribers, Selectmen of Ward Seven of the City of Portsmouth, give notice that they will be in session at the Ward Room in Elm street, at 2 P. M., on Monday the 6th day of September, 1875, and on the morning of the day of the Election, from 7 to 9 A. M., for the purpose of correcting the Check list.

A copy of the list of Voters, as corrected, will be posted at Eastern R. R. Depot, for the inspection of the inhabitants until the day of election.

RICHARD H. WALDRON,
ROBERT E. RICH,
Selectmen of Ward No. Seven, in the City of Portsmouth.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the ages of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $10, and $30 for the second and every subsequent offence.

DR. QUAIN'S MAGIC CONDITION PILLS.

NEW TESTIMONIALS.

—FOR—

Weak Lungs, Constipation, Lameness, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Poor Blood and Kidney Troubles.

One Box Dr. Quain's Condition Pills "Nearly Cured Where All Else Failed."

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.

T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, very truly,
J. D. WHITAKER.

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are more than I can recommend them to be. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complaint many years; one half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Compaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years: three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.

REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Compaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 59 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life. S. S. RING.

Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinine," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting long standing Fever and Ague.

Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and it made me quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Compaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.

Yours, with respect,
JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H.,
November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made. Just the kind a woman needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.

Yours truly,
ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.

Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills, and found relief. Please send another package by return of mail. MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for evacuation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.

MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible. MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.

N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends who there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages. ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Parnlysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be seen in that section. MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Biliousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, have used half of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them. A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and fourteen years, every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.

JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others. WILLIAM H. FELLOWS.

DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are sold by the Agent of the American Medicine Co. A package will be forwarded upon receipt of fifty cents, by THOMAS W. LANE, agent, Manchester, N. H.

Daily Chronicle.

—A little boy wanted to borrow his aunt's dog for a moment, and asked her to let him have a piece of string so he could lead him. "What are you going to do with him?" said the good lady. The boy hesitated for a moment, and then said, "Well, you see a boy round the corner bet me his dog was a larger dog than yours." "Well, you see," said the aunt, "suppose it turns out that his dog is the larger one?" "Then," said the nephew, "you'll lose your dog."

—"Was not her death sudden?" said a condoling friend to a bereaved widower. "Well, yes, rather, for her."

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS,

For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections—from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself; if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a cure—fit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallace, Formey, Vauquelin and Barruel.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its solution cannot take place alone by skin. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and the phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the coercive, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of persons cured by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,

Picturesque Scenery and,

Pleasant Surroundings

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner, the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in June on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stalls, meats, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier or any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substance.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs.

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON.

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over FIFTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $22—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The investment, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,32 ,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the fogs of trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or Inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

—If an angel that I know
Should now enter, sliding low
Down the shaft of quiet moonlight that rests upon the floor;
And if she should stir and stand
With a lily in her hand,
And that smile of treasured stillness that she wore,

Should I, falling at her feet,
Brush or kiss her garment sweet?
Would their lowest, least white hem upon me unworthy fall?
Or would she guarded, stand,
Drop the lily in my hand,
And go whispering as she vanished, "This is all?"

—ELIZABETH STUART PHELPS.

—At the exhibition of Madame Tussaud's wax figures in London, this is what happened to John T. Raymond, the actor, who has made Col. Mulberry Sellers immortal. John was tired, and so hinged on his centre into an old chair. He had not observed the number placarded over his head that indicated he was occupying the seat of a wax figure removed for repairs. The crowd soon gathered about him, and at first Raymond thought he was subjected to a common process of being stared at as Col. Sellers. Then it flashed across his fun-loving brain that he was being mistaken for a wax-figure, for one of the ladies exclaimed, "How very life-like and natural, to be sure. Who is it?" Catalogues were hastily searched, and Raymond humored the joke by sitting very still and putting a glassy glare in his expressive eyes. This was not so pleasant as it at first appeared, for directly a man said, "Well I rather think he is the ugliest little fellow I ever saw." "It is positively the most horrible looking creature in the place. Who is it?" asked a lady. The number was found and the account read out: "Tom Thug, the cruelest murderer ever hung; cut the throats of a whole family of fourteen persons for the trifling sum of ten pounds, eight shillings and sixpence." "Well; I'll be hanged," cried Raymond, jumping to his feet, "if it is possible to make a charge in England without tacking on that miserable sum of sixpence.. Here is the late Mr. Thomas Thug charged with a wholesale assassination, and they had to slap on that sixpence. I believe the late Mr. Thug was swindled." The crowd laughed and screamed at the sudden and startling effect. One more cool said, "Oh, bother! that is an old game here. This little fellow is hired to do this. Mme. Tussaud pays him one pound six shillings—" "If you say sixpence," cried Raymond, "I'll make the number of the murdered an even fifteen."

—"How's politics?" asked a politician of a newspaper man. "Well, 'twas the reply, "politics and newspapers are somewhat alike just now. As the newsboy said, 'there's a good deal of news, but nothing to holler.'"

The Lake-side Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the issue in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the gorgeous, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 1, 1875.

News and Notes.

The Pacific Stock Exchange adopted resolutions deploring the death of Ralston, as a faithful friend, valuable citizen, and champion of the city and State, extending the sympathy of the Board to his family, and resolving to attend the funeral in a body.

The Nashua Telegraph says of the Sunday camp-meeting at Alton Bay: Why thirty thousand people left their comfortable homes on a day of rest, for such a scene, is one of the mysteries no man can fathom unless he hits the "nail on the head" when he presumes that novelty, a ride on the cars or steamboat, a desire for a change of scenes, a wish to go somewhere for a knowledge of a camp meeting, was the lever that moved them.

The Boston Herald says that F. B. Sanborn is a candidate for Mr. Warner's place as Secretary of State. He probably bases his claim on the benefit he did to the republican party by leaving it.—Springfield Union.

By the census of 1860 there were in New Hampshire 10,938 persons of foreign birth, or a little less than 6 1-2 per cent. of the whole population. In 1870 the number of foreign birth had increased to 29,611 or nearly 9 1-3 per cent. of the entire population. The increase from 1860 to 1870 was 8673, and it is a singular fact, and one that will be new to many of our readers, that this increase comes to us almost entirely from the British Provinces—the number born in British America having been 4468 in 1860 and 12,937 in 1870, 11,916, being from Canada alone by the last census. Another surprising fact is that the number of persons in this State who were born in Ireland was actually less in 1870 than in 1860, there being 12,737 in 1860, and but 12,190 in 1870. The large immigration from Canada consists chiefly of French operatives who work in our mills at Manchester, Nashua, Great Falls and other places, and as they have rapidly increased since 1870, it is probable that the population of Canadian birth now largely exceeds that born in Ireland.

Population of Boston, 341,919,341,920!

Mr. Joseph Church, father of the famous painter of "Niagara," whose residence is at No. 624 Asylum street, has a horse which regularly lies down and takes an hour's nap every Sunday morning after breakfast, the queerest thing about it being the fact that he never does it on other days, though he has the opportunity to do so. He seems to have the phrenological organ of "time" largely developed. He is usually left in a certain place back of some bank, on such forenoons as his master comes down town, and if the hour of 12, noon, passes without his master coming for him, the horse himself comes out, carriage and all, through the alley-way, and stands in front of the bank as a hint that it is time to drop business and go to dinner.

Lee & Shepard, the well known Boston publishers, have suspended; as also has Mr. Dillingham, connected with a New York branch of the firm.

Some "blue lights" for use in theatricals which had been placed in a drawer of a hat rack at the residence of Mrs. Harvey Adams in Lancaster, exploded recently, setting fire to the clothing hanging upon the rack and doing damage to the amount of $300 before the flames were extinguished.

Horace Binney's will makes no public bequests. He wisely dispensed his charities in his lifetime.

The only daughter of Rev. A. D. Fairbanks of Wolfeboro', about seven years old, while at play with another child, fell down the cellar stairs on Friday last. The accident resulted in her death.

The buildings and contents of B. F. Mudge, in Holderness, were burned on Monday. Loss nearly total; insured in the Franklin of Philadelphia for $1400.

The Philadelphia Ledger gives interesting statistics relative to the Indians. There is now within the limits of the Territory a population of about 82,000, of whom some 6500 are of African blood (for the Indians of the Territory were formerly slave-holders) and about 2500 are whites. The remainder, say about 73,000, are Indians, of whom probably one-half are roving (nomadic) Indians, and the other half settled on "reservations" or at agencies. Five years ago those who were engaged in tilling the soil had about 220,000 acres of land under cultivation, say about three acres for every man, woman and child, or about fifteen acres per family. This was independent of grazing land. The 72,500 Indians in the Territory in 1873 had raised in 1872 6,562,540 bushels of corn, 100,420 bushels of wheat, 280,000 bushels of potatoes, 27,264 tons of hay, 36,000 gallons of sorghum molasses, besides rice, oats, beans, tobacco and 740 bales of cotton. In that year they possessed of live stock 212,155 horses, 322,354 horned cattle, 430,445 swine and 43,100 sheep. Their live stock was valued at nine and a half millions of dollars, and the individual property of the agricultural tribes was valued at over seventeen millions of dollars. They have well organized civil governments, with churches and schools, and the Cherokees have an Orphan Asylum. From all this it will be seen that the Indian Territory, peopled as it is by inhabitants who not many years back were all roving savages, without other means of living than the chase and the small patches of corn grown by some few of the bands, is growing into a prosperous Commonwealth.

Albert Sooy, State treasurer of New Jersey, has been arrested for an alleged defalcation of $100,000.

Unless all the signs upon which criminal lawyers and experienced journalists relythe Granite State has a Lucretia Borgia in the person of Mrs. Mahalia Carr, of Candia who it is alleged poisoned her husband, Charles E. Carr, in November last.

The State of Maine appears virtually to decree that any man of eighty years or over, may murder his wife with impunity. It is not long since Tenney, who repaid his aged wife for her years of care—he was a paralytic unable to walk—by choking her to death with his own hands, was allowed to go without even a show of punishment, because "he was old, and would die before long any way,"—and now William Pangborn, the man who chopped his wife's head off with an axe at Medway, a few weeks ago,—and then claimed that he did it in a dream, supposing that she was a bear,—has pleaded guilty of manslaughter at Bangor, and was remanded for sentence, the graver indictment for murder being quashed in consideration of his age, 82 years.

Ralston and his Fortune.

William C. Ralston was born in Pennsylvania, and at the time of his death he was 45 years old. He was a shoemaker in early life, but soon went to California, where he became interested in speculations, and also held a clerkship in a bank. Subsequently he went to Panama as the agent of Garrison's Steamship Line. About 1852 he returned to San Francisco and established a banking house with others, under the name of Garrison, Fritz & Ralston. This firm was afterward dissolved, and he became a partner in the firm of Donahue, Kelley & Co. About 1854 he organized the Bank of California, with O. Mills as President, and himself as cashier. Mr. Mills was already connected with a bank in Sacramento, and his time was largely taken up there. Mr. Ralston became the head of the Bank of California, though nominally its cashier. All its great enterprises were conducted through him, and even when Mr. Mills was present, business men always went to Mr. Ralston for consultation. About two years ago, Mr. Mills resigned the Presidency, and Mr. Ralston became the real as well as nominal head of the bank. It was through his business abilities, almost entirely, that the bank attained its great influence and became so potent in all commercial, financial, and even political affairs. In 1867 the bank reached the zenith of its influence, and was then the most powerful corporation west of the Rocky Mountains. Mr. Ralston was the most popular man in California. His munificence had won him friends everywhere. His career is full of instances where he has kept from failure men who were on the verge of financial ruin. His mode of life was on a plan commensurate with the extent of wealth at his command. At Belmont Valley he built for himself a house costing, it is estimated, $1,000,000, and supported it with an annual outlay of $350,000. His house would accommodate 150 guests, and occasions were frequent when that number accepted his hospitality. His stables are built on a magnificent and extensive plan. Some years ago he had some difficulty with the railroad which leads to Belmont Valley—a distance of 30 miles—and then provided himself with a light buggy and having relays of horses stationed along the road, drove every day to and from San Francisco in less time than the train could make. He was the last man at his office at night and the first one in the morning. He was known as a good liver, and won many friends by his generosity and hospitality. Mr. Ralston's fortune was recently estimated at over $20,000,000, and this is probably no exaggeration, since it is known that for some years he was uniformly successful in his speculations. Scarcely a mine, or a railroad, or any great enterprise on the Pacific slope has been attempted without his aid, and such was his power in the politics of California and Nevada, that it was through his influence, backed of course, by the money of the bank, that Jones and Sharon were sent to the Senate.

From the Microscope to the Woodpile.

[Detroit Free Press.]

The other day a Detroit father purchased a microscope for his son, a boy of ten, patted the lad on the shoulder, and said to him:

"My son, take this microscope, and go out and study the beauties of nature."

The boy left all other amusements for that, and he took such great interest and improved so rapidly, that at the tea table, to which several visitors sat down with the family, he felt that he must make some remarks. Turning to one of the ladies, he inquired:

"Did you ever look at cheese through a microscope?"

"I don't think I ever did," she pleasantly replied.

"Well, you just ought to see the things crawl—"

"John! John!" exclaimed the father, shaking his head at the boy across the table.

John subdued for a minute or two, and when his mother passed the cheese around, everybody said, "Thank you, no." Pretty soon the young student, desiring to mollify his father, asked:

"Father, did you ever look at a toad through a microscope?"

"I will talk with you after supper," replied the parent, scowling at the boy.

John was rather disappointed at his failure to arouse enthusiasm, and just as the strawberries were being passed around, he remarked:

"Well, you just ought to look at a strawberry once through the microscope! They look just like warts, they do, and you think you see bugs running—"

"Jawn!" said his mother.

"Boy!" warned his father.

"Well, they look wors'n flies' heads!" protested the boy, who imagined that they doubted his veracity, "for flies—"

"Boy—!" said the father, making a motion for John to leave the table.

John left, and as soon as it was convenient for him to do so, the father escorted the lad to the wash room in the basement, bounced him around, and said:

"My son, gimme that microscope, and you take the axe and go out and study the beauties of that woodpile!"

If that boy continues to feel the way he does at present, he will become a bank robber instead of a naturalist.

Donaldson's Sweetheart.

By this time we had strayed around to where the ladies were mounting their glossy thoroughbreds for a race in the ring. Thomas introduced me to several of these bespangled damsels, with one of whom, a Miss Taylor, I was conversing, when I heard the voice of Dan Castello roaring in the big tent. Stepping to the entrance I caught the announcement that a despatch had been received that Grimwood's body had been found in Lake Michigan. "Don't tell Miss Taylor," said Thomas to the surrounding athletes and houris. "She thinks of Donaldson." But already she had pressed forward on her handsome gray, and was demanding to know what the announcement was. When the question was evaded her eagerness increased, for her suspicions were aroused. She was to have married Donaldson a month ago. At last they had to tell her, and the poor girl leaned upon the mare's mane and deluged it with tears. She writhed with agony in her beautiful jacket of scarlet silk, and presently she jumped down and ran into a covered wagon, where she could have a cry all to herself. After a little respectful delay, during which the audience waited and wondered what was the matter, the ladies' hurdle race was called. Miss Taylor came forth, mounted her gray, and won the race. All of the five, in their colored bodices and gay streamers, seemed to be doing their utmost, but I wondered if any of the competitors let their horses lag a little in order to give victory to the sad-faced rider whose eyes were fixed upon her lover's body drifting alone upon the Lake of Storms.

A Dutch Victory.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

A crowd of young chaps about town were in one of the popular beer saloons, yesterday, where they met a jolly old German, who often gets thoroughly soaked in beer and becomes maudlin funny.

"Hello, Kaiserlicher, have you heard the news?" said one.

"Nein! vas ish das?"

"The water works are busted!"

"Vel, dot's bad mid dem tembrance beeples, don'd id, poys?" (Laugh all round.)

"Yes, and the rolling-mill's gone up!" said another of the boys.

"Vell, chust don'd got skeered aboud dat; it's so heffy dot it goom down agin, eh?" (A grand peal of laughter.)

"And—and—the ice machine has exploded!" cried a third.

"Ish dot been pozzible? Den dot's bad, midoud some misdake, and id don'd rain midoud it pours—de vasser oud—de rolling mill ub—no more ize—unt all you young shackasses broke out of de shtable lot! Dot makes me gry!"

And nobody thought it necessary to laugh at this point.

A Mutual Misunderstanding.

[Detroit Free Press.]

Two colored citizens Saturday had a little trouble on the post office corner.

"Sir, I stigmatize you as a falsehoodfier!" exclaimed the first.

"And you, sir, are a cantering hipelcrite!" replied the second.

"Ah! talk away!" growled the first, "but my character is above disproach."

"And your influence don't detach from my reputation one Iowa!" growled the other.

And thus they parted.

—A fat-looking, bald-headed, lobster-colored German in shirt sleeves appeared in the hallway of an Adams street, Chicago, bathing establishment, and addressed a loose-jointed individual with wet, stringy hair, about noon:

"Hold on von minud," called out the first described; "you con no go out dese blace so you not bay me fur dot bat."

"Pay you for that bath!" exclaimed the other in apparent astonishment, "who said anything about payin'?"

"I say somethings 'boud dot."

"You do?"

"Yaw, I say you must bay me for dot bat."

"You said it wouldn't cost nothing," said the wet-haired man.

"Noddings?" echoed the bath-keeper: "I no say such a dings!"

"What's the readin' on your sign then?" inquired the disputant.

"Dot sign reats: 'Turkish bats, Sulphur bats, Vapor bats, and Sponge bats,'" replied the man of lobster complexion.

"Well," said the other, as he edged away, "that last's it; bein's I didn't have any money, I took a sponge bath!"

The Teuton fell to studying his sign, while his patron meandered toward the City Hall, but when at last he looked up, he had resolved to strike "sponge baths" off his list.

—Two old men in St. Louis stood on the corner discussing Prof. Tice and the weather. They had been driven under the shelter of an awning by one of the vicious little showers which came up every ten minutes, and were rather vexed about it. Said one of them:

"I've lived nearly seventy years, now, and I never saw a meaner summer than this. You can't travel a block safely without an umbrella!"

"That's a fact! Tice was sound enough on the start, but it seems to me he's overdoing the thing. Anything in reason would be all right, but such an everlasting flood is wearing on a man. My rheumatism is worse'n it ever was yet at this time of the year."

The other leaned over and whispered hoarsely:

"I'll tell you what it is, what's my firm belief; Tice has got this thing started and doesn't know how to stop it!"

The other man turned pale, but made no reply.

Mr. Shearman, clerk of Plymouth Church and intimate friend of Mr. Beecher, as well as associate counsel in the scandal trial, has taken a trip to England, where he is making speeches in vindication of the late defendant. He is an arrant calumniator, as all will agree who read what he says of the American clergy and their practices. In attempting to abate the odium attaching to his friend, pastor and client, he says it is very common in this country for the ministers to salute the female members of their congregation with a kiss, and that Mr. Beecher, instead of excelling in that kind of friendship, is rather indisposed to it. This is a calumny so atrocious that no wonder people who care but little for the ministry, but who regard truth and purity of society, indignantly condemn it, while calling attention to the fact that Mr. Shearman's record is such as to make his declarations of the least possible value. As the former friend and counsellor of the noted James Fisk, jr., and as a reckless lawyer whose reputation is so bad that he is outlawed by the legal fraternity, he may be fit for clerk in the Plymouth Church and for friend of the "foremost preacher in the world," but he is not qualified to speak for the morality and practices of respectable and religious people.

—At last she completely cured him. For months she had patiently endured the pangs so many thousands of young wives are compelled to suffer. Almost every morning at breakfast the heartless husband expressed the hope that he might live to see the day when he should get such coffee as he used to get at home. Or such cornbread as his mother was wont to make and bake. At dinner the meat was overbaked in the range. To be sure his mother used to roast the meat in an old-fashioned Dutch tin oven, and the piece was always done to a turn—the last turn of the revolving spit. Those days were forever gone. But he might and ought to get such a green apple pie with new cheese as his mother used to give him. At length the long-suffering wife arose in her wrath, upset the table, sending the dishes and their contents crashing on the carpet, strode over to her astonished husband, gave him a box on the ear which knocked him off his chair, and remarked: "There's a clip over the head for you, such as your mother used to give you when you was a boy, goldern yer." Thereafter there was domestic peace and quiet in that house, with never even an allusion to the maternal cookery and comforts of the bygone days.

—To the best of our recollection, he was an Arkansas clergyman who had been accused of trailing his "true inwardness" in the company of the wrong woman. Under these painful circumstances, his wife was frequently compared to a "noble Roman matron;" but she didn't seem to mind it, and firmly declared her belief in her husband's innocence. When the day of trial arrived she sat in court beside him, and moved the jury to tears by arraging a fifty-cent bouquet in the buttonhole of his coat. The case was at last opened and the witnesses for the prosecution called. There were thirty or forty of them; but before half a dozen had testified a mighty change came over the face of the wife, and, getting right up and addressing her remarks to the bench, she said; "See here, Judge; I'm satisfied, if you are. Don't mind me; I can stand it. I reckon it's into me, Judge, to get even. Just hold on to him till called for, and if enny woman wants him, he's hern, and no questions asked." Then, turning to her husband and snatching the floral tokens from his buttonhole, she bitterly exclaimed: "Remember, from this time forward my home's a den of ragin' lions, and you ain't no Daniel."

—A Wiscasset paper says that a man in Rochester, N. Y., bought a white horse, recently, that had a very white tail. To improve the looks of the animal he colored his tail black, but in a very short time the dye he put on turned blue. The horse was accordingly turned out into an open lot to see if sunlight would not change the blue to black. As soon as he had a chance to look around, the horse noticed for the first time that his tail was blue—first he switched it to see if it belonged to him, next he started on a run, or gallop, at the same time kicking at his tail, switching it violently, finally he held it straight out behind so as to get it as far as possible from him. Thus he galloped around the pasture hither and thither, kicking and switching, and looking behind him, and he kept the circus up until he grew tired, and found he could neither run away from his tail, nor kick, nor switch it off.

—Little Sadie was very fond of her minister, and paid great attention to his preaching. One Sabbath morning his subject was "Elijah's Faith," and how the rain came in answer to his prayer. There had been a great drought in that region, and the pastor exhorted his congregation to pray for rain. When starting to the afternoon service she was observed taking her little umbrella. Her father said. "Sadie, what are you taking your umbrella for?" She quietly said, "Because Mr. T—— said we must pray for rain." The father smiled at the child's simplicity (as the sun was shining brightly,) but allowed her to have her way. During the service a brisk shower surprised the audience, and no one had an umbrella except little Sadie—not not even the pastor.—Christian Intelligencer.

—Lemons will keep good for months if sliced when perfectly fresh, and packed in glass jars with a thick layer of white sugar between the slices.

Harness Trimmings, &c.

"There's nothing like leather," to be sure, not only for boots and shoes and engine hose, by general consent, but beyond question for harness work and such like uses. But buckles, territs, bits, rings and other trimmings are as necessary to accoutre the horse, as Nacker Tilton would say, as another sort of trimmings are in dressing up a goose. And these for harness work have for many years been made of various metals and in varied shapes—many of late years very elaborate, beautiful and costly. Nothing, however, has been found to compete or compare with the hard rubber covered harness trimmings of the Albright patent, of Newark, N. J., — the safest, most beautiful and durable article known.

The first set of rubber trimmings used in New Hampshire, were put into a buggy harness made by Messrs. Larrabee for a gentleman of this city, seven or eight years ago; and although in pretty constant use all that time, only one or two of the buckles are beginning to show any signs of wear. Now but few nice light harnesses are made without these trimmings, and recent spurious imitations but prove their excellence. Thousands of sets have been used in the State, as everywhere else; and the great Concord harness manufactory of J. R. Hill & Co., who ordered their first set on the recommendation of the CHRONICLE, have often had large orders for them ahead of the capacity for manufacture of the Newark establishment.

Mr. John S. Tilton has just made for the citizen above alluded to, who introduced the rubber trimmings in this vicinity, an elegant and substantial harness for two-wheeled chaise, having the latest style of the Albright rubber trimmings, nearly all plain black, tipped with gilt. Mr. Tilton is also introducing, and shows his first sample in this harness—an article to dispense with the use of buckles on the quarter strap or hip strap of the breeching, and on the neck strap of the breastplate when desired, thus preventing the vexatious cathing of the tail and sometimes the mane, in the said buckles, and leaving no ends on either of said straps to catch the reins. This little fixture is called the patent harness coupler, and consists of a neat leather box loop about three inches long, which slides on the strap, and covers a little triple brass plate, which is thus entirely concealed, but which answers every purpose of a buckle, and can instantly be uncovered by sliding up the loop, and adjusted to any length of strap desired. The new harness mentioned is quite a novelty, in not having a single buckle on the breastplate, and none on the hips.

The old-fashioned two-wheeled chaise, with wooden pole springs and leather thoroughbraces, seems to be coming again into considerable favor, in various parts of the country. More than a dozen have recently come into use in this city and vicinity, and those drivers who are old enough to have been formerly accustomed to them, insist that with a suitable horse, a chaise is the most beautiful, convenient, durable and economical carriage in the world -- the safest, the easiest for both horse and rider, as it certainly is the best adapted for driving a tandem or tridem team. Col. A. J. Beck, the veteran carriage-builder of this city, informs us that although he built many of these carriages formerly, none of them came to material repairs during the thirteen years he was engaged in their manufacture, —but all carriages were much heavier in those days than is desirable now. — Messrs. William P. Sargent & Co., the extensive carriage dealers of Boston, state that they sold several chaises last year — more than for some years previous; so perhaps this fashion may be coming back again.

The Clam-Bake.

The free clam-bake to-morrow at Old Orchard Beach will be attended by 20,000 people. Senator Morton, Speaker Blaine, Gen. A. E. King and others speak. There will be a large attendance from this city and vicinity.

On the upper part of the beautiful lawn which extends from the ruins of the Old Orchard House to the railroad will be pitched a mammoth tent two hundred feet long and eighty feet wide, which is capable of accommodating eight thousand people, and which will be handsomely decorated. The ground under the tent slopes gently to the eastward, and the grand stand will be placed on the lower side of the tent, so that the auditors will have a specially good opportunity to both see and hear the speakers.

The excavation for the bake is at the lower end of the lawn near the railroad, and is one hundred feet long and eight feet wide. Arrangements are made for cooking five hundred bushels of clams, nine hundred dozen ears of corn, with lobsters, eggs and other material suitable to a clam bake in proper proportion. The bake will be surrounded on three sides by tables one hundred and fifty feet long. The contents of the bake will be taken in large baskets and poured upon the tables so that the guests may help themselves and take away the viands in the dishes which will be furnished for the purpose.

We are requested by the Secretary of the School Committee to state that the School teachers of the city will receive their pay on Saturday next, Sept. 4th.

The U. S. S. Marion is ordered to sea. It will take about four months to fit her out.

The Appledore was crowded with excursionists under the auspices of the ladies interested in the Public Library Fund, Tuesday, necessitating a transfer of about fifty passengers to steamer Major. The evening at the Appledore House was spent in dancing, and the excursionists arrived home between ten and eleven o'clock.

The Morton gold pen is without doubt the best in the market. Its constant use only renders it a necessity. It writes freely and wears well. Men may come, and men may go, but it slides on forever. H. B. Buzzell & Son are agents for Portsmouth.

Our informant was half right and half wrong regarding the firemen absent from the Manning street fire. Assistant Engineer Sampson and Secretary Hazel were on duty, but the other parties mentioned were in camp. The chaps who howled themselved hoarse over the employment of a republican Chief Engineer at the navy yard are dumb over the retreat of a democratic Chief Engineer thrice the distance. Of course firemen must and should have recreation as well as other citizens, and we call attention to the matter for the purpose of noting the absence of the usual grind from the municipal lyre.

The Fall term of Smith's Academy commences Monday, Sept. 6th.

The English hay crop at the Peirce farm in Greenland yielded over 360 tons this year, and there will be a good second crop. There will also be a large crop of apples from the farm.

Admiral Theodorus Bailey was once summoned as a witness in a civil suit— a position altogether new to him. His anxiety was increased by the warnings of his friends, who were constantly telling him to be on his guard, as the lawyers would bother him and make him contradict himself and appear to be a liar. The admiral had a sleeepless night before the day of trial, and when he entered the witness-box, it was with a nervousness such as he had never experienced in going into battle. When the first question, "What is your name?" was proposed to him, his hands fidgeted tremblingly about and the perspiration broke out on his brow. He was evidently in deep and perplexing thought, and remained silent. The question was repeated with emphasis: "I ask, what is your name, sir?" With a mighty effort the old admiral jerked out the result of his deliberations, "The-o-do-rus Bailey"—adding impressively, "or words to that effect !"

—A fashionably-dressed young woman, putting fancy touches at the music, was heard singing, "Backward, pin backward, oh, skirt in your flight; make me look small again, just for to-night."

—Kentucky boasts of a cornstalk bearing fifty ears of corn and an immense amount of silk. The middle ear is full sized; the other forty-nine grow in ranks all around it and are small.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $16, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.

A Hint to the Lean.

The cause of leanness, when there is no positive disease which produces it, is an imperfect assimilation of the food. The weight of the body undoubtedly bears a marked relation to, and increases proportionately to its height, when it is properly nourished with flesh-making blood. Hence, when we see a tall person with "slab" sides and hollow cheeks, we have a right to infer that his blood is thin and watery and his constitution delicate. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is peculiarly serviceable to thin, delicate people, since it strengthens the digestive and assimilative organs, and is consequently a powerful auxiliary in the blood manufacturing processes, which in a state of health ought to be, and are thoroughly performed. An increase of muscle, as well as fat, is a result of using this sovereign antidyspeptic, appetizing and generally corrective cordial.

One Box Dr. Quain's Condition Pills "Nearly Cured Where All Else Failed."

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.

T. W. LANE:— I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yuurs, very truly,

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complaint many years; one half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years; three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.

REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Compaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 50 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinine," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague.

Yours, most respectfully,

MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor [Cured by One Package--- Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.

Yours, with respect,

JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.

Yours truly,

ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.

Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail. MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.

MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible. MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.

N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half the package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I was four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages. ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be seen in that section. MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Biliousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them. A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 15, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.

JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others. WILLIAM H. FELLOWS.

RATTAN WARE MANUFACTORY.

ONLY 4 Rattan Ware Factories in the United States, and one of them has just begun manufacturing in Portsmouth. The furniture made by this firm is made of the very best quality of East India Rattan, and for beauty, attractiveness, ease and durability is more desirable than any other furniture. We claim that the generality of our work is better than can be procured elsewhere in the United States. Few people comparatively have ever seen many pieces of this attractive furniture, and we cordially invite any one to call and examine our work even if they have no idea of purchasing. We warrant every piece of our ware to be as good as can be bought elsewhere and at less price.

Daily Chronicle.

—Miss McCracken is one of those Illinois prairie beauties who don't put up with any nonsense. She was lately travelling on the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad. The conductor of the train was so smitten by her charms that, while stooping over to punch her ticket, he deliberateley robbed her virgin and peachy cheek of a kiss. She blushed and vowed vengeance. The upshot of the affair was a verdict against the company of $1,000 damages for the amorous trespass of his employe. Upon appeal, the Supreme Court affirmed the verdict of the jury, We are too gallant to quarrel over this award. Miss McCracken's cheek was her own, and the kiss ruthlessly snatched from it was clearly stolen property. But let us suppose that that train had "telescoped" or run off the track, or tumbled through a rickety bridge and deprived Miss McCracken of an arm or a leg, would the Court and the jury have been so prompt to grant her pecuniary reparation? We are afraid they wouldn't. And doubtless the reason for it is this: that while the young lady could, if she felt disposed, supply the place of her natural leg by a wooden one, a kiss, stolen from her under such circumstances, is a lost treasure that she can never either restore or replace.—Brooklyn Argus.

—They were seated at a late dinner, when the door bell rang, and the servant handed a card to Jones' wife. "Good gracious! it's our minister, and I've been eating onions!" she exclaimed, "Never mind," said Jones, "you need not kiss him to-day."

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM
AND TONIC PILLS,
For Nervousness and General Debility,

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barber's Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to all health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FALMOUTH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually specific in such cases. In regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, to a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all the whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

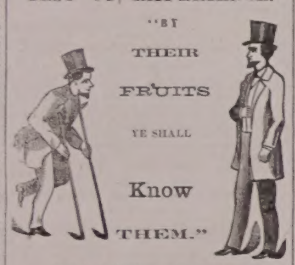
FACTS PROVEN
BY THE
TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourneroy, Vanquillin and Barrnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various vessels, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by patients restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is stated as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN
HOTEL.
WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,
FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,
Picturesque Scenery and,
Pleasant Surroundings

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,
within five miles of the Hotel, the
BEAUTIFUL BEACHES
at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish
EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices,

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten day from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or threw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person who may be is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a reasonable time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances there from shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substance.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents."

"Mr. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their case, and at very reasonable charges. JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their house, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,32,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

Pulmocin Cordial.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxe trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local care) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

AN OHIO IDYL.

I.

There's General Hayes, and Dick and me,
A wabbling in the mire;
There's that unblushing Sam Cary
A selling the river afire;
There's Wash McLean a tryin' to see
His money in the Enquirer;
And there's Marat to cry hoorah
In Ohio.

II.

An' there's old Bill a snortin', too,
"Virginny never tire;"
And General Thomas Ewing's coo,
As plaintive as a lyre;
There's William Grosvenor from Missou,
And Kelley from Berkshire,
All muddling things and smashing rings
In Ohio.

III.

And what do these braves talk about?
And what do they admire?
Why do they hang their banners out?
Why do they load and fire?
They're all agog, without a doubt,
For low'r funds and higher;
No one can trow such is the row
In Ohio.

IV.

Alack the day when Thurman took
His tongue into h s hand,
And freely talked with Theo. Cook,
"A babbler in the land."
Curse on the time when grace forsook
Small Johnny's little band,
Alas, Fariah!
And the desire
For rag-bags dire,
In Ohio.

V.

This song of mine is line for line
Sheer foolishness entire;
And Johnny Mc. will give a whack,
And say that I'm a liar;
And Deacon Dick, his ears will prick—
'Tis not Promethean fire.
I cannot swear, but this declare,
It's as much truth as ire,
And more of sense than the muddle dense
In Ohio.

VI.

God of the free heart's hope and home,
God of the poor man's sire,
God that over the ocean's foam
Carries the ocean wire,
Proclaiming from cathredal's dome,
And from the moslem spire
Columbia's name,
May not proclaim,
With the same,
The nation's shame,
In Ohio.

—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—"Say, mister," said a soiled-looking boy on the wharf, "do you ever give a piece o' watermelon to a poor boy whose father 'n mother's dead, 'n who goes to Sunday-school, 'n has got a sore heel?" The man was deeply touched, and gave him a large slice off a rotten one.—Norwich Bulletin.

The Lake side Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 21 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $46.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the hands of readers at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with such an air of truth does the author tell, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No. 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a set to-day.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

News and Notes.

The Athol, Mass., Transcript tells this laughable story: Not very long ago, an Athol man accompanied by his wife was riding in the cars on the Vermont & Massachusetts Railroad. He was excessively fond of the weed, and rarely was without a good-sized "chaw" in his mouth. On this occasion he had an enormous cud stowed away, and after a while he naturally felt desirous of relieving himself of the immense quantity of juice which he had accumulated. He tried to open the window by his own seat, but it stuck down, as car windows are prone to, and all his efforts were in vain. Noticing, however, that the window by the seat in front, which was occupied by an elegantly dressed, dignified looking lady, was open, he leaned forward, worked his mouth convulsively a few times to gather strength, and then let drive. Now it happened that the window was not open, the gentleman, slightly near-sighted, being deceived by the freshly-cleaned glass. It is difficult to tell which looked the most remarkable—the window, the gentleman or the lady. Astonishment, horror, shame, disgust and rage were more vividly portrayed on the man's face than was ever done on canvas by the oldest masters, while the scandalized lady seemed to be in doubt whether to faint away or to punch the man's eyes out with the point of her parasol. Finally the victim of near-sightedness and clean car windows, gulping down his mortification, explained the case with a remarkably red face and no little trepidation. As the lady's dress escaped injury she could afford, after her first indignation, to be forgiven, but if even the fringe of her dress had been soiled there would unquestionably have been murder in that car.

The democrats of Oregon have been left out in the cold by the consolidation of the Independent and republican parties in that State. The declination of Mr. Whitney, independent candidate for Congress, has been accepted in good faith, and it seems to be settled that the republican candidate will receive the full party vote. The result will, of course, be a republican victory.

The three independents who hold the balance of power in the North Carolina Constitutional Convention are understood to have republican leanings, and three democratic delegates are likely, by their votes, to be ousted from contested seats.

According to the report of the Department of Agriculture for July, the average wages per month for farm laborers in New Hampshire, this year, by the year without board, is $28. 57, with board, $18.-25, and by the season, without board, $34.-75, with board, $23. 50. The average price in the United States with board is $12. 40. This is a decline of 25 per cent. since 1869. The same Report gives the pay per day in New Hampshire, except in harvest, without board, $1. 50, with board, $1. 12. In 1869, without board, $1. 79, with board, $1. 41.

A Long Lost Daughter Restored.

[Nashua Telegraph.]

In the Summer of 1856 there was living in Merton, Waukesha county, Wisconsin, a family by the name of Stokin, consisting of father and mother, one son and three daughters, the youngest aged seventeen months. On the 17th day of July of that year, the bright and interesting little girl was missing, and a strict search was made, but no clue to her or no track of the body could be found. The father, after days of fruitless search, got on the tract of two men who had been seen in a buggy, having in their charge a small child. He followed on their trail until they had passed Ripon, going toward the Mississippi river, but could get no trace of the men or child from that point, and returned to his family, where he remained, but still searching for the lost one.

On the breaking of the rebellion Mr. Stokin and his son enlisted and served till the close of the war, but his son laid down his life in defence of his country, and the father returned again to his family. Soon after his return from the war he removed to Durand, where he has since resided, his two remaining daughters marrying and living in the same town. I have often heard the story of the loss of their daughter from the sorrowing mother, who always mourned its loss and could not be comforted.

Three weeks ago a young lady named Nesbit went on a visit to Cedar Falls, 25 miles north in Dunn county, and while there became acquainted with a young lady who was teaching school named Fannie Johnson, and as young ladies always will on mutual acquaintance, she became interested in her and learned from her the facts of the strange history that she did not know of her own parentage, and that she did not know that she had a relative in the world, as she had at one time lived in St. Louis, Mo., with a woman who once in a while on a sick bed had informed her that she was not her child, but had been stolen from her parents when a babe; but after the woman's recovery from her sickness she had always refused to even acknowledge what she had said to be true, or inform her any further on the subject. In 1866 Capt. Bartlett (of steamer Viola) and wife were at St. Louis, and while there were given a girl about eleven years old by a Mrs. Johnson and brought her up the river to Hudson, Wis., where they lived till 1871, when on the removal of Captain Bartlett to Indiana, at her own request Fannie remained in Hudson, where she has continned to reside and perfect herself for a teacher, and has followed that calling with great success, winning many friends by her lady-like manner and genial ways. On Miss Nesbit's receiving so much of her history and more than I have recounted here, and having an acquaintance with one of Mr. Stokin's daughters and believing that she saw a family resemblance between Fannie and the Stokin family, she informed an aunt, Mrs. Burke, who was acquainted with the history of the loss Mr. and Mrs. Stokin had met with; and the age nearly corresponding, Mrs. Burke came over to Durand, saw the family and laid the matter before them, and this being the only clue that had been gained by them in all the long years, on Wednesday, the 18th, Mr. Stokin went to see Miss Fannie Johnson and was so struck by the strong family resemblance that he induced her to return to Durand with him.

While waiting in Menomanie for the stage several people noticed the resemblance between Miss Johnson and the other daughters. - After having her picture taken they started for Durand, and on their arrival Mr. Stokin went to his house and showed his wife the picture of the young lady, and on the examination of the same she was so overwrought by the sight of it that she fainted away, and on the appearance of the young lady it was proved by marks on her person that she was indeed their long lost child, who after more than twenty years' loss was restored in such a manner to the arms and love of her parents, and the family consisting of a son and two daughters, where she now is perfectly satisfied that she now knows who her parents are and that her mother's heart is made to rejoice in her long lost daughter's love. Miss Fannie Stokin, as she will be called, was 21 years old on the 31st day of January, 1875, is of medium height, light complexion, agreeable and lady-like, has a fine education. is self-reliant, having refused a place in the family of some of Hudson's noblest inhabitants, choosing rather to carve out for herself a career in life that should be honorable and worthy of emulation by all, whether situated as she was or favored with all that wealth and position could offer. The family of Mr. Stokin receive the kind congratulations of all the people, and all alike strive to show their regard for one who was lost but now is found.

WALTER GREENWOOD.

Durand, Wis., Aug. 23, 1875.

"John Paul" on the Fish-Hawk.

[N. Y. Tribune.]

He's a born Brancher. Perched on a high and dry limb you may see him, as the cars whirl you over the wild sands at the reckless speed of seven miles or so an hour. He seems to be a male and a brooder. That nest of his, by the way, is a wonderful creation. It was built by days' work, not by contract, and long before the war. Material was lower then than it is now, all that driftwood and cordage, which go to make it up, was never before so high. 'Tis a raft up a tree, but rafters it has not. Neither has it many rooms, and here you see a wise provision of Providence. Another good thing about the House is that there are no stairs to go up; on a similar plan of architecture I intend to construct my cottage. It shall be down stairs, with vestibule and hall door on the roof; no cellar kitchen, no dumb waiter for me. I don't see how a dumb waiter can ever answer; if in the wide, wide world there be one that does, let us hear from it.

The fish hawk is not an eagle. Mountain heights and clouds he never scales; fish are more in his way, he scales them—perhaps regarding them as scalywags. For my bird is pious; a stern conservator is he of the public morals. Last Sunday a frivolous fish was playing not far from the beach and Dr. Hawk went out and stopped him. 'Tis fun to watch him at that sort of work—stopping play—though somehow it doesn't seem to amuse the fish much. Up in the air he poises pensively, hanging on hushed wings as though listening for sounds—may be a fish's. By and by he hears a herring—is he hard of herring, think you? Then down he drops soon and has a herring safe. (Send me something, manufacturers, immediately.) Does he tear his prey limb from limb? No he merely sails away through the blue ether—how happy can he be with either!—till the limb whereon his own nest is built is reached. Does the herring enjoy that sort of riding, think you? Quite as much, I should say, as one does hack driving; the hawk is but the hackman of the air. Sympathize with the fish? Not much. Nor would you if you heard the pitiful cry the hawk sets up the moment he finds that his claws are tangled in a fish's back. Home he flies to seek domestic consolation, uttering the while the weeping cry of a grieved child; there are tears in his voice, so you know the fish must be hurting him. The idea that a hawk can't fly over the water of an afternoon without some malicious fish jumping up and trying to bite him. If a fish wants to cross the water safely, let him take a Fulton ferry boat for it. There he will find a sign reading, "No Peddling or Hawking allowed in this cabin."

Sufficiently Definite.

"Will brother Martin Epsomhammer lead us in prayer?"

The name in full was necessary, for the reason that the principal praying members at the Baker's Grove church were all Epsomhammers, male and female, old and young, rich and poor. Through the beseeching cries that were now lifted from all parts of the house, the clear, strong tones of Martin Epsomhammer's voice arose like diapasons from an organ, as, emphasizing each brief sentence by a stroke of his clenched fist upon the pew, he said:

"O, Lord, we thank Thee for what Thou art, and what Thou art doing. Thou hast convarted many, many souls-a, O Lord, convart more. Convart a heap more-a. Convart all sinners in Owl Run-a. Convart the Presbyterians. Convart the Campbellites-a. Convart everybody about Baker's Grove, and then start up Willow Creek, and clean the holler-a. Stop two weeks at Henderson's still-house, and convart the grinders and the billers, the coopers and the haulers, the sellers and the miserable drinkers-a. And then, O Lord, go on up the creek-a and climb the hill to Reistertown and convart the Bonds and the Riptons who raised the barley-a."

Crowding The Mourner.

—Shortly after the dinner bell rang, he came up the walk, laid down upon the steps, and put his head in at the dining-room door:

"Mizz—, mother says won't you please to give her a good plate full of your nice soup for dinner, and lend me your little tin bucket to fetch it home in, and she's not feelin' powerfully well any how to-day."

"But will you please go back and ask your ma if she wants her soup highly seasoned, and crackers broken up in it, and celery salt shook in, and a silver spoon with her full name engraved on it thrown in?" replied the lady of the house.

"Bud" left in double-quick time, and soon he was back in position:

"Mizz—, mother says she believes, as it taint much trouble to you, she just as lief as not?"

The old lady got the soup in the tin bucket unseasoned with further sarcasm.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $16, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.

Per order.

Local Matters.

A Narrow Escape.

There was quite an excitement at the still-crowded Appledore on Tuesday evening, owing to the advent of certain strange men, the keen detective instinct of one of the Appledore's guests at once making the new comers out as belonging to the swell mob. Did you ever see the commotion in a chicken coop when a hawk sailed by? If so, you can form a faint idea of the sensation created by the appearance of these fell villains among the happy dwellers on that peaceful isle. Fair maidens with blanched cheeks hastened to place themselves under the protection of other maidens' brothers; dignified matrons rammed their movables into their trunks and sat down upon the same; young men skirmished 'round for base ball bats and the looms of broken oars; older men filed their swords and put fresh cartridges into their revolvers; and a large and influential delegation of guests waited upon the "Laighton Boys" to know if there weren't a cannon anywhere handy with which to annihilate the unwelcome intruders.

The latter, apparently unaware of the consternation they had established, sauntered about in a body (after the manner of the swell mob when looking out for a chance to pick pockets and burgle Saratogas) wherever the light was strongest and honest people the most thickly congregated, said honest people giving them the widest berth possible and making complimentary criticisms upon the ruffianly invaders. "How a life of crime will set its mark on the criminal's features!" chirped a little damsel, much too young and pretty to be such a philosopher; "what a hangdog-looking set they are!" said an elderly gentleman who had massed himself in the rear of several ladies, to protect them; "Isn't a look at those faces enough to make one shudder at the thought of living a life of vice and depravity?" queried a youth who sat on the piazza railing and smoked a clay pipe; "Isn't there any law to take care of such creatures?" demanded an indignant dame, who added: "If it hadn't been for Mr. X's finding them out we might all have been murdered in our beds this very night;" and many other things were said, all going to prove that it is a bad thing to get caught at any roguery.

But succor and safety were at hand. The Lords of Appledore never allow their guests to be annoyed if they can prevent it; and soon the sturdy form of Cedric was seen bearing down upon the boss malefactor like a line-of-battle ship upon a mudscow. Grasping the miscreant by the coat-collar with one hand, and gathering in the slack of his trowsers with the other until he looked like a lady with a "pull-back" on, Cedric rushed him at a 2:40 pace into the office, where he was curiously inspected by the light of ten gas-burners. In his pockets were found the following-named burglars' tools: One pocket-pistol; (empty—cork out,) one clay pipe, (very short,) one small piece plug tobacco, one card matches, one ten penny nail, one piece twine, one three-bladed jack-knife, (two blades broken,) one ten-cent script, one nickel, one old-fashioned cent, (very big,) one piece sheet-lead. Even when confronted with this damning evidence of his nefarious designs the fellow preserved his insolently-unconcerned bearing, and as some of the guests were not quite willing he should be at once hung from the awning post, Cedric yielded to the promptings of mercy—and allowed the light-keeper and the newspaper-men (his guests) to depart for White Island, wiser if not sadder men, and fully convinced that the saying, "Looks are nothing—behavior's all!" is the rankest humbug of the nineteenth century. But it took the conceit out of 'em pretty well; not that they ever did pride themselves much upon their good looks, but they were not before aware how confoundedly ill-looking they are. They don't propose to do so any more, however, and have sent in for a box of razors and a barrel each of hair oil, bloom of youth, lily white and rouge, and have all resolved to learn to lisp and wear corsets. By attending strictly to business in this line they hope in time to become ornaments to their sex. ONE OF 'EM.

Our Schools.

Editor Chronicle; I wonder if "Tax Payer," whose protest against further appropriations for school purposes appeared in Thursday's CHRONICLE of last week saw the Boston Globe for the Wednesday following, and if so, if he felt any interest in its copious illustrations of the city of Nashua, including its two magnificent school buildings? I wonder if it occurred to him to compare our own newest and highest cost buildings for school purposes with those of our younger sister city, a city surely not more favored by nature, if a little smarter, or with invested wealth. I hope he did, for the comparison is not at all favorable to Portsmouth, and fully upheld the words I chanced to use in my first letter in speaking of the public school advantages of the two cities. I do not see as there is any need of making a comparison between the average residences of the city and its school houses. "Tax Payer's" house, as well as my own, though his is new and mine is old, is better than the average school house of Portsmouth. One thing is sure, there are houses in abundance for our whole population, while there are not public school privileges of any character for all our children, let their number be greatly increased or not; while such advantages as have been provided are in some instances of a very questionable character. Even if there were sittings enough, crowding our school building full, for all school children in the city, they are not properly distributed to make them available. Some of the school rooms in the outskirts may not be fully occupied, while it is well known that some in the compact part of the city are crowded far beyond the standard at which educators concede to be best calculated to produce desirable, and consequently economical results. Says President Elliott, "Twenty-five pupils are as many as any teacher not an angel or a genius, can teach well." Let us admit the fact, however that most New England cities think it necessary to put thirty to thirty-five under the charge of one person; still it is frankly admitted in their reports that, in consequence, they find it extremely difficult to keep in operation an effective system of gradation, and that all schools crowded beyond this number are not economically managed. Very far from it! Two things are always to be kept in view by towns and cities in presenting public school advantages: efficiency and economy, but efficiency first always, and this generally speaking will be found the highest kind of economy.

How is it with us? I have been making inquiries regarding the number of pupils attending our schools the past Summer term, and though I cannot give the exact figures—I could by delaying this article a day—yet I have learned beyond a doubt that the School street building, as well as the new school house at the Creek, is badly crowded, and that Miss Ham on Cabot street has for four years past averaged fully ninety pupils in her room. During the last term the number has run up beyond one hundred and five, while over thirty applicants have been turned away, there not being seats for them, and for some of the number no available opening in any school building whatever.

Either President Elliott, and every educator of note in New England, is wrong, or Portsmouth not only needs another graded school, but an addition to her corps of teachers. "Tax Payer" asks if the present income of our citizens generally is such as to encourage a great outlay at this time, and if an increase of the city debt is advisable or advantageous. To the first we might answer, No, if any great outlay was demanded individually. Portsmouth, while it is in a prosperous condition generally, is no better favored as regards the wide spread stagnation in business than other cities; neither does it suffer more, a few excepted. It is not fair to gauge our resources by this exceptional period of depression. We all know that with the wonderful resources of the country so fully at command, it cannot last, and that with the revival of business at our great centres Portsmouth will resume her onward march, slowly always, but surely.

As to the second question, I unhesitatingly answer, yes, provided it can be shown that our school privileges are too meagre for our population, and our school buildings of such a character as to stand in the way of an efficient gradation of our school children. If this can only be properly remedied by an increase of the city debt such increase should be gladly welcomed by every person having the good name of our city at heart.

Let us remember "there is that scattereth, and yet increaseth: and there is that withholdeth more than is meet, but it tendeth to poverty."

To no question of public interest do these words better apply than to the one we are considering, for there is no interest of a public nature that will not better take care of itself than that of education. In fostering this we need not only a wisdom that cometh from experience but a spirit of the broadest liberality. I cannot better close this article than by quoting further from President Elliott of Harvard College.

"There is a strong set of public opinion in favor of economy in city and town expenditures. This general desire for economy is a healthy desire, and it is much to be wished that it may be persistent and keen enough to bring honesty and frugality into the administration of our public affairs; but it is of great consequence that behind the eager desire for economy there should be a well informed and careful judgment concerning the means and methods of retrenchment.

It is a noticeable fact that the public schools are often selected as the department in which retrenchment is to be made. There is a plain rule by which every proposed economy in public schools should be tested. Nothing should be done, for the sake of saving money, which will hurt the schools—which will make them in the judgment of competent persons poorer than they now are. It is just as true of the State or of the town as it is of the family, that the very last place to save money is in the education of the children. In any station of life there is no better test of substantial worth in a family than the estimate which their actions show them to place upon the education of their children. No one expects much from a poor family which has no ambition about the schooling of the children. As to rich people who are careless about their children's training, their wealth is generally a mischief to themselves, their children, and the community. Whatever else the city or town may deny itself, let it not deny itself schools, or impair the efficiency of those it has. No retrenchment which injures the schools is true economy; for the ultimate object of public economy is to increase the public weal and this common weal has its roots in the intelligence, vigor and morality of the population, qualities which are cherished, trained, strengthened and disseminated in the common schools."—Wise and Unwise Economy in Schools, by Charles W. Elliott. Atlantic Monthly, for June. A. P. S.

Jottings.

Since Mr. John W. Stavers came into the management of the Temple property he has been constantly making improvements for the comfort of audiences. A marvellous amount of labor has been done and changes made that have required patience, considerable expense and unremitted attention. During the Summer months the hall has been repainted, the stage enlarged to admit new scenery, obnoxious posts obstructing the line of vision removed, greater means of ventilation secured, a furnace put in fronting the stage, and other improvements of a minor nature been made, —which will render the hall vastly more comfortable than heretofore; while it can be more readily kept clean than has hither been possible. The removal of the huge centre-piece which always seemed so much out of place and the subsitution of a smaller one in fresco paper makes a great change in the general appearance of the hall, which seems more commodious and lofty looking from the floor and stage. Mr. Edward Cotter, the well-known Boston scene painter, is engaged in retouching the new scenery which Mr. Stavers has added to his collection, and has another week's work before him. The black-haired angels that have been the wonder of strangers and the delight of the gamins in the gallery, no longer adorn the drop curtain, and are succeeded by less etherial contrivances. The scene shifters will have little difficulty in making instant changes, as the scenery is set on rollers which requires but little effort to move. It is Mr. Stavers' intention at his earliest convenience to put orchestra chairs on the lower floors and, perhaps, in the two front rows of seats in the gallery, but this will not be practicable in season for the opening. The enterprise of Mr. Stavers in his endeavors to make the auditorium comfortable and convenient to the public will, we know, be fully appreciated by our citizens. He offers to made a much better entrance from Warren street and lay a sidewalk as soon as the city shall put that section of the street in decent condition. As a means of exit when there is a crowded house, it is but partially used, (although always thrown open just before the close of performances,) because the street is dark and there are grand facilities for stumbling purposes. Among the expected engagements the coming season are Edmund Coles and a good stock company, and the ever popular and delightful Maggie Mitchell.

Miss Annie W. Guilford, well known in this city, who has been completing her musical education in Europe the past three years, has returned home.

Major E. A. Tilton continues as instructor of vocal music at Miss Morgan's Seminary. This popular institution opens on the 24th inst., with a largely increased attendance.

Callender's Georgia Minstrels appear at the Temple this evening, and come highly recommended. They are genuine funny fellows and offer an attractive programme. Their singing is said to be fine and the dancing unique and droll.

A special train will leave the Eastern depot this morning at 7:15 and Kittery at 7:20 for the clam-bake at Old Orchard, arriving at North Berwick at 7:56, and connecting with a special train over the Boston & Maine Railroad.

Admiral Butler's grand excursion to the Shoals in Steamer Appledore comes off today. Tickets may be had of Butler & Laighton at 75 cents for the round trip.

There will be a temperance rally this evening at the chapel of the North Church on Middle street. Members from the Dover, Haverhill and Exeter Reform Clubs will be present and address the meeting.

Station Agent Samuel Barrett has arranged for an excursion to the Fabyan House on Wednesday, Sept. 15th; tickets $8 each, good during the week. He is also arranging for reduced fares on the Mount Washington Railway and at the Fabyan and Summit Houses. Further particulars hereafter.

NEW TESTIMONIALS.

FOR

Weak Lungs, Constipation, Lameness, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, Paralysis, Poor Blood and Kidney Troubles.

One Box Dr. Quain's Condition Pills "Nearly Cured Where All Else Failed."

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.

T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.
Yours, very truly,
J. D. WHITAKER.

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complant many years; one half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Compaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years: three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.
REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Compaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 50 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life.
Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874. S. S. RING.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Quinine," "Cholagogues," "Quinine," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague.
Yours, most respectfully,
MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are what they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.
Yours, with respect,
JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.
Yours truly,
ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week.

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these P. ills.
Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.
Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail.
MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.
MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible.
MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.
N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages.
ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be new in that section.
MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Billiousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them.
A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.
JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others.
WILLIAM H. FELLOWS.

Daily Chronicle.

TWO CASES OF CONFUSION.—A reader of the Atlantic for June fell in with the following weird lines:

IDENTITY.

Somewhere—in desolate wind-swept space—
In Twilight Land, in No-man's Land—
Two hurrying shapes met face to face,
And bade each other stand.

"And who are you?" cried one aspge,
Shuddering in the gloaming light,
"I do not know," said the second shape,
"I only died last night."

After pondering them for three days, his mind began to hum in the same tune, and the following was found upon his table the morning after he was sent to a private asylum:

COULDN'T TELL.

Nowhere—in the midnight, wind-swept street,
In Muddle Town, in No-Rum Town—
Two staggering shapes, colliding, meet,
And knock each other down.

"Say, who are you?" cries one, when up,
Hiccoughing with a drunken face,
"I don't (hic) know," says t'other chap,
"I'm a strong I'n this place."

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Sores, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frightful increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are affected by this insidious enemy to all health, mental and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and a cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually invaluable in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable remedies, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your Scottish Remedy, that of all the Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, by a member of our family who had been under treatment by different physicians for nearly three years and without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.

THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wollaston, Fourcroy, Vauquelin and Prout.—Every Rheumatic physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we see in the various urines, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

A BLESSING TO MANKIND,

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, there are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is evident as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its application the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 2. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisance shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier of the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall direct or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON.
Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents."

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS

WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $250, $500, $1,000, $3,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred either great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

Pulmocin Cordial.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the luxury trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

STRUGGLING.

Struggling for what? to overcome the pang,
Forced in the blood by wily serpent's fang—
While in the shadows and the mist of time,
Dread monsters lurk, and bandits black with crime!
Struggling to rise and keener anguish feel
Than serpent's tooth or foul assassin's steel!

Close clinging to a raft, mid ocean wild,
To live another day, misfortune's child!
Shrinking in fear of one life's seething fire,
To writhe full soon on other faggot pyre!
Driving the spectres from the 'wildered brain,
While they deride and mocking come again!

Struggling against the river's rapid tide,
While strong nerves on the sunny shore abide,
Yet stirring not to help the wearied arm
Nor sounding for the tired one an alarm!
The swimmer sinks—and bubbles mark his way,
While cold hearts wonder at his fated day.

In yon lone vessel driving on the shore,
The sailor struggles for his home once more.
Did I say home?—Oh, libel on the boy—
He has no home to tell his grief or joy.
E'en in his dreams at solemn midnight hour,
Life's breakers rouse him by their fearful power.

Striving with every stretch of nerve and brain—
For what? the cup of penury to drain.
While others flaunt along in haughty sheen—
Slow to obey the thorn pierced Nazarene—
"As much as did ye good to bond or free
With motive pure ye did it unto me."

* * * * * * *

There are two natures struggling for their breath
One leads to joy, one to false steps and death,
One chooses Mammon for his idiot guide,
And fails of blessing on the "other side"—
Making the life subservient to the dimes,
Risking its loss, to hear those syren chimes!
Staking the soul at toss of fickle die,
Falling below, and losing at the sky.

Ah! weary pilgrim—look ye to the way,
Where hope points to a fairer, brighter day;
Stand by thy manhood—show a noble soul,
Which gold can never taint, nor vice control.
Be this the struggle for a worthy breath,
And boldly claim proud victory over death.

THOS. P. MOSES.

Portsmouth, August, 1875.

—Ain't you exprised to see me? said a five year-old girl, as she tripped into my house in the midst of a rain-storm. "The rain fell all over me like it ran down through a strainer and I shooked it off, but it wouldn't stay shooked. I asked God to stop, but there was a big thunder in the way and he could not hear me, I underspeck; and I 'most know He couldn't see me, 'cause a black cloud got over my head as black as —anything! Nobody couldn't see little girls through black clouds. I'm going to stay till the sun shines and then, when I go home, God will look down and say, 'Why, there's Nettie! She went to see her auntie right in the middle of the rain; and I guess He'll be just as much exprised as you was!"

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 8 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases the numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

☞ There is only one other edition published, which costs $4.00.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No. 19 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

A Tragedy at Sea.

A tragic story of the sea is told in the account of a disaster to the schooner Aurelie, of Quebec, whose crew, after the ship's destruction by fire, endured great suffering and hardship, and were finally picked up in two open boats and brought to New York by the ship Moonlight, bound for Boston. The narrative of the circumstances which led to the accident, and the story of the terrible voyage in the boats, is told by the captains of the vessels, who are now in New York. Capt. Octave had command of the ill-fated schooner, which left the Barbadoes freighted heavily with coal. For some days after the ship's departure, they had a good breeze, and the schooner forged her way under the best possible conditions. After this, however, the temperature was fair, but exceedingly dry and hot, and for eighteen days they made only two knots an hour. On Saturday, August 20, a fire was discovered, which was undoubtedly produced by spontaneous combustion. "A stiff breeze," says the captain, "encouraged me to believe that we could reach port without sacrificing a single life on board. The fire generated but little smoke, but the gas escaping from the hold was terrible to endure. Soon after the discovery of the fire I ordered an iron rod to be sent down through the coals, and after it had been there a few moments I ordered it to be pulled up again. My order was readily obeyed, the seamen under me showing the most commendable presence of mind, and when the rod came up it was blazing red hot. This at once led me to believe that the fire had been burning a long time before it was discovered, and a second probing of the rod aft gave me to understand that from prow to stern the entire bottom of the vessel was a mass of livid coals. For a whole week the fire gradually gained headway, while to prevent the intensity of the heat I ordered the pumps to keep from working, hoping that the leaking of the vessel might do something toward extinguishing the flames. All this availed nothing. The fire still kept gaining headway. The gas finally drove all on board from their quarters, and at last, when the life of every one on board was imperilled and when I discovered that the ship was gradually sinking, I ordered the boats to be lowered over the sides. The crew behaved splendidly, and during the most critical hours preserved the best courage and presence of mind. When the decks were almost on a level with the surface of the water I ordered all to leave the ship and repair to the two open boats, then tossing hither and thither on the tide. This was on August 7, at 5 P. M. We laid alongside the burning ship until the waters rolled over her and she went down; then we found ourselves alone on an open sea in two open boats, miles upon miles away from land. Then an awful storm set in. All were discouraged and disheartened. Great black clouds obscured the daylight, and the rain fell down in torrents. The sea was lashed into a foamy whiteness, and our little barks each instant were in danger of being capsized. My wife at the time was in very delicate health, her confinement being near at hand. For four days and five nights fourteen of us lived in the two open boats, when, thank God, a sail was seen, and the good ship Moonlight, bound for Boston, came to our relief." Capt. Waterhouse, of the Moonlight, states that when he spied the two boats in distress he hove up to them as speedily as possible and rescued the fourteen persons, who were completely exhausted. The rescued crew speak of Capt. Waterhouse as a true hero, and say that they owe their lives to him, and Capt. Cote has named his babe, which was born after the rescue, Charles Waterhouse Cote, in honor of the man without the timely aid of whom neither his father nor mother, nor, in fact, any of the rescued fourteen, would have survived to tell the story of the burning of the Aurelie, because the next day after they were picked up the Moonlight was caught in a hurricane, which greatly injured her, and which certainly would have sent to the bottom the frail little boats in which the fourteen were afloat.

Secret Politics in Maryland.

The Washington correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, August 21, writes:

The secret party in Maryland is evidently becoming quite formidable, and greatly disturbs the democrats. It has been busy at work for some time past holding meetings, enlisting members, and discussing plans for the coming campaign. Openly, the democrats affect to consider it of no importance. Secretly, there is anxiety and fear at democratic headquarters, and an intense desire to get into the mysteries of the new party, to determine its membership, and ascertain its designs. The democratic newspapers produce bogus reports of its meetings and conventions, and use in them the names of disreputable politicians who hang on its outskirts, but are rarely ostracised by it. Meanwhile the members are very successful in keeping still tongues in their heads. They meet in close locked rooms, with guards at the doors to see that nobody goes in without giving the countersign, and passing a satisfactory inspection. The conclaves last for hours, and no newspaper has as yet succeeded in getting a faithful report of it. The new party is particularly strong with the Germans, who have been almost solidly democratic ever since a republican legislature, ten years ago, passed a stringent Sunday law. Now they are falling away from the democratic party on the principle of opposition to sectarian appropriations, to which the new organization is pledged. Its members claim that it is not confined to Maryland; that it exists in other States, especially in Ohio, where it is antagonistic to democracy on account of the alliance of that party and the Catholic Church.

A Child on the Witness Stand.

Little Walter Ross, brother of the missing Charlie, was on the stand in the Westervelt trial in Philadelphia on Tuesday. He is about seven years old, very intelligent, and told his story in his own way with very little questioning. His evidence was as follows:

I live in Germantown, on Washington lane; on the afternoon of July 1st Charlie went out with me into the lane and we were playing; two men came along and spoke to us; they were riding; they heard us shooting fire-crackers up in the yard, and they said didn't we want to go and buy some, and then the men asked us to get in; they lifted Charlie in and then I got in; they drove up the lane and then drove up toward Limekiln pike; when they got up there they turned down the Limekiln pike; before we got in they said they were going to take us to get some fire crackers; I was between the two men and Charlie was sitting on one of the men's lap; we went down Limekiln pike down to Church lane; then they turned up a great high hill and then turned up another street; then they went out another street and down a big hill; then they went on that street till they got to another street and went up this way again, and then turned and went that way; then they went up that street, and then they stopped at a hotel and got Charley and me a drink; then they stopped in a street at the corner, and told me to go in and buy fire-crackers at a store; they told me to go in the store and they went around the corner; they gave me money and I went in to buy the fire-crackers; Charley was in the carriage; I bought the fire-crackers and came out of the store, and then the buggy was gone; I saw nothing of Charley when I came out; some ladies saw me and asked what was the matter, and I told them my brother was gone; a man came along and asked me where I lived, and I said on Washington lane; he asked me if it was in Washington, and I said no, it was in Germantown; he asked me if I wanted to go to the station house, and I said no. I wanted to go home, and he took me home; I met father in the lane coming up; while we were riding in the buggy Charley cried a little, and the men said we were going to buy fire-crackers now; Charley said before he got in he wanted torpedoes; the men said they were going to buy the fire-crackers at Juliann's; there was a red striped cover in this buggy; they had it spread over Charley and all of us; Charley rode all the time on the man's lap; I had seen these two men before the day they took us away in the wagon; I had seen them twice before that, and had talked with them; when I saw them before they were riding in a buggy; they gave us candy first; they gave us candy twice before they took us away; I saw them walking on Monday before they took us away; they were right in front of Mr. Boutelier's place; they were on the other side of the road from me, and they said, 'Halloo;' I did not see the buggy that day; that was in the afternoon when we were going to Sunday school; I saw them in the buggy on two different days before they took us away; the day they gave us candy I took it up to paps and told him the man gave us candy; there were two new houses building opposite our house last summer; there was nothing said by the men about those houses at any time; one of the men had his nose up this way (pushing the end of his own nose upward;) and the other had it down; the one whose nose was up had a cut on his nose, and the other had a moustache, which was red; one man had on black pants and a light jacket; the pocket went below his knees; the other had on black pants and black jacket."

Wasted Fly Power.

[Hartford Courant.]

It was Hamlet who expressed a preference for the "fly to ills we know not of," or words to that effect, and Hamlet either was or pretended to be insane. The idea that there is any more annoying torment possible than the frequent fly affords, is an unsound notion, a sign of a very thick skin or a very thick head. But setting aside for the time, the direct discomfort that the creature works for man, it is interesting, and instructive, too, to see the seriously injurious effect that its indirect influence seems to have upon the world's industry. There are in round numbers, 33,000,000 cows, oxen, horses and the like in this country, which for about ten hours a day during fly time, keep their tails in almost constant motion. It is no exaggeration to estimate that they swing them at least ten times a minute, with a force equal at each swing to to raising one pound a foot. That is, their tail force is ten pounds a minute. One horse power is 33,000 foot pounds in a minute so 3,300 cattle would exert with their tails one horse power, and all these creatures in the country would put forth upon the fly the aggregate force of 10,000 horse power. Now the entire force of all the steam engines and water wheels in the country used in the manufactnre of steam engines and boilers is less than 12,000 horse power. That is, the force wasted by our domestic animals in waving their tails to keep the fly away is almost sufficient, if rightly applied, to move all the motive machinery in the land.

—Minister Caleb Cushing's suit against Mr. Fernando Wood on account of the latter's barking dog has just found its counterpart in London, where a cock-crowing case has become a subject for judicial investigation. The case was brought in one of the courts and the magistrate flatly refused to have anything to do with the dispute, pointing out that the dispute, pointing out that the fowl had been crowing for ever so many thousands of years unrebuked of justice, and that it was contrary to public policy to gag him after so many centuries of impunity. Dissatisfied with this nolle prosequi the plaintiff, who lived next door to the other gentleman, who was the proud possessor of a "rooster" given, like all his congeners, to crowing very early in the morning, brought an action in another court against his neighbor to recover damages for the nuisance which he alleged his family had suffered through the matutinal salutations of one small bantam. The plaintiff's case was that his neighbor had a fowl-house, and that therein was a cock which habitually commenced crowing at 4 or 5 in the morning, and that the recovery of his wife, who was in delicate health, was retarded by the noise. The defendant submitted that he was strictly within his legal rights in keeping fowls, and that he could not prevent the plumed biped from chanting his sweet song. The Judge suggested to defendant the propriety of abating the nuisance; and this the owner of the bantam undertook to do, consenting at the same time to a nominal verdict against him, with one shilling damages. We are not told whether or not the "abatement of the nuisance" implies the wringing of the cock's neck.

--For the last five years I have been waiting for the impatience of our public to culminate in some revolt against an annoyance so small that my mention of it may possibly provoke a sneer—but the endurance still continues. Would any other people in the world quietly bear to have every ten minutes, a hideous Day's Doings spread over their laps, a novel of Miss Braddon hung upon them, a package of nasty "prize candy" given to their charge, a box of withered figs, a paper of peanuts or popcorn, or maple sugar, thrust into their hands, "ivory that grows on trees" stuck under their noses—out why go on with the catalogue? Everybody who travels knows the nuisance; every lady who takes a fleeting nap, even in a Pullman "Palace" car, has been rudely awakened by a greasy novel flung upon her bosom; every gentleman has been blackguarded for allowing his precious package of prize candy to drop upon the floor. I once heard the gentle protest of a lady, but the young ruffian answered: "You needn't be afraid of 'em—they won't bite you!" In fact, since the fellows are licensed by the railroad companies, they have a certain protection, and consider themselves justified in their treatment of passengers, who must be bullied into buying. I am not surprised at them; but the abject submission of their victims is an ever-renewed marvel.—Bayard Taylor.

—It is perfectly well known to experienced engineers that if a dozen different locomotive engines were made at the same time, of the same power, for the same purpose, of like materials, in the same factory, each of these locomotives would come out with its own peculiar whims and ways, only ascertainable by experience. One engine will take a great deal of coal and water at once; another will not hear to such a thing, but insists on being coaxed by spadefuls and bucketfuls. One is disposed to start off when required at the top of speed; another must have a little time to warm into it. These peculiarities are so accurately mastered by skillful drivers that only particular men can persuade engines to do their best. It would seem as if some of these "excellent monsters" declared, on being brought from the stable, "If it's Smith who is to drive, I won't go; if it is my friend Stokes, I am agreeable to do anything." All locomotive engines are low-spirited in damp, foggy weather. They have great satisfaction in their work when the air is crisp and frosty. At such times they are very cheerful and brisk, but they strongly object to haze and mists. These are points of character on which they are united. It is in their peculiarities and varieties of character that they are the most remarkable.

—A pair of precious scamps in Paris have devised a most ingenious plan for swindling would-be violators of the custom laws. They were in the habit of going around among tavern-keepers and others with samples of untaxed brandy which they would offer confidentially at a low figure. When they made a sale they would bring with great secrecy a fifty quart cask to the purchaser, telling him at the same time to tap it whenever he pleased to see that the brandy was up to the sample. This the latter would do, and would make a number of gimlet holes, through all of which the genuine article trickled forth. The brandy would then be sent to be bottled. All would go well for the first few gallons, and then the run of brandy would cease. On shaking the cask a sound would be heard of gurgling liquid, but nothing would come through the bunghole. After much trial and tribulation the secret was discovered. In the fifty litre cask a smaller one, holding forty-eight litres, was suspended, full of water. Only as much brandy had been provided as would fill the space between the barrels.

—A case involving fifty thousand dollars was decided a few days ago in Palquemine, Louisiana, by a negro jury, of which no one could read or write. They brought in a comprehensive verdict. "We find he had a right to make the affidavit." The Judge inquired whether they meant to find for the defendant, and the foreman at haphazard said "Yes;" but since the plaintiff made "the affidavit," nobody knows exactly what they meant, and they will probably have to try the case over again.

—This good little boy was sitting on the front steps whittling up his sister's embroidery frames and muttering to himself, "This ain't no good world to live in unless a feller is his father's and mother's only orphan boy. What makes me git so mad is to have my sister go and take all my ripe peaches to give to that big loafer of a sweetheart of hers that comes 'round here seven nights in a week to git a square meal, and makes out as if he wanted to talk politics with the old man. I wish they'd marry and go to Texas, I do!" And then he threw the remnants of the frames in the street and seemed lighter hearted.

—A Spencer, Mass., tonsorial firm dissolved under peculiar circumstances. One partner ordered a man out of the shop and the other told him to stay. In the fight that ensued one partner got on top of the trespasser, and the senior member of the firm sat on them both. It is the senior who may be found at the old stand.

—Garibaldi, duirng the enthusiastic ovations paid him recently at Civita Vecchia, advised the modern Italians to be as firm and constant as the Romans of old; that while they should defend their country, if attacked, it was their noblest privilege to endeavor to peacefully settle international disputes, in company with England and America.

—Pearl Rivers tells a dubious story that Jenny Lind, upon visiting Niagara Falls, fell on her knees, clasped her hands, raised her eyes to heaven, and sobbingly prayed: "Almighty God, wilt Thou be pleased to accept my heartfelt and most grateful thanks for allowing me to look upon this, one of Thy greatest works. Its creation tells us there is a God, and if there is an unbeliever on the face of the earth, be pleased to bring him forth and show him this mighty work of Thine."

—An Oregonian offers to furnish fir boards one hundred feet long and twelve feet wide for the Centennial Exhibition. What other country can "plank down" such wonders as this?

—All the New England pin factories are in full blast, notwithstanding the dull times. Pin money must be plenty.

She Paddled Her Own Boat.

[Atlanta Constitution.]

The train was approaching Atlanta, and the obliging conductor went up to the homely old lady who was evidently travelling alone, and said:

"Madam, have you a companion?"

"Oh, yes sir; Martha Ann made me fetch along her little black ridikule that she calls a kumpanyun!"

"No! no! I mean an escort!"

"A what, sir?" and she looked at him hard enough to break her spectacles.

"A fellow traveller with you?" explained the conductor desperately.

She rose. Her uplifted hand looked deadly in its black mitten garniture.

"You good-for-nothing scamp; no, sir! The idee of me, a lone woman, with no natural protector but a sheep skin kivered New Testament, having a feller travelin' with me! Your mother ought to weep over your imperdence, young man, and I'll have ye to know that I kin git along in this world about as well as any sixty-year-old widow that you ever struck agin!"

By this time the conductor was out on the platform wiping the perspiration from his face, and swearing that the old lady might "go it alone" to her heart's content.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For first offence a forfeit of $10, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.

Jottings.

The increased supply of aqueduct water which is expected in a few days, will, it is said, severely tax the strength of the old logs, many of which have lain unmolested for upwards of half a century.

Street Commissioner Holmes is doing a good job in grading up Pleasant street near Market Square. The thoroughfare had become a hollow which could hardly be forded in the winter season after a thaw. At some points of the section that is undergoing repairs, it is found necessary to raise the grade twenty-six inches to bring it up to a level with the sidewalk.

The Woman's Temperance League of this city will resume their weekly meetings this afternoon at 3 o'clock, at the vestry of the Methodist Church, Daniel street. All ladies are invited to be present.

The United States district court for the district of New Hampshire began a special term in this city Wednesday, Judge Clark presiding. The suit, Hiram C. Abbott of Conway, assignee of E. H. Tollman, Sidney E. Tollman and John S. Kunman, a bankrupt firm of Bartlett, brought by the assignee to recover for payment of a debt made by the defendant to the bankrupt, within two months prior to his declaration of bankruptcy, was commenced Wednesday and given to the jury Thursday noon. The plaintiff contends that the payment was in the nature of a preference of the creditor, and in violation of the bankrupt law, which prohibits such preference. Other suits founded upon like claim against other debtors of the bankrupt's estate, are pending in the court. James D. Fessenden of Portland for assignee; W. J. Copeland of Great Falls for the defendant.

School Matters.

At a meeting of the General School Committee on Thursday evening, it was voted to enforce the resolution concerning school division boundaries. This means that no scholar residing out of the limits of a certain school district can go to school in that district or in any other save that in which he or she resides. We have once before published the district lines, as prescribed by the school board, but at the special request of the committee and for the information of all interested, we again give them a place in our columns:

Resolved—That the School Districts of Portsmouth be and the same are hereby constituted as follows:

District No. 1 shall contain all that part of the city north of a line commencing at the Spring Market, running southerly through Market street, then through Congress and Islington streets to Greenland line.

District No. 2. All that part of the city north of a line commencing at the easterly end of Court street and running to Washington street, thence to Richmond street, through said street to Pleasant street, across Pleasant street to South Mill Pond, across South Mill Pond to the southerly end of Richards' Avenue at South road, through South road to Lafayette road, through Lafayette road to Greenland line.

District No. 3. All that part of the city south of the southerly line of District No. 2.

District No. 2 for Primary school purposes shall include so much of District No. One as is bounded by Brewster street on the east, Eastern railroad on the north, Islington street on the south, and Jones' railroad on the west.

The intent of the above restrictions is to secure a uniformity in the system of classification, and to more fully equalize the attendance throughout the city. It is nothing new. It is simply the resuscitation of an old regulation that has been a dead letter for years. It will seemingly bear somewhat hard on those who have been privileged to go to school where they might elect, but on the whole it will prove salutary.

News and Notes.

The ride over the new railroad through the Notch is said to be the wildest in the whole country. In fact it is so wild that a man's hair will stand right on end, if he has any. The road winds along the mountain side hundreds of feet from its base, now up hill and now down (the grade being 116 feet to the mile,) while now and then it crosses a gorge on a slender iron trestlework, a hundred or two hundred feet above the rocky bed, and five hundred or a thousand feet above the foot of the mountain. It is a grand and awful ride, as full of danger as of beauty.

The New York Times declares that the Gotham milliners and dress-makers have sent more husbands and wives to the divorce courts than all other human beings combined. It is not without feelings of apprehension that a husband of the present day glances into the windows of the bonnet-makers and milliners. The show which is there set out gives him some idea of the demands which will be made on his purse this Winter. What is offered to his notice at this moment is not calculated to put him in good spirits. The bonnets, or hats, or whatever the mysterious articles are to be called, are evidently made up more extravagantly than ever. The other day it was announced that bonnets during the coming Fall and Winter would be trimmed with lace, and that a specimen of this kind of workmanship might easily cost $200. Poor paterfamilias! His heart sinks within him when he reads these melancholy tidings. A failure, not immediately affecting himself; a burglary, in his neighbor's house; an earthquake in some other part of the country—these events would not make him half so miserable. Even in ordinary times, the price of a bonnet is out of all proportion to its worth, or to the means of its purchaser. It ranges from twenty-five to fifty dollars, not putting an outside figure either way; and nowadays a lady expects at least four or five bonnets a season, and then will boast of being much more economical than "other women."

Donn Piatt, who is in London, says that at the Langham Hotel a Chicago colonel got into a discussion about sharpshooting. The colonel said "I'll wager ten pounds to fifty I can hit the centre of that clock at the first shot with my revolver." The offer was taken, and a shot from a navy revolver by the American, aimed at the face of the huge clock in the hall, brought down the hands and very nearly the whole clock with it. Of course the unexpected explosion, followed, or rather accompanied, with a crash, created the wildest excitement. The rooms were emptied of their living contents into the hall, while from the street hurried crowds, among whom the rumor spread that all the Americans in the Langham were butchering each other with revolvers. The colonel was promptly paid his fifty pounds, and as promptly paid for the repair of the clock. And whoever discredits this story may go to London and see the clock; for Don Piatt adds: "Now, in any other civilized country known to the undersigned, this gentleman, so ready with his pistol, would have been arrested and punished. Not so here. The proprietor of the Langham kept the shattered dial on exhibition, and the marksman was generally spoken of as a right good fellow, and remarkably clever with the revolver."

The reunion of the First New Hampshire Cavalry Association, which was to be held in Concord, September 14, has been postponed, and will be held at Manchester, October 6, 7 and 8, in connection with the general reunion of New Hampshire Veterans. The Fourteenth Regiment Association have also postponed their reunion to the same time and place.

The entries in the trotting horses of the New England and New Hampshire fairs to be held in Manchester, September 8, 9 and 10, closed on Wednesday. On the 8th, in the 2.40 class, purse $300, there are eight entries; on the 9th, for the three-minute class, purse $300, there are eight entries, and 2.35 class, purse $400, six entries, and on the 10th, in the 2.50 class, purse $300, there are eight entries, and in the 5.29 class purse $500, four entries, comprising, in the latter class, the noted horses Ned Wallace, Defiance, Belle Dean and Young Rattler. In the other purses there are entered some of the best trotters in New England, and a grand and interesting trot may be expected.

The California election returns to date are very meagre but indicate that the democrats have elected the State ticket by a large majority. Houghton (rep.) and Luttrell (dem.) for Congress are probably elected in their respective districts, the 3d and 4th.

—"Well, bub," replied Bijah, as he finished hanging up the broom, "this currency question bothers many besides you, though it's clear enough to me. You see that twenty-five cent scrip, don't you?" The boy remarked that he did, and Bijah placed it on the window-sill, weighed it down with a peach-stone, and continued: "That bit of paper is marked '25 cents,' but is it twenty-five cents? Is it anything more than a piece of paper?" "I dunno," solemnly replied the boy. "Has that bit of paper any real value beyond its being a promise to pay?" demanded Bijah. "What paper!" "That 'ere twenty-five—" He stopped there. Some one had sneaked up the alley and slyly stolen both scrip and peach-stone. "Never mind," condoled the boy, "it hadn't any intrinsic value." "It hadn't, eh?" growled the old janitor; "I just want to catch the wolf who absorbed it!"—Detroit Free Press.

—A meek-looking stranger was sitting on the station platform reading a newspaper, recently, when he suddenly let it fall from his hands and burst into tears. "What is your grief, my dear sir?" hastily asked an astonished and sympathetic bystander. The afflicted man looked up with his eyes streaming. "Stranger," he gasped, "do you know that there hain't a single ex-President alive?" and again he bowed his head and wept.—Danbury News.

—A number of young men from Boston and Cambridge quitted a hotel at Baker's Island this week after a brief sojourn and left a corked bottle on the beach inclosing this inscription: "Starved to death at the —— h.o.el (Signatures.) If this is picked up, send word to our families."

—Mr. Loder of Brooklyn is mentioned as a great pedestrian in the Catskills. Wearing army shoes, rough trousers, flannel shirt, and straw hat, he frequently walks twenty miles at a rapid pace after breakfast.

—At Cleveland, Tenn., recently, a wagon load of 144 first-class water melons sold for $1.75; while in the neighboring town of Winchester a wagon load of noble damsons was offered at 25 cents a bushel.

—"You would be very pretty, indeed," said a gentleman, patronizingly, to a young lady, "if your eyes were only a little larger." My eyes may be very small, sir, but such people as you don't fill them!"

—A colored preacher in South Carolina puts his foot on excessive bribery at elections and crushes it. "Dis ting," he says, "ob gitten' $100 for a vote is all wrong; $10 is as much as it's worf!"

—Lucy Hooper says Dumas was actually a married man.

One Box Dr. Quain's Condition Pills "Nearly Cured Where All Else Failed."

LOWELL, MASS, July 20th, 1874.

T. W. LANE:—I have used one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, am glad to state in my case they have proved all that you claim for them. I have been troubled with Bad Blood and all its consequent diseases, and have tried several kinds of Bitters and Pills without receiving much benefit, until I tried the CONDITION PILLS, and they have nearly cured where all else failed. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yuurs, very truly,

Testimony of a Clergyman---Liver and Kidney Troubles.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complaint many years; one-half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years: three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.

REV. JOHN DAVIS.

Liver Complaint and Rheumatism so that he Could not Sleep Nights.

I was born and always lived in Pittsfield, N. H.; am now 50 years old; been troubled with Liver Complaint for 30 years, and Rheumatism for 20 years, sometimes so I could not sleep nights. I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life.

S. S. RING.

Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE,—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinine," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague.

Yours, most respectfully,

MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.

Yours, with respect,

JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.

Yours truly,

ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.

Nov. 3, 1874. L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb, 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient,

Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail.

MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.

MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible.

MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.

N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. I enclose $2.00, and if you can, send me four Packages.

ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be seen in that section.

MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Biliousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them.

A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.

JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others.

MOLLY MORIARTY.

Molly Moriarty,
Pink of propriety,
Molly Moriarty, Molly, my own;
Sure 'tis your Tim is sad,
How could his heart be glad,
Since like an icicle Molly has grown.

Och, 'twas your eyes so blue
Cut my poor heart in two.
Each took a half of it, carried it off;
Then when I spoke of love,
Swore by the stars above,
Sure 'twas unkind of you, Molly, to scoff.

Oft at my cabin door,
When the dull day is o'er,
Sadly I sit and send sighs on the gale;
Rain from my weeping eyes
Fully a stream supplies,
Where drink the cows that are grazed in the vale.

Pigs in a pratie patch,
Running a rootin' match,
Sow in the buttermilk drinking her fill;
Cow in the cabbages,
Making sad ravages—
Everything gone to destruction at will.

Soon in the waters deep,
Tim's weary head shall sleep,
Suckers and shiners shall nibble my nose;
Waves rolling over me,
Singing a lullaby,
Or a sad requiem when the wind blows.

What's that you're sayin', joy?
"Tim, come and kiss me, boy!"
Here, hould my hat, while I skip on the flure;
Come to my arms, my love,
Molly, my turtle dove,
Whoop! what a jewel you are to be sure.

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM
AND TONIC PILLS.
For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for their wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Nodes, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most frigh ful increase of nervous affections from the slightest vestigia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are attacked by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.
I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually invaluable in such cases. I regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.
JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.
We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, here in the case of Mrs. family who had been under the treatment of different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.
P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

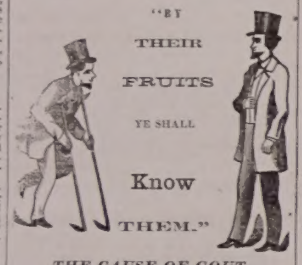
FACTS PROVEN
BY THE
TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vauquilin and Barruell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts spreading, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place atom by atom. It is, therefore, not surprising that patience should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed accurately a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

Thus the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

A BLESSING TO MANKIND,

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, natural, physical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials held by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the means of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as in gout, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN
HOTEL.
WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,
FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.
The magnificent drive over
THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN
and the view from the top, where a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water
can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other Beautiful Drives,
Picturesque Scenery and,
Pleasant Surroundings
make it one of the
MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS
in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.
Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,
within five miles of the Hotel, the
BEAUTIFUL BEACHES
at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish
EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.
Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the
FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.
Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they
SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME
every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.
Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself
Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,
and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as may require it, shall cause them to be emptied within ten day- from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No vender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind about their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for such refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or enclosure, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein; and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode—shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in the city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs!

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by remitting one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON, Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office.
EDMUND BURKE,
Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"MR. R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their case and at very reasonable charges.
JOHN TAGGART."

LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act. The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bondholders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond cancelled.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

Pulmocin Cordial.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervousness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the hurry trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine,' so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs, Croup, Diphtheria, Asthma, etc..

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

Portsmouth Chronicle.

—A gentleman residing in that part of Newport known as the "The Point" had an adventure a night or two since, which is worthy of being placed in the category of remarkable experiences. In the dead of night, the hour which cracksmen select to pursue their nefarious calling, the gentleman was awakened by an unwonted noise, which he supposed was in the house on the floor below. Hearing the noise repeated at intervals, he came to the conclusion that a burglar had entered and was operating. He imparted his suspicions to his wife, but she, after listening a moment, ridiculed the notion. He insisted upon it, however, and stepping to the door of a boarder lodging on the same floor, announced to him that there was a burglar in the house. This man was the owner of a horse pistol, which he at once pressed into service, and both went to the head of the stairs, where they halted, each desiring the other to go down. Neither cared to risk so desperate a move, however, and the wife having meanwhile put in an appearance, and having striven in vain to urge them down, went down herself, light in hand, and explored the whole lower part of the house, and, failing to discover anything there, went out doors, where she discovered the disturber of their nocturnal slumbers. The cover of a rain-water hogshead had been left part way off, and the movements of a cat thumped it against the house, producing the noise which had been attributed to a burglar. The horse pistol was laid away for the next encounter, and the two men have since received the encomiums of their friends on the remarkable bravery exhibited by them on this trying occasion.—Providence Press.

—Dibbs was remarking on tombstone inscriptions, and said: "When I'm gone from down here, I'd just want nothin' more on my slab than the inscription, 'I know that my Redeemer liveth,'" "Yes," said old Turnpenny, who stood by, "that would be as big a lie as if you were to write it on the back of them notes o' yourn that I've been holdin' for seven years back!"

—Near Knoxville, a young girl, who was unexpectedly interviewed by the family as she was eloping with the object of her affections, knocked the old man down, laid out two brothers with a cistern pole, kicked the hired man in the stomach, and got away with her lover and "made the riffle."

—Mrs. Helmbold wore the most elaborate toilette at a recent Long Branch hop. She's as pretty as of old.

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a Complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you order a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels—worth about $40.00, but costs only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the reader's hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in Spanish ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with a wile such an air of candor is he story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Portent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No. 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Orders filled by return mail.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

The Ross Mystery.

A Herald interviewer reports an interesting conversation with Mrs. Mosher, the wife of Bill Mosher, the universally acknowledged abductor of Charley Ross, and while she does not directly avow knowledge of the boy's whereabouts, there can be little doubt from her talk that she can at any moment either cause the child to be restored or reveal its hiding-place. She was discovered after much searching by the interviewer, her whereabouts since the tragic shooting of her husband at Bay Ridge having been kept a profound secret. Upon being accosted she at first denied her identity, but afterward admitted that she was the person sought. Long suffering and continual contact with the keen intellect of lawyers employed on the Ross case, and frequent association with the shrewdest af detectives, has made Mrs. Mosher a woman neither easily deceived nor easily interviewed. Her demeanor indicated beyond a doubt that she suspected her visitor to be a member of the press, and nothing would induce her to talk. Realizing that whatever she had to say at the critical period in the case, while her brother Westervelt is undergoing in Philadelphia a judicial trial for this crime, would be, perhaps, of vital importance to the solution of the mystery, the interviewer was obliged to resort to all sorts of methods to bring her out. In answer to inquiries relative to her connection with the abduction Mrs. Mosher stoutly denied having had anything to do with it. She declared that she never saw Charlie Ross, and that her brother Westervelt, now on trial at Philadelphia, had never seen the boy either. The reporter then said: "Mrs. Mosher, now tell me candidly, is the boy living or dead?" "I am sure he is living and will turn up before long. I am as sure that he is living as I am that I breathe. I would not believe him dead unless I should see his dead body before me." A few moments before Mrs. Mosher denied ever having seen the child. A portion of her last answer, in view of this fact, has a significant importance. She strongly emphasized this answer, leaving not the slightest particle of doubt in the reporter's mind that she spoke her honest conviction. "How do you know that he is still living?" continued the reporter. "I decline to answer this question, and I insist on knowing who you are." Further questions at this juncture appeared for a long time to be only a waste of words. Mrs. Mosher remained firm, and the writer was more than once on the point of departing, but her determination, after much parleying, collapsed, and the questioning went on. "Now, Mrs. Mosher, let me put you a straightforward question of vital importance to yourself, to the Ross family and to the general public. Tell me, is there any way in which Charley Ross can be restored, leaving out of consideration all obstacles in the way of a ransom being paid, and assuming that the amount demanded be immediately forthcoming and safety against punishment guaranteed to those so restoring him?" "I decline to answer. Don't you think I would give him up if I knew where he was? I am a mother and know the feelings of Mrs. Ross. I can assure you I would give him up if it was in my power." "Have you ever seen Mr. Ross?" "Yes; no later than a few days ago I saw him. I once heard that he wanted to shun me, but I saw him since." "What were the relations, if I may ask, between your husband and yourself; was he kind and affectionate?" "Yes, indeed, he was. He was a good husband to me, whatever was otherwise." "Was he confiding?" "Yes." "It has been asserted that Charley Ross is in Germany. Do you believe this?" "I decline to answer." "Mrs. Mosher," continued the interviewer, "why are you so positive that Charley Ross is alive?" "I know he is. My husband would not harm a hair of his head—I—I mean if he had anything to do with it." Here the interview came to an end, Mrs. Mosher absolutely refusing to speak another word about the matter.

M. Quad's Barber.

[N. Y. Graphic.]

He thought he recognized me the moment I entered the door, but I refused to encourage him in that belief. It was a strange town to me, all the people were strangers, and I was so far from home that I doubted if man, woman, or child in that locality had ever met me before.

The barber smiled tenderly as he pointed to the chair, and then led right off as familiarly as if he had shaved me every day for a month past. While mixing the lather he remarked on the weather, the crops, the panic, the lost balloonists, and other matters, and although I did not pretend to hear him he was not to be beaten.

"I hope you'll do well here," he said as he pushed my head over and daubed the lather on the right cheek, commencing at the butt of the ear.

(Silence on my part.)

"This town needs another dry goods store," he continued after a moment, "and I shouldn't wonder if you just coined money."

(Long silence.)

Perhaps it was the silence which convinced the barber that he had made a mistake, but he was not discouraged. As he lathered the left cheek he suddenly said:

"There are three or four lawyers here now, but, as Christopher Columbus said, "There's room at the top of the heap," and I think you'll be full of business all the time."

He was looking right down into my face, and through the foam of lather he might have detected a faint smile, a frown, or some other expression which hurt his conceit. He instantly suspected that he had made another mistake. I was looking into the glass on the wall, and I saw his countenance change. Some barbers would not have pursued the subject further, but he was the only barber in the village, and he felt that he had certain rights which I was bound to respect. He might have reasoned that I was mulish and obstinate and needed coaxing and flattering, or perhaps he theorized that I was timid and hesitating, and wanted encouraging. At any rate he soon attacked me again, saying:

"This is a nice village, but I never saw so much sickness in my life as we have had this year. Our doctors don't seem to know enough to manage the diseases, and I'm glad you are going to open an office here. I am pretty healthy as a general thing, but if I get sick I'll give you my custom in preference to any one else."

Still watching the glass, I saw a self-satisfied smile ripple across his face. For about half a minute he was dead sure in his own mind that he had boxed me up. Then a shade of suspicion crossed his face. Silence sometimes gives consent, but in this case, after scrutinizing my face sharply for an instant, he interpreied it to mean that he had blundered again. He was vexed. I had no right to sit there and treat his round-the-corner queries with such contemptuous silence. He would pay me for such conduct. I saw the spirit of resolve creep into his face and he said:

"I was saying only the other day that this town was able to support another blacksmith shop! Old Jones is good-hearted, but he knows no more about shoeing a horse than a coon does about sailing a canal-boat."

His eyes glistened, and he took no pains to keep down the chuckle of satisfaction bubbling up into his throat. He regarded it as a line shot—a crusher—and if he hadn't been shaving my chin at that time he would have been unable to suppress a laugh.

His razor crossed the chin, scraped up and down, and skipped around to the jugular vein before the barber's smile faded. He had been watching me to catch a start of surprise or a look of displeasure, or something to guide his opinion; and as he had been unsuccessful, he renewed the lather on the left cheek and sighed drearily. I hoped he was a man of determination, and trusted that he would not give up. Fearing that he would, I was about to speak, when he smiled blandly and remarked:

"I can tell a school teacher the minute I set eyes on him!"

(Lather and silence.)

"And it's funny, too," he continued, "that I have shaved every professor in the Normal School here the very first morning of his arrival, and have told each and every one that he was a professor before he had said a word to me."

(Silence and shave.)

"Well, I suppose teaching is a good paying business," he went on, as he looked my face over to see if he had skipped a spot, "and I'm willing to help you all I can. I haven't any children—am not married—but if I ever get married and have children I'll send them to school to you."

His persistency and flattery deserved some encouragement, but I was determined to hold out to the last ditch. He shut up his razor with a quick, vexed motion, tossed it on the stand regardless of damages, and he smiled maliciously as he got down his bottle of unadulterated bay rum. I knew it would bite like a serpent and sting like an adder, but could I show less stoicism than he had shown diplomacy and persistency? Didn't I commence the struggle?

I shut my teeth, looked straight into the glass, and he sopped the fiery stuff over my cheeks and chin. He expected a squirm and a yell, and his surprise was great. The light of revenge had crept into his eyes, but it quickly faded away, and as he replaced the bottle and wiped my face with the towel he said:

"I never saw but one other man who could stand bay rum like that, and he was a returned Californian. The climate of that country hardens the flesh I suppose?"

I refused to reply. He got angry again, dug my scalp as he combed my hair, gave my head several unnecessary twists and knocks and pushes, and he jerked the big calico apron off my lap as if he hated me. However, curiosity suddenly overcame his vexation of spirit, and as he brushed me off he said:

"This town ought to support another undertaker, and if I can be of any assistance in finding you a shop you can call upon me day or night."

I wouldn't speak, and I heard him gritting his teeth. He also struck me several hard blows with the brush, and once tried to hit me fair on the nose. I thought I had discouraged him, but just as I put on my hat and opened the door he made the last desperate charge. Smiling sweetly, he inquired:

"Less see! Reverend—Reverend—what did you say it was? Reverend Mr. Brown?"

I didn't say.

A Kentucky Bridal Tour.

Bridal tours in Kentucky have a spice of originality in them, though, like all things that pertain peculiarly to the State, there is something distasteful about them. If the one that the Louisville Courier-Journal tells about in the following narrative is a fair specimen of that kind of doings in that State, then the dark and bloody ground will stand a "right smart chance" of being avoided by all matrimonial parties who have their wits about them. This is the Journal's story, which is pleasanter to read than to realize:

There came one day to a little inland town in Kentucky a young rural couple who had just been bound by the "silken bonds." Their destination was the depot, and the bridegroom was evidently quite impatient for fear the train should arrive before he could reach the office. Having one ticket, they stood on the platform until the train had stopped. When they entered the car the bridegroom found his bride a seat, kissed her most affectionately, bade her "good-bye," and going out, seated himself on a box and commenced whittling most vigorously. He watched the train out of sight, regret dipicted on his face, when a bystander, thinking the whole proceeding rather strange, resolved to interview him. Approaching him carelessly, and chewing a straw to keep up his courage, he said:

"Been gettin' married lately?"

"Yes," said he, "me and Sallie got spliced this mornin'."

"Was that her you put on the train?"

"Yes," with a sigh.

"A likely lookin' gal,' said our questioner. "Anybody sick, that she had to go away?"

"No;" but here he grew confidential. "You see me and Sallie had heard that everybody when they got married took a bridal tour. So I told Sallie I hadn't money enough for both of us to go, but she shouldn't be knocked out of them. So I jist brought her down here, bought her ticket and sent her on a visit to some of her folks, and thought I might get some work harvestin' till she got back."

The afternoon found him busily at work, and when in a day or two afterward Sallie came back, he welcomed her cordially and affectionately, and hand in hand they started down the dusty road to their new home and duties.

Editing a Texas Newspaper.

[Sherman Register.]

The first one that came, we noticed at the foot of the staircase. He was armed to the teeth. He carried two double-barrel shot-guns, a long-range rifle, an old army musket, a needle-gun and four six-shooters, besides a heavy stock of ammunition. He toiled his weary way up the winding stairs, and we sat down and chanted our death song. "Left! wheel!" he shouted, as he reached the head of the stairway. "March," and he came in like a huge engine of destruction. "Halt! present!" he continued.

We trembled, our teeth chattered, and our hat lifted itself to the ceiling and hung there.

"Speak, coward! Why are things thus?" he shouted.

We explained to him that the fighting editor rose early and went yeast.

"Oh, this thusness," he shouted as he stalked madly round the room. "Show me the man that writ it," and as he rushed off to hunt for the fighting editor the typos formed a procession, and marched round the room, gayly warbling:

The wind sighed around the gable end and whistled through a broken window pane. A dog howled. The typos—where were they? Sliding down the lightning rod; whizzing through space; filling up the vacant places on the streets.

Gone! all gone. We looked. This time it was only a spotted-faced youth with a pair of horse-pistols, and we felt relieved and ventured to ask, "Young man, from whence comest thou? Comest thou from the far-off, snow-capped mountains to create riot, ruin, desolation, anarchy, destruction, chaos, strife, commotion, misery, devastation, despondency and despair, or didst thou merely waft thy seraphic form in to prognosticate for us a prolonged life of usefulness?"

The young man waved his hand, and in sadness and silence slipped away. Two hours later he was seen leaning over a Travis street bar, inquiring, "Mister, if you see old Gitupan—whiz—whatcher-name Prognosticate come in at the door, just speak to me about it—I might want to run."

Editing a newspaper in Texas is not what it might be. During the brief days of the Daily Register, we have received overtures for insurrectional matinees for two, from no less than a dozen infuriated gentlemen. We have been crowded back on the gable of terror so often that our front teeth are loose in our gums, and we find it necessary to wear a brick in our hat to hold our hair down.

Shot-guns, Colt's navys, howitzers, and all the grim habiliments of barbarous warfare are frowning upon us, and our destiny appears to be set in gloom and darkness. The bony skeleton, death, with glaring eyeballs, skips gleefully through the inky solitude of our office, and with horrible laughter and demoniacal antics chills our courage and curdles our blood. All the hounds of pandemonium snap and snarl, and from afar we sniff the fragrance of brimstone. We are scared. The hair on our head is turning white, while our face looks like an ash bank in a March gale.

Give us a rest.

Some of Ralston's Characteristics.

[Chicago Inter-Ocean.]

Personally, Ralston was no less remarkable a man than his operations would imply. Each morning at the bank he received hundreds of visitors—men who had projects to promote, men who wanted to share in his ventures, men who wanted his indorsement of their schemes, who came to him for advice, to borrow money, to consult about the politics of California, Oregon or Nevada, in all of which he took active part, making and unmaking candidates, Congressmen, Governors and county officials—and to all he gave quick, rapid attention, exhibiting marvellous mastery of details, determining with astonishing rapidity, and acting almost as soon as he had determined. His rejection of a project was almost invariably fatal to it; his indorsement almost as invariably seemed to insure its success, until his mere commendation itself was taken as certain augury of profit. Among his most potent agencies was the press. As often as a new paper was started on the Pacific slope the advertising card of the bank was inserted, and, of course, at the highest rates, and kept standing the year through. He knew how to reach the press of this coast, too, and has wielded it almost wholly until very recently, when the ring operating against him secured its organs and forced the fight on him vigorously. But at the close of business hours his business for the day was ended. No matter what great operations were depending in the balance, on leaving the bank he gave himself up wholly to the entertainment of the guests with which his palatial residence at Belmont was ever filled. In that oft-described palatial establishment, in the maintenance of which he is reported to have spent $25,000 per month, there was no carrying of the shop into the parlor. He was a splendid host, entertaining like a prince in most princely fashion. His table was furnished for forty guests daily. There were sixty elegantly fitted up guest chambers in the palace at Belmont. All the appointments and surroundings were on a scale of Oriental magnificence, and the spacious grounds, lighted with colored lanterns from hundreds of gas jets at night presented the appearance of some fairy palace. Thither he invited every notable who visited California, and as well as every one who came to him with a letter of introduction, or who had the smallest claim upon his hospitality. Everything about the place at Belmont was princely, and there in princely fashion Ralston entertained all who came, with the same quick tact in matters social that distinguished him in his business operations. He was a man of princely tastes, and enjoyed to the full princely living. But there was no coarseness about him. His residence was a piece of magnificent display, but in all about it, though in many things florid, there was nothing actually vulgar. He was a man of some culture, too, and was always vain of the society of literary folk, and no correspondent of a newspapaper ever visited California who was permitted to escape Ralston's hospitalities even if he would. In a business sense, too, this wholesale entertaining was an important feature in Ralston's operations. He took to his house every capitalist who visited California; every prominent politician whose influence might be worth having; every newspaper man whose letters might affect public opinion, and, with the innumerable schemes which the bank had on foot, this vast entertaining was a vast lobbying continuously kept up. The sad termination of his career has arrested all cavil. To-night we speak of Ralston, not as a cheat—he never was so spoken of—but as a man of wide sympathies and open-handed generosity. His thousand unobtrusive charities, the untold times he has extended a helping hand to small tradesmen and needy adventurers, are remembered now. With all his regal sumptuousness—and he enjoyed it as never did born king—this king of California was a soft-hearted, generous fellow, who never turned a deaf ear to a tale of princely prodigality. Moralize about it as you will, to the last old Californians will pronounce William C. Ralston "a brick."

—It seems that Mr. Sankey does the singing of the firm, and Mr. Moody the preaching—and singing is an important part of their business. In love, in politics, and in religion, singing is a mighty power; and as women have been won, and men too, by sweet voices, and Kings have been sung out of their realms, and Presidents have been elected by singing, why shouldn't Satan be sung out of his kingdom—which is this world—by pious persons?

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $10, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.

Per order.

Jottings.

No services at the North Church to-morrow.

As the repairs upon the Christian Church in Court street are not completed, services will not be held there until Sunday, Sept. 12th.

The charming Abbott cottage adjoining the Farragut House, Rye Beach, is to be let for the next season, as the owner is going abroad with his family.

A son of Mr. Abraham Marden, aged nine years, had a fall from the third story of Kearsarge Mills to the ground on the 26th, and strangely enough did not receive a bruise.

Riverside Lodge, I. O. O. F., of Kittery, has, since its institution, increased its membership to 175, and no deaths have occurred. It has a fund of $2,800 well invested.

Dr. Cyrus Hamlin, President of Roberts College, Constantinople, will give a talk on Turkey, at the Chapel of the North Church, on Monday evening next.

Now for the last Shoals excursion of the season, which takes place next Wednesday at Star Island under the auspices of the public library committee. Arrangements are made for a nice time. Steamers Major and Appledore will take the party, at the moderate rate of 75 cents each for the round trip, leaving their moorings at 11 A. M., and 6 P. M., returning at 3:40 and 7:30, P. M. If unfavorable weather another announcement will be made.

The heaviest piece of work encountered by the Aqueduct Co. in introducing the new supply of water into the city, was in laying the pipes through the embankments, under which a brick arch was built, consuming 30,000 bricks. It is estimated that the main pipe will hold upwards of 70,000 gallons. The pipes were tested last week at the highest point of land through which they pass, near the residence of Chas. A. Mendum, Esq., and the "head" was found to be several feet above that level.

A Correction.

Editor Chronicle: In your issue of the 3d inst., you speak of the "ride over the new railroad through the Notch" as a "grand and awful ride, as full of danger as of beauty."

Now I have just taken a ride over the said railroad (and intend soon to take another) but with the very moderate rate of speed run, I did not think there was special danger. I felt very much as I did on riding the four trips over the Mt. Washington railroad, and indeed as I always do when riding on railroads anywhere, that there is always more or less of danger. But with the care used in running the Mt. Washington and Notch roads I did not feel any anxiety. I have a very good head of hair; and every hair lay still during my trip save when disturbed by the mountain's gentle zephyrs. The scenery is wild, grand and beautiful in the extreme; and no one can afford to forego the enchanting sight, if he can spare a few dollars. The coming excursion offered by the Eastern railroad, affords a cheap and convenient opportunity.

News and Notes.

Budd Doble says that Goldsmith Maid goes lame and will never trot another race in a field of horses. She is over 19 years old, and has earned her oats, he thinks.

There is a question in France, just now, of a fresh die for postage stamps. The whole world is invited to compete in a design to represent the French Republic. It may be typified as a man, a woman, or what genius pleases.

—A gentleman and his daughter riding over a Nebraska railroad, were engaged in eating lunch, when the daughter removed several handsome gold rings from her fingers, and handed them to her father to take care of until the lunch had been disposed of. The gentlemen took up some chicken bones with the hand containg the rings, and in a moment of absent mindedness, threw bones and rings out of the open window of the car. The rings were valued at $1,700. They are not, however, necessarily lost, for they will doubtless fit some of the grasshoppers charmingly.

—Paris is delighted with its new American tramways, which are well patronized by people of all classes. The most successful of the new lines is running on the Boulevard Malesherbes, its cars being well filled at all hours of the day. The cars used in Paris are smaller than those in use here, are painted in dark brown picked with red. In one respect they possess an advantage over ours, that is in never being over-crowded—only as many persons being permitted to enter them as can find seats.

—It was the late Charles G. Finney, then in the full vigor of his powers, and with every feature charged and shining with the solemnity and the elevation of his mission, who so impressed the small boy of a household he visited, that the youngster, creeping out from under the hall-table after the evangelist had gone, exclaimed, in awe-struck tones, "Mother, was that God?"

—Loyal Austrians will be much conciliated in hearing how their Empress is treated in France. The Empress Augusta, who is summering at a French watering-place, and who is a bold rider, was galloping across the fields lately at a terrific pace when Her Majesty started a hare and gaily followed it. She was so carried away by her horse, her hare, or her spirits, that she found herself in a potato-field without knowing it. The owner came up running, and seized the horse's bridle with words of rustic indignation. He protested against the treading down of his potatoes, but in terms which the good fellow had every reason to think most gentle under such circumstances. The Empress laughed, her suit came up, the potatoes were paid for, and all ended happily there and then. That old lady who pursued the youthful Prince of Wales with a broomstick did not show equal temper.

—A curious fact has just come out to confirm the old saying that ill-gotten money never stays long with the giver. A young man who maintained intimate relations with William M. Tweed managed to acquire by Ring processes a fortune not far from $250,000. He managed to keep out of the way while the campaign against the Boss was in progress, but when the litigation against the Ring was recently renewed in order to compel them, one and all, to disgorge, the individual in question was frightened, and on a sudden impulse transferred all his property to the temporary custody of a personal friend without any of the formalities which usually attend transactions of the kind. A few days since this friend in need had business which called him off to Europe. On the passage, as fate would have it, he fell overboard and was drowned. Mr. Tweed's protege thereupon made a demand upon the family of his deceased friend for a return of his valuables, but the only answer he has received is that they know nothing about it; that there is nothing in the papers he left behind him to substantiate the claim, and that all the property that was left to them, without conditions, they intend to keep. The plaintiff thus has lost his money as well as his reputation.

—Professor Randolph, in a lengthy paper on the sun, says. "A molten or white hot mass, 856,000 miles in diameter, equalling in bulk 1,260,000 worlds like our own, having a surrounding ocean of gas on fire fifty miles deep, tongues of flames darting upward more than 50,000 miles, volcanic forces that hurl into the solar atmosphere luminous matter to the height of 160,000 miles, drawing to itself all the worlds belonging to our family of planets, and holding them all in their proper place; attracting with such superior force the millions of solid and stray masses that are wandering in the fathomless abyss that they rush helplessly toward him and fall into his fiery embrace. And thus he continues his sublime and resistless march through his mighty orbit, having a period of more than 18,000,000 of years."

—An English paper with the usual knowledge of its kind on American topics, says "Jefferson Davis, the American rebel, has been invited to address the Winnebago natives. N. B.—The Winnebagos are a tribe of Indians, formerly of Wisconsin State, but now removed to an agency in Nebraska State."

—A seafaring man gave testimony in Marquette, Mich., lately, concerning the location of a serious wound given in an affray on shipboard, that the man "was stabbed on the starboard side, near the capstan." Nautical, probably, for, in the vicinity of the right ear.

—A Boston paper notes that a dry goods firm in that city "was engulfed in the financial sea." It was swept away by the raging billers.

The Right Man.

We find in the Milwaukee Sentinel an advertisement which offers a rare opening for the right man. It reads as follows:

Wanted—A Rector for St. James' Parish, Milwaukee. He must possess all the Christian graces and a few worldly ones; must have snch tact and disposition as will enable him to side with all parties in the parish on all points, giving offence to none; should possess a will of his own, but agree with all the vestry; must be socially inclined and of dignified manners; affable to all, neither running after the wealthy nor turning his back upon the poor; a man of High-Low Church tendencies preferred; must be willing to preach first-class sermons and do first-class work at second-class compensation; salary should not be so much of an object as the desire to be a zealous laborer in the vineyard; should be able to convince all that they are miserable sinners without giving offence; each sermon must be short but complete in itself—full of old-fashioned theology in modern dress—deep but popular, and free from the eloquence peculiar to newly graduated theologians; should be young enough to be enthusiastic, but possess the judgment of one of ripe years and experience. He only who possesses the above qualifications need apply. To such a one will be given steady employment for a term of years. For further information apply to any member of the congregation.

EAST TILTON, N. H., April 14, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS are not only the best, but the very best I ever used. My wife has been troubled with Kidney Complant many years; one half of a package has cured her, so that she feels as well as ever. I have been troubled with Liver Compaint for many years; one-half of a package has done me more good than all the Pills I ever took. One of my neighbors took them, who has been troubled with Liver Complaint for many years; three Pills have helped him. Your Pills, where used, commend their virtues. Please send to my address one package.

I have taken one package of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and they have done me more good and relieved more suffering than all the medicine I have taken during my life.

Pittsfield, N. H., Dec. 17, 1874.

Fever and Ague.

NEW BOSTON, N. H., Feb. 1, 1875.

T. W. LANE.—Sir:—Last month I sent to you for a package of DR. QUAIN'S PILLS. I had tried five so-called ague cures, and I received more benefit from five of your pills than from all the "Cures" "Cholagogues," "Quinines," &c., that I have taken in two years. I cannot recommend it too highly for diseases resulting from long standing Fever and Ague.

Yours, most respectfully,

MRS. C. GARLAND.

Scaly Humor Cured by One Package---Liver Complaint Helped.

NORTH SALEM, N. H., Jan. 5, 1875.

MR. LANE.—Dear Sir:—Your Pills are all they are recommended. I was troubled with a Scaly Humor on my legs; I took one package and my legs are quite smooth. My wife was troubled with Liver Complaint; she took one package and they helped her greatly.

Yours, with respect,

JOHN H. BLAKE.

From a Leading Citizen of Rindge.

WEST RINDGE, Cheshire Co., N. H., November 17, 1874.

THOS. W. LANE:—After taking three packages of DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, I am prepared to say they are the very best, for I have tried a great many kinds, and faithfully too, believing they would help me, to no effect.—These I do believe are the very best ever made; just the kind a man needs. May they be spread all over the wide world, and Dr. Quain's name a household word.

Yours truly,

ASA STICKNEY.

Felt Better, Stronger and Gained Flesh in One Week,

AFTER TAKING DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS.

ROLLINSFORD, N. H.

THOS. W. LANE:—I commenced to take DR. QUAIN'S CONDITION PILLS, and in one week I was heavier, felt better, and was stronger than before, and any one troubled with BAD BLOOD can find sure remedy in these Pills.

Nov. 3, 1874.

L. M. YEATON.

CHESTER, N. H., Feb. 24, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been out of health for some time, and I took a very bad cold and it left my lungs in a very weak state. I received Dr. Quain's Condition Pills and took them according to the directions, and my lungs are some better. I can recommend them to any one who is troubled with weak lungs, for they have done me good, and I think another package will cure me. Dr. Quain's Pills ought to be known throughout the world. Please send me another package as soon as convenient.

Yours, &c., CYRUS LANE.

HILLSBORO' BRIDGE, Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—Dr. Quain's Condition Pills are the best I ever used for lameness and pain. The first dose I took removed the pain and lameness that I have been troubled with for several years. Others have used quite a number of the pills besides myself. Please send another package by return of mail.

MRS. DANIEL KIMBALL.

GILMANTON I. W., N. H., Feb. 25, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have been taking Dr. Quain's Condition Pills, and can recommend them as far ahead of common pills for constipation of the bowels; they do not have the debilitating effect of common purgatives I have taken.

MRS. J. B. GOODWIN.

NORTHWOOD CENTRE, March 1, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I saw Dr. Quain's Condition Pills highly recommended, and sent for a package, and I feel that they have done more for me than all the medicine I have taken for years, and can freely recommend them to others, as a good and sure medicine. Please send me another package as soon as possible.

MARTHA NORCROSS.

BRISTOL, N. H., Feb. 27, 1875.

MR. THOS. W. LANE:—I have made a fair trial of those Condition Pills, and liked them very much. I think they are all they are recommended. They are a good Liver invigorator.

N. F. DANFORTH.

SALEM DEPOT, N. H., March 8, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I think those pills (Dr. Quain's Condition Pills) are all they claim to be; my wife and I are both victims of Liver and Kidney Complaint, and general debility. We have taken about half that package you sent me, and find a marked improvement in our health. I want four packages to give away in the north part of Vermont, to friends up there. If you can, send me four Packages.

ROYAL SCOTT.

SOUTH PLATTSBURGH, N. Y., March 11, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have given Dr. Quain's Condition Pills a trial, and find I can honestly recommend them, they having materially improved the soreness and lameness with which I have been afflicted since getting upon my feet after the Paralysis of left side that I suffered last October. I desire you to send me another package as soon as convenient, as I am anxious to continue their use. Though not now a resident of New England, I have lived in Central Vermont more than fifty years, and trust Dr. Quain's Pills will not long be seen in that section.

MOSES SHELDON.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have been troubled with Billiousness, Headache, and Dizziness, for a long time, and had the Dyspepsia so bad, there were but few kinds of food my stomach would bear at all. I commenced taking your pills, have taken most of one package, and now enjoy eating as well as I ever did, am not troubled with dizziness unless by taking cold, and have been greatly benefited by the use of them.

A. L. PAGE.

FRANCESTOWN, March 13, 1875.

THOS. W. LANE:—I have found Dr. Quain's Condition Pills to be all you claim for them in Kidney Complaint, poor blood, and weak nerves. May they be circulated over the land and found in every household where medicine is needed. I enclose 50 cts. for another package as soon as convenient.

JOHN T. FELCH.

Better Health than for 10 Years.

CHESTER, N. H., Oct. 17, 1874.

MR. LANE:—I have taken one package of Condition Pills; find them in my case all they are recommended; have not enjoyed so good health for the last ten years as I have since I commenced taking the Condition Pills. Shall be happy to recommend them to others.

A New Sign of a Hard Winter.

[Vicksburg Herald.]

"Next winter's gwine to be a mighty hard one, ef you b'lieve me," said a steamboat rounter on the elevator yesterday.

"Why so? a Herald reporter asked.

"Look at de mus-keeters."

"Well?"

"Y'ever see 'em so thick?"

"They are rather numerous."

"And dey don't sing a bit."

"Maybe they're out of music; besides, you know the acoustics of this building are bad."

"Cowsticks?"

"No, acoustiques; sound, you understand. Throats of the little warblers out of order; ceiling of the building phonocamptic. Their little songs melt away in the distance, as it were; the sound is refracted, and—"

"Well, I don't know nuffin 'bout dat, boss, but I tell you's gwine to be a hard winter. When you see so many skeeters not singing a bit, but jest getting down right square to business, you may know dey's laying in a supply of pervishuns for a hard winter. Dat's my sign."

An English Remedy

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM

AND TONIC PILLS.

For Nervousness and General Debility.

PREMATURE decay, mental and physical prostration, fear, despondency, over indulgence in the use of opium or alcoholic drinks, tobacco, &c., &c. Medicines unrivalled for daily use. Wonderful properties and remarkable cures of all Nervous Complaints. Their efficacy is equally great in the treatment and cure of Cancers, Sores, Ulcers, Pustules, Pimples, Tetter, Fever Sores, Ringworm, Erysipelas, Scald-Head, Barbers' Itch, Scurvy, Salt Rheum, Copper Colored Blotches, Glandular Swelling, Worms and Black Spots in the flesh, Discoloration, Ulcers in the Throat, Mouth and Nose, Sore Legs, and sores of every character, because the medicines are the very best Blood Medicine ever placed before the people, and are warranted to be the most Powerful Alterative ever originated by man. They impart Strength to the Body and Vigor to the Mind, removing Morbid Sensibility, Depression of Spirits, Dementia and Melancholia.

NERVOUS DEBILITY.

However obscure the causes may be which contribute to render nervous debility a disease so prevalent, affecting as it does, nearly one-half of our adult population, it is a melancholy fact that day by day, and year by year, we witness a most fright'l increase of nervous affections from the slightest neuralgia to the more grave and extreme forms of Nervous Prostration.

It is of the highest importance, then, that individuals should be able to judge for themselves, by their own feelings, if and to what extent they are predisposed by this insidious enemy to ill health, comfort, and even life itself if left to run its course unchecked by the early and prompt application of curative remedies.

DRUNKENNESS.

THE CORDIAL BALM OF SYRICUM AND TONIC PILLS is the only remedy that has ever proved by practical experience a benefit to those who suffer from over-indulgence in alcoholic liquors; it completely destroys the taste for them, and restores the victim of intemperance to health and vigor. A single trial will prove it to be just what it is recommended to be.

Price $2.50. Large size, $5. Each package of the Cordial Balm contains one box of the Tonic Pills, which may also be had separately at 50 cents per box.

RECENT TESTIMONIALS.

FREWSBURGH, Nov. 12, 1874.

I have used the Cordial Balm and Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills as a preventive and cure for the use of ardent spirits and habitual intoxication, and find them actually what they are represented to be, regard them as most invaluable medicines, and nothing could induce me to be without them.

JACOB MESERVE.

TIPTON, Dec. 3, 1874.

We take great pleasure in informing you of the surprisingly beneficial results resulting from the use of your English Remedy, The Cordial Balm of Syricum and Lothrop's Tonic Pills, in a case of great Nervous Debility and Prostration, in a member of our family who had been under treatment by different doctors for nearly three years past without any apparent benefit therefrom; but your medicines have produced a most wonderful change for the better and the patient now enjoys comparatively excellent health. MRS. HARRIET STURGISS.

P. S.—We tell all with whom we are acquainted who are similarly afflicted to try your medicines.

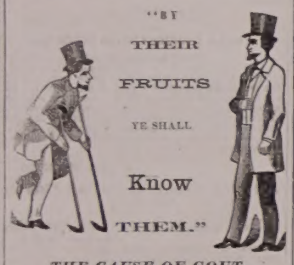
FACTS PROVEN

BY THE

TEST OF EXPERIENCE.



THE CAUSE OF GOUT.

It proceeds from a deficiency of, or an alteration in the cutaneous, urinary or intestinal secretions. This definition leads us to the solution of a second and not less important question:

HOW TO CURE THE GOUT.

This can only be accomplished by a course of treatment capable of establishing the perspiration, if suppressed, of inducing a proper flow of urine, and of destroying the obstinate constipation when it exists. But it is not sufficient that these three functions act properly as respect quantity, but above all, and before all, their quality must have our attention. Indeed, we have mentioned not only a deficiency but also an alteration of secretion. For the perspiration, the urine, and the evacuations should be not only sufficiently abundant, but should carry off certain principles whose stay would produce the most serious disorders.

This is precisely what we see in the Gout. Does it not often happen that after an attack, the joints become deformed by chalky concretions? These gouty deposits have been analyzed by the Chemists Wallaston, Fourcroy, Vanquilin and Barrnell.—Every first-class physician should know their composition, then there would remain to find a means to prevent these salts increasing, and, as it were, condensing of themselves throughout the system. The receipt from which is compounded the will produce this desirable result, because it gives to the products of the body the quantity and quality necessary.

CHRONIC GOUT having been engendered insensibly during a certain lapse of time, time is necessary for its removal. Its elimination must take place also by degrees. It is, therefore, also surprising that quite a little should be required for a complete cure. We must be careful not to confound the acute with the chronic condition; if the latter, it requires weeks to remove it; in the former, a few doses only are necessary to effect a complete cure.

By persevering a longer or a shorter time, according to the severity of the case, the joints will gradually recover their suppleness, and the nodes will be seen to soften and diminish insensibly. This last is an infallible test of the wonderful properties of the

DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

To this unerring proof we can, by the aid of Chemistry, add another, equally palpable and convincing:

The articular concretions are composed principally of uric acid, waters of ammonia, of soda, and of phosphate of lime. These are precisely the salts which we find in the various excreta, particularly in the urine; so that chemical reagents which showed scarcely a trace of these before taking the DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE, will demonstrate an enormous proportion after its use.

That the concretions, the principal components of which analysis has shown can be again reproduced, and will thus furnish the most convincing proof any medicine can offer. This, then, is the most rational plan of proceeding, and which enabled us to answer the question of a certain English M. P., "WHAT HAS BECOME OF MY GOUT?" We told him that "it followed the course of the evacuations," since chemical analysis, as has been said, finds in them all the principles which produce it. Henceforth it is clear that this medicine is

and ought to banish not only all ideas of retrogressions, but should inspire the most perfect confidence. It cannot be too often repeated, these are no hypotheses, no vain theories, but palpable truths, material, typical facts, confirmed over and over again by twenty-five years' practical experience in the leading hospitals of England and France, as well as by thousands of testimonials left by every one of our agents, freely offered by sufferers restored to sound health and continued use furnished through the agency of the world-renowned DIAMOND RHEUMATIC CURE.

It is styled as above for the reason that its great efficacy in rheumatic complaints is just as apparent as is given, and thousands of sufferers in Massachusetts to-day, cured of rheumatism by its use, mention the Proprietor's name with benedictions of praise.

This medicine is for sale at all Druggists throughout the United States and Canada. If it happens that your Druggist has not got it in stock, ask him to send for it to any of the Wholesale Druggists in Boston. Price $1 a bottle.

WARNER AND KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN HOTEL.

WARNER, (Merrimack County) N. H.,

FRED. SMITH, - - - - - - Proprietor.

THIS new house, containing fifty rooms in suites, having been thoroughly furnished with best spring beds and first-class furniture, was opened July 20th, 1875, for the reception of guests.

The magnificent drive over

THE NEW CARRIAGE ROAD, 8 MILES TO THE TOP OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN

and the view from the top, where

a hundred towns and villages, and fifty lakes and bodies of water

can be seen with the naked eye, will well repay the tourists for a trip from Boston or New York, while the other

Beautiful Drives,

Picturesque Scenery and

Pleasant Surroundings

make it one of the

MOST ATTRACTIVE SUMMER RESORTS

in New Hampshire. It has a good stable, laundry, and billiard room. It is only one hour's ride over the Concord & Claremont Railroad, from Concord, N. H., and three and a half hours from Boston, affording three daily mails from Boston during the summer. Families and invalids desiring to find health, comfort, pleasure, and a delightful summer home among the mountains, at reasonable prices should not fail to visit Warner the coming season.

Hardy's White Sulphur Springs,

within five miles of the Hotel, the

BEAUTIFUL BEACHES

at Bradford Pond and Lake Sunapee, furnish

EXCELLENT FACILITIES FOR BATHING.

Mr. Proctor's new hotel at Andover, and the Winslow House on the opposite side of the mountain afford opportunities for splendid drives and excursions for guests stopping at this new chain of hotels around the

FAMOUS OLD KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN.

Business men residing in Boston or New York can spend Sunday with their families at Warner, losing but very little time,—in short, they

SAVE AT LEAST TWO DAYS' TIME

every week that would be required to join their families as far even as the White Mountains.

Warner Village, containing about one thousand inhabitants, is situated midway between the Merrimack and Connecticut rivers, AT THE FOOT OF KEARSARGE MOUNTAIN, and is fast becoming a popular place of summer resort. A LARGE NUMBER OF NEW COTTAGES are being built for the use of those desiring to keep house during the summer months, and arrangements have been perfected whereby HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE who do not desire to remain at the hotel permanently can be furnished with EXCELLENT ACCOMMODATIONS IN PRIVATE FAMILIES, AND AT FARM-HOUSES, at from $4 to $8 per week. In a word, it is proposed to open up around this fine old mountain, standing by itself

Nearly 3000 Feet Above The Level Of The Sea,

and from whose summit can be seen the WHITE MOUNTAIN RANGE, MTS. TOM AND HOLYOKE, THE UNCANOONUCS, JOE ENGLISH, and the towering peak of GRAND OLD MONADNOCK, with LESSER PEAKS AND MOUNTAIN-TOPS INNUMERABLE, an agreeable resort for tourists and invalids, with first-class accommodations, at moderate prices.

Health Regulations.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH OF THE CITY OF PORTSMOUTH call the attention of the public to the following sections of Chapter 10 of the City Ordinances and invite all interested in the preservation of health in the city to aid them in the execution of their duty.

CHAPTER X.

Sec. 3. All waste water of houses, yards, cellars, sinks, pumps, &c. shall be conveyed by their owners or occupiers to the common sewers, or to such places as the health officers may direct.

Sec. 4. No person shall be allowed to throw any vegetable or dead animal substance or any other matter capable of producing infection, into any street, lane, alley or dock, or upon any wharf, but shall bury them or throw them into the river below low-water mark.

Sec. 5. The contents of vaults and privies shall not be permitted to rise within one foot of the surface of the earth. And all owners or occupiers of buildings having such buildings having such vaults or privies as soon as notified so to do by the health officers shall cause them to be emptied within ten days from the promulgation of this ordinance, and in future on or before the first day of May in each year. And any such owner or occupier neglecting so to do, shall forfeit and pay for every such neglect a sum not less than three nor more than twenty dollars, and a like sum for every week's neglect after the time above specified.

Sec. 6. No sender of meat at the stalls shall be permitted to leave any stale meat, heads, feet or offal of any kind upon their stalls or stores over night, or suffer them to be thrown into any street, lane or alley of the city. Nor shall any sellers of fish be permitted to throw any offals of fish into any street, lane or alley of the city, or upon any wharf but shall either bury them or throw them into the river beyond low-water mark.

Sec. 7. If any dead animal or decaying vegetable substance, or any other nuisance, shall be found in any part of the city, the owners or occupiers of the premises where such nuisances shall be found, shall cause the same to be removed within twenty-four hours after being notified so to do by one or more of the health officers.

Sec. 12. When any householder shall know that any person within his family is taken sick of the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, he shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 13. When any physician shall know that any person whom he is called to visit is infected with the small pox, or any other disease dangerous to the public health, such physician shall immediately give notice thereof to the health officers.

Sec. 14. If any such householder or physician shall refuse or neglect to give the notice required in the preceding sections, he shall for each refusal or neglect forfeit the sum of twenty dollars, to be recovered by either of the health officers in the name of the city.

Sec. 16. The health officers may give written notice to the owner or occupier of any building, vessel or cellar, to remove or destroy any nuisance or other thing deemed by them, on examination, to be injurious to the public health, within a certain time limited therein, and in case such owner or occupier —the said notice having been given to him, or left at his usual place of abode— shall neglect to comply therewith, the said health officers may, by direction of the mayor and accompanied by the city marshal forcibly enter such building, vessel or enclosure, and cause said nuisance or other thing aforesaid to be removed or destroyed.

Sec. 21. No person shall erect, keep or continue or permit to be erected, kept or continued, upon any land occupied by him, any pen for the keeping of swine, or privy, over either of the mill ponds in this city, or so placed that offensive substances therefrom shall be discharged or drained into either of said ponds, or into any creek, or cove or drain leading thereto. And no person shall construct, keep or continue any drain leading from any pen for the keeping of any swine, slaughter-house, privy vault, or other unwholesome or offensive place, into either of said ponds, or to any flat or marsh adjoining the same. And no person shall throw or suffer to be thrown from his land into either of said ponds, or upon any of said flats or marshes, any dead, decaying, unwholesome or offensive animal or vegetable substances.

AMERICAN & FOREIGN PATENTS.

R. H. EDDY, SOLICITOR OF PATENTS,

For Inventions, Trade Marks or Designs

No. 76 STATE ST., OPPOSITE KILBY ST., BOSTON,

After an extensive practice of upwards of thirty years, continues to secure patents in the United States; also in Great Britain, France and other foreign countries. Caveats, Specifications, Assignments, and all papers for Patents, executed on reasonable terms with dispatch. Researches made to determine the validity and utility of Patents of Inventions, and legal and other advice rendered in all matters touching the same. Copies of the claims of any patent furnished, by sending one dollar. Assignments recorded in Washington.

No Agency in the United States possesses superior facilities for obtaining Patents or ascertaining the patentability of inventions.

All necessity for a journey to Washington to procure a Patent and the usual great delay there, are here saved inventors.

TESTIMONIALS.

"I regard Mr. Eddy as one of the most capable and successful practitioners with whom I have had official intercourse. CHARLES MASON. Commissioner of Patents."

"I have no hesitation in assuring inventors that they cannot employ a man more competent and trustworthy and more capable of putting their applications in a form to secure for them an early and favorable consideration at the Patent Office. EDMUND BURKE, Late Commissioner of Patents.'

"R. H. EDDY has made for me over THIRTY applications for Patents, having been successful in almost every case. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend ALL inventors to apply to him to procure their Patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases and at very reasonable charges. LOCAL AGENTS WANTED.

An Agent Wanted for Each Town and County in the United States.

Parties desiring to act as agents must accompany their application by a letter of recommendation as to character and responsibility from and signed by the Editor of a newspaper published in the town or county for which the agent proposes to act The agency is to sell the bonds of the Industrial Exhibition Company.

BONDS, $20 EACH.
HALF BONDS, $10 EACH.
QUARTER BONDS, $5 EACH.

The Industrial Exhibition Company will furnish agents with circulars, etc., etc.

Each newspaper published in the town where an agent is located will, as soon as the agency is established, be given an advertisement, advertising such agency and the Company, and fully explaining the plans, purposes and objects of the Company. Such advertisement will continue in such papers as long as an agency is successfully conducted.

The Industrial Exhibition Company is the first to adopt the plan so long in use by the European governments of issuing bonds when the principal is made secure and not risked, but where there is a chance for a large premium, an investment of $20 is sure to return to the investor $21—one dollar more than cost—and the holder of a $20 Bond may obtain a premium either of $50, $100, $200, $500, $1,000, $5,000, $5,000, $10,000, $25,000 or $100,000. The interest, which is ordinarily distributed to all the bond holders pro rata, is in this loan distributed by chance. The purchaser of a bond knows he will receive back his investment, with a small rate of interest, he has a chance in the above named premiums, which are simply the distribution of interest on the whole loan.

Each bond participates in four drawings each year, until it has drawn a premium, when it is surrendered, the premium paid, and the bond can be called.

The Industrial Exhibition Company, under a special charter granted by the State of New York, is given authority to issue these bonds. The Legislature of the State, recognizing the great benefits which will arise from the success of this enterprise, have exempted all the real estate and property of the Company from taxation and assessments for five years, and has also conferred other great privileges.

Every American who understands the purposes of this Company will, of a necessity, feel a pride in aiding it to a successful termination.

Each individual who buys a bond becomes an owner and an interested party, and when he views the structure erected with his money can say, "I aided to erect in our country the most magnificent building the world has ever seen, a palace which, in truth, represents the industry, energy and mechanical genius of the American people."

The manufacturers and the inventors of America are peculiarly interested in the success of this enterprise, for the reason that it is to be their home, where all their inventions and manufactures can be exhibited and sold.

The building will contain 5,320,000 square feet of space.

Purchasers desiring Bonds before an agency is established where they reside, will communicate direct with this office, from where they can be supplied.

Parties desiring to act as agents or to purchase bonds will address

Pulmocin : Cordial.

Pulmocine Cordial.

BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL

is no new discovery. Twenty-three years ago it was used by one of New England's most famous physicians as the best Pulmonary Curative he could prescribe, after a dozen years spent in experimenting with it before he was satisfied that the Materia Medica could add nothing in its favor.

Is the ultima thule of Medical Discovery.

Among its many ingredients are Wild Cherry Bark, Squill Root, Liquorice Root, Blood root, &c. It is a Blood Purifier, gently stimulating. It increases expectoration and is diuretic. It is sudorific and alterative. It is a necessary family medicine. It is a Tonic and a powerful aid to the digestive organs. It is a gentle sedative, and relieves nervouseness. It is aromatic and agreeable to the taste.

CLEAR YOUR THROAT!

Relieve Your Lungs.

For the terrible diseases engendered by the hurry trying climate of New England

PULMOCINE CORDIAL

Is a speedy and reliable Preventive and Remedy. Every Family should have a bottle at hand to check the sudden growth of all Pulmonary Diseases. For the Asthma, Coughs, Croups, Laryngitis, or inflammation of the larynx, Diphtheria, and all kindred Throat Diseases at all times prevalent, it is the ounce of Prevention. Children attacked with Whooping Cough or Croup should be immediately cared for. These painful attacks come with scarcely a moment's warning, when a physician may be out of immediate reach. A dose of PULMOCINE CORDIAL gives speedy relief, and the little ones are spared hours of pain and agony. As "a stitch in time saves nine," so does the possession of this Family Medicine prevent the spread of disease. Parents seeing their children gasping with pain, friends and relatives beholding each other in peril from suffocation by the choking pain in the throat, paralyzed with fear and not knowing the best course to pursue, are liable to apply the wrong remedial agent. There is no safety in delay, no time to waste in such cases. CONSUMPTION, that fearful scourge of the human race, lies at the door of all thus afflicted. BUCHMAN'S PULMOCINE CORDIAL arrests it (unless in its advanced stage at which time there is no local cure) relieves the pressing, suffocating feeling at the lungs, and the patient's danger is past.

For Coughs,

Croup,

Diphtheria,

Asthma, etc.,

Buchman's Pulmocine Cordial.

The Pulmocine Cordial is not a quack medicine, is not an experiment, is not composed of any ingredients "discovered" by "walking in pastures" in South America or anywhere else, nor by one who discovered a weed and thereby cured himself. Most of the ingredients are such as our best educated physicians daily use for the complaints specified in some form or other. The recipe is that perfected by one of New England's most learned and famous physicians, who used it entirely in his daily practice until his death. It is offered to the profession and to the public, absolutely pure and unadulterated.

THE KING OF THE CANNIBAL ISLANDS.

(Tune, "Mollyouk.")

BY J. W. DEFOREST.

The King of the Cannibal Islands
Decided to conquer some dry lands,
So he marched over valleys and highlands
With twenty-four cannibal braves;
With two dozen man-eating knaves,
All hungry as so many graves,
He skirmished through earthlands and skylands,
Defiant of weather and waves.

He came to Atlantis the Holy,
Whose people were lamb-like and lowly,
Though growing a touch roly-poly
And languid in fasting and prayers;
They fasted while sleeping, like bears,
And prayed in their Vanity Fairs,
And walked in the narrow way slowly,
Much cumbered with Belzebub's wares.

Then followed a wonderful battle;
Good luck! how the weapons did rattle!
The women, the children, the cattle
Took part in the desperate strife;
They carried the war to the knife;
With slaughter Atlantis was rife;
About it the Muses will prattle
While Providence granteth them life.

The Cannibals turned out the winners,
They made twenty-five hearty dinners,
They gobbled the saints and the sinners
And put all Atlantis to sack;
They swallowed white, yellow and black,
The hungriest, greediest pack
Of robbers and pickers and skinners
That ever set region to wreck.

Henceforth they were chiefs of the nation,
And lived by relief legislation;
They served up a bill for collation
And fattened a law like a beast;
Their appetites daily increased;
A lunch was a patent, at least;
While railroads and steam navigation
Scarce furnished the joints for a feast.

The Lakeside Library

is published semi-monthly, and each issue contains a COMPLETE NOVEL, by one of the great authors of the world, as Charles Reade, Dickens, Scott, Anthony Trollope, Jules Verne, etc., etc. The completion of long and important novels in a single issue, is the most unique and valuable feature yet introduced into the periodical literature of the day, and is peculiar to The Lakeside Library.

Each issue of The Library contains a complete Novel, that would cost in the book stores, on the average, $1.50 each; yet the price of the same in The Library is only 10 cents if you buy a single copy from your newsdealer, or only 9 cents if you subscribe for a year. The whole series of 24 numbers will contain Twenty-two Complete Novels, worth about $46.00, but sent to subscribers only $2.15 in The Library!

Occasionally we shall issue double numbers, to contain unusually long and important works, as "The Law and The Lady," by Wilkie Collins, and "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Sea," by Jules Verne. When this is necessary, both numbers of the story will be issued together, so that the complete work will be in the readers hands at once. In such cases three numbers will be issued in one month. ☞ Hence all subscriptions are received for 24 numbers.

Our next issue, Nos. 14 and 15, will be a splendid Double number complete and unabridged with Eight characteristic illustrations, containing the famous

"Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas,"

By JULES VERNE.

This wonderful book is descriptive of a voyage of 20,000 leagues under the surface of the sea! No one acquainted with Verne's peculiar and dramatic style need be told that this, his greatest book, is most intensely interesting. It lays bare the mysteries of the mighty deep—its sunken wrecks; submarine forests; the grotesque, hideous and awful creatures who dwell therein; the beautiful coral caves; its treasures of gold, silver and jewels lost in "sunken ships of olden days. Yet so quaintly, and with with such an air of candor is the story told, that you can hardly believe you are not reading a transcript from a ship's log-book. Sent by mail by the publishers, post-paid, for 25 cents.

☞ There is only one other edition published, which costs $4.00.

Subscribe now, and get all the back numbers, that your set may be complete. The entire set of 24 numbers gives you a really choice library of Standard and Famous Novels, worth in book form about $40.00, and at a cost of only $2.15, including prepayment of postage—or about the price of one single book in ordinary book form. "The Pretent," for instance, costs as a Bound Book, 1.75, and is published in No 12 of The Library for only 10 cents! And "Twenty Thousand Leagues under the Seas" costs as a Bound Book $4.00, and is published in Nos. 14 and 15 of The Library for only 20 cents!

☞ Each of these books is complete and unabridged, and costs in the bookstores from $1.00 to $4.00. Order a few samples.

Price, $2.15 for 24 numbers. Sold by all news dealers. Address,

News and Notes.

The extension-table works building, together with the saw-mill, grist-mill, barn and storehouse, owned by George S. Wood and occupied by George P. Colburn, located a short distance from the meeting-house, in Hudson, caught fire about six o'clock, Friday evening, and were completely destroyed. The fire caught from a stove in the table-works used for heating glue. There is no means of extinguishing a fire in this town, and the fire burned for over a space of half an acre, burning up the lumber in the yard, etc. The workmen lost their tools, while but little of the furniture was saved. Mr. Wood estimates his loss at $10,000; no insurance. Mr. Colburn will lose $1500; insured for $1000.

The latest report in regard to the Bank of California is that an effort is being made by the leading stockholders to establish a new institution under a syndicate, to take possession of the assets and compromise the obligations of the old bank.

Victor Hugo, replying to an invitation to visit Philadelphia during the Centenary festival, states that he is uncertain whether he will be able to avail himself of the invitation. If, however, his engagements permit, he will visit Philadelphia during the Exposition.

It is stated that Turkey will place 170,000 men in the field immediately, and the army will have 228 cannon. This will place the military on a war footing.

Sankey in the Pulpit.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch.]

He said he had not intended to come there, or engage in any work for a number of months, an arrangement being made with Mr. Moody that they should both rest until ready to begin their work together in the Fall; but in talking with Rev. Alexander Clark, it was brought to his mind that his sister, while he was absent in Europe, had been converted on the camp ground. She had soon after died, with the blessed assurance of immortality. He felt he owed something to the spot, and if he could by doing some good here partly repay the obligation, he would come, and he had come. He spoke briefly and modestly of the work in England, and was sorry that Mr. Moody's and his name had been heralded in connection with it. The glory all belonged to God; it was His work. It was the power of the truth forced home to the hearts of the hearers which had accomplished the results. He said that at one of the meetings in London, where 20,000 persons had gathered, many in the extreme corners of the building, entirely out of the reach of his or Moody's voice, had been converted. It was the power of the Holy Spirit which had come among them—passing from one to another in all that vast audience, and influencing all into a grand reconciliation with God. After speaking some ten minutes he sat down to the melodeon, and playing a simple accompaniment, sang "The Ninety and Nine," one of his own songs, which became so popular abroad. He had written it when going to Scotland, the idea being taken from the parable of the lost sheep. While he was singing the audience was very still and evidently interested, though not particularly impressed, either with the solemnity of the occasion or the earnestness of the singer.

His voice is powerful, and, though not very flexible, is astonishingly sympathetic. He enunciates very distinctly, and sings as if he felt the words and they were the spontaneous outburst of his heart. His voice at times rang full and clear and strong to the furthest limits of the audience, then would sink gradually with extreme softness until it could be heard only a dozen yards away. Then after the song there was silence, and, kneeling down, the evangelist offered a fervent prayer, to the sentiments of which there were frequent and sonorous "amens" from all portions of the congregation.

A HALF HOUR OF SONG.

At the afternoon session Mr. Sankey conducted the exercises, and announced that there would be first a half hour of song. The first selection would be "The Land that is Fairer than Day." The tune was the "Sweet By-and-by," which all knew. It was being sung heartily on the other side of the water. Mr. Sankey then seated himself at the melodeon, and a male quartette sang the verses, the congregation joining in the chorus with decided enjoyment. Without leaving his seat Mr. Sankey said he would sing, "I Left it All with Jesus, Long Ago;" it was very popular in England, he said; was sung there at the meetings. The refrain began:

Leave it all with Jesus, drooping soul;
Tell not half the story, tell the whole, with two lines following, which were sung so low that it was impossible to catch them. Every one listened with curiosity, but though it was given with deep feeling, and with much more than ordinary effectiveness, outside the two or three front rows where the more faithful sat there did not appear to be much emotion beyond that of a natural sympathy. Mr. Sankey evidently felt that the success of the service had fallen upon him and went heartily to work. Hardly had the last notes died away, when without rising he began quickly to tell an anecdote. When they were in Belfast, he said, he sang a hymn called "I am Praying for You," which had already found its way to this country. He sang it first in a little church which, though full, could not hold many persons, and two or three days after on the street his hand was grasped by a young man, who told him with tears in his eyes that the hymn had brought him to a sense of his sinfulness and made him loyal to Christ. He might say it was not the music, not the organ, not the singing, but the truth in it.

"THE GATE AJAR."

People in England, he continued, did not like the sentiment in the hymn "The Gate Ajar." They thought it should be the gate wide open, but he kept on singing it and singing it, and God blessed it bountifully. In Assembly Hall, in Edinburgh, poor Maggie Lindsey, whose story was published in all the English papers, heard it and felt the truth in it. She was young, educated, and was just leaving school, but felt that she must do something for the cause. She was given work to do, and did it. Three weeks after she was travelling by rail to the North of Scotland, and by a collision many persons were hurt. Maggie's back was broken, and, terribly crushed, she laid in the ruins. As help came to her she opened her book to "The Gate Ajar for Me," and sang it triumphantly as her life went out. When the speaker came home he heard how, at Ocean Grove, the hymn, with the words changed so that it read, "The Gate Wide Open," was being sung, when an old lady cried out, "No! No! 'The Gate Ajar.' I found it so, but prayer opened it to let me through. It's ajar to all who seek it."

Mr. Sankey then sang, "I'm Praying for You," and followed with "Are You Bearing any Fruit for the Master?" taken from the parable of the fig tree. By this time the audience had become deeply interested and listened attentively while he sang. "Now one more little hymn," he said, "and then we will hear our brother preach the gospel: 'Go Bury thy Sorrows.'"

The hymn was sung with exquisite pathos, and among the front ranges tears were rolling down the cheeks of many who listened. Back where the visitors, the fashionables, et als, sat, the same stolid indifference that had characterized them at first remained, and as the last notes died away and Mr. Sankey arose from the organ, many commenced to rise from their seats to move away. "Wait," said Mr. Sankey quickly holding out his hand, "the Rev. Mr. Boyle will pray," and the would-be deserters were forced to sit down as the gentleman named appealed to Heaven in behalf of those about him, and prayed that those whom curiosity only had brought there might feel the influence of what they had heard. As he rose from his knees Mr. Sankey, stepping to the organ, said, "It has been asked that we sing together 'Hold the Fort.'"

Hold the Fort, for I am coming,
Jesus signals still;
Wave the answer back to Heaven,
By Thy grace we will.

"Sing the chorus, all, all, with a will; we mean it." The words and air seemed familiar to many, and the chorus rang out in grand volume. "Not as it ought to be," said Mr. Sankey. "All sing this time; all should sing it," and so on until the last verse was reached, when up rolled a volume of sweet music such as the hills about had never heard before.

Every one seemed to catch the enthusiasm for a moment, and from the furthest corner of the ground, and even inside the cottages, voices were raised to swell the melody. Had Mr. Moody been there to seize the moment for one of his outbursts of natural eloquence, there is no telling what might have been the result. Had one of the many clergymen sitting about the evangelist been moved by the opportunity, and stepped forward with words appropriate to the moment, the wildest hopes of those who conduct the yearly gathering might have been realized in a short hour; but Mr. Sankey arose from the organ and half turned away, the chains that had held were suddenly snapped, thoughts of the near approach to train time came into the mind, and a large part of the congregation arose from their seats, as some brother came forward to announce a sermon.

Three Card Monte.

[N. Y. Sun.]

There were five steamers plying between New York and Rockaway, Sunday, and in their earliest trips they carried down enough pleasure seekers to make the whole beach alive and bright. * * * *

"Perhaps, sir," said a man who came up unnoticed and stuck the only leg of a small table deep into the sand close to the reporter, "you will in a sociable kind of a way tell me which of these cards is the jack of hearts." As he spoke he exhibited the face of these cards, one of which was the jack of hearts, and deftly threw them on the table, backs up, and two or three times changed their positions. He was a very nice appearing old man, with a big, round, guileless face and solid looking English whiskers. He was thick and stout, but not tall, and was habited in a breezy suit of blue flannel. His skin was richly bronzed, his lips parted were in a smile, and he wore a pair of large blue glasses. Later he said that the light on the white sand hurt his eyes, and everybody felt sorry for him. "You saw me throw the cards down," continued he, "and perhaps, just for fun, you'll tell me where the jack is."

"What's that you say, old fellow?" interrupted a rather natty-looking young man. "Let me see what you are doing. You want me to tell where the jack is? Well, just shake the cards again, will you?"

The old man did as he was bidden, and then explained to the ten or a dozen persons who had gathered about him the painful condition of his eyes. To rest the tired optics he turned around, looked out over the sea, and sighed. The young fellow, who seemed to be a sly, sharp kind of a man, seized the opportune moment, turned up the jack, showed it to the crowd, and then replaced it stealthily, making a distinct mark on the back with a pencil. Then he said, "Well, old fellow, just for fun I will guess this one." The dealer turned again to the table, but never noticed the mark on the card, although one honest soul, pitying his sightless condition, told him that he must look sharp or else the natty young fellow would cheat him. The card chosen was indeed the jack, and had the mark upon its back.

"You cannot point out that jack again, I am sure," said the unsuspecting dealer, throwing out three cards in a rather more involved method.

"I'll bet you five dollars that I can," said the young man.

"Done," said the dealer, who did not look like a man who would lay wagers on Sunday, and the money was placed in a bystander's hands to be given almost immediately to the young man, who again chose the right card and the marked card. It was a great surprise to the jolly old fellow, but he laughed it off by saying that he was a little clumsy in dealing now, but that he knew one movement which he knew would deceive all persons. It was a long one, involving many transpositions; but the young man bet ten dollars on the marked card and won.

"Now lets me make von bet," cried a grasping little German, who saw through the game thoroughly and wanted to double his little hoard. "I bets von dollar that I can see that jack."

The stylish young winner withdrew from his place, the German stepped into it, and the dealer good naturedly said that for his part he much preferred to play the game for fun, but if there was to be any betting at all he thought that it would be better to bet five dollars than one. The German hesitatingly drew out a five dollar bill from his purse, put it up against one belonging to the dealer, and watched the throw of the cards. The dealer was clumsy and careless. He exposed the face of the jack, and made such a botch of getting the cards in place that everybody thought he could see just where each card was. There lay the jack, plain as could be, and with the mark on his back, so that the better delayed scarcely a second before turning the card over. Then he found it to be the seven of clubs and his money was gone. He quickly left, and so did some others who were waiting to wager. The old man moved off to another place, and the smart young fellow followed him and again marked a card while the dealer was looking out over the sea, and again made lots of money before a second venturer staked and lost. He seemed to be the only one who could fool the old man, and he followed him about all day, making twenty or thirty dollars every time the table was set up.

The Law of the Road.

The following sensible article from the New York Tribune is well worth reading. It is surprising how many people are, apparently, ignorant of the well settled rule that the same right to half of the road exists if a person wishes to pass a team going in the same direction as in the case of meeting a team:

Not all the people who have occasion to use the highway understand what are their rights and duties thereon, and a good many wilfully, and some knowingly violate a law which prevails, and thus impose upon their fellow travellers. Good mannered people will of course do pretty nearly the right thing, but unfortunately, all who travel are not high-minded and polite. Every one, it is safe to say, has at one time or another encountered in front the dog-in-the manger driver, who will neither go on himself nor let you do so, or has met that other egotist who puts forth in another style his extravagant claims to the full ownership of the path in fee simple, and who makes you do the whole business of turning out—sometimes down the embanked roadway and sometime into the ditch adjacent—or take the peril of having your lighter vehicle crushed, or at least unpleasantly abraded and jostled.

We may know our right in the premises and yet have no time or taste for asserting it, and so we, all of us, first or last bear a good deal of rude, capricious insolence and brow-beating. Sometimes we meet two heedless, if not wilful fellows who have met occupying the whole path, and cross leggedly conversing with as much sang froid as if they were seated in their own private doorway and each passer by was, somehow the author of an impertinent personal intrusion. They feel as if their comforts at all events shouldn't be rudely disturbed and it isn't—for they sit and talk it over and won't budge an inch for you to get by, much as they dislike your untimely appearance.

Although the rule is imperious that every team meeting another must give half the road, common courtesy as well as common sense will suggest to the polite traveller who is light and geared and empty, to give a loaded team a little extra privilege. Still, if this is not extended by favor, it is not a right which any disparity of circumstances confers. Your right to half the road is exactly the same, when you wish to pass a team which is going your way.

And it may be said as we understand the matter that the foot passenger has the same right to the road that he would have if he travelled by conveyance. This is a point not so well understood as it should be, and foot passengers very often are left to shirk for themselves, and must dodge first one way, and then the other, to save neck and legs. They are treated as if they had no rights which horsemen are obliged to respect."

A Brave Girl and Her Reward.

In the middle of the Winter of 1838, a fire broke out in the female seminary at Limoges, France, and spread with such fearful rapidity that it was feared that the inmates would perish. Suddenly there was a cry that one little girl had been left in her room. As the excited spectators were beginning to pray for the unfortunate child, a tall girl, with dishevelled blonde hair, and flowing nightgown, cut through the crowd, and with a shriek of "I'll save her!" that rose above the sound of crackling timbers and falling masonry, dashed into the doorway. A loud hurrah that was prolonged to the echo only to be repeated again attracted the attention of the devotees, and the pale-faced girl was seen skipping through the flames with the terrified child. A few days thereafter King Louis Phillipe sent the heroine a gold medal for her bravery, and a captain of the French army, who had witnessed the girl's pluck, begged an introduction. The captain is now President of France and the brave girl Madame McMahon.

Local Matters.

Serious Shooting Accident.

On Saturday afternoon, a boat load of young men from South Berwick were shooting at a target at Newcastle, near the Wentworth, with pistols, when one of the number who was loading his single-barrelled pistol while pointed directly at a companion, accidently discharged the same plump into the breast of Herman Carpenter, one of the party, inflicting very dangerous and not unlikely fatal injuries. Capt. Young's family from the Navy Yard were at Newcastle at the time, and their carriage was kindly placed at the disposal of the South Berwick party, and brought the wounded man to this city, where his wound was examined by Dr. Osorio, who recommended that Mr. Carpenter take the next train home, which was done. The doctor found that the ball, which was a large one, (he says about three-quarters of an inch in diameter,) entered the right breast between the ribs, and passed directly into the lungs, from which hemorrhage had already commenced, both through the wound and the mouth. The wounded man is about twenty-one years old.

Portsmouth Board of Trade.

The Board have voted to have regular fortnightly meetings on the first and third Wednesday evenings of each month at the Common Council Room, at half-past seven o'clock. At the meeting last Wednesday evening, committees were appointed to solicit Gen. Thom's attention to the river and harbor improvements recommended by the Board; to procure suitable petitions to Congress for the same, from our leading citizens; to confer with the Board of Mayor and Aldermen relative to the abatement of the South Mill-Pond nuisance; and to ascertain from the land-owners and abuttors on the northern shore of this pond, whether a marginal road can be laid out, from the Universalist church to Richards Avenue.

Portsmouth and Dover.

Portsmouth citizens and others have for a long while been talking about erecting a monument at Odiorne's Point, in Rye, to commemorate the first settlement in New Hampshire. The State Historical Society has also approved and endorsed this idea; the last legislature passed a bill incorporating the Odiorne's Point Monument Association; and Col. Eastman, the new owner of Odiorne's Point, has set apart half an acre or more of land for a site for the monument. The probabilities of situation, and the historic proofs, are greatly in favor of Odiorne's Point as the original settlement, and we are sure that no suggestions to build a monument in any other place will meet any favor from our citizens. But why are we so slow in moving in this matter, when the Doverians are thus active, according to this item, going the rounds of the press? "The Dover Point Monument Association, formed to procure a monument at that place to mark the first white settlement in the State, will meet on Saturday to organize under a charter granted by the last legislature, and it is expected that Dr. Bouton of Concord will deliver an historical address, setting forth the argument in favor of regarding that town as the first actually settled in the State by Massachusetts colonists."

The Portsmouth Board of Trade also, have just voted to invite General Thom's attention to several improvements needed in Portsmouth river and harbor, while our up-country neighbors have got ahead of us on this count likewise, as the following shows:—"General Thom of the United States Engineering Corps, appeared recently and formally accepted the work of the contractor in excavating the river channel at Dover, according to provision of the last Congress. The general was the guest of the Board of Trade, by whom he was shown every attention."

The Difference.

I could but think, Messrs. Editors, on reading your notice approving the great outlay on Pleasant street below Market Square, (which may be all well enough in itself,) what a difference there is in some people! Often before, too, I have noted your kind and complimentary mention of democratic officials, on various occasions when you seemed to think they deserved it; (sometimes more than I did); but did anybody ever know your opposing organ, the democratic lyre, as you truly term it, to speak a good word for any republican officer, or allow one such to be deserving of any credit? Not a bit of it. On the contrary, had the positions of the parties been directly reversed, and the republicans taken hold of this great job at this time, the Times would have announced that our City election was at hand, and a great gang of doubtful voters was set at work on the streets to help carry the day. That's so every time.

Yours, S. O. R.

Jottings.

Mrs. G. C. Howard will appear at Franklin Hall on Friday evening next in her inimitable character of "Topsy" in the well known drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." Mrs. Howard will be supported by a strong company.

The officers of the Direct Cable Company in New York, state that the steamship Faraday is now about 200 miles from Newfoundland and in communication with Rye Beach. She sailed from England, to repair the break in the cable, on the 13th of August, and since her arrival off Newfoundland, the weather has been very unfavorable for operations, a heavy sea running almost continually, compelling the Faraday to remain idle several days. The weather for two days, however, has been clear and pleasant, and during this time the most difficult portion of the work has been accomplished; the fault in the cable discovered to be in the eastern end buoyed; the fault in the western or American end cut out, and communication established with Rye Beach. The eastern end is buoyed about seven miles from where the Faraday now lies, and it was expected that with fair weather the eastern and western ends would be spliced, and the cable placed in complete working order.

To-morrow, Tuesday, the great New Hampshire and New England Fair opens at Manchester, for four days. The live stock entries are larger than ever before, and every man, woman and child in New England ought to visit this great and interesting local exhibition.

It is said, apparently with correctness, that Messrs. Hackett have nearly or quite completed a contract for oulvert stone for Richards Avenue, and that the work of repairing this street will be commenced immediately under direction of Street Commissioner Holmes. Good, so; and pity 'tis if 'tisn't true.

CAUCUS.

THE REPUBLICANS of WARD ONE, will hold a caucus for the nomination of Ward officers on Friday evening, Sept. 10, at 7½ o'clock,

Per Order C. DWIGHT HANSCOM,
Secretary of Ward One Committee.

TO THE HONORABLE JUDGE OF PROBATE FOR THE COUNTY OF ROCKINGHAM.

Respectfully represents Nancy Plumer of Portsmouth, in the said County of Rockingham, that by appointment of said Judge she is Guardian of Willie B. Plumer, a minor, and heir to Cyrus Plumer, late of Portsmouth, in said County, deceased; that her said Ward is seized of one ninth part in common and undivided of two certain tracts of land with the buildings thereon, situate in Portsmouth, in said County of Rockingham, bounded and described as follows, to wit: one tract of land with the buildings thereon, situate on the westerly side of Church street in said Portsmouth, beginning at the northerly corner of said tract and running southerly by Church street thirty-seven feet to land of the heirs of Nathaniel Folsom, deceased, thence westerly by said Folsom land fifty feet to land of Main & Winchester, thence northerly thirty-seven feet by and to land of said Main & Winchester, thence easterly by land of said Main and Winchester fifty feet to the northerly corner of said tract begun at, the same being the homestead house and lot of the late Cyrus Plumer, deceased; also one other tract of land with the buildings thereon situate in said Portsmouth and containing two acres more or less, and bounded northerly by land of the heirs of Levi Woodourv, deceased, easterly by land of Cantie, southerly by a brook and westerly by a common passage way, twenty feet in width, and that it is necessary for the support of her said ward and will be conducive to his interest that the same should be sold; wherefore she prays that she may be licensed and authorized to sell the same at public auction, agreeably to the statute in such case provided.

Dated this 23d day of August, 1875.

NANCY B. PLUMER.

STATE OF NEW HAMPSHIRE,

ROCKINGHAM, SS.

Probate Office at Exeter in said County, Sept. 2, A. D. 1875.

Upon the foregoing petition, it is ordered, that a hearing be had thereon at a Court of Probate to be holden at Portsmouth in said County, on the second Tuesday of November next; and that the Petitioner notify all persons concerned to appear at said Court, and show cause if any they have, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, by causing said petition and this order to be published three weeks successively in the Portsmouth Chronicle, a newspaper printed at Portsmouth in said County, the last publication whereof to be at least one week prior to said Court.

By Order of the Judge,
WM. M. HUNNEWELL, Register of Probate.

The Philosophy of Disease.

The philosophy of disease is a subject which is well worthy the attention of mankind, but is, unfortunately, more generally neglected than any other under heaven. Decidedly the most important fact that an examination of it discloses is that, in nine cases out of ten, the originating cause of disease is debility, either general or local, and that the earliest manifestations of its approach are identical with those which evidence a lack of vital power. Such being the case, it is perfectly clear that tonic treatment is what is required in the first instance. As an invigorant, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has received the most positive endorsement from eminent physicians, and has long occupied a foremost rank among standard propriety remedies. Its properties as an alterative of disordered conditions of the stomach, liver and bowels, and a preventive of malarial diseases, are no less renowned, and have been accorded professional recommendation equally emphatic.

Notice to Parents, Guardians, and Masters.

YOUR attention is called to Sec. 1 of Chapter 11 of the laws of New Hampshire passed June session, 1871, which is as follows:—

"Every parent, guardian, master, or other person having the custody, control or charge of any child between the age of eight and fourteen years, residing in any school district in which a public school is annually taught for the period of twelve weeks or more, within two miles by the nearest road from his residence, shall cause such child to attend such public school for twelve weeks at least in every year, from and after the first day of September next, six weeks of which attendance shall be consecutive, unless such child shall be excused from such attendance by the school committee of the town, or the board of education, or the superintending school committee of such district, upon its being shown to their satisfaction that the physical or mental condition of such child was such as to prevent his attendance at school for the period required, or that such child was instructed in a private school or at home, for at least twelve weeks during such year, in the branches of education required to be taught in the public schools, or having acquired those branches in other more advanced studies."

Section 3 provides the following penalties for non-compliance with section 1:

For the first offence a forfeit of $16, and $20 for the second and every subsequent offence.
